SPECIAL LIBRARIANS SPRING CONFERENCE

The 1975 Spring Conference of the Special Librarians Section of KLA will be held on the campus of Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, on April 23 - 25. The theme of the conference is "Computerized Library Services." If interested in further details contact Norma Jean Gibson, Art Library.

LIBRARY STAFF ORGANIZATION SEMINAR

On Wednesday afternoon, April 9th, Naomi Burton will speak in the King Library (North) Rare Book Gallery, at 3:30 p.m., at an informal seminar sponsored by the Library Staff Organization. She will discuss some of the many problems of the writer, especially the beginning writer.

1. Physical presentation of the manuscript.
2. Does a writer need an agent?
3. Author and editor (including agent); their common goals; re-writing; speculation and commissions; publishing as an industry--movies, magazines and foreign markets.
4. Why do writers write? Illustrations from the experiences of successful writers; art and commercialism; taboos --realism and pornography; idealism and bill-collectors.

Interested persons are invited to attend this meeting.

Naomi Burton (Mrs. Melville E. Stone) was born in England, and educated there. In 1939 she was transferred by the London literary agency for which she worked to their New York office and in 1959 she joined Doubleday and Company as a Senior Editor where her special interests were in poetry, fiction, and children's literature. In the early 1970's she retired from Doubleday and Co. and now lives in York, Maine; she continues to write and lecture, and to participate in literary workshops. She is the author of two books, MORE THAN SENTINELS (an autobiography) and a book of verse, TO BE A PILGRIM.

M.R.A.P.

We have not had our little articles in the Green Bean recently but the activity goes on. Phase IV is drawing to a close with some reports to be made available within the next two weeks. Task Force reports presently in preparation are: Planning, Budget, Management Information, and Policy. These reports constitute efforts from four different groups and will eventually become a part of the total study. Phase V will begin early in April and will cover Organization, Staff Development, and Leadership and Supervision.

The Study Team wants to thank the many Task Force members who are working so hard and those who have cooperated with interviews and their time. The attitude of the staff has been one of cooperation and encouragement.
