Department of Mining Engineering,
Charles J. Norwood, Dean,
Professor of Mining.

Lexington, Kentucky, Feb. 7, 1906.

Pres. James K. Patterson,

Dear Sir:

Your notice of Feb. 5th., regarding the number of books and pamphlets in the Mining Department has been left here on the desk for Prof. Norwood but he has been away for a day or so and has not yet returned. Hence the delay of the response.

I have tried to count the number myself and have relied on my own judgment as to what books belong to the Department of Mining and not to the Geological Survey. I make the number about 145.

Very respectfully,

Garst Gardner
