

Culottes, Of Course!

Bonnie Barnes, Kernel Sweetheart, smiles indulgently at photographer Dick Ware as she explains that her unusual summer garment is called culottes. This combination skirt and bermuda shorts outfit is becoming popular on campus. Bonnie, a sophomore psychology major in the College of Arts and Sciences, is a Pi Beta Phi pledge from Providence, R. I.

Alumni Center Plans Have Been Completed

Plans for the Alumni Center have been completed and sufficient funds are available to begin building in the late fall, according to information from the Alumni Office.

Dr. Ralph Angelucci, chairman of the planning committee, announced that the building will be constructed across from Stoll Field on the southeast corner of Rose Street and Euclid Avenue.

Dr. Angelucci said the alumni center will be a two-story colonial style building. One wing will provide space for the Alumni Association office, which is presently located in the Student Union Building. The remaining space will be used for conference rooms, a lounge, a hall for receptions, and a dining area to accommodate 300 people. There will be a full basement with complete kitchen facilities.

The Alumni Center has been in the planning stage for approximately 12 years. In 1959 a capital gifts campaign was started to give the alumni an opportunity to participate in an eight-point program supported by the University.

The 1959 drive was designed to ask at least 500 alumni to contribute $100 a year for five years to the Alumni Century Club fund.

A minimum goal of $250,000 is proposed by the Century Club.

Part of this fund will be used to erect the Alumni Center as a gift to the University at the Centennial celebration in 1965.

Summer Program Planned For New Foreign Students

An orientation program for new foreign students coming to UK in the fall is being set up this summer. The program is designed to familiarize the students with the academic system and to acquaint them with the American way of life.

The foreign students will be met by American students who will serve as personal guides during the first few weeks of school. Group meetings and discussions will be part of the program.

Any students interested in working in the program should contact the Foreign Student Office in the Administration Building.

19 Students Selected For Honors Program

A group of 19 freshmen students has been selected for the University Honors Program. The students represent the top high school pupils from Kentucky and three other states.

The participants in the second year of the Honors Program were selected on the basis of several factors. Among the criteria used were: high school grades, rank in high school class, recommendations by high school teachers and principals, scores on the College Qualification Test, scores on the College Board Test, and scores on the National Merit Scholarship Test.

The students were interviewed by a five-member faculty subcommittee, appointed by the faculty Honors Committee. The committee determined how useful the program would be to the student and how useful the student would be to the program. The committee also took factors such as excellence in a particular area into consideration before the final selections were made. Approximately 60 high school seniors applied for participation in the program.

Recruiting materials on the program were sent to all National Merit semi-finalists in the state, as well as to high school principals, and to high scorers on both the College Qualifications Test and the College Board Examinations.

The 19 honors students will participate in an honors colloquium every week during the semester. They will also be enrolled in a special honors section of the freshman English course. The chemistry students will have a special lab section. The algebra, trigonometry, and engineering drawing students will not have any special sections. However, the honors students will all be in the same class. Last year 37 students began the Honors Program at the University. This year 19 of the original 37 will continue in the program along with nine others who have been added. The students last year compiled a 3.2 grade point average at mid-year and a 3.29 at the end of the year.

Glenda Stephens, Williamsburg, and Robert Stokes, Ravenna, both compiled the top grades in the program with 3.97 standings.

The major change found in the program this year is the fact that approximately 40 percent of the students are majoring in some branch of engineering. Last year less than 20 percent majored in that field. Dr. Stephen Diachun, director of the program, said, "There is a nationwide trend that approximately 50 percent of all finalists in the National Merit tests are interested in the physical sciences and engineering. Last year we had approximately 50 percent in those fields. This year it is a little greater."

"I think the Honors Program was very successful at the University last year in terms of the little experience that we had. The students were very enthusiastic about the program and liked the fact that they were with other students

Electricians Investigate Campus Clock System

Electricians are now working to correct the trouble in the clock system on campus said Carlton Dunn, chief electrician for Maintenance and Operations.

The clocks and bells have not been operating correctly since the summer term began. Efforts to correct the system were made when a new relay system was installed in the Medical Center.

The relay system, operating on a wireless relay from the Medical Center to McVey Hall, does work correctly. Mr. Dunn said, however, the trouble could be in the clocks or in the cable system between McVey Hall and the other buildings. He said the defective clock could throw the entire system off.

When the trouble is reported, the electricians isolate the building in which they believe the trouble to be. Each clock in the building must then be checked.

The tower clock in Memorial Hall will again be operating as soon as new parts are installed to switch to the relay system.

Mr. Dunn said they hope to have the clocks operating correctly as soon as possible.

Bid Accepted For Addition To Library

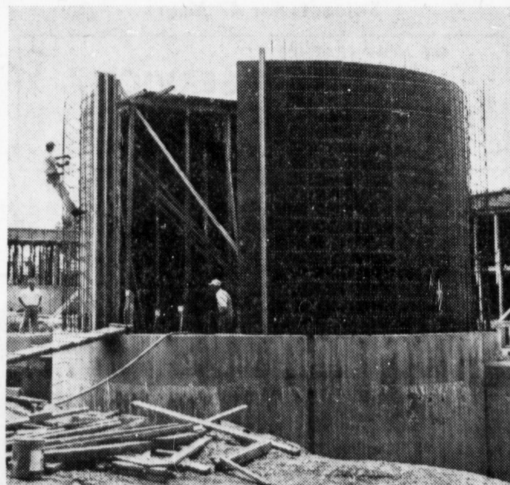

The Hargett Construction Co., Lexington, submitted a low bid of $1,729,499 for construction of an addition to the Margaret I. King Library.

Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of libraries, said the Hargett Co. bid was substantially lower than the architect's estimated cost of $1,800,000 and $400,000 lower than the next lowest bid.

Construction is scheduled to begin within two months.

The addition will double the library's floor space, and includes installation of air-conditioning and renovation of heating, lighting, and ventilation systems.

Other significant features of the building will be its open stacks, a fumigation chamber for old books and newspapers, and inclined ramps.

Science "Silo"

This "silo" shaped structure attached to the new science building will house a Van de Graaff Accelerator when it is completed. The Accelerator is used in low energy nuclear research by the faculty of the Department of Physics. It is now in Pence Hall and will be moved to the new building. However, Dr. Francis L. Yost, head of the Department of Physics, said they hope to get a new Van de Graaff Accelerator because the present one is 10 years old. The "silo" will be 35 feet in diameter, 56 feet high, and it will run 12 feet into the ground.

"Oklahoma!"

Tickets for Guignol Theatre's production of "Oklahoma!" are on sale at the ticket office in the Fine Arts Building this week from noon to 5 p.m. and next week from noon to 9 p.m.

Price of the tickets is 75 cents for students and $1.25 for others. All seats are reserved and reservations must be claimed by 6 p.m. the night of the performance.

The play will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 1-5.

Folk dancing is hard for some people and easy for others. These dancers are having a big time while they learn. Folk dancing is taught to anyone who wants to learn every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. behind the Women's Gym.

Freshman Camp Scheduled

The YMCA Freshman "Y" coed camp at Cumberland Falls will be Sept. 8-10.

This precollege weekend enables the participants to meet other freshmen and have a preview of what to expect in college by some of the campus leaders. It gives them the opportunity to informally meet the dean of women, the dean of men, and the directors of counseling and testing.

The upper class student leaders serving on the camp staff will meet each student personally in order to help him or her with any problems.

Friday night of that week, a banquet will be held at the Boone Tavern in Berea. Two dances are scheduled, and there will be opportunities for hiking and swimming.

The camp is open to freshmen selected on the basis of outstanding scholastic records. Its purpose is to train new students as future campus leaders.

The members of the YMCA who will act as the freshman camp co-advisors are Brenda Booke, Trudy Webb, and John Williams.

who were interested in scholarship. The students felt that the objectives of the program were worthwhile and were glad that they were a part of it. They also liked the fact that members of the University faculty took an interest in them and helped them. They could feel the attention that was given them," said Dr. Diachun.

He added, "The ones that dropped the program had good reasons for it. I feel quite sure that many of them will remain in school here at the University and graduate from it."

The new students and their majors are:

Eugene Miller Barnes, Versailles, Chemical Engineering; Antoinette Barton, Lexington, French; William V. Baxter, Aiken, S.C., Mathematics and English; Charles H. Briggs, Florence, Civil Engineering; Anne Plummer, Lexington, Music; Pamela M. Price, Somerset, Chemistry and Library Science; Reba A. Puckett, Grand Rivers, Pre-Med; Drusilla Rawlings, Charleston, W. Va., Diplomacy; Lucy Riley, Frankfort, English and Dramatics; Larry W. Thompson, Corbin, Electrical Engineering; and Barbara Yeoman, Ambia, Ind., Zoology.

Tickets Available For Celtics-Hawks Game In October

Ticket orders from the general public for the exhibition basketball game in University of Kentucky's Memorial Coliseum next October between the world professional champion Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks will be accepted immediately by mail.

The decision to move up the public mail order sale, previously set for Aug. 1-15, was made to facilitate the handling and filling of orders before the scheduled Sept. 1 over-the-counter sales, game chairman Dr. Ralph Angelucci said.

Applications from a priority group of paid-up members of the sponsoring UK Alumni Association were reported running very heavy for the outstanding attraction which will feature two ex-Wildcat All-Americans, Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey, as rivals.

The Alumni Office, which is receiving all mail orders, said however, that sideline reserved seats will be available to the general public and orders will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Prices on the tickets are $2.60 for sideline reserved seats and $1.55 for end zone and balcony seating. Only mail orders are being accepted and should be addressed to the UK Alumni Office, Room 124, SUB, and marked "Basketball Tickets." Checks must be made out to UK Alumni Association.

Net proceeds from the cage attraction will go into the Alumni Association Endowment Fund and Scholarship Fund.

Definition of sports: Something everyone enjoys, few excel in, very few in which are successful, many are unsuccessful, some are pretty sloppy, and a limited number go away smiling.

When the Wildcat basketball squad returned home last year after a game with Georgia Tech, Coach Adolph Rupp decided to make some changes in the basketball set-up.

The Cats had an 8-7 record at the time, not an especially good record for one of Coach Rupp's teams.

Rupp decided to set up a new policy regarding his Wildcat basketballers.

Before the annual basketball banquet given for the players Rupp called the players together for a meeting.

The result of this meeting was that in order to get a closer relationship between players there would be no more married basketball players playing for the Wildcats in the future, unless they agreed to live in the dormitory with their teammates.

With the departure of Bill Lickert, Ned Jennings, Roger Newman, and the recently married Dick Parsons of last year's squad, Doug Pendygraft remained as the only married player to be on hand this season.

Pendygraft could move into the dormitory with his teammates in the fall and retain his scholarship. This he will probably do, since he has but one more year of varsity competition.

Then there is the case of junior guard Bernie Butts of Miami, Fla. Butts, an All-America high school product had not decided completely as to whether he would return to UK in the fall or whether he would enter the University of Miami.

Since he planned to get married this summer there remained no doubt in his mind that he would enter Miami. Butts will probably make the Hurricanes a good ball player, although he didn't fit in with Kentucky's brand of basketball.

Scottie Bassler, Butts' running mate at guard on the freshman team two years ago, recently became engaged and had planned a wedding for the near future. It seems as though now wedding bells won't be chiming for him for a little while.

Just how long this new policy will hold its force is entirely up to the man behind the Wildcat scene. It doesn't appear to affect most of the players, those who have no immediate intentions of tying the knot.

Maybe this policy will be installed by football coach Blanton Collier on his Wildcat footballers in the future.

Austrian Film Showing At SUB Wednesday

"The Last Bridge" will be shown Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

It is an Austrian film starring Maria Schell as a young German doctor captured by the Yugoslav partisans during World War II.

The movie is free for all summer school students, faculty, and staff members.

Glamorous GANDERS

Advises The Lovelorn

By Friendly Fran

Dear Fran,

It seems I have a problem. I am 6'2", dark and terribly handsome. Somewhat of a cross between Rock Hudson, Cary Grant, and Elvis Presley (to appeal to all types).

I am quite active in tennis, polo, you know, croquet, and sailboating. Also, my father's will left me a meager $22 million upon his demise.

My problem is simple—all I can think of is girls, girls, and sexxx. Can you help me?

Yours,
Rock Suave

Dear Rock: Where have you been all my life?

Dear Fran,

I am a home ec. freshman. I am beautiful, witty, wealthy, and am currently being hotly pursued by two charming boys. Both are in love with me and I am unable to choose between them. I need your advice badly and will do anything you say. Do you think I should talk to both of them and then choose one, or should I just run away with one and forget the other, or should I continue dating both without making any decision or should I just forget both of them and start dating other boys?

Confused

Dear Confused: Yes.

Dear Fran Ganders,

A vast majority of the citizens of my habitation opine that my vocabulary bespeaks an over-rated self-esteem. However, it is my bent to communicate with multisyllabic logos. In my case this is not a connotation of disdain for my fellow man. Do you believe it imperative that I alter my manner of speaking?

Discombubulated

Dear Dis,

Please enclose a Thesaurus with future epistles so we will be better able to diagnose your malady.

Dear Fran Ganders,

I read an article that said it was good for the contour of the face

Lucy Salmon Receives Pre-Medical Award

Lucy Ruth Salmon, senior pre-medical student, Madisonville, has been named recipient of the A.J. Whitehouse Award for 1960-61.

The $100 award is given annually to the outstanding senior pre-medical student based on reports of the premedical committee and the student's academic achievement. The award is made possible by Dr. Whitehouse, a Lexington physician and a graduate of the University.

Miss Salmon has been admitted to the College of Medicine for the fall semester.

Art Show Tours State

The traveling art and map exhibit now on display at Kentucky Dam Village is the first exhibition of its kind in Kentucky.

Sponsored jointly by the Department of Parks and the Division of Tourist and Travel Promotion, the collection includes 56 pieces of art work by students and faculty members from 20 Kentucky colleges and universities, and reproductions of 20 historic maps of the state.

After opening at Pioneer State Park in Harrodsburg, June 14, the exhibit appeared at Constitution Square and McDowell House in Danville, Pennyrle Forest State Park, and Kentucky Dam Village State Park. It is now on display at Kentucky Lake State Park.

Before the exhibition closes on Sept. 10 it will also be seen at Lake Cumberland State Park, Cumberland Falls State Park, and Natural Bridge State Park.

Larry Pursiful, UK basketball player, is traveling with the exhibit which contains works by several UK students.

Biblical Studies Will End Tuesday

Rabbi Robert A. Rothman, pastor of Adath Israel congregation, will speak Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Music Room of the SUB on recent trends in the Old Testament studies.

This meeting will be the last in the all-campus summer forum sponsored by the YMCA-YWCA on the modern trends in Biblical studies.
