PLANS FOR A POST-WAR WORLD—II

A Second Chance Comes

By Bob Ammons
EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second in a series of articles...

at, and something to begin planning for right now.

It would be absurd for me to propose any immediate solution to the problems of, say, India, international finance, judgment of aggressors, or administration of colonies, because I just don't know enough about them.

However, whatever decisions are made now or in the future must be guided by this concept of an interesting world and the solutions reached must be considered in the light of their advantage to the whole world...

Not only the influential people, who will make the decisions, but also the little people—the drug store clerks and traffic policemen and bookkeepers—who will give the decisions their force, must come to this idea of a world political unity.

I believe that this international idea is a definite something which can be fostered and nourished liberally by the men who see its necessity, and the responsibility for it is on their shoulders.

I believe that there are great numbers of trained and capable men who would be able to form a staff of advisers, and I believe that the majority of these are of the personality and mentality which would encourage them to override national feelings and give their loyalty to the international organization.

Last, as my final major principle, I would call for a guarantee of security for all nations, large or small. Disarmament alone can no longer save us, as we know by now, but it can help.

The small nations must be given the assurance that they will not endanger themselves by joining with the other nations in cooperative security.

These then are my basic principles: first, a supra-national authority and a realization of loyalty to a political unity higher than the individual nation; second, a planned world trade of cooperation of nations rather than competition; third, a guarantee of security for the common man everywhere in the world; fourth, a friendly, cooperative union of trained corps of skilled and territorial advisers; and fifth, a guarantee of national security to all members of the higher organization.

Now, let me give you in a hurry that I have no illusions of anything like that is going to come about immediately after the war is over. I have no illusions of the Constitution of the United States. By that time, much, but rather is a close of hostilities, but rather is a close of hostilities, but rather is a close of hostilities...

WISE... and Otherwise

By BOB AMMONS

With all the solemnity of a freshman at his first fraternity initiation, we have been undergoing for the past week a strange ritual called Getting In Shape, and O friends, at this point we're almost at the end of our rope.

Like a repentant sinner—seeing too late the folly of his ways, we are compelled to tell you about it today, with the hope of saving perhaps one lost soul before we pass into the regions of utter darkness.

Now, Getting In Shape, we'd better explain, is an abnormal state for us. Normally we shun diversions of that sort as we would shun a dog with mange, but we were tempted by several of our associates—pre-eminently the military department—and by advertisements on Developing the Body Beautiful.

Once inside those swinging doors, let us warn you, are you lost forever. Here you will find other people, whom you once knew as human beings, who will lure you into such things as Basketball, Handball, Badminton, Touching the Tocs, and an activity which sums up all manner of evil-Calithenics.

The secrets of Getting In Shape is one familiar to boozemongers and dope-peddlers the world over. While you're at it, everything seems just fine. Basketball, for instance, is actually enjoyable, and such things as Punching the Bag are pleasant ways to pass your time.

After it's over, friends, ah, then is when you pay the price. After just one week, we are already being fitted for a size 16 man's shoe.

After you have devoted two or three weeks of an otherwise pleasant life to Getting In Shape, they tell me now, you have to go through the same thing from that day until you die in order to keep In Shape.

If you can figure out the percentage in that, you may write my heels and tell them about it. I don't think I'll be here to talk to them.

Calling All Kentucky Coeds

"Vim, Vigor, and Victory" will be the call to exercise this spring for Kentucky coeds as Mortar Board launches a program of physical fitness on the campus.

In accord with governmental beliefs for a civilian population tops both mentally and physically, the senior honorary will inaugurate a concerted drive for health and exercise with an announcement at the Women's Banquet next week.

Kentucky women will join with others throughout the country in their efforts to keep the home front free from sickness and disease, mentally alert, and able to carry on important wartime tasks.

Individual exercises, group play, and tournaments in various sports are planned under the direction of Miss Barbara Feiker and Miss Margaret Warren, of the physical education department.

Recommended are eight hours of sleep, three regular meals a day, and one hour of exercise.

There is nothing compulsory about the program. It will be entirely up to the individual to decide what part she will take. The call to health should be considered not only a duty but an opportunity.

The underdeveloped eyes, the gaunt frame, and the overplump figure do not fit in with the picture of a country at war, demanding the most of its citizens. Women must realize that their personal charm is not enhanced in these times by an appearance of feminine frailty or dissipation.

With many women planning to join one of the various women's auxiliaries upon graduation, the group activities will afford an opportunity for hardening the body for the vigors of military life previous to induction.

Posters and charts will be placed at vantage points on the campus every week for the first of the quarter to show recommended exercises for individuals.

Points for participation in the different events will be given to sororities, dormitory groups, and teams. Mortar Board will present a prize to the most active.

We are being called upon from all sides for contributions to the war effort. The call for health is a contribution which we can make directly to ourselves as well as to our country.

Are We Worthy Of This Country?

How much time are you devoting to the war effort?

Every hour that we spend in class or recreation an American soldier is dying on foreign soil. He is paying the supreme sacrifice so that students like you and I may have the opportunity and the privilege of remaining in school and finishing our education. We have expressed our desire to finish our education by returning to school, but we don't seem to be doing our part in America's victory program.

Many committees have been formed, chairmen have been appointed, workers have volunteered, but there is a distinct lack of interest among the groups. A few members of the committees will give valuable time to their work while the others forget their jobs; the chairmen organize their work and urge their members to attend meetings and carry out their orders; volunteers show up for the first few meetings, collect a little money, and then forget about it.

The War Bonds and Stamps committee is to be commended for its work because latest figures show that it has exceeded the quota set for the University. Yet, probably the figures show that some individual records exceed others. That happens on most committees, yes, but it is showing more in war effort committees than anywhere else.

Volunteer work in home nursing courses is growing steadily, but when the idea was first instituted there were few volunteers. It has taken enthusiasm and encouragement among the members of the first group to make that number rise. There should have been an overflow of volunteers from the very first and it should have been that way right along.

Few have joined Red Cross workers in the knitting of garments for the men in the armed forces, but this appears as the one requiring the least time of all. Several inches of knitting may be done in leisure time on a sweater or socks for the men.

These are mentioning specific examples of war work. But where are we falling down elsewhere is in concentration in school work. We have been accustomed in the past to letting class work go until the last minute when we try to write three term papers and take four exams all in the last few days of the semester. All that is changed, now. Or at least it should be.

If we will only realize that we cannot idle through school, that we are to lay aside unnecessary recreation and buckle down to our work, we will be profiting greater from our education. That's what we're here for.

As well as being unfair to the men who are fighting for our freedom, our rights, and our privileges, it is unfair to our parents who are sacrificing that we might be in school.

One of the greatest evils of our "business as usual" education is excessive cutting of classes. We realize now that the quarter system brings with it more work and more class meetings than the "old" system. We realize now that we are really missing important work when we cut a class. As well as being the loss of a day's lecture, it is the forming of a bad habit, one hard to break after we are out of school.

We can't keep on being selfish co-eds and Joe Colleges. There's a war to be won. We have been knocked in the face with it by having most of the boys taken into the service recently. But it looks like we have to hit and hit again before we understand that we, too, have sacrifices to make.

Are we worthy of the sacrifice that American soldiers are making?—A. W.

What Goes On There...

By JANET EDWARDS

Spring is a dangerous subject to living faces with celluloid, under discussion around the University of a living skin, has been developed. Krastucky where a three-foot blizzard wouldn't be at all unusual at this late date. Nevertheless, the word seems to be conventional so here are some ideas—

The "Oredigger" from Golden, Colorado sets the unusual interpretation that "digging" is the time when a young man's fancy turns to a thing that is immoral, illegal, or fattening.

Coeds from Omaha, Nebraska stated several effects that spring fever had upon them. One girl wanted to get a crew cut. Another had a desire to play jacks in front of the Administration Building. Another wanted to make a parachute jump and another just sighed and said, "I can't think of a thing unless—well, I would like to come to school in my bare feet!"

At the Tulane University School of Medicine a new method of re-

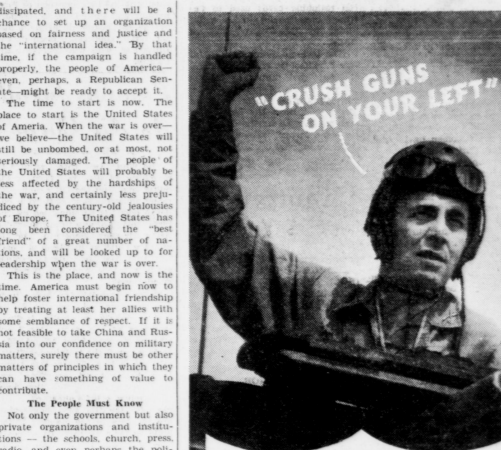

"The Plainman" sends in this catchy bit of poetry—

Late to bed, early to rise
Makes a man sassy,
And baggy
Under the eyes!

Dates with co-eds at the University of Oregon are becoming fewer and far between. In fact, due to the shortage of everything a normal college campus has to offer, all dates are put on the same basis as sugar, gasoline, etc.—rationing. Ration books are issued bearing the person's name, record, and a specified number of coupons, according to his scholastic standing. Books must be presented to each representative in the fraternity houses before the bearer is allowed to buy on a date, and all books are taken out from any student who misses the coupon. That's just carrying the idea too far!

Goal To Shoot At

Now, let me give you in a hurry that I have no illusions of anything like that is going to come about immediately after the war is over. I have no illusions of the Constitution of the United States. By that time, much, but rather is a close of hostilities, but rather is a close of hostilities, but rather is a close of hostilities...

FIGHTING WORDS

delivered by Western Electric Radio

Wherever American soldiers ride into battle in roaring "hell hoggies," they get their orders over radio telephone sets. So do pilots of Army bombers and fighting planes—and the commanders of the Navy's deadly PT boats.

The Signal Corps needs great quantities of field telephones, wire and switchboards to get the message through. Aboard large naval vessels are battle announcing systems and seagoing telephones.

Sixty years of experience in making Bell Telephone gave Western Electric the "know how" in special equipment that helps "em in contact."

Women Students To Entertain For Service Men

The women students of the University will entertain men in the armed forces with an informal dance from 9 to 12 p. m. Saturday in the Bluegrass room of the Union building.

Invitations have been issued to the 1928th Service unit stationed at the Phoenix hotel and to the Stoper station and to all enlisted men stationed at the Lexington Signal depot. The Air Corps trainees stationed at Transylvania college were also invited, but will not be able to attend because of quarantine.

During the evening there will be a floor show presented by Frank Fowler's volunteer entertainers.

It is necessary for students attending this dance to bring some student identification to present at the door. The dance will be both girl and boy break. All women are urged to come early and to feel free to ask the boys to dance and to cut in on the dancers. Miss Rebecca Van Meter, social director of the Union, said.

Chaperons will be Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women; Miss Jan Haeled, assistant dean of women; Miss Kitty Conroy, teacher in the Training school; Miss Barbara Jean Peller, instructor of physical education; Mrs. Elizabeth Moores and Miss Bess Mayes, employees at the Campus Book Store; Miss Mary Denton McChesney, an ex-student; Miss Rosalie Oakes, secretary of the YWCA; and Mrs. Eugenia Williamson, post mistress at Patterson hall.

ALUMNI NEWS THEN and NOW PERSONALITIES

Leon L. Calvert, Georgetown, has been commissioned a second lieutenant and graduated as bombardier at Midland, Texas.

He has completed twelve weeks of schooling, covering the entire field of aerial bombardment. In ground school, he learned bombing theory, much of it so secret that classroom notes were burned.

During his course, he bombed a scale-model Tokyo, simulated enemy battleships, replicas of Nazi factories.

Lieutenant Calvert attended the University in 1941 and 1942 and was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Pvt. Douglas K. Brown, former student in the commerce college, has arrived at the University of Alabama, Tusculosa, for a course of instruction lasting approximately five months prior to his appointment as an aviation cadet in the Army Corps Flying Training command.

During that period he will take numerous academic courses, as well as elementary flying training. Upon completion of the course, he will be classified as a navigator, pilot, or bombardier.

John W. Smith, Lebanon, has been graduated as bombardier at Midland, Texas, and has been commissioned second lieutenant.

Lieutenant Smith was graduated from the University in 1941.

Lieut. Clifford E. Sackelien, Milton, and Lieut. Henry M. Walker, Maysville, have been graduated as

Coach Shively's Baseballers Will Open Season on Friday

Vanderbilt Is First Foe Of 13 Scheduled

Balmy weather, a warm sun, and Bernie Shively's zealotry have the UK baseballers well on the road to being a well conditioned nine when the homebatters open the season next Friday.

In contrast to former seasons when the squad was confined indoors for the pre-season practice, the Wildcats have worked outside every day except two and have absorbed the benefits of a warm spring sun.

EDWARDS, SALE NAMED IN POLL Coaches Choose All-Time Cagers

Leroy Edwards, former UK basketball center, ranked second only to Purdue's famed "Stretch" Murphy at an all-time, all-American pivotman in a poll conducted by coaches from the five major sections of the nation.

Forrest (Aggie) Sale, former Wildcat captain, who also performed at center, was listed as first from the honor roll mention group. Besides Murphy, the all-time, all-American first team included Frank Luisetti, Stanford, and Ed Chuck Ryan, Pittsburg, forwards; Andy Phillip, Illinois, and John Wooden, Purdue, guards.

The second five listed Ashworth Thompson, Montana State, and Forrest D. Bernardi, Westminster, forwards; Edwards at center; Paul Endacott, Kansas, and Vic Hanson, Syracuse, guards.

Coaches Adolph Rupp, University basketball coach, and Ed Diddle, of Western State Teachers college, represented the south in the poll.

Receiving honorable mention: Forwards, Moir, Notre Dame; Adams, Arkansas; Shultz, Temple; Brookfield, West Texas State; Kirkpatrick, Baylor; Vaughan, Southern California; Ebert, Dartmouth; Davis, Seton Hall.

Centers, Sale, Kentucky; Kinney, Rice; Schommer, Chicago; Holt, Oklahoma; Glanack, North Carolina. Guards, Carney, Illinois; Pickell, Arkansas; Wagner, Washington; Eggleston, Oklahoma A. and M.; Moers, Texas; White, Purdue; Ryan, Utah State, and Harvey, Colorado.

We Will Have Basketball Next Year, Coach Rupp Says

By Betty Tevis "We will have basketball next year—no question about that." Thus spoke Adolph Rupp, baron of Kentucky's mighty basketball team.

Further elaborating the possibilities for next year's team, Coach Rupp mentioned several of the big names in the recent state high school tourney. Definitely set to enroll are Joe Holland of Benton and Truitt deMoisey, "Preppy" deMoisey's brother, from Walton.

Considering attendance here are trainer and Zoeller of St. Xavier, second-seeded team of the state. Other boys are also considering UK, and with these 17-year-olds, Rupp expects to produce a crown-contending team.

Beginning Tuesday evening in Jeffersonville, Indiana, home-town of star Marvin Akers, Coach Rupp will make a series of speeches and interviews possible students with athletic skill. Harlan and Bedford counties are also included in the itinerary. On his return, Rupp will be in a more informed position to talk of Kentucky's net chances for 1943-44.

"The University of Kentucky possibly will not have as powerful a team as in the past," concluded the basketball mentor, "but we will have a team next year."

KERNEL SPORTS The Sporting Way

By ROY STEINFORT

If Stanley A. Boles has been the Daddy to the Athletic department, then Mrs. Katherine Worthington must be the adopted Mother of Wildcat athletes.

Twenty-five years ago yesterday, April 1, 1918, when this country was engaged in the first half of this World War, Miss Katie, as she is affectionately known, arrived here as the Athletic department secretary.

Now in 1943, with the United States enveloped in another supreme struggle, Miss Katie celebrates the beginning of her first position with the University.

As secretary to the Athletic department, Miss Katie remained until 1931 when she resigned to accept a new post. A year ago, Mrs. Greenwood Cooanougher, resigned her position of secretary to instruct pilots for "Uncle Sam."

Miss Katie Returns Bernice A. Shively was perplexed, but not for long, as to whom would succeed Mrs. Cooanougher.

Miss Katie returned from her chores as a housekeeper to assist Athletic Director Shively. She said she would be glad to help out during the war when secretaries are placed at a premium.

"It's a little different now than it was a few years back," Miss Katie admits. Now during the off-seasons she has one assistant and during football and basketball seasons she is assisted by a staff.

Besides being the secretary when Miss Katie first came here, she had to aid students who participated in athletics with their books.

Was A Nurse, Too "I've helped many a boy through college," Mrs. Worthington proudly says. "I've even helped nurse some of the boys when they were sick."

During the flu steps of 1918, Miss Katie turned nurse and assisted the doctors with the special trainees and students who were on the campus at the time.

Miss Katie had planned only to stay a short while with the Athletic department in 1918. "I had taken an ambulance course with the Red Cross and was going overseas for duty, but before I was called the Armistice was signed, so I stayed."

Kelly Is Favorite Who's Miss Katie's favorite athlete? Why, one guess should suffice—Shipwreck Kelly.

Shortly after Shipwreck entered the University, his grandmother, with whom he lived, died. He adopted Miss Katie as his "mother" while he was on the campus. During his football career here, Shipwreck and Miss Katie grew to be great friends—almost a mother and son combination.

Now when Shipwreck visits Lexington, Miss Katie is the first person he seeks.

"It's been a lot of fun working here. Everybody has been very cooperative."
