SMOKE OF THE MINES IN M. E. SMOKER

Jolly Time with Pick-axe and Shovel Brigade.

The casual gaze of those who have been so fortunate as to pass thru Science Hall during the past week has been suddenly arrested by an artistic poster, tacked on the College of Mines bulletin board. Upon further investigation, the object of attraction proved to be an announcement to the effect that a meeting of the Kentucky Mining Society would be held on the night of December 6. Tucked shyly away in each corner of the poster the following program and menu were found:

PROGRAM.
"A Rolling Stone Gathers Not"-----		Moss
"The Thanksgiving Game"-----		A. Good Win
"The North Pole"-----		Cook
"Well Fed"-----		Corn Horst
MENU.
Sump Soup	Roast Pick	Crackers
Miners Oil Dressing	Sheared Rib with Rice	Celery
Compressed Air	I Scream	Hot Air
	Segars	Cake

Allowing a great deal of credit to the artist, which he, without doubt deserves, we will have to admit that but a small conception of the real affair could be obtained from any poster.

The members of the Society gathered promptly at the appointed time, and matches and segars were passed around to help the miners get their eyesight, while Messrs. Moss, Thesing and Norwood furnished the program.

At the close of the regular program Mr. W. McC. Johnston, of the Bell Jellico Coal Co., was called upon for a talk. Mr. Johnston in a few pointed remarks told how Kentucky was

BASKET-BALL

Basket ball practice started last Monday, and a good number of new men were out. The armory is to be floored and more lights will be put in. This will make a good place for practice; so all who have been keeping shy of the Gym for fear of there not being room, can now report to Manager Bridges for basket ball. A partial list of those trying for the team are: Rodes (capt.), Barbee, Plummer, Fox, Shelby, Shanklin, Shawhan, Obenchain, Hall, Marks, Ireland, Osborne, Beatty, Miles, Barnett, Weisenberger, Farmer, May, Fitzpatrick, Raist, Hanson, Hart and Collings.

The schedule of the games to be played is as follows:
Jan. 8—K. W. C. at Winchester.
Jan. 22—Georgetown at Lexington.
Jan. 24—DePauw at Lexington.
Jan. 28—C. U. at Danville.
Feb. 4—Georgetown at Georgetown.
Feb. 7—U. of Cincinnati at Cincinnati.
Feb. 8—Miami at Oxford.
Feb. 9—DePauw at Greencastle.
Feb. 10—Rose Poly at Terre Haute.
Feb. 11—Earlham College at Richmond.

Feb. 18—Miami at Lexington.
Feb. 23—Vanderbilt at Lexington.
Feb. 25—U. of Cin. at Lexington.
March 4—C. U. at Danville.
March 8—Georgetown at Georgetown.

There will also be two games with the Lexington High School team before Christmas and one after; these dates are not yet decided on. Owing to a conflict, the home game with Central University has not been set.

Sports at George Washington university are to be limited hereafter to football and track. There will be no baseball or basketball teams.

Indiana university offers a course in the construction of storage batteries. It claims to be the only university offering this course.

calling for mining engineers to develop her vast wealth of mineral resources. Probably the most forcible argument used by the speaker was the comparison between the value of an acre of Blue Grass land with that of an acre of Kentucky coal land, the former commanding a price of $100, while the latter nets a profit of over $4,000 in coal alone. Mr. Johnson's talk was much enjoyed and all present considered themselves fortunate to have been able to hear so able a speaker as he proved himself to be.

Lastly, O, My! Atkins, McCarroll and Bain had "cheffered" the spread and, without question, if these three ever take a trip to Paradise or elsewhere, they can make good in the culinary department every time. Sandwiches, croquettes, biseuits, ham, olives, pickles, brick ice-cream, cakes, fruits, candies and segars were so abundant that the festive board fairly cheanked with the load.

After eating until further work along that line was impossible, a friendly good-night was exchanged by all, and with a jest and a song the miners repaired to their abodes feeling that there is something more to mining than theory and moth.

A COURSE IN AERIAL ENGINEERING.

The Cornell Aero Club, which was organized by students a few weeks ago, will see one of its objects accomplished next year, for Sibley College is going to give a course in aerial engineering. The course will be a technical elective, open to seniors, and will be in charge of Prof. McDermott, whose specialty is naval architecture. The sciences or air navigation and water navigation have some important principles in common.

Fielding Yost, coach of Michigan, says he is in favor of the university's rejoining the western conference for athletic contests.

AS SEEN AMONG SENIORS

A pall of Stygian blackness has fallen upon the class of '10. Is it the fear of Xmas exams? No, thrice no. Juniors, know ye that ye also shall receive the same. It is the mantle left by the class of '09. For your benefit, then, Junior, this is the explanation thereof.

The class of '09 for some unknown reason deemed it proper to write vastly and in large volumes certain papers on the lectures to which all Seniors are subjected to on Wednesdays,—every Wednesday, if you please, third hour. The lecturer informed the '10 class to this effect and hence the dirges, crepe and flowers.

Much was the lamenting when the announcement was made,—so much in fact that in order to secure peace and quiet, the lecturer extended the time when the papers are due to the first Wednesday after Xmas. Still remains, however, the cold, hard fact that we have to get busy and write volumes which will exceed in number those of the class of '09.

Six Missouri university coeds have banded together into an affinity club. If they fail to get an affinity by Christmas they get "tubbed."

Arrangements are being made for interclass basketball at DePauw.

"M's" have been awarded to every player on the Michigan team who was in either the Minnesota or Pennsylvania games. Sixteen received emblems as compared with twelve last year.

AT THE GAME.

He—"Hurrah! Another gain. I tell you our boys are pulling."
She—"Aren't they? They'll have the leg off that little fellow in the red jersey in another minute."

A DECEMBER JAB.

IS THERE A LIMIT?

Suppose you have four classes in the morning. The first class (X) you have under Prof. A.; the second class (Y) under Prof. B.; the third class (Z) under Prof. C., and the fourth class (N) under Prof. D. All four of these Profs. are learned men and know their subjects thoroughly.

Start with Prof. A. at the beginning of the year, even on the first day, he impressed the fact on you with emphasis that the study you pursued under him was undoubtedly the most important one you would have in all your college career. He announces that at least two hours should be spent on the preparation of your lesson for the morrow, and that at no time should fewer minutes be devoted to this all-important topic. Perhaps he gives a lecture which will take say half an hour to write up. The next hour you go to Prof. B. to learn (Y.) This Prof. knows his topic from Alpha to Omega. He is full of nervous energy, and expects every one to be energetic and think as quickly as he does. Say he lectures the first part of the hour, and of course these notes must be copied ready for inspection. He asks questions on the day's lesson the rest of the hour, which covers about fifteen pages. He might on this day give out a problem to be brought in the following day. The information for this problem must be looked up, and it will take you say an hour or more to work it. He expects you to know the lesson in the book, with diagrams, formulae, etc. and it will take at least an hour to prepare this.

Prof. C. takes charge the third hour. This subject is hard, and Prof. C. knows it. He must take great pains to see that you not fake at the board. You must finish the book by Christmas, and so you are compelled to take long lessons. He knows it will take longer to study on this account, but the subject will do you so much good after you leave college that you must get it. Perhaps he gives you a Library reference to look up for the morrow.

Prof. D. holds the class in (N) the fourth hour. (N) is a subject which can be made as difficult as the Prof. wishes. It is largely theoretical and requires a good memory. Some days you have Laboratory work, in combination with the book and lecture. Prof. D. announces that he will give you a quiz upon a large part of the book for tomorrow. This covers several chapters, which must be gone over and carefully reviewed. You could spend anywhere from two to five hours on this very easily.

You have an hour for dinner, and then in the evening have field work, laboratory, drawing, or other studies. Then you have drill or gymnasium. You get to supper about 5:30, and have an half hour to prepare for it. If you have nothing else to attend to, you get down to study about 7:30 or 8.

Now comes the question: If you study as long as you should, according to the Professors' standpoint, you would have to study till 3 or 4 o'clock the next morning. It is said that a man requires six hours of sleep, and a boy about eight or more. In other words, if you get up at 6:30 you should go to bed not later than 12:30, and better still at 10:30. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to study one lesson to the exclusion of the others, or glance over all of them without learning any? The way you usually do is to study the one which promises a quiz for the morrow, or to work the problem given in another.

Some Professors say that if a student is given more work than he can do that he will learn more than he would if he were only given a smaller amount of work.

That would be well enough if only one Professor thought so, but as soon as the others hear that Prof. W. is gaining a reputation of having the students scared up more than any one else, they immediately start in to remedy the defect.

And so it goes! What is the answer? We give it up.

WHAT YOU WILL.

There's nothing on earth that can beat a Democratic College or 'Varsity when it comes to ministering to that "genus homo", which is characterized by hat-bands which have been stretched by the large, handsome ideas of the wearer's vastness. "Pride goeth before a fall," is exemplified around us every day.

To take a concrete case of above mentioned and well known disease, an incident occurred not long ago in the boxing class, where, by the way, a good many interesting things happen, which fills the quotation to a letter.

A certain young student (?) who had been duly self-impressed with his own ability, suggested that Prof. Melton put on the gloves with him. The Prof, kindly agreed, but in a few seconds found the youth so unskilled as to be uninteresting, and turned him over to one of his pupils to practice upon.

Now comes the point of this tale. It just so happened that the pupil to whom the vain youth had been given had, at the first of the term, been most unmercifully punched by the vain youth in perfectly friendly boxing match. The bout was not without interest, though one-sided. The pupil laid it all over his one-time superior. The interesting part of the bout laid not in the skill of the boxers, but the dumbfounded look of surprise which was shown in the chesty youth's countenance. The end can be conjectured.

Beg pardon, Napoleon, didst say aught of pride and a falling?

GYM TEAM.

At the last meeting of the Gym team, Berkeley Hedges was elected Manager and Captain. This is something new and is being tried to see how it will work. We know this will be a prosperous season, for a great deal of interest was shown in the team last year, and Mgr. Hedges will have several big events this season. At present a movement is on foot to have an inter-collegiate Gym Meet. The men out for the team are Hedges (capt.), Shelby, Porter, Crosthwaite, Thiesing, Short, Johnston, and several new men whose names could not be ascertained.

AN INTERESTING SCRAP.

The following account of the Freshmen-Sophomore bowl scrap, taken from the Daily Pennsylvania, is an interesting account of the novel ght there:

"To the average spectator at yesterday's Bowl Fight it appeared that the Sophomores had a greater number of men around the bowl, but when Head Marshall Wood and President Braddock counted the hands it was found that the Freshmen possessed 27 hands and their opponents 25, and as the first half had been won by the second year men, the fight was declared a draw. The first period was exceptionally short, but in the second half individual scraps were indulged in and the contest was decidedly less tame and uninteresting.

Though it was believed by many that both classes would enter the fight minus the services of their respective presidents, the Sophomores sprang a surprise at the eleventh hour and produced E. H. Shoemaker, their leader, just before the whistle blew.

The former rules governing the first half were slightly changed, it being the aim of the Freshmen simply to carry the bowl man between the goal posts at the west end of the field instead of having to put him over the wall. The Freshmen came on the field under the leadership of Vice-President Jourdet, their President, C. M. Coryell, being in the toils of the Sophomores, and they but slightly outnumbered their more experienced opponents.

The two sides were lined up twenty yards apart in the center of the field, and the Freshman bowl-man, G. L. Carey, was exposed. At the whistle he rushed back into the midst of his cohorts, while the Sophomores hurried the bowl directly under the goal posts. The Freshmen swept down the field with a terrific rush, and to better disguise himself Carey changed his jersey. It looked like an easy victory for the Freshmen, but when only ten yards from the goal, Carey burst from the crown in a final dash for the coveted place; he was easily captured by the Sophs and put in the bowl when but two minutes of the fifteen-minute half had expired.

After a few minutes respite while the marshals got the eager crowd back on the side lines, President Shoemaker and J. S. Smith, in charge of the bowl, were brought out before the lined-up sides. When the whistle was blown they rushed the bowl back into the midst of the Sophomores, who had locked arms and had started a rotary motion. The revolving was effective for long, however, and the Freshmen devoted their efforts to pulling out the Sophs. Many of the individual wrestling matches proved excellent side-shows, and gradually the combatants around the bowl were diminished more and more. The muddy field supplied an excellent wrestling mat, and at the call of time the many unique costumes had been rendered all the more ridiculous and unsightly. Injuries were exceptional, but bloody noses were everywhere in evidence. Fifteen minutes of fighting was indulged in, and after an extremely close and difficult counting of the hands, Chief Marshal Wood announced a draw.

On account of Shoemaker's absence for several days preceding the fight it was thought that he had been taken by the Freshmen, but he was in perfect safety all the while. It appears that he was a member of the party of seven that captured Coryell Sunday evening; in an automobile the successful party hastened to Trenton, and thence to Island Heights, where they boarded a small yacht on the Tom's river. In the meantime the Freshmen had been scouring the country for miles around in search of Coryell, but the only automobile that was anywhere on the right track was stopped because the car lacked a New Jersey license. Shoemaker and Coryell were closely guarded on the boat, and yesterday morning the former started for Philadelphia, accompanied by H. H. Morris and J. S. Smith. All went well until they arrived at Merchantville, where twelve Freshmen boarded the train. While his two companions held the door, Shoemaker jumped off the front end of the car, and, though one Freshman leaped through a window in pursuit. Shoemaker reached Philadelphia in safety by trolley, and thence to Franklin Field by taxicab.

Several hundred were present and the evening was immensely enjoyed and a much appreciated compliment to the team.

JUNIOR LEAGUE.

The Junior Mechanical Quoit League, whose polo grounds are in the rear of the M. E. Building, is playing a series of games to determine the championship of the League. At the end of the season the team having the highest percentage will receive the handsome pennant of the League to keep until the next season. The outcome is uncertain at the present time. The "Invincibles" started strong at the first of the season, but have dropped to second place, giving way to the mighty "Giants." The "Pirates" are leading the two mentioned teams a close race, being the first team to defeat the "Invincibles." The wonder of the last week has been the marked improvement of the "Prune Heads," who have taken a long stride toward the lead.

The percentage up to date is as follows:

Giants	700
Invincibles	666
Pirates	417
Prune Heads	400
Cubs	000

SOPHOMORE DANCE.

The annual sophomore dance was given Friday evening at the gymnasium in honor of the football team. The beautiful building was almost filled with members of the class of 1912 and their friends, who enjoyed the evening to the fullest extent.

The decorations were pretty and artistic and were in the class colors, cardinal and gray. The walls were hung with the colors and the figures "1912." The balcony rail was draped with gray and cardinal and hung with pretty ferns, which were also banked about the hall and before the orchestra rail. The setting was a beautiful one for this delightful gathering of young college people and the evening was a very happy one for all.

An orchestra furnished the music, opening with a grand march and followed by the dances with the following beautiful program of music:

society has held. Bradley Johnson's father was guest of honor and gave a very interesting talk about the
"ups and downs" of a miner's life.

Ray Moss gave a vivid description of the Cherry Disaster. After an ima new constitution and by-laws were adopted, the most important feature of the evening—a perfect feast of good things, sandwiches, croquettes, ham, pickles, olives, beaten biscuit, ice cream, cake, fruit, candy and cigars, all of these were heartily enjoyed by thirty-eight hungry miners.

The club though social in nature was organized for the purpose of aid-

faculty and the wonderful success was due largely to their efforts.

REAL NEWS.

There is plenty of clever writing in the big city papers, but no such clever writing as is found on the little sheet that has patent insides, goes to press at 5 p. m., Wednesday, and is out at the college on Thursday morning.

Now here is the reason, as we humbly see it. In the city nobody but the reporters and a few chance bystanders ever know a bit of news of their immediate knowledge. So they don't know whether what they are reading is true or not. At the University everybody has seen the accident before the reporter for the Idea gets there. Several hundred keen pairs of eyes will compare notes with the Idea's report on Thursday. Woe to the paper if it leaves out that So-and-So helped carry away the injured
one, for it sure will get "cussed out."

POLLY-COLLEGE CHAT

Beginning next year Michigan will have a full four year's course in journalism.

The Daily Maroon reports that Michigan is seeking to regain admission to the conference.

"The Duchess of Malfi" will be presented by the Coburn players at Brown university on January 7 or 8.

Forty candidates reported for practice at the first call for candidates for the Wisconsin basketball team.

The football series between the West and the East this year stands three wins for the West and one tie.

A post-graduate student at Washington was recently ducked in a pond for making insulting remarks about the senior class.

Northwestern university is encouraging the building of fraternity houses on the campus by offering free sites to the chapters willing to build.

The Daily Princetonian claims that compulsory chapel attendance "has lowered religious services to the level of class room exercises."

The authorities of the Colorado college have found it necessary to take action against betting on the campus because of too much indulgence in it by the students.

CO-ED BASKET-SHOOTERS DROWN ENMITY IN COCOA.

Junior and senior basket ball girls rested from their exertions after practice, Wednesday evening, by celebrating their prowess with a spread. Sitting tailor fashion around on the platform in the girls' gym in the armory with an improvised table formed of newspapers they broke all the rules of training and made sandwiches, ice cream, olives, cocoa, and fruit disappear as though the tournament were safely over. The coaches of the teams were guests of honor being awarded the only two chairs as a sign of this.

The lower class players and their coaches hung around the doors watching with longing eyes and forming resolutions as to future celebrations of their own.—The Minnesota Daily.

A course in aviation is considered at Wisconsin and they have an Aerial Navigation club. The style was set by the Wisconsin football team in the second half of the Minnesota game. Did they go up in the air?

Undergraduates who take their meals at the University Dining Club at Missouri are ned for the use of profanity while at the table. The proceeds will finance a banquet later in the year.

In Cleveland recently, two men from Case and two others from Reserve managed to slip onto the stage during a performance of the "Merry Widow" and joined in the famous "scene at Maxin's" with a zest that made the audience roar. The author of the stunt was George Ade, the playwright, who was in Cleveland to take part in the founding of a new Sigma Chi chapter at Case and Reserve.

The Legislature has given the University of Oklahoma $25,000 for the installation of a printing plant. It will be used by the college publications.

Chicago will soon erect an $800,000 library in memory of the late President William R. Harper.

From a round-about source we hear that Iowa had a bear for a mascot this year. This is the prize bear story of the collection.

Nebraska has fifty men out for cross-country running. Sure that's Bryan's state.

The men of Yale gave last year nearly $14,000 for the support of the Yale Mission college in China.
