PAN-POLITIKON WORLD FRICTION

President McVey Selects Nine Members of Student Body to Serve on Executive Committee.

Members of the executive committee of Pan-Politikon, University organization for the study of foreign countries, and the bestowment of foreign relations, were named by Dr. Frank L. McVey last week. Those selected by Doctor McVey to carry on the work of the organization this year were Elvis Stahr, William Greenhouse, Frank Borras, George Steiner, and John St. John; Anna Jean Blackburn, Martha Pugh, Elizabeth Hardin, and Kitty Cook. This executive committee will meet in the near future and elect its officers and the chairman of the sub-committee.

Every student in the University is a member of Pan-Politikon. It was organized five years ago to bring to the campus a larger interest in the affairs of other countries, and to present each year something of the history of a specific nation. Foreign speakers representing the country being studied each year are brought to a University convocation.

Members of the sub-committee are picked from the departments on the campus and they have charge of programs and arrangements. Under the direction of the executive committee, which selects the sub-committee, the country to be studied has not yet been definitely selected, but it will be some nation which is powerful in its influence on today's affairs.

UK Student Union Building Campaign Will Be Revived

ODK to Initiate Drive This Semester With Benefit Dance Saturday

A student union building? With the sponsorship of a dance next Saturday night from 9 until 12 in the Alumni gymnasium, Omicron Delta Kappa, national honor society leadership fraternity, will continue its campaign to arouse interest and obtain funds for a University student union building.

All proceeds of the dance will go to the Student Union Building fund. Shiny Herrington and his orchestra will furnish music, and the admission will be $1.00 per couple.

Other plans, consisting of the publication of a booklet on the possibility of a student union building in cooperation with Alpha Delta Sigma, the proposed sending of delegates to a national meeting of student union building managers at Bloomington, Indiana, next week, and the appointment of a committee to serve as a framework for arousing interest have been made by the organization.

The proposed information booklet, to be published by the Student Union Building Fund, will contain, and articles on the possibility of obtaining such a building here at the University.

SOCIAL SYSTEM MAY BE CHANGED

Interfraternity Council Discusses Plans for Spring Series of Dances; Student Viewpoint Is Sought

A proposed plan for reorganizing the entire social system of the University was discussed at a special meeting of the Interfraternity council last week. Members were invited to discuss their own fraternities for discussion the idea of having spring "malls," a weekend dance over to keep fraternities in contact with a series of dances.

Dean T. T. Jones was present at the meeting, which was held at the Phi Delta Theta house, and stated that the University administrator would primarily get the student viewpoint before attempting to put new rules into effect, because full cooperation was needed.

Dean Jones suggested that a committee representing the Interfraternity council and the President's council go before Doctor McVey and discuss with him the social plan, including the limiting of fraternity expenses and a series of dances to be held. The conference would occur after the various organizations had discussed the proposed plan.

Among the other topics discussed at the council meeting was the selection of an orchestra for the All-Fraternity dance which is being given just before the Christmas holidays.

University Band Wins Admiration Of 12,000 Fans

Unusual Formations Feature Saturday's Performance of "Best Band in Dixie"

Although the Wildcats failed to reach the heights of supremacy Saturday, when they lost to the Green Wave from Tulane, the University band, in its last appearance on the home football field in 1934, left an indelible impression in the minds of the 12,000 spectators that it still is the "Best Band in Dixie."

The 1934 band, comprised of 80 members, is, according to many old heads such as Prof. Carl Lampert, head of the music department, and Major Brewster, the best band that has yet represented the University.

A new formation that was the hearty approval of the crowd Saturday was the pinwheel, in which each part of which was formed by three lines of bandmen. The middle line of the pinwheel, which the outside lines marched around the letter in single file formation "March on Tulane."

SuKy Holds Final Pep Rally of Year

Meyer-Hinkle Firm Awarded First Prize in Window Decoration Contest

The final pep rally of the year was held Friday night at the Alumni gymnasium. The meeting was begun with a tumbling exhibition by cheer leaders, and was followed with cheering by several hundred students, faculty members and friends.

The main feature of the program was the exhibition given by Bobby Blythe, eleven year old tumbler. Bobby was making official mascot of the cheering section.

Following the musical program by the University band, a parade through the main streets of the city was held. A fire truck led the procession of students, who stopped to cheer the band.

It was announced by J. B. Croft, president of SuKy, that Meyer and Hinkle clothing store on Main most originally decorated store in the city.

Utilities Head and Co-defendants' Case May Go to Jury Friday or Saturday, Is Latest Tip

Chicago, Nov. 19 (INS)—Samuel Incident of his son and 10 co-defendants, on trial in federal court on charge of defrauding investors in a business secured by company of $120,000, may learn their fate before another Sunday passes.

That the innocence or guilt of all the defendants in the mail fraud case will be determined by the jury, is indicated by the action of Federal Judge James H. Wilkinson in denying motions for directed verdicts of acquittal.

Motions for directed verdicts for the 11 members of the defendant were to be made today. After disposing of these motions Judge Wilkinson will hear the 10 defense requests that portions of the government's evidence be stricken from the record.

Charles E. Lousbury, counsel for the Halsey, Stuart & Co. group of defendants, will lead off for the defense. He will be followed by counsel for each of the other defendants.

Large Audience Approves Third Sunday Musicales

Ora Witte, Lyric Soprano, Renders German and English Songs

Judging from the ovation accorded Miss Ora Witte, accomplished New York lyric soprano, a large audience thoroughly approved the third Sunday afternoon musicale at the University.

Miss Witte possesses every qualification desired in a lovely lyric soprano voice, besides having the distinction of originality in her presentations. Her singing in English was appreciated no more than were her excellent interpretations of the German composers.

Evidently Miss Witte has specialized in the work of German composers, but again there was variety expressed in the numbers of Massenet, Debussy, Faurand, Merer, Watts, Slonimsky, and Parks, as well as those of Mozart, Korngold, Zill, Mahler, and Strauss.

"Little Monk" Simons Leads Tulane to Early Score Over Big Blue

CAT OFFENSE CLICKS IN SECOND PERIOD

Bert Johnson, So ph. Fresh, Ceded Individual Backfield Honors

"Little Monk" Simons, together with the breaks of the game combined to keep Tulane's offense clear clean as the Green Wave swept to a 14-0 victory over Kentucky Saturday afternoon on Stoll field under an estimated crowd of 14,000.

A touchdown was scored in each quarter. The Wave was the first to tally with the game scarcely four minutes old. "Little Monk" broke off right tackle and, aided by superb interference, romped 87 yards to a touchdown and then kicked the extra point. Kentucky was the first to score when the ball struck and did not improve as the second quarter came around.

As the Kentucky offense began to improve Tulane obtained its first big break late in the second quarter. Johnson went back to punt on fourth down and fumbled a low pass from center on his own 34-yard line. He scooped up the ball and punted, but the ball struck the wave of Tulane linemen and bounced back over his head to Kentucky's 10-yard line where the Green shirts recovered. On the second play Mintz went through right tackle for nine yards and the wave of the Kentucky's star senior tackle, broke through and blocked Simons' kick for the extra point.

A determined and considerably different Kentucky team came out today and fumbled a low flare of powder that the great Alabama team was powerless to check, the Kentuckians gained the ball and started following Thurman.

AN OVERSIGHT?

In the portion of the building termed the "Art Center" occupied by the music department, we find perhaps the busiest section of the university concerning various negotiations of the institution with the outside world. It is here our popular band conducts its regular rehearsals. Strenuous radio broadcasts with equally strenuous activity of preparation for them take place here. The glee clubs, philharmonic orchestra, music classes, and practice sessions of the pupils all occur in this extremely busy section of one's building. Perhaps there is no better place where one sees such traffic among its two small hallways, yet there is no drinking fountain. The fact that there is no suitable fixture for the convenience of the hurried and tired pupils and faculty to partially refresh themselves, would provide for a slight oversight were it not for the fact that a dilapidated water cooler which is constantly out of water, has been standing in the hall for some years. On rare occasions when the vessel does not contain water, there are no available receptacles from which to drink. This deplorable condition can be termed nothing short of poor maintenance of the building.

It is hardly fair to expect the students and townspeople who so admirably advertise the University to continue their good work without being given the elementary courtesies which they so justly deserve by the University as a whole.

COLLEGE FASCISM

Expulsion of 21 students from the College of the city of New York for participating in an anti-fascist parade less than a week ago already has caused intelligent people over the country to wonder concerning the degree of liberality exemplified by University staffs.

That such a number of students, keen in their belief that abject nationalism in this country is contrary to all established principles, should have their collegiate life ended after demonstrating an interest in the governmental affairs of Fascism itself. No one will doubt that the criminal practices of politicians today are the result of the original type of persons attracted into that field of activity. Within the last three or four years the interest in politics has been able to admit an interest in governmental affairs. But students studying the structure and workings of the great machine apparently cannot even express their views with an orderly parade. The administration of the great college should not practice the militant philosophy of such an un-American institution. Fascism is un-American and the expulsion of those students is virtual Fascism. In the interest of the next generation which will live under these students of government, the college authorities must rescind their ruling.

ARE WE SATISFIED?

Last Saturday saw King Football ousted from his throne as ruler of sports at Kentucky for this year. One more game remains on the Wildcats' list but that battle will be on foreign ground and most of us will be unable to attend. Now that the season is nearly at an end, it is only reasonable that we should review the year's accomplishments of Coach Chet Wynne and his proteges, analyze the record of wins and losses, and determine whether Kentucky's football team has progressed under his tutelage. By merely perusing figures, one scarcely can comprehend the sometimes narrow boundary between victory and defeat; however, it is reassuring to realize triumph in more than a moral sense.

For this season has played nine games; of these, five have been won and four lost. Tulane and Alabama, two of the conquerors, are considered as among the best in the country. Cincinnati and Auburn, both of which were defeated by Kentucky, are rated near the top. In every game, at home or abroad, the Blue and White warriors won admiration for their fighting spirit and good sportsmanship. If Coach Wynne has done no other thing in this newfound morale is commendable.

Chet Wynne has labored against tremendous odds. Lack of necessary finances, shortage of football material, and the instituting of a new system within the short time allowed—such are the conditions that stand in his progress. Funds of the Athletic association have dwindled; at the conclusion of this season, only 25 players are included in the entire football squad; teaching a different method always is a difficult task and is not one that can be done in a few months. All in all, we believe Kentucky students and loyal backers of the Wildcats are satisfied with results. Authorities on football throughout the South continue to hail Chet Wynne as an excellent coach and do not hesitate to say that his team of next year will prove a formidable foe. We, who do not so well understand intricacies of the game, but who view with pleasure the encounters, do realize Kentucky's success. This year, appreciating the rising spirit and will be cheering Chet Wynne and his Wildcats on to victory next year.

YOUTH MUST FUNCTION IN GOVERNMENT

In a recent address to the students of Union College in Schenectady, Governor Wilbur L. Cross, of Connecticut, issued a ringing call to college students to focus their talents more on the functions of government. The speech was on the occasion of a conference held for discussion of college training for government service. What branch of human endeavor demands the fertility of young blood more than does our governmental departments? Whether they be local, state, or national? Many say the new ideas and new blood in government's most basic need, but how can there be new ideas without young blood?

The cabinet of George Washington was directly responsible for what is termed some of the most brilliant ruling documents in the history of the world. With the exception of six members, all of that cabinet were young men. Nearly half of the delegates drafted to the convention responsible for the drawing up of the Federal Constitution were college men; Alexander Hamilton, brilliant young Secretary of the Treasury, has been given immortal praise for his many fine theories on finance. He was a graduate of Columbia university. Thomas Jefferson, a graduate of William and Mary, was among the young men seen to become the President of a rapidly-growing republic. In the first cabinet of the United States. The unofficial adviser of the "Father of Our Country" was none other than James Madison. Princeton, and was given this title by Washington, himself.

It is true that the political philosophies of Hamilton and Jefferson have been proven by time to have been radical. Hamilton, with his theory that all men are by nature bad, was a forced conclusion. Jefferson's error was in his support-

JOHN DAVIS HAGGARD

PLAYWRIGHT
John Davis Haggard, Paris, a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences is the author of the play "Boone Moves On," which will be presented at 8:15 p. m. Friday in the Memorial auditorium.
Mr. Haggard began his career as a playwright at the age of 19 with a short drama inspired by the song, "My Buddy." The next year he wrote "Always Garry Matches," which won second place in the Guignol contest in collaboration with Joe Greer. The last summer he studied at the University of Wisconsin, and he is planning to specialize in dramas there as a senior.
The play which he is presenting Friday night concerns the life and adventures of Daniel Boone in the Kentucky wilds. The cast is made up entirely of students from the University, the majority of whom have had experience as Guignol players or members of professional or high school productions.
Rebecca Boone, wife of the pioneer, is portrayed by Sarah Slack, Huntington, West Virginia, who has had experience in both Guignol and professional plays. Daniel Boone is played by Bruce Shepherd, Troy, N. Y., also well known here and on the road. Other members of the cast are Harry Franks, Tom Scott, Torbit Thomas and Milton Rosenbloom, all of whom are experienced actors.

on research work which he has been doing since the last meeting of the association.
The association is divided into a large number of smaller organizations, which represent the separate sciences. Each of these organizations will hold their separate sectional meetings, and it is very probable that the University will be represented in other branches of science.

Webb Will Present Illustrated Talk On TVA Projects

Prof. W. S. Webb, head of the physics department, will give an illustrated lecture at the engineers' convocation, at 10 a. m. Wednesday in Memorial hall. His topic will be, "The Archaeological Work in the Tennessee Valley."
Professor Webb obtained a semester's leave from the University, in order that he might work on the Federal project in the Tennessee Valley. Accompanying Professor Webb, and aiding in the work, were several University students, who worked with him during the summer. Professor Webb was chosen for this work by the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, D. C.
The work consisted of the excavation and classification of artifacts removed from approximately 300 Indian mounds. The territory which was worked will soon be inundated as a result of construction work now going on under federal supervision.

The KENTUCKY KERNEL

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JAY LUCIAN

It is extremely unfortunate when the breaks in a football game decide the issue. Such was the case Saturday. Had the breaks gone to Kentucky, the Wildcats would have come out on top. Considering what the Cats did against a major team is proof enough of their quality. The small squad of less than 30 players has proven a decided handicap all season. Injuries to the star players has kept the team from playing at its best.

The team probably was in its most complete personnel on the day of the Cincinnati game. Both Fritchard and Johnson were in tip-top condition. All the tackles, Wagner, Nevers, Jobe, and O'lah, were uninjured and eligible; while Captain Rupert was free from all ailments. What they did to the highly touted Bear-cats is an example of what the Wildcats could have done against Alabama and Tulane later on if injuries had not depleted their slim ranks.

Consider the case Saturday. Fritchard was unable to play and besides the loss of his blocking, it left the front of the ball coughing to Johnson. Nevers and Wagner were forced to play although both were handicapped by injuries received in earlier games. Rupert did a commendable job even though his leg gave him considerable pain. Walker, the alleged "Nevers" injured his knee early in the season and has not been able to play his best game.

One consolation is that despite its crippled condition, the Cats are an improved football team. It was last year Tulane won five touchdowns and almost a tie. This year the game went better. Tulane won by two touchdowns, both as a result of breaks in the game. With a larger squad next year, Kentucky can hope for a somewhat better result.

Another bright spot while on Kentucky's gridiron resume is the fact that none of the injuries suffered by the players were received in practice. All of the injuries came about during the course of a hard fought game. It is a commendable fact concerning the Wayne system that none of the practice injury bugaboos is present.

(Continued from Page One) covered a Tulane fumble. Able Ayers passed 19 yards to Johnson. In two attempts Johnson picked up 8 yards. Able made it first down on the 8-yard stripe and followed it with a 4-yard run. Johnson then ran around his own left end for the score, aided by clever blocking. Ayers kicked the extra point. Kentucky appeared in a fair way to come out on top but the breaks were against them. Their next chance to start a scoring drive in the midfield failed when an offside penalty gave the ball back to Tulane with a first down. Then a short punt from behind the goal line gave the ball to the Green Wave on Kentucky's 30-yard line. A series of plays later, Tulane was knocked out of bounds on Kentucky's 2-yard line where he fumbled and Kentucky took the ball. However, the officials ruled the tumble out of bounds and the ball went to Tulane. Kentucky drove the line for a touchdown and Simons kicked the extra point.

Although the game was nearly over, the Wildcats started a drive from their 25-yard line. Able Ayers flipped and completed three passes in a row that brought the ball to the Greenies 19-yard line as the

VANDY BOWS TO TENNESSEE 6-13

As a tribute to Coach Bob Neyland making his last coaching appearance against a Vanderbilt team, the Volunteers of Tennessee turned in a 13-6 victory over the Commodores, Saturday, but only after a brilliant battle.

Before a crowd of 21,000 people who had turned out to witness the final home appearance of Coach Dan McGugin, the underdog Commodores waged a great fight and came within an ace of tying the score before they were suppressed by sheer weight of numbers.

Vanderbilt played its best ball in the second and third periods, registering its only touchdowns and putting on a rugged defense which held a Vol march on the 1-yard line.

Tennessee scored late in the first half after a recovery of Dixon's fumble to the 2-yard line. Dixon ran 31 yards to the 5-yard mark. Vandy was penalized to the 1-yard line for roughness and Lippe carried the ball over. Fausell converted. The second Vol marker came after some flashy running by Vaughn had gained 30 yards and placed the ball on the Vanderbilt 5-yard stripe. Palmer crashed off tackle for the touchdown, but Craig's kick for extra point was wide.

Coach McGugin's boys took to the air in the third quarter and a long pass from Dixon to Simpkins carried the oval from midfield to the Tennessee 10-yard line. Dixon then faked back and passed again, this time into the waiting hand of Dick Plasman over the goal line.

Jack Gibbons Is Returned Home

Miss Givens and the child were discovered in a North Chattanooga house by officers Sunday. The landlady read newspaper stories of the missing boy and notified police.

Radio patrolmen arrested the woman, who claimed Jackie was her brother. Jackie himself claimed relationship, but admitted his identity through the persuasion of an ice cream cone.

Miss Givens said the boy had joined her in Lexington, leaving his play to beg a piece of candy she was eating. She said she told him to "go back," but that he cried and she decided to take him along.

"If they caught me, I was determined to tell the whole thing," she said. The girl said they spent Thursday night in a small Kentucky town and hitch-hiked to Marietta, Ga., before heading north again. After spending Friday in Galloum, Ga., she said, they caught a ride to Chattanooga and got a room for the week-end.

Lawrence Harvey, the landlord, said that the Lexington boy was missing, however, and informed officers. Miss Givens was placed in jail. She told police that during his stay with her Jackie had "had everything he wanted."

The child's father is a contracting employe at Lexington. He established his son's identity after local officers notified him of the discovery.
