

War World
By Dr. Charles M. Knapp

Week ending April 8, 1945
The European Front: The Russian-German front east of Berlin, along the general line of the Oder from Silesia to the Baltic, was relatively inactive during the past week...

There were indications that the Russian siege operations were being designed to spare the city from destruction so far as possible...

These Russian operations were apparently designed to thwart efforts by the Nazis to retire into southern Germany...

The American-British-French front in the west this past week was most fluid and for the safety of the armies themselves their sensational advances across Germany have been only vaguely disclosed...

The Canadian First Army at last reports was driving for the North Sea coast and the entrapment of the German forces which had been holding the lower Rhine and northern Holland...

The Western Pacific Operations: On Okinawa the American forces, after landing without meeting real opposition, drove across the island to the Pacific shore and then directed columns to advance northward and southward on that island...

A Soldier Speaks

The "Heartache on the Campus," which fraternities cause, according to Mrs. Glenn Frank, seems to have been based on one or two specific cases, which were certainly not representative despite their author's attempt to generalize on them.

From the article which caused this letter I derived the idea that it was a must that one be a fraternity man to be a high school or college leader. This untrue.

No Attractions Entering college I had no glitter or attractions for fraternities, since my father, a traveling salesman and World War I veteran, had died when I was ten and since my mother, a government stenographer, was doing her best to give me the high school and college education which she had missed.

Since I was at college a year before moving to a fraternity house, I had a good view of the place where any "heartache" would be located—in the dormitories—and I saw not a single case although I had a deep interest in the problems of my fellow students.

My associations with other fraternities proved to me that they were operating under conditions similar to my own. In no case have I found fraternities snobbish, and as a college editor, member of the interfraternity council and the student board, president of the leadership and journalistic honorary fraternities, and holder of five offices in my social fraternity, I have dealt with a great many of them on eight university campuses.

Name Calling The article deriding fraternal organizations mentioned that any good fraternities do is far outweighed by their harm. Another statement compares fraternities to

THE SALT SHAKER

Last week we saw sure signs of Spring, but this week we saw a sure sign of Summer. A Scotsman we know threw away his Christmas tree.

And that brings to mind a news item recently printed in a local paper. A famous Scotch professional golfer, after fourteen years of retirement, has returned to the game. Evidently he found his ball.

But, seriously, the average jokes about Scotsmen are totally erroneous. In fact, they happen to be a very inventive race. They've found a new use for worn out razor blades - they shave with them!

Last week on the very day that we told you about our roommate's proposals to her heart-throb, the old boy himself appeared in town. He told us about the day, a few weeks ago, when they parted—he to return to his army base; she to attend U.K. In his own words, "She stood there whining 'I won't see you for four years—maybe six!' And here it is—just two weeks. What a girl won't do to get kissed!"

He seemed to be amazed at the few men on the campus. But we're not troubled one bit by the shortage of men. Coming from the library, late one evening, we were engaged in a gay conversation with a very friendly male. We had never seen him before, but he seemed to be a perfect gentleman, and he looked wonderful in his uniform. When we drew near the door, he waved goodbye and said that he'd see us again. So now we sit by the phone, waiting tired of waiting, and he sales, he was a little too old for us. And campus cops are kept pretty busy, so he probably won't phone anyway.

We read a passage in our Philosophy book, or some other equally dusty text, which stated that, "In days of yore, if anybody missed a stagecoach he was contented to wait two or three days for the next one. Now he lets out a squawk if he misses one section of a revolving door."

Now that isn't true. We know of a woman who worked in a New York office building for years, and she always walked around to a side door to get in or out, instead of using the revolving door at the main entrance. She had heard that 16,591 1/2 people passed through says, "Tuff stuff." But the payoff came when one of them walked into a neighborhood store and asked for an apple pie. When it was given to him he asked, "Good pie?" and the girl answered, "Good-bye, come again."

Current reports reveal that our South American students are learning English with amazing speed. One of the men has picked up the expression "Hell's bells," and another constantly says, "Tuff stuff." But the payoff came when one of them walked into a neighborhood store and asked for an apple pie. When it was given to him he asked, "Good pie?" and the girl answered, "Good-bye, come again."

Meditating on that profound and the proverb "Only the young die good, or words to that effect, re

Greeks-Pro And Con

"The most powerful agency for the preservation of democracy is the public school system from primary grade through the University. To make that system wholly worthy of what our boys are fighting for, we must wipe out fraternities and sororities while the time is ripe!" This, the opinion of Mr. Glenn Frank, widow of the late president of the University of Wisconsin, appeared recently in a popular monthly magazine, and has since stirred up controversial discussion by those students, parents, and faculty members who feel concerned.

Since every question, when it is so generally debated, has two sides there is also a good deal to be said both for and against the ideas presented by Mrs. Frank. A past member of a collegiate organization herself, she has the advantage of actual experience and direct contact to back her assertions. It is this advantage that puts her perhaps one step ahead of those who are arguing her same point, yet who have never been a part of a Greek-letter group, since their knowledge of the problem is somewhat partial and in many cases unreasonable.

Any private school, any University, or any college with selective admission is not entirely compatible with the meaning and intention of a complete democracy. Yet they have survived for decades without disturbing the progress of the educational system.

The same principle may be applied to professional clubs, labor unions, the Masons, Lions, and Rotary clubs, and thousands of other organizations throughout the nation. Naturally there are flaws in such a function—just as there are for the poor little kids in grade school—reading, 'riting and 'rith-metic—brrrrrrr! It would be most beneficial if Joe Covington would watch out for those Conga lines. They really put you on a man. Why do they call Liz Carey—Mother. Someone has been reading too many children's books. If she is Mother Carey, who are the chicks? The rushes this quarter seem to be Deward Compton and E. K. Sut.

In case you haven't noticed the botanical gardens in the daytime, they are in full bloom with the deepest colored blossoms we've ever seen. It certainly is a temptation to pick a few, but when you remember a few petals may cost you five dollars, the temptation vanishes. Speaking of Spring flowers one of our "Joys" sent his girl the most expensive corsage he could find—yellow dandelions, because if he got caught picking them, it would cost him a twenty-five-dollar fine.

A friend of ours wanted to send her sailor friend a birthday present so she took a homemade request down to the postoffice and handed it to the clerk with the package. He told her she didn't need the request with navy packages. This infuriated our friend and she returned to read it, after I sat up all night writing it!

One little gal got a beautiful first box with ribbon and cellophane galore specially delivered with a sympathy card inside!

Speaking of Operations!

An invasion fleet of several hundred warships uses some 48,000 telephones— from 1,500 on a battleship to 10 on a motor torpedo boat. That's as many as are used by most cities of 160,000!

Our fighting men are using telephones, wire, switchboards, and other communications equipment in huge quantities. And Western Electric works, peacetime suppliers to the Bell System, are busy meeting those needs.

That is why there are not enough home telephone service to them. But we are looking forward to the day when the Bell System can again provide telephone service to anyone, anywhere, at any time.

HE SPONSORS LISTENING PLEASURE Combining top radio talent with product appeal... Advertisement for WHAS radio station featuring Joe Eaton.

JOE EATON - Commercial Manager of WHAS, is the listener's liaison officer between talent and the sponsors. This job demands a broad knowledge of radio... plus rare diplomatic form. Born in Omaha, Nebraska, he completed his schooling there, to enter the theater. The stage was set for World War I, and Eaton was soon cast in the role of U. S. Navy man.

Joe made a dramatic entrance into radio in 1922, after the war, bringing before the early-day mike his talents as a singer and trouper. It was an American Legion Convention in 1929 that brought him to Louisville, where he met executives and staff of WHAS. He has been with us ever since.

Moving forward in practical fashion, Joe Eaton scored outstanding success as an announcer with WHAS and is well remembered by listening audiences. After the memorable public service performance of radio during the flood of 1937, he was made Program Manager.

Still bearing the stamp of a successful leading man, Eaton looks back over radio's growth to see many changes. He regrets that mass production of sponsored shows has in many instances directed regional talent away from smaller stations. The electrical transcription may have the uniformity that sponsors desire... but it lacks the variety that regional talent offers.

Joe's prime interest is his twelve-year-old son... but his hobby is listening to radio... critically.

Tell Joe when you like a show, and he will tell the sponsors.

Something weighing on your mind these days? If not, something will be, and soon—if we can believe the fashion forecasters.

They would have us, of all things, eliminate the worry of the fringe on top by smoothing our hair into neat little braids—our own and otherwise.

Accordingly, long-haired ladies can let down their hair in Dutch-girl braids or, with an eye to summer heat waves, wrap the braids halo-wise around their heads.

Hats can be eliminated by plating bright colored bands into the braids. Yarn, flowers, and strands of pearls can be used with striking effects.

Enriled or otherwise, hairdos in general will be heavily ornamented.

CLEO was a hep-cat! She gave from the hip... but solid. Remember the time she met Julius Caesar rolled up in a Persian rug... and little else? All Cleopatra needed was a portable sewing machine to be voted one of the "ten best dressed women of the Nile!"

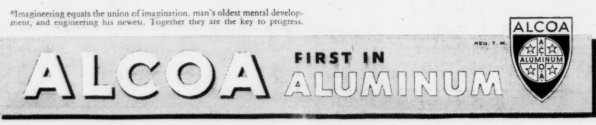

All the nuts, bolts and screws—all the shuttles, cams and needles—yes, even all the aluminum in a portable sewing machine were on earth then, but Cleo's cleverest Afrins and Genii lacked the "know-how" to imaginize them!

We coined "Imaginizing" to describe how Alcoa, and other great groups of technicians, go about the job of supplying the methods, materials and machines of modern life.

Today... youth laments that there are no new lands to discover, no new frontiers to cross. Mr. Roberts Okays Dancing

When Mr. Laurence Roberts of the Union grill says students may dance in his sanctuary, that's news. For years an unwritten law has decreed no dancing in that campus center. Periodically and especially in the first days of every spring, an ignorant freshman couple or two is gently told that because of food inspection laws dancing is forbidden in the grill.

So the dreamy music goes on and the boy and girl apologize to Mr. Roberts and walk away wondering what could be the connection between food and dancing.

Speech Festival Will Be Held At University

The Kentucky High School Speech festival will be held at the University April 20 and 21, with the cooperation of the English department and Department of University Extension, under the auspices of the Kentucky High School Speech League.

Students who have participated in inter-school competition and have registered with the Department of University Extension may enter the state festival. Others may participate no later than March 1, 1945 to participate in the festival. There is no limit as to the number of students who may enter from one school. Students may participate in only one speech event, limited to 15 minutes.

The Kentucky Education association will provide awards of $50, $30, and $20 for the winners of first, second, and third honors in the high school speech contest.

The chief award of the Kentucky High School Speech League is a medal or pin symbolic of the pupil's achievement in the speech festival. A cup will be awarded to the winning team, plus medals to the speakers of the two teams that participate in the final debate.

Other events are oratorical declamation, interpretive reading, poetry reading, extemporaneous speaking, radio speaking, and discussion.

Handbook Released For UK Veterans

"The University of Kentucky and its veterans" is the title of the new booklet published by the University to acquaint veterans with opportunities at the University.

The forty-five page booklet contains ten full-page photographs of campus scenes in addition to such important information as the entrance requirements, credit given for training taken while in military service, requirements for graduation, living conditions and costs, and a list of war training courses offered at the University.

The purpose of the handbook is explained in the foreword by President H. L. Donovan in which he says, "Your military experience has demonstrated to you the importance of specialized training, and your government has generously provided the means whereby such training may be obtained. As a result of this handbook will indicate, the University has made careful plans to insure that every veteran who enrolls here will receive personal attention and adequate advice and counsel."

The Lowe-Down

By Dick Lowe
Seeing Bill Chambers in the grill the other day with Wash Serini reminded me that spring football practice would soon be under way and the campus will soon be overrun by the big burly fellows who come around every year about this time to play football. Some of the fellows from last year will be back and there will be the local boys who were All-State at their high schools out there trying with everything they have in them to win starting positions.

Serini, McDonald, Paul, McInturf, Beal, Sch, McGee, Ferris are in school now and Haas, Chambers, Shannon, English and Weiner expect to return for the summer quarter in time to start the spring practice session beginning the first week in June.

Last year wasn't a good season for the Big Blues although they had some of the best material in the South. Injuries and hard luck fought along with the opposition and they were the victors in six of the nine contests. However, the outlook is better for the coming season and if the football team has the same outcome as the basketball team had, then the 1945 season of sports on the UK campus should gain nation-wide recognition.

But to get to the brains of the team, the men who stay in the background and engineer all of the plots and traps for the opponents, you would meet three of the finest men in the football profession. Everyone on the campus is acquainted with Coach Bernie Shively who has been connected with Kentucky for many years in the capacity of athletic director and head line coach under Coach Ab Kirwan. This coming season will be the first year that Coach Shively has had complete charge of the football team, but he is hoping to turn out a team that all of Kentucky will be proud of, and has made plans for an aggressive team and has scheduled ten tough teams as competition for his boys. His plans for the coming year include the hiring of two assistant coaches who will assist him with the training and putting together of almost an entire new team. He chose as his assistants Elmer (Baldy) Gibb and Lee Bostick. Gibb is a well known local man and needs no introductions as he was a former three-letter man at the University and a coach under Coach Kirwan in 1942. Bostick was line coach at Alabama last year and has been on the campus since April 1. This new coach was a former star at Alabama from 1936-38 and then played with Cleveland professional in 1939.

With three excellent coaches and several experienced fellows back again, led by Wash Serini, this year's team should make the opposition feel the claws of the Wildcat more often and more severely than last year.

Engineering Library Has Book Collection On Arc Welding

The Department of Metallurgical Engineering of the University has recently acquired a collection of books and current magazines dealing with the subject of welding, through the courtesy of the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation of Cleveland, Ohio.

The collection consists of approximately 100 selected volumes of the latest and best works on all phases and types of welding. It contains codes, standards, and specifications, as well as other publications of the American Welding Society; also manuals on arc welding, aircraft welding, gas welding and cutting, welding metallurgy, electronic control for resistance welding, diving, cutting and welding underneath water and salvage operations.

The department expects to maintain the collection through the addition of new books and magazines which will be added as they are published. This feature will insure the collection being kept in close step with developments in the welding industry.

The University would be pleased to have any responsible person from industry make use of this library which is located in the Engineering Library in the Engineering building.

as private builder and public servant

1850 - 67 TEAMS STAGE COACHES
1860 - 1000 PLYWOOD LOG CABINS
1875 - BETTER FARMS FINER HOMES
1900 - RAILROAD EXPANSION INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT
1915 - WIDE TRANSPORTATION WIDE PROTECTIVE EXPANSION OF SOUTHERN RESOURCES

Born when the South was yet young, the I. & N. - now "The Old Reliable" - has survived a destructive Civil War, the reconstruction period and the passing of three generations of men both great and small.

For 95 years it has been an energizing bloodstream to the South's expanding agriculture, industry, commerce and social growth. Now, as ever, its interests are inseparably linked with the South's highest welfare and fruitful development.

With almost 5,000 miles of self-maintained steel highways and a half billion dollar investment, it daily reflects its faith in the South and the quality of its people, by still further expansion of territory, facilities and service.

It aids mightily in the present war and looks hopefully to peace when, as Private Builder and Public Servant, it will continue to work cooperatively and constructively to make a more livable and prosperous South.

It wants to be friendly, neighborly and helpful and hopes for such acceptance.
