INDEPENDENTS DISCUSS PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

First Meeting Of Quarter Held On Tuesday Night

Plans were made for the coming campaign by the Independent party at their first meeting of the quarter held Tuesday night.

Betty Lee Birk explained the meaning of the Student Government association on the campus, and Albert Cross, president, explained the principles of the Independent party.

"We, as students of the University of Kentucky, are the future leaders of America," Cross stated. "Each of us should act as our own conscience dictates, not as one person insists that we act. We are free to vote and work for the candidate we consider worthy of office, and are not required to support a person because he happens to be a member of a particular party. This is our privilege as Americans, so as Martha, Cockrell, arts and sciences senior, and Walter Thomas, agriculture senior, were elected co-political chairmen to fill the vacancy created when Harry Auditt was called to active service with the armed forces. Roy Baker was elected special reporter for the party.

A representative of each of the halls was elected to organize the Independent students living in the dormitories, and special representatives were appointed to lead them. As Martha, Cockrell, arts and sciences senior, and Walter Thomas, agriculture senior, were elected co-political chairmen to fill the vacancy created when Harry Auditt was called to active service with the armed forces. Roy Baker was elected special reporter for the party.

DEATH FEARED, DR. ALLEN SAYS

Head of Zoology Is First Speaker

"Death, the younger brother of life, is dreaded by man but perhaps little or not at all by other animals," Dr. W. R. Allen, acting head of the zoology department, stated Tuesday night in the first of the annual series of four lectures by outstanding artists and sciences professors.

Man, according to Dr. Allen, pursues a course of ruthless destruction and then complains of his adverse fortune with the most of animate nature seeks no escape from the laws of nature.

"If mankind could lay aside the poetic conception of death," he continued, "we would recognize its place in the scheme of life. For in a world without death, all the materials for living would very soon be used up, locked in the bottles of the laboratory. Without fuel, materials for growth or energy, life would be at a standstill, like a motion picture film broken in the middle of a reel. Without these manifestations, life would not be life, but a mere thing that brings us to the same place again."

Tracing the evolution of the various forms of life, the speaker showed how all of nature has always adhered to a pattern or scheme of balances.

Dr. M. M. White Appointed As Psychology Head

Acquisition of a field-house site, negotiation of heads of the psychology and sociology departments, and enlargement of the University governing body were approved at the quarterly meeting of the Board of trustees Tuesday.

Administrative officers of the University were authorized by the board to close negotiations for the purchase of the Devereux property on Euclid avenue and Adams street as a building site for the proposed field house by Monday. If no agreement can be reached by that time, they were given the power to file a condemnation suit to obtain the property.

Suit Was Held Up... The suit has been held up pending negotiations by a special committee which undertook to bring about an agreement between the University and the heirs of Mrs. Ella F. Devereux, owners of the property.

Dr. M. M. White was appointed head of the psychology department to succeed the late Dr. James B. Miller. Dr. White, professor of psychology and a member of the University staff for the past 13 years, also holds the office of assistant dean of the arts and sciences college.

The grand jury also returned 10 indictments charging that Lakes maliciously shot and wounded two Negroes.

Group To Enlarge... Since reorganization of the University in 1941, the Faculty has consisted of the deans and administrative officers of the colleges. According to the plan recommended by a special committee of 15 faculty members and adopted by the faculty, the group will be enlarged to include some assistant, associate, or full professors.

Valuable Records To Be Preserved In Campus Library... Valuable records, pictures, curios, and prints of the Confederacy will be preserved permanently at the University library, officials of the Lexington chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy have announced.

This collection, which was gathered by Confederate veterans associations and auxiliary groups in Lexington, will be moved to a room on the third floor of the library building, the Confederate room in the Fayette county courthouse.

Of value to students during the historical research are many records of the John C. Breckinridge Camp and accounts of its reunions, and a complete record of members of the various camps, as well as gun, pistols, shoes, pictures, newspapers, a Confederate private's uniform, magazine, a letter written by Robert E. Lee, and many other similar articles.

Already possessing a group of handbills which were distributed by the Confederate leader, Gen. John Hunt Morgan, the chapter will attempt to procure a complete collection of Morganiana.

Jeanne Lancaster Receives $1,000 Danforth Fellowship

By Dorothy Angie... Jeanne Lancaster, Lebanon, a graduate in home economics last quarter, has recently been awarded a $1,000 fellowship from the Danforth Foundation for the period from August 1, 1943 until May 31, 1944.

This fellowship, given to about 10 college seniors in the United States, will enable her to receive training and experience in Christian leadership at the American Youth Foundation camp near Shesby, Mich., and on college or university campuses throughout the country.

This is the first year such a fellowship has been awarded by the Danforth Foundation. The first five weeks of the fellowship will be a period of preparation at the camp while the regularly held conferences for youth are in session. Following this, the fellows will be assigned to the campus of some college or university as a center from which they may radiate to other campuses. Under the general supervision of the Danforth Foundation they will aim to cooperate with all the resident religious forces of the campus and of the community and will seek to assist in counseling with individual students and college.

Qualifications for this fellowship are based upon religion, personality, character, attitude, purpose, and training.

Although Miss Lancaster has a major in home economics, she is especially interested in music. She has served as organist at the Maxwell Street Presbyterian church and has done some professional accompanying. She has done some dramatic and radio work and has been active in many organizations.

At present she is taking graduate courses in psychology to apply on a master of arts degree in that field.

What We See Out Our Window

From Us To Our Soldiers Overseas

"American cigarettes... of all personal comforts are the most difficult to obtain." So says General Douglas MacArthur in the case on America's far-flung battle fronts. Though only smokers can really understand the morale building qualities of cigarettes to the soldier, everyone can appreciate them.

The Women Take Their Place

The annual women's banquet held last night in the Union is marked again as the most successful of any year. This may be due to several reasons. Perhaps it can be attributed to the leaders, to the committees in charge, or perhaps it was the honors, the number of them, the significance, that made it definitely a success.

to make of their college life the best they possess, were rewarded last night. Mortar Board, Alpha Gamma Delta, Omicron, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Upsilon Omicron, all recognized the outstanding women in their field. In no other year have University women held such a place in campus life as now. Their recognition makes them leaders on the campus, filling places never moved in upon by feminine characters heretofore.

WISE... and Otherwise

General Sherman notwithstanding, war is, in one or two instances, a blessing. Notable among these instances: the near-extinction of the grill children.

We guess it must have affected the grillboys the same way, too, because after their first time in the grill, most of them would take on a blank look and smoke cigarettes to pass away the time.

Air Cadet Brown Stands Up For Keesler Fielders

I wish to inform you that not all the boys at Transylvania college are from Miami. There are 50 of us boys that come from Keesler Field. Of course we feel a bit slighted that there is no mention made of us. It even hurts more because we were at an Army camp and not at a summer resort.

For Easter

Why does the air seem fresher in winter than it does in summer? Because it's kept on ice most of the time.

How to build a 20-mile bridge ... in 20 MINUTES
Nature in a destructive mood can put miles of telephone line out of service.
To bridge such gaps, while repairs are being made, Bell System men have devised special portable radio equipment.
An emergency radio unit is rushed to each end of the break and connected to the undamaged part of the line. In a few minutes, a temporary radio bridge has been set up and telephone traffic is re-established.
Being prepared for emergencies is part of the daily job of Bell System people - part of the tremendous task of maintaining the lines of communication on the home front.

Parker Hits Home Run In Phoenix Baseball Tilt

By Luigi France
Kentucky's Wildcat baseball team walloped the soldiers at Fort Phoenix, 21-1, Saturday afternoon on Stoll field.

After the close of the first inning, with Coach Shively's aggregation leading 7-0, it was evident that the game would be a walk-away for Kentucky.

Frank Bauer and Clyde Parker led the Wildcat attack, each getting three hits out of four trips to the plate. One of Parker's hits was a home run, the only round-tripper of the day.

Vernon Jones, Wildcat starting pitcher, pitched hitless ball for the three innings that he worked. Bob Herbert was nicked for the only soldier hit of the game.

Fort Phoenix displayed no organized offense or defense, and as a result the exhibition game displayed little as to the Wildcat's actual playing ability.

Several Wildcat faithfuls turned out for the game, but the stands were practically vacant by the close of the third inning.

The 'Cats left yesterday for Nashville, where they will get their first real test against Vanderbilt's Commodores today and tomorrow.

The game was called at the close of the fifth inning.

Dr. Thomas D. Clark Author Of Book On Simon Kenton

By June Baker
Dr. Thomas D. Clark, professor of history, has recently published Simon Kenton's Story, as one of the Farrar Rinehart juvenile series.

Dr. Clark said that he had never thought of writing a juvenile book until he was asked to do so when he submitted the manuscript of Kentucky, of the Rivers of America series. According to him, it is a "dickens of a job writing a juvenile."

Stating that this book is purely a child of the night, he explained that he wrote it during the nights of his sabbatical leave, the days of which he spent in gathering material for his book on the country store. During his work on the juvenile, he became so engrossed in the adventures of Kenton that he used his own words, "I forgot what I was doing, and I'm afraid my readers will know it."

The book is a biography of Simon Kenton, Kentucky's little sprog hero, he said. At the age of sixteen, Simon ran away from his home in Virginia to the wilderness of Kentucky because he thought he had killed William Leachman.

Kenton took part in, or was on hand soon after, every important Indian campaign of Kentucky; he was the one Kentuckian who could beat the Indians at their own game, according to Dr. Clark. During his lifetime he killed 23 Indians.

Many exciting events of Kenton's life are discussed by Dr. Clark in his recent book. Three times within less than ten minutes the scout saved the life of Daniel Boone. Twice he was tied to the stake to be burned, and nine times he ran the gauntlet. He was one of the two men who had taken the manuscript ride and had lived to tell about it.

According to Dr. Clark, Kenton's life shows the dangers of puppy love; if he had gotten the girl he thought he loved, he would never have come to Kentucky.

Tennis Team May Draft Women

Because of a manpower shortage, there is a possibility the University's varsity tennis team will be composed partly of women this season, Coach H. H. Downing has announced. He added that there were several very promising women players who could be used if necessary.

The varsity tennis team opens the season at Berea on May 3, and meets the University of Cincinnati there on May 8. Return matches will be played here at dates to be determined in the future. Attempts are being made to schedule matches with other colleges.

"THANK GOODNESS FOR A PAUSE."

"AND AN ICE-COLD COCA-COLA."

"I'VE BEEN LONGING FOR THIS MOMENT."

"A W.A.A.C. does a double job. In doing her own job, she releases a man for combat service. In a way ice-cold Coke is like that, too. Not only quenches thirst but brings energy-giving refreshment, too. And on top of that it offers the taste you don't find this side of Coca-Cola, 'heh. How about a 'Coke date', now?"
