Mrs. Dickey Comments On Leaving Lexington

By JACKIE ELAM
Associate Daily Editor

In a high-ceilinged room done in shades of beige and rose Mrs. Frank G. Dickey sat knitting a sweater.

"I am leaving Lexington and the University with mixed feelings," she said. Still knitting, she continued, "This is our home."

Directories To Be Ready By Oct. 15

No more waiting until November or December for Student Directories.

This year the University's Public Relations Department hopes to have the free 100-page directory out by Oct. 15.

This is the first year the Public Relations Department has put out the Student Directory. "We are doing it because the University has grown so large and feels the directory should be an official publication," said Norman Snider, Public Relations Department.

The directory will be placed in all resident and administrative offices on campus, and will be offered free to all students for three days. After the three day period the copies that still remain of the original 5,500 will be turned over to Student Congress, which will sell them for 25 cents.

The name, home and Lexington address, Lexington phone number, and college and classification of all students will be listed. The directory will also include the administrative offices of the University and other offices of interest to the students.

During registration there was an IBM machine in the Coliseum at work sorting the cards within minutes after students had filled them out.

The former Betty Drymon, a pretty brunette, was born in St. Joseph, Mo., but moved to Lexington in 1937. Her father was the well-known horseman, Ira Drymon, one of the best of the smaller breeders in the thoroughbred industry.

"Frank has lived here since he was 12." She thought a bit and added, "But I think we will like Atlanta. We have a few relatives and many friends living there."

"I don't know if many people realize it—but Atlanta has one of the most active UK alumni groups in the South, and I think it will be fun to attend the games en masse," Mrs. Dickey said and with a quick smile added, "Then we won't have to sit on our decorum."

Suddenly during the conversation the air was filled with the sound of organ music. It was Frank, Jr. practicing in the next room. Mrs. Dickey continued, seemingly unconsciously of the sound.

"Another reason I think we will enjoy Atlanta is because it is a crossroad for the north, south, east, and west. People from all over will be staying over in Atlanta and we hope they will come to see us."

As she talked the room was warmed with her gracious manner and the flow of music.

"When Frank became president of the University we had moved 17 times in 17 years." She put down her knitting, remembering, "I told him then the only way I would leave this house would be in a pine box." She laughed and added, "But I think I'm too young to go to Atlanta in that manner so I'll have to retract my statement."

Her green outfit blended well with the rose of the couch and the green of the progressing sweater.

"I wish we had a picture of our move, to Massachusetts. We were only going for the year so we rented a small trailer. By the time everything was loaded the truck was so full the tires were flat." Laughter filled the room and she said, "It's going to be quite an adjustment to get used to the low ceilings and a smaller house."

"With Frank's new position my life will become fairly quiet. There won't be the many social obligations to meet."

She continued her knitting and said, "I asked Frank, Jr. what I would have to worry about then. He said, 'You can worry over the next book you are going to read, and the next piece you are going to play on the organ.'"

The Dickey's have often been concerned with their relationship with the student body. Mrs. Dickey commented, "Since the University has grown so large it's impossible to meet all the students and have the close relationships with the student body that the presidents of the past generations have had."

"One night we had a foreign student come to the door about 11 p.m. He had just arrived in Lexington to attend the University but had arrived too early. There were no dormitories or any houses open and he had no place to go. So he spent the night with us."

She continued reminiscing. "During orientation week we receive lots of phone calls from new students who have been told to call 2-7411 and ask for Frank."

"If the students are not too embarrassed they leave their name and later if we meet again it makes for good conversation and a laugh. Most are too embarrassed and hang up." She stood up and continued with a smile, "Frank, Jr. has met several girls in this manner."

Fees may be paid in the Bursar's Office in the Administration Building without a definite fee of $5 until Monday. After this time, however, the $5 fee will be charged.

Seven Attempt To Regain

Grants-In-Aid

University Holds Boys Cannot Be Reinstated

By RICHARD STEVENSON, Kernel Daily Sports Editor

Seven former holders of grants-in-aid with the University of Kentucky are attempting to regain their scholarships.

President Frank G. Dickey said late yesterday afternoon, "It is the University's belief that they are not eligible to have their grants reinstated because of a release each signed when he left the team." President Dickey, however, arranged a meeting between the boys and the Board of Directors of the University of Kentucky Athletic Association for Oct. 2.

Dr. Dickey said that Jim Bolus, Karl Crandall, Duane Schwartz, Steve McGee, John Helmers, and Chris Georgehead attended the meeting. He added that he was told that Larry Shad, who was unable to attend today's session, wanted to attend the meeting with the Athletic Board.

The president said he showed each boy a copy of the form release that the University uses. Each boy, he said, agreed he had read and signed the release.

The release went as follows: "This is to notify you that I am, of my own violation, giving up my football grant-in-aid and releasing the University from its obligations. I intend to remain in school and pay my own expenses."

He said that the point that the former players were minors is a questionable point. The University has been advised by legal counsel that the grant-in-aid is not a legal contract but rather a statement of relationship between the University and the boy.

Dr. Dickey said that former player Bill Hudson also attended yesterday's meeting but is a separate case from the other seven. Hudson has not signed a release from his grant although he has not practiced since last spring. President Dickey said he understood that Hudson was injured in an auto accident last spring.

The ruling of the NCAA is if a holder of a grant is physically unable to continue playing the University can require the holder to perform equivalent services. Dr. Dickey said.

He said these "equivalent services" could be as a football manager or other tasks.

Dr. Dickey said that since the boys had signed the release that no further action was needed. Each boy signed "of my own volition" as the release state and the University believes they are not eligible for reinstatement.

U.S. Attorney Investigating Leaflet Case

The U.S. District Attorney for Eastern Kentucky said yesterday his office is now investigating the case involving two University faculty members who distributed pamphlet leaflets to local citizens.

B. T. Mognahan Jr. said his office concludes that Dr. Abby Marlatt, director of the School of Home Economics, and Mr. Edward A. Morin Jr., an English instructor, have violated a federal law, an indictment could be issued for their appearance before a grand jury.

Mognahan said he could make no further comment on the case at this time other than the fact that his office had not begun its probe as a result of any petition by local citizens.

The investigation concerns leaflets distributed by Dr. Marlatt, Morin, and Robert Hairfill, Lexington, a student, urging that citizens refrain from draft registration, payment of income taxes,

Acting Dean Of Men

Harper Appointed To New Position

The Board of Trustees has appointed Dr. Kenneth Harper acting dean of men while Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin is on leave of absence.

Dr. Harper, who officially took office Sept. 1, has been in the dean of men's office since 1959.

"My basic philosophy in dealing with students is, and has been in the past, to work as an advisor to students and to help them develop concerning future programs and changes. Dr. Harper said that before any changes "are even anticipated, I first want to talk with student leaders. As I stated, I feel changes should be made jointly."

The acting dean, who earned his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University, was in Southern Rhodesia, Africa from 1949 to 1953 as superintendent of schools for the Mtasa Makoni District.

He returned to the University in 1957 to take the position of director of the YMCA. Later he became assistant dean of men and the foreign student adviser. Dr. Harper has also served as director of Welcome Week, fraternities, on campus, and advisor to Little Kentucky Derby.

Dr. Harper is a member of Kappa Delta Psi, Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Kappa Delta, and Phi Delta Kappa. He has also served as president of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity.

Student Teachers

All students who plan to do student teaching in the spring semester must file an application for student teaching with their advisers in the College of Education by Sept. 21.

More than 500 student teachers are expected to enroll, according to James H. Powell, chairman of the Committee on Student Teaching.

Freshmen Give Views On Orientation Program

The freshman orientation program this year was organized to give emphasis to the academic side of college life and omitted social activities.

In interviews with several freshmen the Kernel has found that this program has proved to be beneficial to new students.

Becky Hudson, a social work major from Nashville, Tenn., said, "I thought it was very worthwhile even though we were run to death. I couldn't have become adjusted without it."

Marvin Taylor, a civil engineering student from Ft. Thomas said,

"The program acquainted me with the campus and prepared me more for life at the University."

"Sometimes I got bored, but without the meetings I wouldn't have gotten used to the University. I think it is necessary," said Helen Britton, a psychology major from Marion, Ind.

Donna Sue Meyer, an education major from Springfield, Tenn., said, "A lot of it was very good especially the counseling and religious meetings. It was a very well-planned program and really helped."

"I've spent three weeks here before and was already familiar with the campus. However, I'm sure that if one strange here would be completely lost without it," said Lonnie Williams, a physics major from London.

Mary Cheaney Ringo, a journalism major from Lexington said "I think it was worthwhile. I live in Lexington and already knew where to go but if I had been from out of town it would have helped."

Opinions varied concerning the omission of social activities. Some thought they should be included in the program, others felt they could wait until later.

Perry Ward, a civil engineering student from Ashland said, "There isn't enough social activity. We don't have an opportunity to meet and talk with the girls."

Williams said, "Social activities could wait until later." Miss Meyer said, "They might have changed groups or mixed them up in the middle of orientation so we could meet more people. We need a way to meet people outside our group."

"We've had so many things that we haven't had time but social activities would have been good," said Miss Hudson.

and defense plant employment. Approximately 400 leaflets were handed out by the three to citizens at six Lexington churches Aug. 5.

Dr. Marlatt and Mr. Morin may also face action by the University Board of Trustees. Meeting in full session Tuesday, the board received a petition signed by 15 Lexingtonians requesting the teachers dismissal from the University. Gov. Bert C. Combs appointed a three member committee to recommend if further action should be taken.

The petitioners charged the two professors with violating the United States Military Act and Kentucky Revised Statute 164.230. The federal act forbids anyone to aid, abet, or encourage another person to evade Selective Service registration. The Kentucky statute, under which the Lexingtonians asked for Marlatt and Morin's dismissal states: "No president, professor, or teacher shall be removed except for incompetency, neglect, or for refusal to perform his duty, or for immoral conduct." The 15 who submitted the petition believe the professors' act coincides with this statute.

Dental College Opens With 26

The UK College of Dentistry, the nation's newest dental college, opened Sept. 10, with an enrollment of 26.

The college, with its offices in the north wing of the Medical Center, has a total of 11 departments. Lecture halls are located in the main portion of the Medical Center.

Last December the faculty invited 95 people from every geographical area in the country and every aspect of the dental profession to a conference.

The purpose of the conference was to submit to this group the proposed curriculum for their critical evaluation.

The group was unanimously in favor of the objectives established by the faculty. Most of the conference supported the means by which the college planned to meet the objectives.

Dr. Roy T. Durocher, D.D.S., director of clinics, said that the dental program was oriented toward the future, toward prevention of disease and keeping in mind that "we are preparing men who are to be dentists in the year 2000."

Any dental emergencies will be handled through the Student Health Services, he said.

Dr. Durocher added that the dental clinics would not be activated this year, but when they do "the college would be very happy to accept UK students for routine dental care."

Cooperstown, Shawneetown Are Full

Apartments in Cooperstown and Shawneetown are scheduled to be filled within the next few days.

Robert Blakeman, director of Cooperstown, said both married students' housing projects are crowded.

There are several single graduate students living in Cooperstown who have been in residence since before this September. However, Blakeman said all single graduate students would have to wait until all married students have been housed regardless of when their applications were submitted.

If an apartment is available for rent the married student always has priority over the single student even though the married student is an undergraduate," said Blakeman.

Tryouts for the first Guignol production, "Harvey" by Mary Chase, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Guignol Theatre. The tryouts are open to all UK students.

The Man In The Driver's Seat

The Will To Win

Tomorrow night 35 men will charge onto Stoll Field with one purpose in mind, to slaughter Florida State. The squad has worked hard and long during these past months to make up in physical fitness and desire what they have lost in depth.

Coach Charlie Bradshaw has brought a new gridiron spirit to the University of Kentucky and has installed this spirit in each of his players.

He has been openly criticized from all sides, including members of his own profession during the short time he has been here. But, we feel that Coach Bradshaw should be given every opportunity to prove to the University and to the public that his type of football program will produce a winning team. Why should a man be criticized before he has the chance to show the results of his work?

Last year and, for that matter, many years in the past, Blanton Collier was blamed for every mistake the Wildcats made. Students, alumni, and other University supporters yelled for his resignation. Now, many of these same people are putting thumbs down on the new football frontier introduced by Coach Bradshaw.

Regardless of whether the squad runs off the field victorious or walks off in defeat tomorrow night we know they will have put forth their best and there is little more we can ask.

But, let's not forget one important factor which will play a major role through the entire season. The 11 men who will be cracking heads on the field and the other 24 waiting on the sideline are going to be only as good as the 6,000 students sitting in the stands. They cannot win by themselves, they need your help and support. This also goes for the alumni and football fans around the state.

No Soul

Moscow television did a commentary on New York City and its tall buildings, titled "City Without a Soul."

We doubt if the Muscovites put their point across to the female viewers, at least.

The cameraman showed the Easter parade on Fifth Avenue, although the announcer didn't say a word about Easter. He merely said once a year traffic is stopped so women can show their hats.

This shot alone should convince Russian women that the typical New Yorker not only has a soul but must have a heart, if automobile drivers will stop to look at ladies' millinery.

President Dickey's Resignation Statement

Editor's Note: This is a verbatim copy of the resignation announcement which President Frank G. Dickey made at the Board of Trustees meeting Tuesday.

Gentlemen:

I am presenting to you this morning my resignation as president of the University of Kentucky, to become effective July 1, 1963. On that date I shall assume the duties of Executive Director of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

The decision to take this action has not been an easy one, for no institution can ever be more important to me than the University of Kentucky. While there are aspects of the development of the University which will remain to be completed, this situation will always be true of any dynamic and growing institution. I suggest that the change be effective immediately, if not later, for the following reasons:

First, the resignation of the University president is a matter of that nature which is a part of the program of development. New facilities for Commerce, Engineering, Law, Education and Agriculture will be underway, and additional buildings for Arts and Sciences (beyond the nearly-completed Chemistry-Physics Building) will be in the planning stages. New residence halls will be under construction by that time. While construction is under way, the incoming president will have the opportunity to familiarize himself with the University programs.

The only reason for leaving this position and this institution which I love so much is the unusual challenge of the position with the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. To have a direct role in improving the quality of the schools, colleges and universities of this eleven-state region presents a most interesting and unique opportunity. It is such a stimulating position that I feel I need to leave the University to take on the challenge. I believe that the Board of Trustees has established a high standard of leadership.

My term of service as president of the University of Kentucky has

Academic Freedom

By GILBERT G. ADAMS

TO THE EDITOR:

It would seem that the controversy concerning Miss Marlatt and Mr. Morin and their recent actions in distributing handbills could be settled, if one remembers that with freedom must come responsibility. Particularly, with the academic freedom provided to the faculty members of a state university, comes a responsibility to the governments which made that university possible as well as to the students for whom the university was created.

When faculty members advocate and encourage the violation of laws of the land, they are failing to recognize their responsibility, and should be deprived of their freedom. Paradoxically, the fact that Miss Marlatt and Mr. Morin did not commit their acts as university faculty does not excuse them; the student body and the whole university community can not regard each one as two people, i.e. the "academic" person and the "private" person.

Although it might be impossible to convict them of breaking a particular law, it remains that they failed to assume the responsibility that went with their freedom, but rather chose to hide behind that freedom (or ignore the question entirely); and they should be dismissed from the faculty.

The government which makes the University of Kentucky possible is founded on the concept of obedience to justly-made laws. Advocating the changing of these laws is a "freedom" enjoyed by all citizens. However, until a law is duly changed by means guaranteed us, it is the duty of all of us, especially those who influence others, to obey and foster obedience of it.

Where It Hurts

At the center of Marxism-Leninism is the proposition that capitalism contains the seed of its own doom. This is more than a proposition; it is an axiom. It is what has given the Communist leadership its superb confidence that time is on its side. It is what enables Khrushchev to say with every appearance of conviction that we will bury you.

What happens, then, when an axiom begins to look shaky? That was the subject of a recent meeting of Communist theoreticians from many countries in Moscow.

The meeting was called to discuss the proper Communist response to the European Common Market which is capitalism rampant. For a change, the Communists were responding to an initiative rather than taking the initiative.

It appears to have been a remarkably candid meeting, too, with a great deal of hot argument. The Italian delegation is reported to have led off with a paper the theme of which was that the success of the Common Market must be acknowledged, that it is proving to be an immense stimulus to production, and that to repose confidence in its ultimate failure could well be (for the Communists), a tragic mistake.

If there was general agreement that effort should be concentrated on discouraging British adherence, that after all was only an admission that British membership would make the Common Market all the stronger, hence an even greater threat.

For Communist theoreticians to admit, or even entertain a suspicion, that their central axiom may be shaky, is a development of notable importance. The Common Market has hit the Communists where it hurts: in their orthodoxy.

'Place Your Bets Here'

Among other things which the University of Kentucky is noted for, one of the most infamous is its lines. During the past week, new students have been introduced to this tradition and old ones have had their memory refreshed. This is the registration line in which students had to wait in order to be considered a member of the UK family.

P.E. Tests To Be Given

Students interested in taking the physical fitness by-pass tests given by the Department of Physical Education and not enrolled in a physical education class, should report to Memorial Coliseum at noon Saturday.

Students should bring gym or tennis shoes and girls should wear shorts or other clothing suitable for exercises.

Students who wish to by-pass a second semester of physical education will be required to pass sports skill tests to be given Oct. 1-6. All the tests will be given from 4 till 5:30 p.m. and will start at noon Saturday.

Applicants for the sports by-pass tests should apply to the Physical Education Office in Room 3 of the Alumni Gymnasium.

SU Board Plans Membership Meeting

The Student Union Board will have a mass meeting Oct. 3 for all interested students. Any student is eligible to be a committee member.

The board is composed of 10 students who head various committees that plan activities for the student body during the year.

The SUB topics committee sponsors the cultural events, including the Fine Arts Festival, and various exhibits, lectures, concerts and reading hours.

The social committee plans jam sessions, dances, teas and dancing lessons.

Bridge lessons and tournaments, ping pong, chess, sight seeing tours, and a series of movies are sponsored by the recreation committee. The board sponsors a contest each month to select an outstanding student. This election is handled by the personnel committee, which also keeps all the membership records and handles all the committees.

Events such as the Turtle Doby or Hanging of the Greens are handled by the special events committee. Publicity for these and other events is the job of the publicity committee.

House Vote Rejects Student Loan Proposal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The House today rejected a proposal for a $100 million student loan program in a 317-189 vote. The bill would allow the federal government to guarantee up to $100 million of the loans provided to students. The bill would also require the federal government to guarantee the loans provided to students. The bill would also require the federal government to guarantee the loans provided to students.

KIPA Holds First Meeting

The first meeting of the Kentucky Institutional Placement Association will be held at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the UK Placement Office.

The association, which is composed of the placement directors of all four year colleges in Kentucky, was founded last year at the meeting of the KEA in Louisville.

Members of the group will assemble in the placement office, where they will be shown the placement system used at the University. They will then move to Carrahan House for a luncheon, followed by an afternoon workshop session.

Colleges sending representatives to the conference include Eastern, Kentucky State, Villa Madonna, University of Louisville, Georgetown, Transylvania, Western, Morehead, Ashbury and Murray.

M. O. Weather, director of placement at Murray, is president of the organization, and Mrs. Katherine Kemper, director of the UK Placement Service is vice president.

They rejected particularly a provision that would require the college to make available to the public its available funds to exceptional needy students.

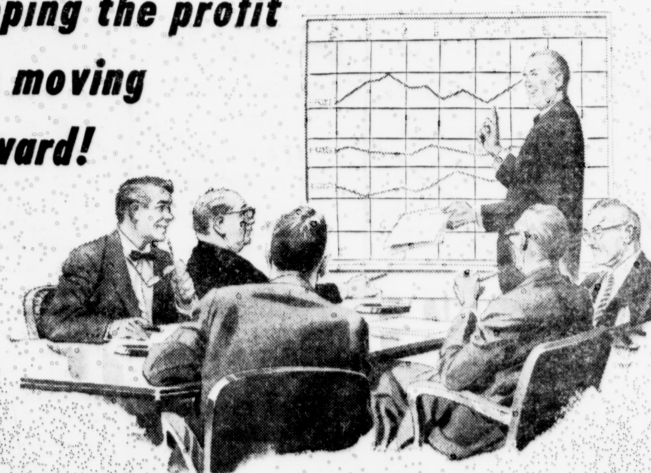

Their motion to send the bill back to the Senate House conference was heavily supported by southern Democrats. Many of whom had expressed objections to another feature of the bill that would make federal grants available to private as well as public colleges.

This provision was left intact by today's vote but the prospect of getting the Senate to go back to conference and agree to further whitening away of the bill left its house supporters gloomy.

Campus Social Life Exposed

By NANCY LONG

Welcome to the great metropolis of the University of Kentucky. For those of you who have inhabited the campus before, the rules and regulations of the social life are already engrained upon the frontal bone of your anatomy. There are, however, approximately 2,000 freshman and transfers who are still in the dark as to when to wear their madras and sneakers and when to dress to the acceptance of Vogue.

The reason for this page, facetiously called the Society Page, is to condone or condemn the fashions of the day, and more particularly those which capture the heart of the UK community.

Another aspect of this page is to enlighten the uninformed of the various and sundry fraternity parties and sorority flings which occur. The Kernel also acts in a Big Brother role here, warning the young misled coed of the dangers and pitfalls of most fraternity men. As a method of soothing comfort for the meek of the Kernel staff, are most obliging and anxious to offer their already tear stained shoulder pads.

TGIF parties are definitely "in" on or off the campus. To help celebrate the occasion this afternoon, The Paddock, that well known, smoke filled, much loved, intellectual gathering place will reopen its swinging doors. For the freshmen and the know, this campus neighbor has the students' Seal of Approval. Aspirants will be available at the downtown drug stores.

Saturday brings the occasion all UK sport fans have been looking forward to since last spring. Children will take the field, adorned in dazzling colors of blue and white. These 11 men and ferocious men will grow in harmony to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner, frightening the very spirit of the opponents. Poor, unknown Florida State!

To celebrate the victory, or in reverse manner, to lament the loss, the fortunate "off-probation" fraternities will be throwing wild, thrashing parties in order to impress their friends. Demonstrations of the Wattle, the Bird, the Hilly-Gilly, and of course the much loved and easy to do Twist will be given. Fun will be had by all as the old adage goes:

The Kernel wishes to predict what else might happen at these fraternity parties. However, the advice would be to leave with the freshmen is this:

"Spend softly and carry a big stick."

Color-Matching Test Evaluates Marriages

A color matching test designed by psychiatrists here tests the ability of mates to resolve marital conflicts—and the results are a clear indication of the degree of harmony in a household.

Dr. D. Wells Goodrich and Dr. Donald S. Boomer of the National Institute of Mental Health described their color test at a psychiatric symposium.

Husbands and wives are separately asked to choose the best match for a certain color.

When the choices are different (and they often are) the ease or strain with which a compromise is chosen is the clue to marital accord.

In a procedure similar to choosing colors for draperies or slipcovers, the researchers found that where couples could not agree there occurs a sense of helplessness and discouragement which then is expressed in disparaging remarks about the self or about the spouse.

The spouse may be accused of being color blind or of not being sufficiently careful or systematic in matching judgment.

Frequently when this happens, the discussion changes from rational exploration of alternatives to a power struggle, the aim being to defend the self and prove the other is wrong.

Failure to maintain trust in each other's ideas about color leads to a hostility which makes it impossible to cope with the problem at hand, the testers said.

Interestingly, some harmonious couples solved their color matching problem by agreeing that they disagreed.

They tackled the color matching from a different angle—either deciding to take turns in matching the colors or deciding to let the wife handle the red colors and the husband the green hues.

Goodrich and Boomer reported the give-and-take behavior shown by husband and wife during the color tests suggest much about the coping adequacy or coping inadequacy in each spouse.

They said the color test studies indicate husbands and wives often have stable, predictable tendencies in solving problems and that they will cope with more serious marital conflicts in much the same way they cope with the color matching problems.

ENGINEERS HAVE FIRST ASSEMBLY

Dr. H. A. Romanowicz, head of the Department of Electrical Engineering, spoke to the Student Assembly on Thursday, Sept. 20. He welcomed the students and commented on the necessity for resourcefulness, initiative, and a proper study habits in their campus activities.

The Assembly elected officers to serve during 1962-63. They are: chairman, David MacDuffee; vice chairman, Jack Simpson; secretary, Joe Carol Johnson; treasurer, Jim Hughes; and Engineering Student Council Representative, Steve Lyons.

ATO's Rush Girls

Alpha Tau Omega's Little Sister rush will begin September 28, with a party featuring the Night Crawlers.

Frank Martin, worthy keeper of the Little Sisters, reported that so far, 150 coeds have signed up for rush.

The Little Sisters of the Maltese Cross is an auxiliary organization of Alpha Tau Omega. Members help with fraternity functions and projects, as well as planning their own projects. Little sisters are invited to all fraternity functions.

The UK chapter of Alpha Tau Omega is one of two chapters in the United States to have a Little Sisters organization.

Now in its second year on campus, the Little Sisters have 20 members.

Health Service Moves To Medical Center

The University Health Service moved its quarters this summer and is now located in the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center.

The new infirmary is located in the Appellant Patient wing of the hospital. This section extends toward the main campus of the University.

The health service will be able to provide a broadened range of high quality services to the University student who has paid the proper fee.

The eligibility requirements for the University Health Service state the applicant must be classified as a full time student with the University or a part time student who has paid the special fee for student activities which includes the Health Service fee.

Both full time students are required to have completed the University Health Service Report Form before their initial enrollment at the University.

The service will include diagnostic treatment and health counseling. Other aid such as laboratory and X-rays will be rendered when requested by the Health Service.

Hospital care and inpatient medical services in the University Hospital will be given up to 14 days per semester. Emergency care at the Health Service or at the Emergency Room will be provided during the hours when the Health Service Clinic is not open, or otherwise indicated.

The duration of the University Health Service program is one semester. The student will not be covered during vacations or academic recesses unless a hospital patient prior to the vocational beginning.

Students with special medical problems that cannot be handled by the health service will be referred to private physicians. The health service fee will not cover these costs.

Drugs and medications which are prescribed in conjunction with inpatient services covered by the program and some drugs for outpatients may be obtained through the Health Service, but a charge will generally be made for unusually expensive and less commonly required items.

Students not familiar with the location of the Medical Center offices should enter the building by the main entrance located on Rose Street and consult the receptionist.

2 Freshmen Meet After 18 Years

Two University students were formally introduced this summer after a brief meeting at birth.

Eduardo Garza of Coahuila,

Mexico, and Ruth Shane of Lexington, who looked like identical twins at birth, were born minutes apart in Del Rio, Texas.

The nurse in attendance, noticing the similarity of the babies, took them to Mrs. Shane and asked her which she wanted.

Mrs. Shane, seeing the similarity, asked about the boy's family and found out that his grandmother owned the famous Crosby Cafe, Villa Acuna, Mexico.

The Shanes revisited Mexico this past summer and out of curiosity stopped by the Crosby Cafe and asked the owner what had become of the Guardo child, born Aug. 10, 1944.

The owner happened to be Mr. Guardo.

After hearing Mrs. Shane's story and noticing that they still looked alike, Mr. Guardo sent for his son.

The Shanes were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Garza for the next two days as the Garza family showed them some sights and set up a mock bull fight for them.

During their visit the Shanes found out that Garza was looking for a college to attend and they talked him into coming to the University.

Garza is studying electrical engineering and Miss Shane, medical technology.

The main campus of the University covers 691 acres and has 95 major buildings.

Immediately after the rally there will be a street dance in the stadium parking lot. The dances are being sponsored by the Student Union Board.

Knisely Talks In Europe

Dr. William H. Knisely, chairman of the Department of Anatomy, has been invited to speak at the second European Microcirculatory Conference in Pavia, Italy to be held next week.

Dr. Knisely will lecture on "Observations on the lungs of normal mammals and experimental pathology." He has drawn his lecture material from research which he has done over the last ten years.

Following his lecture at Pavia, Dr. Knisely will lecture successively at the University of Basel, Switzerland; the University of Brussels, Belgium, where he studied in the school's anatomy department in 1950; the University of London, England; and the University of Aberdeen, Scotland.

At each university, Dr. Knisely will visit the anatomy department to study the respective teaching methods.

'62 Edition

Kittens Have Greatest Opportunity

A good brand of football players and a real good bunch of boys make up the 1962 edition of Kittens. Coach Dave Hart says.

Hart is one of several varsity coaches that also works with Kentucky's freshmen this year.

He says, "They are more a part of the varsity than a separate freshman team. They will have a greater opportunity to play than any freshman team in the University's history."

Every one of the forty members of the squad definitely figures in future varsity plans. Due to the mass departure on the varsity, the Kittens are scrimmaging the varsity in practice and next year will move up to fill holes in the numerically thin ranks of Coach Charlie Bradshaw's varsity.

Coach Hart said the entire staff was impressed by a general statement by the majority of the Frosh who said they didn't understand why so many varsity players had quit. The Frosh said, "We like it!" Hart said, "We like them."

"Recruiting has been organized to an extent that our boys were sold before they came and they want to play on a championship team, and not a losing one," said the Frosh staff coach.

Coach Hart said the Frosh had been well coached in high school and demands had been made on them before they had made their mental attitude and overall self-discipline the kind it takes to play ball in the Southeastern Conference.

No definite starting lineup is set for the Kittens opening game with Vanderbilt's Commodore Frosh. The first game of the Kittens' three-game season will be played at 3 p.m. Sept. 28 on Stoll Field.

Kentucky's tradition of outstanding ends should be carried on by this year's Kitten flankmen.

Player. Sam Ball, 6-5, 225, from Henderson was a starter in the All-Star game in August. Topping Ball size-wise is Doug Davis from Centerville, Ohio. The aggressive Davis stands 6-5 and tips the scales at 230.

Tackle Rick Tucci from Youngwood, Pa., kicks off, and kicks extra points and field goals for the Frosh. Tucci is 6-1 and 230 pounds and is described as tough defensively.

Hart describes the Kitten guards as quick, aggressive, strong, and hard working. He says all six will play varsity ball next year at this experience-rich spot.

John Miles is described as the fastest guard in the Wildcat camp. Miles is 6-0 and 200 and hails from Finley. Lloyd Caudill from Hazard and Howard Keyes from Altoona, Pa., were described as tremendously hard-working and real quick.

Gerald Murphy from Latrobe, Pa., was a wrestling champion and is described as strong and quick. He has been hampered by a bad ankle this fall and has not seen much action.

Tony Manzonelli and John Schornick add to the Pennsylvania flavor of the tackle position. Caudill and Miles are the only Kentuckians at this line post.

Bill Fochiel could help right now on the varsity said Coach Hart. He says the 6-3, 200 pounder from Wilkinsburg, Pa., has an excellent attitude and is a hard worker.

Frank Brockardt is 6-3, 190 pounds. The frosh from Wheeling, W. Va., has shown ability and will develop says Hart. Robert Carretson and Steve Thian both stand 5-11 and weigh 190. They were called good defensively and aggressive players.

Rick Norton, All-State at Flushing, leads a standout group of quarterbacks on the Kitten squad. Coach Hart could only say, "Standout" when discussing 6-1, 180 pounder. He has impressed the Kitten staff coaches with his great leadership. His teammates elected Norton as president of Kitten Lodge.

Adding to the tremendous depth at the quarter slot are Talbot, Todd and Tom Becherer. Todd, from Richmond Madison, follows in the tradition of varsity quarterback Jerry Woolam, also from Richmond. He has impressed the staff with his ability and leadership. Todd has been used mostly on defense and was outstanding in the scrimmage with the varsity. Becherer is the smallest and fastest quarterback on the squad.

The Kitten halfback corps is headed by "the finest of the Birds," says Coach Hart. The next in Corbin's long line of Birdboys is Rodger. The 6-0, 185 pounder has impressed with his great desire when he runs the ball and his extra effort.

Tom Heaman from Lebanon, Pa., was the leading tackler in the Kitten secondary in the scrimmage game. Heiman is the biggest Kitten halfback at 6-0 and 193 pounds.

Coach Hart said Jim Horlacher, Jim Bolling, and Bob Ashworth are impressive with their toughness, strength, speed, and quickness. Harry Oswald, who is injured, is a fine punt receiver and a good runner.

Jim Stubaugh, neatest fullback at 215 pounds, is an outstanding linebacker and a great runner. Desmond Kelley shows both ability and speed to add to his natural ability and will play a lot of ball on future Wildcat teams says Hart.

Fullback Mike McGraw played his high school ball under new UK assistant coach, Homer Rigg at Ft. Thomas High School. McGraw displays a lot of effort, is an aggressive blocker, and does all things well says Hart.

Hart warned that Ernie Walker "will put the hat on" runners and is a real fine linebacker. Walker is presently hampered with an injury.

Coach Hart said the inner toughness, desire, and liking for the game indicate brighter things in the future at UK.

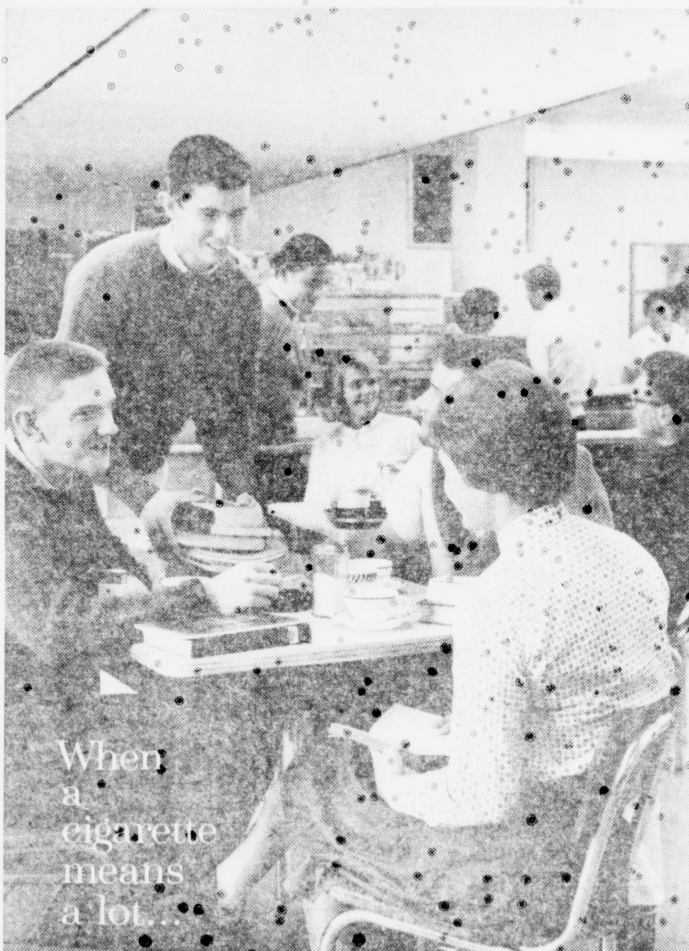

RODGER BIRD

Heading the list are Rick Kestner of Bellry, John Andrighetti of Grapeville, Pa., and Ed Stanko of McKeesport, Pa. Both Kestner and Andrighetti caught touchdown passes in a recent scrimmage with the varsity. All-State Kestner is 6-3 and weighs 215 while Andrighetti is 6-11 and 205. Stanko was a defensive standout in the practice tilt. Coach Hart says he also has ability and offensive potential.

End Ed Smith, a 6-2, 185 pounder, was described by coach Hart as an excellent punter who works every day after practice.

Kitten tackles are large enough to hold their own in the fastest of company. Mike Angelo is the fastest tackle in camp, varsity or Frosh. The 6-2, 200 pounder from Wilkinsburg, Pa., is described by the coaching staff as a very aggres-
