Publication Tells Facts About State's Topo

A book of facts summarizing the topography of each of Kentucky's 120 counties has been published by the Kentucky Geological Survey (KGS) at the University of Kentucky.

The 76-page report, "Topography of Kentucky," by Preston McGrain and James C. Currens, contains county by county data on the highest and lowest elevations, local relief, elevations of certain significant and man-made features, and salient characteristics of the land surface.

"This is the first time a report like this has been prepared for the Commonwealth of Kentucky," said Dr. Donald C. Haney, state geologist and KGS director. "It was possible because Kentucky is completely covered by modern topographic maps."

According to McGrain, assistant state geologist, the information was compiled to provide answers to inquiries received by KGS from students, teachers, writers, editors, developers, land owners and others.

The publication reports, for example, that the highest elevation in Kentucky—4,145 feet above sea level—is a point on Black Mountain in Harlan County. The lowest elevation—260 feet above sea level—is in Fulton County where the Mississippi River leaves Kentucky.

The study is the result of detailed examination of the 779 topographic maps that cover Kentucky's more than 40,000 square miles. The report's text is accompanied by a number of small maps illustrating the diverse nature of the state's terrain.

Copies of the report may be purchased from the Kentucky Geological Survey, Room 6 Breckinridge Hall, UK, Lexington (40506), or Kentucky Department of Commerce Map Sales Office, 133 Holmes Street, Frankfort (40601).

The price, including packaging, postage and tax, is $2.45 per copy.

Medical Admission Policies At University Remain Unchanged Despite Senate Bill 41

The UK Board of Trustees has directed the administration of the University to refrain from any attempt to implement, enforce or apply provisions of a Senate Bill entered into law by the 1978 General Assembly.

The bill calls for a quota system of admittance to medical and dental schools based on congressional districts. Authors of the bill saw it as a way to increase the doctor population in rural areas. The bill, however, was not properly passed by the General Assembly yet was entered into law by clerical error.

Subsequently, the Attorney General of Kentucky has issued an opinion that the statute is unconstitutional and void for vagueness.

University officials at UK and the University of Louisville, the two institutions affected by this measure, opposed it as unnecessary and not the answer to the doctor shortage in rural areas.

Despite a greater increase in the number of urban applicants, this year's medical school class at UK admitted a greater number of students considered to have a rural background.

School Psychologists To Be Trained In New Program

Fifteen teachers from East Kentucky who are committed to function as school psychologists in rural areas will be invited to participate in a new training program sponsored by the University and funded by a $35,000 grant from the U.S. Bureau of Handicapped Children.

To be admitted, the teacher must already have a master's degree in guidance and counseling, special education, reading or curriculum. The student will attend evening courses at a local center once a week, and spend one Saturday a month at either UK or Morehead State University for more intensive learning sessions. Each student will receive $200 a semester to help defray tuition and book expenses, with an additional sum provided for the 1979 summer session.

Kernel Map Generates Alumni Compliments

Response to the campus map used on the cover of the Fall 1978 issue of The Kentucky Alumnus prompted some very complimentary feedback. Credit for the art work belongs to Lynne Funk, a senior architecture student. The Kernel used the map in a special orientation issue for new students.

Rupp years, will be depicted in the new Adolph Rupp-UK Basketball Museum to be situated in Lexington Center near the entrance to Rupp Arena.

The museum will feature photographs, trophies, other memorabilia, tape recordings and films which record some of the great University teams in action. Funds for the museum, approximately $200,000, will come from donations to be sought from the public. The museum's operational cost will come from a small admission charge, which may be as little as a dollar, said DeWitt Hisle, the museum committee's treasurer.

Charles Atcher, University archivist, has been retained by the museum committee to serve as curator until next August. He will serve as an advisor to the committee and oversee the inventory of memorabilia and the establishment of the museum.

Protecting Aircraft From Lightning

Research into ways that an aircraft's sensitive electronic equipment can be protected against lightning is being conducted at the University of Kentucky College of Engineering.

Dr. L. Wilson Pearson, assistant professor of electrical engineering, has received grants from the Office of Naval Research and the National Science Foundation to conduct the research.

Pearson's work is aimed at developing methods to study what is called "transient electromagnetic radiation"—a pulse of radio energy of very short duration caused, for example, by lightning or the detonation of a nuclear device.

Despite its short duration, the pulse can do severe damage to sensitive electronic equipment in airplanes, and even equipment in installations on the ground. The damage can "blind" navigation equipment or silence communications equipment.

A "ground plane" structure for Pearson's research has been attached to the outside wall of Anderson Hall, UK's College of Engineering building. The aluminum frame, which measures 18 feet by 20 feet, is bolted to the west wall at the sixth floor. It will be used for both instructional purposes and for the research in transient electromagnetic radiation. The structure provides a large flat surface which is a good conductor of electricity and will act as a "mirror" for electromagnetic waves.

Pearson explained that his work will be done on scale model aircraft which should produce valuable information to researchers in New Mexico who will conduct tests on a full size Boeing 747 aircraft at a later date.

Pearson's work is supported by the Office of Naval Research which provided a grant of $27,000 in 1977-78 and $69,000 in 1978-79. The National Science Foundation has provided additional support with a $23,000 permanent equipment grant.

"We believe that UK will have the best equipped ground plane facility in the country," Pearson said.

Rare Totem Pole Given to New Fine Arts Museum

A rare totem pole, acquired recently by the University art museum, is expected to be one of the major attractions of the new museum when it opens in the new Fine Arts Building. Priscilla Colt, museum director, said the pole is 20 feet long, is carved to depict animals, birds and strange creatures and painted in pastel colors. It was created by the Kwakiutl, a Northwestern Indian tribe.

The art work will be the focal point of the museum, placed in the huge central gallery, and is one of a number of major art works acquired by Colt since she became museum director three years ago.

Other major purchases include several pieces of pre-Columbian sculpture; a 12th century Peruvian textile, and a pair of Japanese screens, which Colt said already has been bringing some attention to the art gallery and to the University.

Jefferson Expands Learning Resource Center

A 24,000-square-foot addition to the Learning Resources Center at Jefferson Community College was dedicated in ceremonies Sept. 28 at the college.

The addition doubles the working space and includes new reading and study skills laboratories. The library has also been expanded, and the new building houses an audio-visual production center.

Crusade for Children Scholarship Program Completes 18th Year

For 18 years and an expenditure of $458,901 from the Crusade for Children, a telethon sponsored by WHAS, Louisville, the Department of Special Education has been training special education teachers on campus during the summer session.

Crusade scholarship have gone to 1,314 teachers from 90 countries since 1961, and Albert S. Levy, who helped organize the program, says the scholarships are eagerly sought by the state's special ed teachers.

Significant Activities Of Faculty and Staff

Dr. William Y. Adams, anthropology, has been named recipient of the 1978 Herskovits Award of the African Studies Association for his recently published book, "Nubia Corridor to Africa."

Joseph Baber, music, who wrote the music for the opera "Rumpelstiltskin," will see his composition performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra in December.

George Cheniae, agronomy, was chairman of a program on biochemical aspects of photosynthesis at the Gordon Research Conference in Tilton, N. H.

Wilbur Frye, agronomy, was cited for his service to the Soil Conservation Society of America during the society's meeting in Denver.

David Goldenberg, pathology, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Cancer Commission.

Emanuel Mason, educational psychology and counseling, received the Lightner Witmer Award for 1978 of the American Psychological Association and the Journal of School Psychology, during the association's recent annual meeting in Toronto, Canada. During the 1978-79 academic year, he will conduct research in cognitive development at the Catholic University in Nijmegen, the Netherlands, under a grant from the Ministry of Pure Science Research.

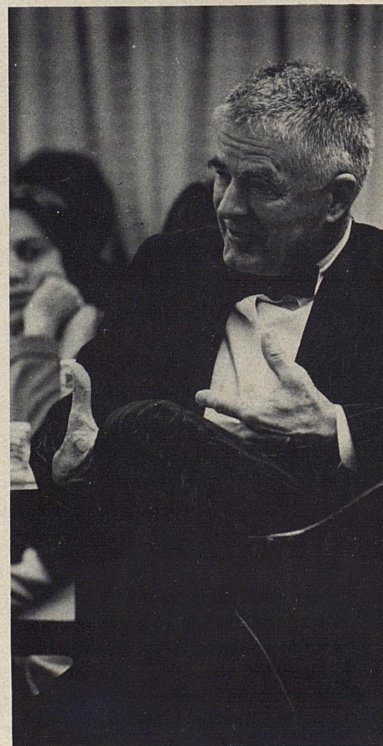

Joe B. Paulk, nutrition and food science, was named by the American Dietetic Association to its Joint Committee on Sanitation with the National Sanitation Foundation.

Alan Randall, agricultural economics, presented a paper on "Contingent Valuation Methods for Fish and Wildlife Resources," at the joint conference of American Fishery Society and Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Resources in Del Mar, California.

Arturo Sandavol's "Cityscape Number 3," a non-woven fabric piece, has been accepted by the Museum of Modern Art as part of its permanent collection.

Stanley Wall, community college system, has been named by the governor to the State Advisory Council on Vocational Education. He will serve as an ex-officio member of the board.

L. G. Wells, agricultural engineering, presented a paper at a meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers in Logan, Utah, this summer.

Some stellar personalities and academicians have been on the UK campus this fall. Lady Bird Johnson was here to take part in the presentation of the papers of former Congressman Earle Clements to the University. Above, Archibald Cox, former Watergate prosecutor informally addresses a group of UK law students.

1979 WILDCAT PROSPECTUS

The Kentucky Wildcats, who lost four stalwarts from the 1978 NCAA championship team, not only will feature new personnel, but possibly a new style of play.

Last year's team played power basketball at its best, but after losing four seniors (Jack Givens, James Lee, Mike Phillips and Rick Robey), Wildcat coach Joe B. Hall had indicated the '79 team likely will rely on speed, finesse and outside shooting.

Leading the Wildcats will be Kyle Macy, a 6-foot-3 All-American guard candidate, who was the settling factor in last year's championship drive. The "do-everything" floor general won All-Southeastern Conference honors, third team All-American honors and was selected MVP in the NCAA Mideast Regional Tournament. He averaged 12.5 ppg despite taking only eight shots a game and set a UK record with 178 assists. In addition, he ranked in the top five nationally in free throw percentage throughout the year and wound up leading the SEC.

Returning at guard is senior starter Truman Claytor (6.9 ppg), a 6-1 defensive gem who can hit the outside jumper, and two other experienced guards in 6-2 senior Dwane Casey (1.2 ppg) and 6-1 power playing Jay Shidler (3.7 ppg), who lost a starting slot after breaking his foot early last year.

The big question mark is the frontline, which was decimated by graduation losses. Leading contenders at forward are 6-6 junior LaVon Williams (1.9 ppg) and 6-8 sophomore Freddie Cowan (1.9 ppg), while 6-10 sophomore Chuck Aleksinas (3.7 ppg) has no real competition at center.

All three players have shown great promise and with increased playing time, could propel the Wildcats into title contention for the SEC's first post-season tournament since 1952.

Tim Stephens, a 6-3 two-year swingman, likely will move to forward to bolster a thin-in-number frontline.

Three freshmen who were named to various prep All-American teams are expected to jump into competition early in the year and a couple could gain starting berths.

They are 6-3 guard Dwight Anderson of Dayton, Ohio, who also could play small forward, and two forwards-6-7 Clarence Tilman of Philadelphia and 6-6 Chuck Verderber of Lincoln, Ill.

Coach Hall has a six-year 135-42 record at Kentucky, an average of 22.5 wins per year. In addition to last year's NCAA title, his teams have won an NIT title, a 1975 NCAA runner-up, and won or shared four SEC titles. □

TELEVISION TIMES

The University of Kentucky Basketball Television Network will feature three and possibly five live games in December, according to a joint announcement by UK Director of Athletics Cliff Hagan and WAVE-TV of Louisville, the network's flagship station.

Scheduled for Rupp Arena at 7:30 p.m. are the Cats' season opener against LaSalle, Dec. 2, and Kansas, Dec. 9. Kentucky's game at Indiana, Dec. 16, will tipoff at 2:05 p.m. EST.

Following customary procedure, the UKIT (Dec. 22-23) will be telecast only if the tournament is a sellout.

Seven games will be delayed telecast at 11:30 p.m. They are: Dec. 4 West Texas State; Jan. 8 Mississippi; Jan. 20 Tennessee; Jan. 22 Georgia; Jan. 27 Florida; Jan. 29 Auburn and Feb. 23 Vanderbilt.

The UK Network encompasses stations in four states; Kentucky, Indiana, West Virginia and Tennessee. Negotiations are currently underway to add a southern Ohio station to the Network.

In addition to the UK Network games, the Wildcats will appear twice on national TV-Dec. 30 vs. Notre Dame at Freedom Hall and Feb. 25 at South Carolina and five times on the Southeastern Conference TV Network-Jan. 3 at Florida; Jan. 6 LSU; Feb. 10 Alabama; Feb. 12 Mississippi State and Feb. 19 at Georgia. □

1978-79 LADYKATS OUTLOOK

The return of seven experienced players, plus a solid recruiting year, has University of Kentucky women's basketball Coach Debbie Yow looking with cautious optimism toward a 1978-79 season that she hopes will be as successful as last year, when the Lady Kats finished 23-12, won their first state crown, finished fourth in the AIAW Region II and third in the National Women's Invitational Tournament.

The only bad news is the void left by the departure of Pam Browning, the school's all-time scorer and rebounder.

But everything else seems to favor the Lady Kats. All seven returnees started at one time or another last year and two new freshmen plus three walk-ons also mean good news in the depth department.

Of the returnees, sophomore forward Maria Donhoff, (5-foot-11), has the most impressive statistics (12.5 ppg, 6.0 rbs.), followed closely by 5-8 junior forward Debra Oden, a strong rebounder (10.6). Both women, as well as Liz Lukschu, were busy last summer competing on the international level as representatives of the United States on touring teams. Janet Timperman (5-10, 8.4 ppg, 4.3 rpg), one of two seniors on the squad, will swing between forward and guard.

Returning to the backcourt is three-year starter Debbie Mack (5-3, 6.8 ppg, 3.5 assists), who will have support from junior floor leader Linda Edelman (5-10, 9.0 ppg, 3.3 rpg). Coach Yow expects this duo to shore up outside shooting that was a weakness last year. Additional aid in the backcourt will be sophomore Geri Grigsby (5-5, 7.8 ppg, 1.4 rpg), who is expected to be quicker and much improved.

The center position will be the weakest in depth as only 6-4 Lukschu (10.9 ppg, 6.2 rpg) returns. However, Donhoff will move to center and help relieve Lukschu when needed.

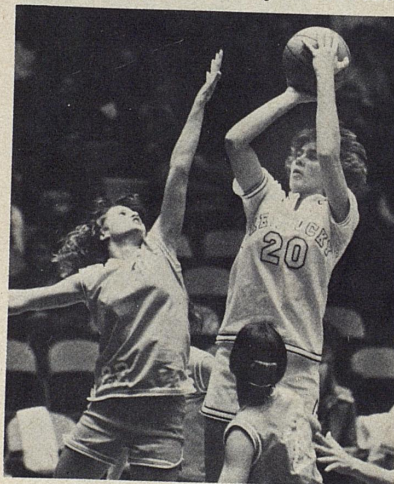

Immediate competition may be forthcoming from 5-10 freshmen Tanya

Fogle, a power forward who was state shot-put champion at Lafayette High School in Lexington, and 5-11 Caroline Huelskoetter, who will swing from forward to guard.

Bonnie Sizemore, Arlene Baluyut and sophomore transfer Denise Fetter round out the team as walk-ons. Their addition will provide quality depth at guard and forward positions.

The schedule for 1978-79, which has plenty of muscle and should prepare the Lady Kats for tournament play, includes such national powers as Tennessee, Old Dominion, Alabama and Mississippi State plus a special game with the Czechoslovakian National Team. Kentucky also will participate in two tournaments.

Band Singles Out Robert C. McDowell For Special Award

McDowell as a UK senior (inset) and leading the alumni band in 1973.

Robert C. McDowell '35, '43, '62H has distinguished himself as a concerned and generous supporter of the University of Kentucky. In October, he became only the third person to ever receive the designation "Distinguished Honor Bandsman" from the UK Bands.

This award is reserved for an alumnus or friend who has made significant contribution to the band over an extended period of time.

McDowell certainly qualifies. His association with the band began as an undergraduate scholarship student. For three years he served as drum major of the marching unit while pursuing his major studies in engineering.

An internationally successful businessman, McDowell was on hand in 1973 to lead the first alumni band aggregation onto the field at half-time, a performance repeated every other year since.

Recently he has sponsored several annual scholarships for marching musicians and throughout the years has shown a genuine interest in the band program.

Band director Harry Clarke said, "It is this genuine concern of his that impresses me. Because of his own experience in the band, recognizing how it helped him, he now wants to give others a similar opportunity."

While he was honored recently for his support of the band program, McDowell's support of the University runs much deeper. He is a Fellow in the Development program. He is a life member of the UK Alumni Association and contributor to the Century Fund. He has sponsored numerous scholarships in the College of Engineering. McDowell has also participated in an advisory capacity to the engineering college and served on the board of the University of Kentucky Research Foundation. His biography can be found in the UK Hall of Distinguished Alumni and "Who's Who in Engineering 1959."

In the business community, he is known internationally for his creativity in changing industrial processes and methods. His greatest achievements perhaps are (1) the turn key construction job method which enabled the efficient utilization of technically trained construction supervisors and (2) the McDowell method of iron making which was termed a major breakthrough in the industry.

After graduating from UK, McDowell worked for nine years before beginning his own company. Within a few years, the company had established a sound reputation for engineering and construction work for the basic industries, including steelmaking, mining, bulk materials handling and cement. In 1954, McDowell purchased the Wellman Engineering Company and its three operating divisions. The next year he acquired another company and its operating division. He continued to expand his enterprises acquiring two more companies in 1963 and just this year added a new corporate entity—Lewis (Rubber Injection) Molding Machinery Company.

McDowell is also a history buff, serving as president of the Western Reserve Historical Society of Cleveland, Ohio. □

1978—A VINTAGE YEAR

The success of many of the University of Kentucky's public affairs programs can be attributed in large measure to the efforts of the Alumni Association members and its staff. As a result of your efforts, the people of Kentucky have an even stronger awareness and appreciation for UK.

Through Association programs, Annual Giving and working for UK in various ways, you have demonstrated a loyalty and dedication that will insure the University's future. Your active participation as leaders and volunteers in our expanding alumni club program enables the University to "bring the campus" to your area and tell its story to a large and concerned audience.

Through the Association's splendid publications, supported by your membership dues, all alumni have the opportunity to enjoy a closer relationship with UK. The Association's many and varied activities, reunions, awards and travel programs create positive and good feelings for your University.

And, your National Association board of directors has provided a bank of talent and leadership that enables the Association to operate as an effective and progressive organization. It has insured that your concerns and interests are considered and met, but always with the University's welfare first. It has been a rewarding relationship for all.

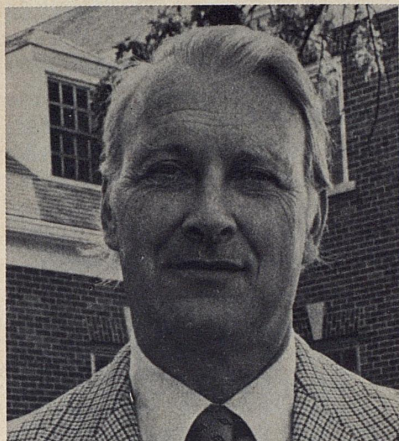

To Jay Brumfield, director of alumni affairs, and his staff, I extend my appreciation for untiring efforts in providing services for Association members, and for promoting the University. We value the dedication of National Alumni Association president Ted Bates, and look forward to working with president-elect John Owens in 1979.

For your support, we simply say thanks, and may the achievements of your University justify the decision you made to provide freely of your time and resources as a volunteer. Your contribution of dollars for scholarships, research and professorships, and your efforts in many other areas are sincerely needed and recognized.

With your help, succeeding alumni annual reports will be equally encouraging.

As all wine lovers readily know there are harvest years which are considered better, or worse, than previous years. These vintage years largely determine the value of the wine produced from such harvests and, of course, buyers look long and hard to locate wines from the best vintage years such as 1959, 1966 and apparently 1976.

At UK no year in all of our history can quite equal the "grand cru" vintage of last year, 1977-78! No one, even Governor Chandler himself, could visualize a combined won-lost record of 40-3 for the football and basketball teams! Ranking 6th in the final AP poll of football powers and capturing UK's fourth NCAA basketball championship was feat few universities can imagine, yet alone attain. It was truly the vintage of the century for us.

Your UK Alumni Association likewise experienced a great vintage year. Thanks partially to the national publicity garnered by the athletic program and the resultant pride of the alumni and friends who are avid supporters, membership in the Association has reached an all-time high—over thirty percent of the eligible alumni are dues-paying members of the Association.

While I am cognizant of the importance of winning athletic teams to the success of alumni programs, I am mindful that your University has enjoyed a rich heritage and proud traditions without winning athletic teams. Even when UK went 2-8 or 3-7 in football, UK fans were loyal, supportive and exhibited great pride in their alma mater.

In the past ten or twelve years, financial support of this University by a relatively small group of alumni and friends has reached unpredicted heights. The UK Fellows Program, initiated only in 1967, now has a total dollar commitment of over $16,000,000! For a state-supported institution located in a relatively modest income area, that figure speaks of great pride! But pride is also expressed in many other ways and as I move about this commonwealth and nation, I am reminded so often by so many that really good things are taking place at your University. Notable examples of achievement in academic programs, in service areas, in consulting and in individual achievements by our graduates and former students are expressed daily in the news media and by word of mouth.

Perhaps the most valid praise is that which comes from so-called outsiders because they have little to gain from "tooting their own horn". And it is this praise and these comments of genuine interest that makes me feel that the future of your University is not only in good hands but is a source of continuing self-esteem and a reason for your continued support and appreciation.

Club/Community Relations

Alumni clubs enjoyed a year of growth in numbers, 14 new ones, and increased activities, a total of 118, for Association members. Activities centered around athletics—including trips to football and basketball games. Derby parties are the most popular event with out-of-state clubs. However, two more clubs committed to scholarship programs, two pledged to sell LeRoy Neiman serigraphs (a fund-raising project for the University), and seven clubs participated in "UK Open Houses" that invited parents and prospective UK students to meet with officials from the University.

A trend is developing among clubs to actively pursue different programs, such as mixers for students, parents and alumni. However, most clubs continue to provide activities that entertain, or as the new club development theme "friend-raising" implies, activities that build goodwill for UK.

Many new volunteer leaders are being found through the club program. For example, more young alumni are organizing and directing clubs. Established clubs are rotating their leadership positions, therefore, fulfilling their responsibility to develop a broader base of support for UK. It is encouraging that more clubs are forming and "using" a board of directors (usually 10 to 15 members) by effectively delegating operating responsibilities. By continuing the trend to more varied programming and sharing the workload among more volunteers, clubs will better serve the University and Association and become more self-sustaining.

Continuing Education

The book discount purchase plan and tours abroad once again contributed to the continued practical education of a number of alumni. The biggest seller among alumni was "The Atlas of Kentucky" edited by P.P. Karan and Cotton Mather. The book has been highly touted by a number of critics for its content and design. Nearly 1,000 copies have been sold to our membership alone. In addition to the purchases of the "Atlas", members bought more than $7,000-worth of books at a 30 per cent discount from the University Press of Kentucky.

During 1978, the Association co-sponsored ten trips abroad. Pre-departure gatherings at the airport once again garnered enthusiastic responses from the tour participants. Pre-trip orientation sessions about foreign destinations were held for travelers to Great Britain and Russia. Altogether 497 Alumni members travelled with the Association in 1978. Switzerland in early October was the most popular destination followed by the trip to Great Britain in late May.

The trip, date and number of participants follows: Rio de Janeiro, January 28-February 5, 1978, 63; Moscow-Leningrad, January 30-February 7, 52; Peru-Ecuador, February 18-27, 13 and March 2-11, 8; Great Britain, May 30-June 7, 100; Scandinavia, July 10-23, 43; Tokyo-Hong Kong-Kyoto, August 19-September 1, 61; Imperial Europe, September 8-18, 10, and Switzerland, September 29-October 7, 19 and October 3-11, 128.

As evidence of the growing interest in alumni traveling together, the program has expanded from one trip in 1967 and another in 1970 to annual tours since 1972. In 1972, 1973 and 1974, there were two tours scheduled each year. There were four in 1975, nine in 1976, 12 in 1977, and ten this year.

Seven tours planned for 1979 include the West Indies in January, Austria in March, Hawaii in May, Ireland in July, a Rhine River cruise in August and Greece in October. For specific information about each trip write to Tours, UK Alumni Association, Lexington, Ky. 40506.

Homecoming, Fall Activities

An expanded agenda of alumni Homecoming activities distinguished Homecoming 1978. The Alumni House was open to receive visiting alumni at 8 a.m. The Association's double-deck English bus, Old Blue, made continuous tours of the campus from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. Brunch was served in the Student Center to a crowd of 412, double the usual number of Homecoming guests.

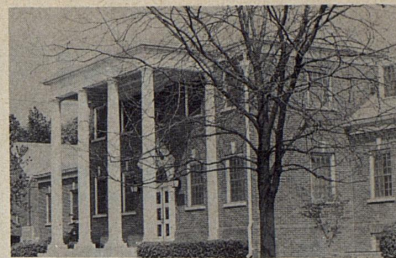

A special program, at the brunch recognized honorees of the 1978 Alumni Service and Great Teacher awards. UK President Otis Singletary also addressed the group. A bus caravan transferred guests between the Student Center and the game.

The Hyatt Regency Hotel became the focal point for post-game action. The Dick Baker Trio provided music at an early evening reception to round out the day's schedule.

For Parents

Membership in the Parents Alumni Council (PAC) increased 157 per cent. In February, PAC members attended a basketball game in Rupp Arena. Biannual issues of the "On Campus" report were sent in March and October. Planning was begun for a PAC weekend which will be held February 23-24, 1979. PAC weekend activities will be patterned after suggestions made by respondents to a PAC survey.

Publications

Increasing circulation of alumni publications continued to offset inflation as the production cost per copy of the Open Door was reduced from 3.7 to 3.4 cents each and the per copy production cost of The Kentucky Alumnus was reduced from 27.7 cents to 25.9 cents each.

Postal rate increases, however, rose drastically. The latest issue of the Open Door cost $1,181.15 to mail, an increase of 91 per cent over a year ago. Likewise, The Kentucky Alumnus postage charge last issue increased 55 per cent to $529.58. Circulation of the newspaper is 62,000; the the magazine, 19,000.

Reunions, Annual Meeting

More than 300 persons participated in the Annual Meeting and Reunion banquet May 10. Honored classes included 1918, 1923, 1928, 1933 and 1938. Each also held individual reunion functions at Spindletop Hall Alumni-Faculty Club. Members of the class of 1928 were awarded Golden Jubilee certificates to mark the 50th anniversary of graduation.

Fall reunions were scheduled for the classes of 1948, 1957-1958-1959, 1963 and 1968, in conjunction with home football games. A day's agenda featured a reunion gathering, the football game and Keeneland races for the three classes that met in October.

For Students

The Student Alumni Council has provided a means of reaching future alumni leaders while they are on campus. In its second year, the Council provides the Association with student hosts and hostesses for Homecoming and reunion activities. An active committee system planned additional activities to gain awareness for the Alumni Association on campus.

Student and Faculty Awards

Scholarships awarded through the UK Alumni Association totaled $8,650 and are helping more than 25 students attend college in the UK System. Each community college receives a grant and several main campus scholarships are sponsored by the Association.

The 1978 Great Teacher awards were presented to Dr. Harold Binkley, department chairman and professor of vocational education; Dr. M. Ward Crowe, professor of veterinary science; Dr. John W. Hutchinson, professor of civil engineering; Dr. William L. Matthews Jr., professor of law; Dr. Jon M. Shepard, professor of sociology, and William T. Turner, associate professor of history at Hopkinsville Community College.

Four of the great teachers—Binkley, Crowe, Matthews and Shepard—are all UK alumni.

One additional "alumni professorship" was established in 1978 bringing the total sponsored by the Alumni Association to five. To be named an Alumni Professor is a distinct honor that carries with it an annual stipend.

Dr. Sidney Ulmer, professor of political science, holds the newly created professorship.

Dr. Joseph Kuc, professor of plant pathology, was named to replace Dr. Steven Diachun, also a professor of plant pathology who retired June 30.

The other alumni professors are Dr. William L. Matthews, professor

Alumni Service Awards 1978

The Alumni Service Awards were first presented to selected recipients in 1961. Since that first year, 65 men and women have been singled out for this honor. Selection has traditionally been made by a committee of the Alumni Board of Directors and the recipients chosen on the basis of truly outstanding services to this Association and to the University. James W. Stuckert was chairman of the 1978 Alumni Service Awards selection committee and presenter of the awards.

"Ladies and gentlemen . . . as you must know, much of the work of this Association is carried on by volunteer workers. Our first recipient volunteered to help our Association grow and prosper many years ago. In addition to serving as president of a local club, our recipient has been a participating member of the National Alumni Board since 1969 and with her husband was a charter member of the Alumni Century Fund and now both are University Fellows. It is my privilege to acknowledge our appreciation for these years of support and help by recognizing MRS. SARA BUSHART of Fulton, Kentucky."

"Our next recipient is not only a personal friend of mine, but an easy going, cheerful man who has endeared himself to all who become associated with him in his professional work or work within our Alumni organization. A constant source of sound advice, our recipient spearheaded the reactivation of the Jefferson County Alumni Group in the late sixties and served as president of our most active alumni club for two years. He has served on the National Alumni Board for six years. He is currently a Board member of our University's Development Council and a valued member of the UK Fellows Executive Committee. I am extremely pleased to recognize ROBERT E. LEE, JR. of Louisville and Lexington."

"Our third recipient has directed our alumni club programs in Boyd County for many years. He has served on the Development Council since 1974, and is now, for the third straight year, serving as volunteer chairman of the Alumni Annual Giving Program. The program, under his leadership, has been recognized nationally by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. He has demonstrated in a remarkable way his loyalty and concern for this splendid institution. While he will be honored tomorrow as a recipient of an honorary degree, we are extremely proud to present to him tonight the Alumni Service Award. Will BOB MC COWAN of Ashland please step forward?"

"The committee is permitted to give an Alumni Service Award to a non-alumnus whenever there is a worthy candidate. The committee feels that the person who will be presented now is indeed worthy of this award. While a member of the University family and involved in so many official responsibilities, our recipient handles these duties, and even chores, with a delightful smile and enthusiastic grace and charm. As a life member of the Association and one whose interest in our group is deeply appreciated by all, I am indeed pleased to recognize MRS. GLORIA SINGLETARY." Dr. & Mrs. Singletary become the first couple to receive this award for their individual support of the alumni program.

Dr. Glenn U. Dorroh who's practiced medicine in Lexington for 32 years helped guide the city's commitment to public health care. In recognition of his efforts, the newly constructed Health Center, right, was named in his honor. Below, Dr. Dorroh is shown receiving the Alumni Service Award in 1976. The presentation was made by Judge Robert Spragens, left, committee chairman that year. Involvement in alumni affairs has been another continuing interest of the doctor.

Last month the city of Lexington paid tribute to a unique man when it dedicated its newly-constructed Health Center to Dr. Glenn U. Dorroh '25.

Though a busy doctor in private practice in Lexington for 32 years, Dr. Dorroh has left indelible marks on the community health of the city, on Good Samaritan Hospital, on the U.S. Army, the University and the UK Alumni Association, and not the least, on his family where obvious loving relationships exist.

Dr. Dorroh, a native Kentuckian from Princeton, realized at a very early age that he wanted to become a medical doctor. He became interested at first from watching his two uncles who were in the profession. He attended Caldwell County, Kentucky grade schools and graduated from Princeton High School in 1920.

Dr. Dorroh then came to Lexington to attend the University of Kentucky and find work. Good Samaritan Hospital employed Dr. Dorroh in 1921. The Doctor remembers one of his first jobs for the hospital was raking the leaves on the hospital grounds. Also to help pay his expenses he found employment with the C&O railroad in the summer months.

It was during this time of working and going to school he met his future wife, Ella Pearl Neal. Dr. Dorroh and Miss Neal graduated from UK in 1925 and married a year later.

To realize his ambition to become a doctor he then enrolled in the School of Medicine in Louisville, Kentucky in 1927 and graduated in 1931 with an M.D. degree.

Mrs. Dorroh taught school to help her husband finance his schooling. The couple came back to Lexington once more to live because of Dr. Dorroh's internship at Good Samaritan Hospital from 1931-1932.

In 1932, Dr. Dorroh entered the service of his country as a Commissioned First Lieutenant in the Medical Corps. When he retired from the military service in 1961 he had obtained the rank of Colonel.

His work in the military service earned for him a selective service certificate of appreciation from President Eisenhower in 1957 and two certificates of appreciation from President Nixon, on in 1967 and the other in 1972. In addition, he received a Citation in 1959 and a selective service medal and ribbon in 1972.

Dr. Dorroh has meant much to the community of Lexington and its progress in health care. Through his innovative leadership the Fayette County Medical Society Foundation was formed in 1964. Funds accrued from the Sabin vaccine project were used to institute the Blood Bank in 1964, and also to assist the "Stop Measles Campaign" conducted in 1968.

The foundation, for which Dr. Dorroh served as president from 1964-1967, is still actively servicing the area. The Central Kentucky Blood Center is also very active today and has served as an example for the nation on the role the Medical Society can play in instituting programs. As chairman of the local Board of Health, he has helped guide the department to continuously expand its regulatory and service functions, attempting to keep pace with the rapid expansion of population and industries in the Lexington area.

He has served two terms as president of the Good Samaritan Hospital Medical Staff since he started his practice in Lexington in 1946.

Good Samaritan Hospital has been very much a part of Dr. Dorroh's life. He remembers in the years he has been coming to the hospital he has seen the change of six administrators and the hospital increase from 100 beds to the modern 298 bed hospital it is today.

The achievements and awards that have been mentioned are but a few of the highlights in the illustrious doctor's career.

Dr. Dorroh is a Fellow of the University of Kentucky, having contributed generously to its financial support.

He is also a life member of the UK Alumni Association. While serving as president of the Association in 1963-1964, the Association adopted its first policy of elected representation on a national basis; the concept of annual giving was adopted by the University, and the Helen G. King Alumni House was dedicated.

Dr. Dorroh has been faithful in supporting the Association with his presence and has been available for counsel throughout the years.

The Association staff and alumni friends shared the doctor's sadness in the recent loss of his wife in mid-October.

Mrs. Dorroh was a unique lady and a perfect complement to the good doctor. Always in good humor and with twinkling eyes, the two together exhibited a "newly-wed" delight in each other's company.

The Dorrohs lived in Lexington for thirty-three years and are the parents of two children, Wilma Jean and Glenn, Jr. Glenn, Jr., his wife and three children, Elizabeth Ann, Brooks Glenn and David Lee live in San Diego, Calif. Dr. Dorroh's son teaches school in California and the grandchildren, Elizabeth Ann and Brooks Glenn, attend colleges there. David Lee is in grade school.

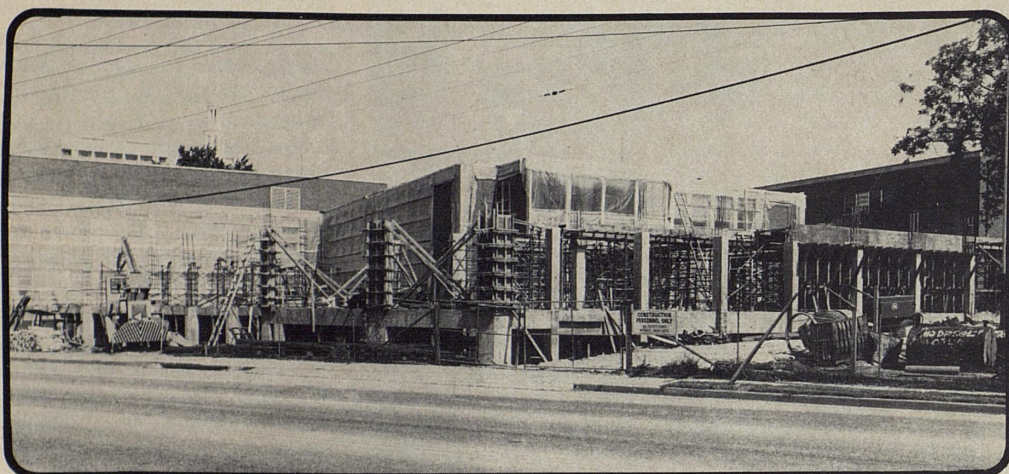

Wilma Jean is now Mrs. William E. Ashbrooks and resides in Lexington. The Ashbrooks have two daughters, Debbie and Pam, who like their grandfather, have been interested in health care and have devoted much time working at Good Samaritan Hospital as volunteer Candy Strippers. Debbie is a past president of the Candy Strippers' organization having served as the organization's president for two years. Currently Debbie is getting pre-med training from Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, and her younger sister, Pam, is a sophomore at Henry Clay High School. Dr. Dorroh takes great pride in looking to the future when Debbie will be practicing medicine as a pediatrician or in cancer research.

NEW FACADES ON CAMPUS

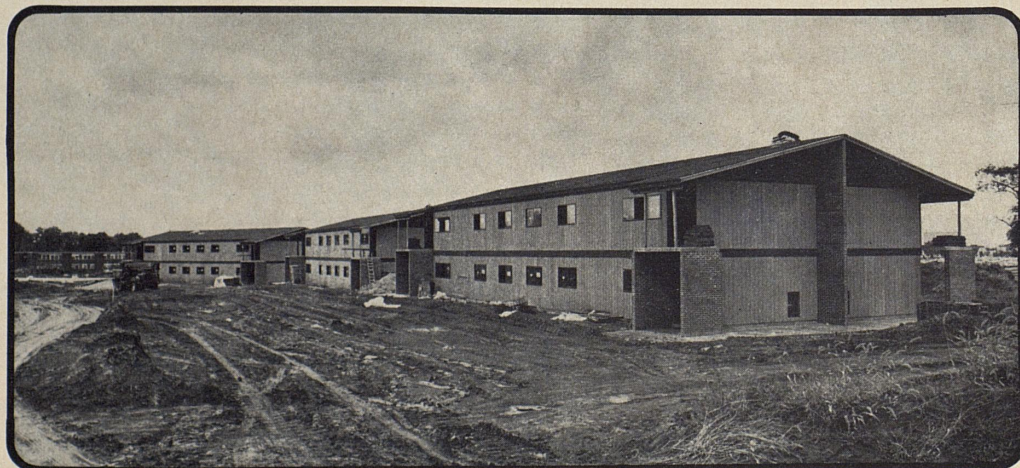

Photos by Bill Wells

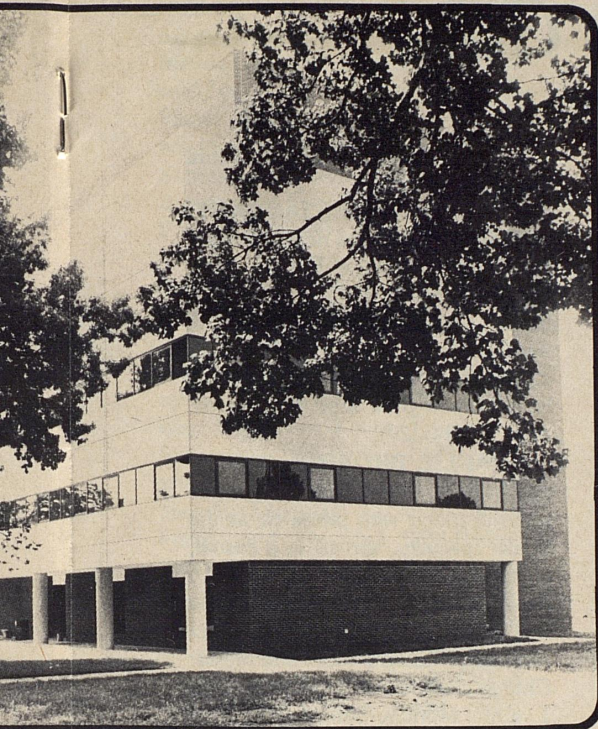

LAW The College of Law addition when completed next fall will add much-needed space to the present building. The new area will allow for a larger library plus some new office, classroom and lounge space. Better facilities for the handicapped also are included in the new construction.

AGING The Aging Center on the south campus will soon be ready for occupancy. The new building will provide a modern facility for the Medical Center's aging population.

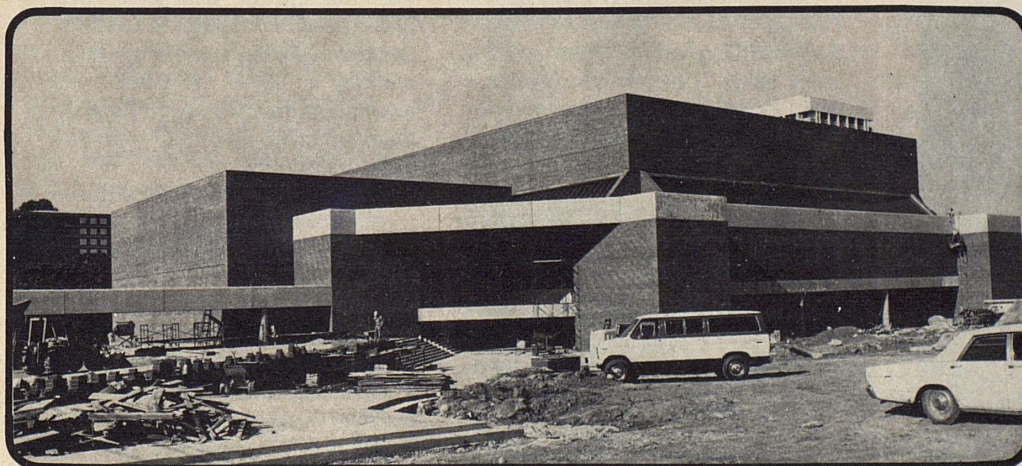

HOUSING The new housing complex is well under way on the south campus near the Shawneetown area and should be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1979. Twenty-five two-story apartment structures will provide 200 units of housing for 600 single students and 50 units for married students and their families.

AGING The Sanders/Brown Research Center on Aging building will house facilities for research on the biology of aging. Expected to be open soon, it is on Limestone Street near the Medical Center.

NURSING The College of Nursing-Health Sciences Learning Center is being occupied this fall. It is across Rose Street from the Chandler Medical Center.

FINE ARTS The Fine Arts Building at Rose Street and Euclid Avenue will have an art museum, 1,500-seat concert hall, exhibition space and recital hall. It should be ready for occupancy next fall. Excellent acoustics are a special feature.

Now Many Places To Go

It is now possible to dine around Lexington. In recent years a number of quality restaurants have opened, offering a variety of cuisine and prices.

If you want fast foods, there are at least one of the usual franchises around—McDonald's, Wendy's, Judy's, Burger King, Queen, Chef and Broil, Long John Silver's and Captain D's, Arby's, Dairy Queen, Famous Recipe and Kentucky Fried Chicken, Gold Star Chili, Lott's Prize Sandwich Shoppe, Taco Tico Zantigo's and Weiner King.

Then there are the specialty shops—Western Sizzlin, Ponderosa, Mr. Steak and York steak houses, the pizza places—Pizza Hut, Sir Pizza, Domino's, Pasquale's and others; the cafeterias—Morrison's Blue Boar, King's able, Duff's and Forum—and family restaurants like Jerry's, Frisch's, Starlite and Blue Grass.

But, for dining out, instead of just eating out, consider these choices:

Paul Keen Day

The Washington, D.C. - UK Alumni Club honored a member who has been instrumental in the club's operation which has been continuous for more than 50 years. Paul Keen Appreciation Day was held October 11 among accolades from University officials and alumni.

D. C. club president Phil Thompson and honoree Paul Keen.

Paul Keen is not one who forms associations lightly. His concept of a meaningful relationship is one whose duration is measured by a sizeable cluster of decades.

ITEM. While studying law at the University of Kentucky in the mid-1920s, he joined the professional fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta. He still is an active member.

ITEM. In 1927, as a young attorney newly arrived in Washington, he went to work for the District of Columbia government. At retirement 42 years later, his employer still was—and had been continuously—the District government.

ITEM. While still a newcomer to the capital, he became a member of the Kentucky Society of Washington and the UK Washington-Area Alumni Club. Half a century later, he remains a member in supremely good standing of both organizations.

ITEM. He and Mrs. Keen—the former Sarah Anne Howell of Ozark, Alabama—are marking their 45th wedding anniversary this year.

By these standards, his association with the Washington Civitan Club is not yet at an advanced stage. He has been on its membership roster only 38 years.

Mr. Keen's formula for maintaining such lasting alliances is a poorly kept secret. Stated simply, he makes himself thoroughly indispensable. This status he achieves primarily by the exercise of two qualities: a distinct flair for leadership and an unusual affinity for work.

That combination has catapulted him into an astonishing array of jobs—including the presidency of both the Kentucky Society of Washington and the UK Washington alumni group—and has earned him more honors than he can remember. Among the more memorable ones, he modestly concedes, are the University of Kentucky Alumni Service Award, presented in 1971, and the fact that he holds a club, district and international Honor Keys bestowed by the Civitan Club—one of only three persons so honored. On three occasions, too, he has been the official representative of his Alma Mater at the inauguration of presidents of other universities.

The personal credo that has governed Paul Keen's life for the better part of eight decades is a simple one—in part, at least, a legacy from his physician father and a clergyman grandfather. He gave it formal expression several years ago in a letter to a University of Kentucky editor. "I firmly believe," he wrote, "there is nothing wrong with the world that could not be cured by practice of the Golden Rule and self-discipline, beginning in the home and continuing through all segments of life."

In the years that have passed since he put down those words, nothing has occurred to change his mind. In all segments of Paul Keen's life, those principles remain paramount.

A Vintage Year

of law; Dr. Jacquelyn Noonan, chairperson of the department and professor of pediatrics, and Dr. Charles Roland, professor of history.

Membership, and Finance

The roster of members of the UK Alumni Association exceeded 21,000 in 1978. Annual memberships account for 45 per cent of the Association's operating revenue. The life membership investment fund exceeded $500,000, generating interest and dividends of approximately $27,000.

Total records kept by the UK Alumni Association number 90,589. Approximately 20 per cent represent deceased alumni. Another 13 per cent do not have valid addresses. Graduates number 59,815. Former students and associates account for the remainder.

Operating revenue from all sources in 1977-78 amounted to approximately $176,000; expenditures were approximately $227,000. Funds were transferred from the life membership investment account to the operating account in accordance with Association policy to cover the deficit.

Major items of expense were printing, mail room and publication costs (21 per cent), salaries (19 per cent) and postage and freight (14 per cent).

Coopers & Lybrand of Lexington, the University auditors, completed an annual inspection in August. A copy of the auditors' report is filed at the UK Alumni House where it is available for perusal.
