

MINUTES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1963

The University Faculty met in regular session at 4:00 p.m., Monday, September 16, 1963 in the Student Center Theatre. The Secretary called the meeting to order and turned it over to the Chairman, University Faculty Council, who presented the new President, Dr. John W. Oswald, to the Faculty.

Dr. Oswald addressed the group informally giving his very first impressions as President. In the area external to the University he emphasized the need for a total overview of the relationship of the University to the entire program of higher education in the state; that the state must and has the right to have its dollars spent in a most effective way and that the people of Kentucky must be clearly informed of the functions of their state university - not as a competitor with other state institutions - but rather that its distinctive services be defined.

Of his internal first impressions, he stated that whereas there have been strong advocates for individual colleges, there have not been strong advocates for the total University. He indicated that there was a natural tendency during institutional growth for lines to be drawn between colleges and departments in such matters as space allocations and criteria involving faculty promotions and appointments. President Oswald pointed out that these types of intra-institutional differences do not work in the best interests of the total University. In the area of research he stated that every effort would be made to bring together inter-department and inter-college research in order to encourage state and local support.

Dr. Oswald stated he will review the total resources of the University and establish priorities for future developments. He called attention to the fact that the University's total resources must be utilized for the benefit of all, rather than certain selective groups. Furthermore, the function of administration is to encourage education and to serve the faculty and student body in this regard. This can only be accomplished when the administration is responsible and flexible to the needs of the institution.

Dr. Oswald pledged his full cooperation to the University Faculty and requested their cooperation and participation in the establishment of University policies. He praised former President Dickey for his role in bringing the faculty more actively into the affairs of the University. He indicated that he planned to meet with the University Faculty Council at least once a month; that he planned to establish a faculty-administrative group to be called the Academic-Advisory Council which would consist of the Chairman, Faculty Committee on Building and Campus Development, Chairman, Curriculum Committee, Chairman, Faculty Council, Dean, Graduate School, Medical School Dean, and others; that he had already appointed Doctors Douglas Schwartz and Robert Rudd as Academic Assistants to the President to assist him in obtaining material that relates to the faculty; that these assistants will be replaced after a year and others appointed in order to give faculty members an enlarged perspective of the office of the President, and to maintain a closer relationship with the faculty. Dr. Oswald indicated he would be calling on faculty members for committee work but assured the group that for every committee created he would attempt to find one to abolish.

He stated that while he appreciated his ex officio position as Chairman of the University Faculty he preferred not to chair but rather to attend the meetings as a resource person to the group; that he had asked the Chairman, University Faculty Council, to chair the Faculty meetings so that it might be in the hands of a faculty member; and that he looked forward very much to working with the Faculty.

The minutes of the meeting of June 3, 1963 were approved as circulated.
