FRANK LEROND McVEY
PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

"To labor constantly for the world with no thought of self, to find indifference and opposition where you ought to have active assistance, to meet criticism with patience and the open attacks of ignorance without resentment, to plead with others for their own good, to follow sleepless nights with days of incessant toil, to strive continuously without ever attaining—this it is to be a college president. But this is only half the truth. To be associated with ambitious youth and high-minded men, to live in an atmosphere charged with thoughts of the world's greatest thinkers, to dream of a golden age not in the past but in the future, to have the exalted privilege of striving to make that dream a reality, to build up great kingdoms of material conquest and make daily life richer and fuller, to spiritualize wealth and convert it into weal, to enrich personal character and elevate all human relationships, to leave the impress of one's life on a great and immortal institution—this, too, it is to be a college president."—J. H. KIRKLAND, Chancellor Vanderbilt University.

Do You Remember Kercheval and Zimmerman?

The mighty Green Wave of Old Tulane surged over Kentucky's Wildcats a year ago at New Orleans by 34 to 0 and probably could have made it even more emphatic had Coach Ted Cox allowed his regulars to remain in the game. Those merciless Tulane backs, especially "Little Preacher" Roberts and "Little Monk" Simons, ripped the Kentuckians to shreds from the very beginning of the game and scored three touchdowns in little more than the first five minutes.

That licking took all the starch out of the Wildcats and made them easy for Tennessee on Thanksgiving Day. Prior to that game Kentucky had been conceded a chance to whip Tulane because of the Wildcats' victory over Georgia Tech.

But things were not always thus. Just fourteen years ago it was that the Wildcats, believe it or not, actually defeated Tulane by 10 to 3 right here in Lexington. The late Dick Webb, one of the greatest centers ever to play in the South, was captain of the Wildcats that year, and E. R. Sweetland, a Cornell graduate, was the coach.

Most of the fans here today will never forget the Kentucky-Tulane game of 1932 which was played on this field. Neither will Coach Cox nor this all-American candidate, Monk Simons, Tulane's shining light who is a senior now, ever forget how nearly an under-rated Kentucky team came to defeating the mighty Green Wave.

Two great stars shone on Stoll field that cold November afternoon and their names were Ralph Kercheval of Kentucky and Don Zimmerman, the "Flying Dutchman" of Tulane.

The Wildcats had practiced hard all week trying to perfect a defense against Zimmerman. The 'Cats were not worried much by the other Tulane backs. "Stop Zimmerman" was the cry of the Wildcats, and "Stop Zimmerman" they did—almost.

Tulane had heard of Kercheval. The Greenies knew that he was a great punter but they did not know just how good he was. They are still talking at New Orleans how he kicked a ball so high that it came down covered with ice; how he booted one so far toward the east that it fell into the Atlantic Ocean, and how another of his boots, aimed in a westerly direction, was dug up the next summer on top of Pike's Peak in Colorado.

The Wildcats and the Greenies battled on even terms for 56 minutes of that game. Tulane would bring the ball into Kentucky territory and then the 'Cats would hold them. Tulane would punt and it would be Kentucky's ball. Then Kercheval would go into action. Zimmerman was the safety man. When he played up for a pass or a line play, Kercheval would get off a quick kick over his head, and when he played back for a punt, Kercheval would kick the ball so far and high that when it came down, half of Kentucky's team would be crouching around Zimmerman daring him to make a move with it. It was the greatest exhibition of punting ever seen anywhere.

Kentucky made only one mistake against Tulane that day but it was a beautiful thing to see, even if it did cost Kentucky the game. With only four minutes left to play, Kercheval kicked out of bounds on Tulane's 5-yard line. Then a sophomore, this same Monk Simons, attempted a punt. The effort was not so hot and the Wildcats took the ball on Tulane's 35-yard-stripe. They advanced 10 yards and, when halted, Kercheval stepped back to the 35 and kicked the most beautiful field goal ever made on this field. The ball traveled 45 yards to sail over the cross bar and Kentucky was leading 3 to 0.

But it was a mistake, for the Wildcats had to kick off to the Wave and the great Zimmerman, an all-American, took the ball over his goal line and ran it back to the very shadow of Kentucky's goal. Three minutes or less were left to play and even then Kentucky might have stood off the Wave but a Kentucky man was called for interfering with a Tulane pass and the 'Cats were backed up against their goal line when Roberts went over for a touchdown.

Tulane should erect a monument on Stoll field to Don Zimmerman, for he saved the Green Wave on that day. On the other hand, Kentucky should erect a memorial to Ralph Kercheval for his punting, not only on that day but on every day that he played for the Blue and White.

Where is Kercheval now? Why, haven't you heard? He is the sophomore sensation of professional football this year, playing with "Shipwreck" Kelly and his Brooklyn Dodgers. Did you see what Kercheval did against the Philadelphia pro team last Sunday? All he did was to win the game, 10 to 7. Kercheval made a long run for a touchdown, kicked the extra point and then, in the face of a strong wind, stood near the sideline and booted a 30-yard field goal from placement.

Let's never forget Ralph Kercheval.

CHESTER A. WYNNE
HEAD COACH AND ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

A gentleman and a scholar, former member of the Nebraska State Legislature, one-time star full-back at Notre Dame University, lawyer by profession and football coach by choice—that is Chester Allen Wynne, "The Chetter."

A Kansan by birth, Chet Wynne received his higher education at Notre Dame, where he was a star pupil of the immortal Knute Rockne, absorbing not only a profound knowledge of the game and how to play it, but also a deep seated ability to pass on to others the knowledge which he has gained.

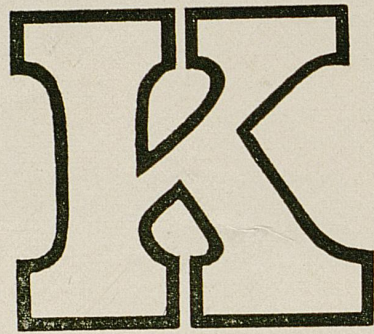

Coach Wynne was called to the University of Kentucky last spring to take supreme command of athletics after a disastrous football season had all but destroyed interest in the gridiron game here. He was selected by the Athletic Council after his record as a player and as a coach had been studied carefully, and after a series of personal interviews had convinced the Council that if anyone could place Kentucky on a high football plane, that man was Chet Wynne.

The Council decided that Kentucky needed an experienced football coach who had already won success at other institutions. Chet Wynne met that requirement. He already had led Creighton to a Missouri Valley Conference championship, and then he took a down-trodden Auburn team which had not won a conference game in several years, piloting the Plainsmen to a championship of the newly-formed Southeastern Conference.

Now Chet Wynne is at Kentucky. He is that quiet mannered gentleman on the bench in civilian clothes. He has a big job on his hands here. Kentucky never has won a conference championship in football. Victories over high class football teams have been few, despite the fact that a gradual improvement has been made in recent years.

It is up to Wynne to build up Kentucky still more, but in order to make a success, he must have the cooperation of students, players, alumni and those lovers of the game who are eager for Kentucky to win. Let's everybody pull together for Wynne and the Wildcats.

Ladies and gentlemen, we give you Chet Wynne.

Greetings
to a
Fighting Team

GOVERNOR RUBY LAFFOON

The Governor of the great Commonwealth of Kentucky has demonstrated his friendship for the University of Kentucky time after time during the stirring period that he has been the State's chief executive.

Not only has he fought for the University and its right to exist as the foremost educational institution of Kentucky, but he also has been one of the University's most loyal supporters in athletics. Hardly a football or basketball game has been played during his administration that he has not honored the Wildcats with his presence to cheer them on to victory.

Governor Laffoon hails from the western part of the state and claims Madisonville as his home town. Before becoming Governor of Kentucky he served for many years as a lawyer and as Circuit Judge of his judicial district.

The University is proud to welcome Governor Laffoon to the football games this season. We hope and believe that his presence will serve to inspire the Wildcats to battle as he has been forced to battle. The world loves a fighter and all Kentucky knows that Governor Laffoon knows how to fight.

S. A. "DADDY" BOLES
GRADUATE MANAGER

What follower of the Wildcats doesn't know Daddy Boles?

He has been connected with the University of Kentucky as football coach, basketball coach, graduate manager of athletics, gymnasium teacher, programme manager or general major domo for so many years that many believe he is one of the founders of the institution.

No football programme would be complete without him and here he is.

In the ante-bellum days, Daddy Boles wore a moustache and a high-necked sweater. The sweater finally went to pieces. The hirsute facial adornment went out of style. But Daddy goes marching on in his easy-going way, making friends and keeping them.

The Best Band In Dixie

Under the able direction of Mr. John Lewis Jr., who came to the University from Winchester, Kentucky, hardly more than a year ago, the U. of K. Band has progressed by leaps and bounds until its personnel includes ninety well-trained musicians. Sponsored by Miss Margaret Walker, and commanded by drum majors, Bob McDowell and Harold Stockton, it is living up to its name—"The Best Band in Dixie."

This year, in cooperation with the University and the citizens of Lexington, Major Brewer, head of the Military Department, succeeded in equipping the entire organization with new uniforms. This was but the beginning of a program of improvement which will continue for a number of years.

What was that about flowers? Oh, yes, Miss Walker's bouquet is beautiful, isn't it? Keller-Oram Florist furnished the chrysanthemums, and they certainly add the finishing touches to the outfit.

Perhaps some of you would like to know who works out the formations which are included on the program presented by the Band between halves. Well, you see, it's this way—One of the principle duties of the Drum Majors is to prepare these programs. They go into a huddle with Mr. Lewis and any others who are interested in this type of work, and by combining as many ideas as possible a program is arranged which suits the occasion.

Anyway, let us get down to the main question—today's game. This much can be said regarding the Band's attitude toward this; the Band has firmly resolved that if music can help the Wildcats turn back the Green Wave, it will do all in its power to revenge the defeats of former years.

RULE CHANGES FOR 1934

The rule changes for 1934 are minor in nature in so far as the spectators are concerned. The principal changes are in the dimensions of the ball, in the forward pass regulations covering an incomplete pass on, above or behind the opponents' goal lines, and some changes in definitions and penalties.

1. The circumference of the ball, short axis, is changed to "not less than 21 1-4 inches." This is a smaller ball than formerly used.

2. "The first forward pass in any series of downs (except on fourth down) which becomes incomplete by striking the ground, a second originally eligible player of the passer's team or any obstruction on, above or behind the opponents' goal line shall be penalized as though it became incomplete in the field of play. Any other forward pass which becomes incomplete in any of these ways on, or above or behind the opponents' goal line, is a touchback."

"Any forward pass which becomes incomplete by striking an ineligible player inside the opponents' 10-yard line may be a touchback if the opponents so elect."

Formerly a forward pass into end zone became a touchback on any down.

This year there is no penalty for an incomplete forward pass, except the loss of a down.

Kentucky's Coaching Crew

And now we present the gentlemen of the ensemble.

The man on the left is Head Coach Chet Wynne; in the deep South they call him "The Chetter." He is the boss and there is no dispute about that.

Next we see a big Irishman by the name of Timothy Aloysius Twomey, Ted to you, who has the job of developing the Wildcat linemen. He was a big success as a tackle at Notre Dame only a few years ago, and he displayed his ability to coach linemen at the University of Georgia, where he coached before coming up to Kentucky with Wynne.

The handsome young man next in line is Porter Grant, whose job is to coach the Wildcat ends. He was one of The Chetter's star pupils at Auburn and after his graduation from that Alabama institution he remained to assist Wynne in coaching the Plainsmen.

Next Birkett Lee Pribble, a former Wildcat captain who is head freshman coach. Pribble has two little daughters born on days on which Kentucky's freshmen played Tennessee's freshmen in Lexington. Those were two games Pribble did not see.

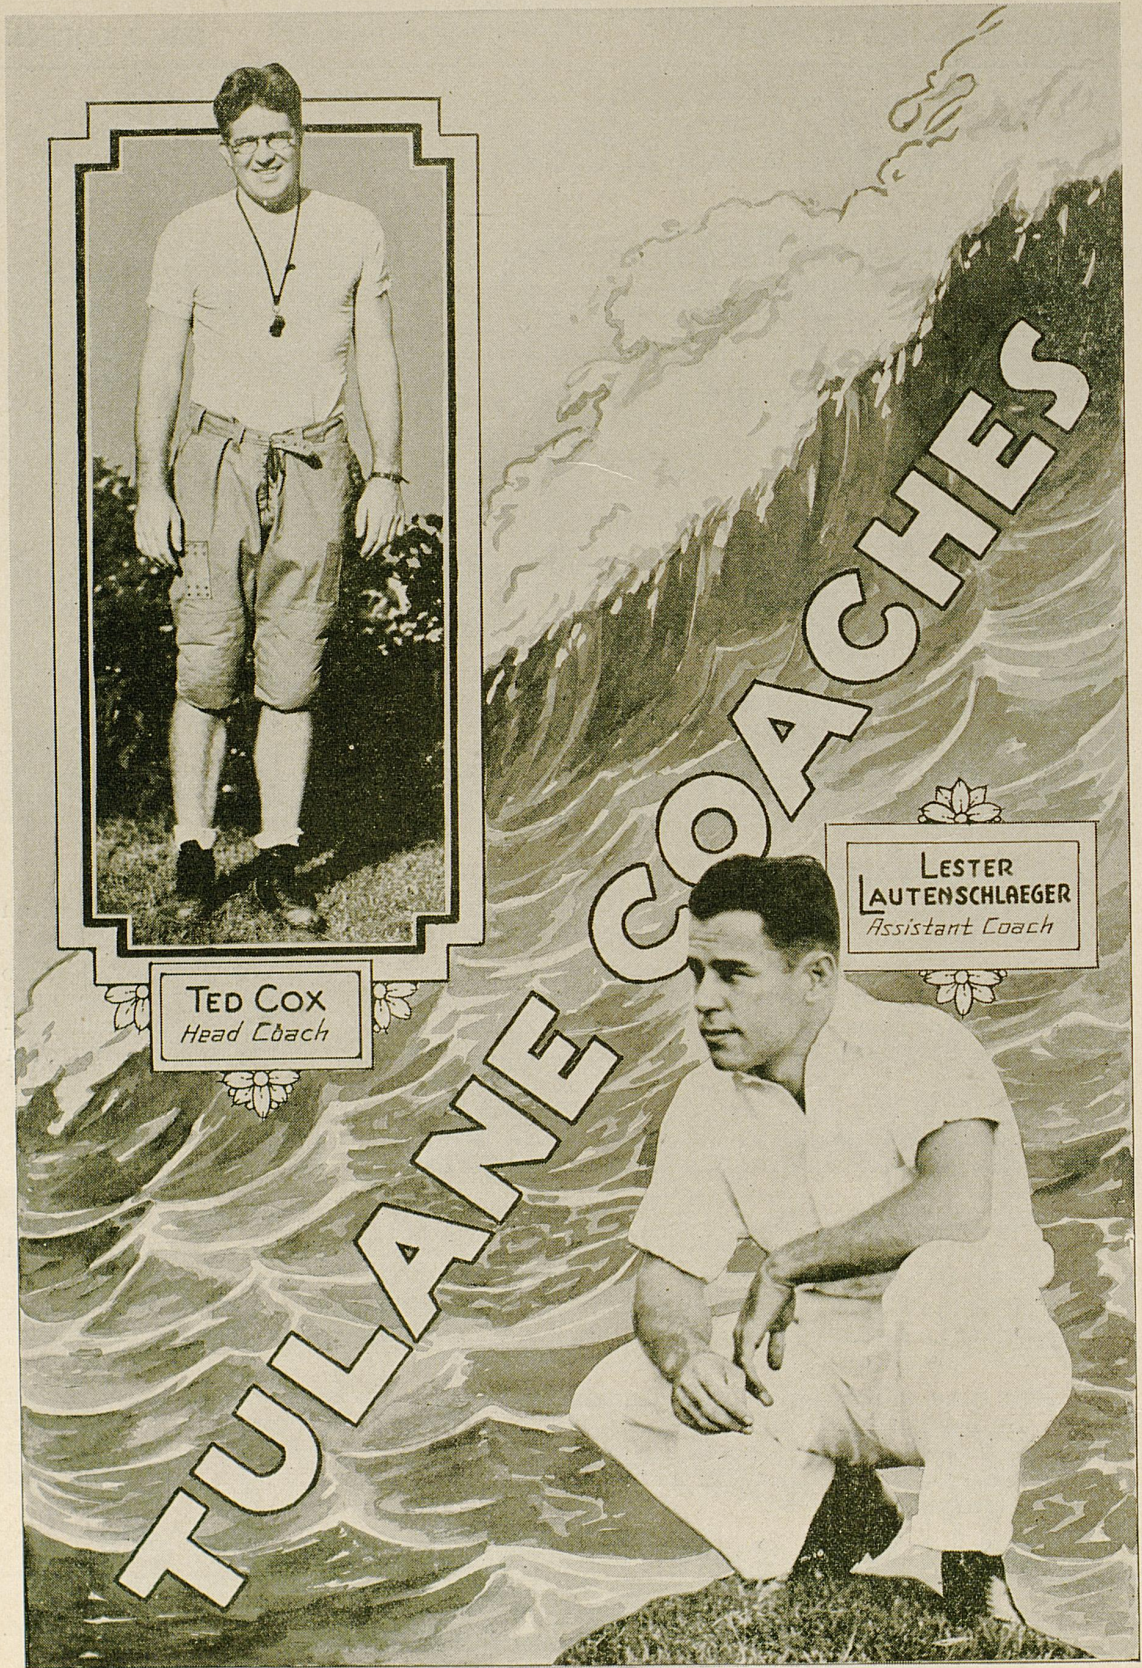

The little fellow is Frank Moseley, star quarterback on Alabama teams for the past three seasons. He was poison to the Wildcats at the Capstone and now he is teaching that same poison to the Kitten backfield men.

Ever hear of Bernie Shively? If you haven't then you haven't been in Lexington long. He has been with the Wildcats for eight years and has won a host of friends. Shive was an All-American guard at Illinois and came to Kentucky as assistant 'varsity coach. Chet Wynne retained him on the coaching staff. He helps with the 'varsity and is the freshman line coach.

1934-1935 BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Coach Rupp has arranged a difficult schedule for his team this winter. For the first time in history, a Kentucky team will play at New York, the 'Cats having been selected to meet the New York University Violets in Madison Square Garden. The schedule is terrific, but Rupp is not afraid of the outcome. He is confident that the 'Cats, as usual, will cause Kentuckians everywhere to glow with pride. "We are liable to win them all," he said.

The Kentucky basketball schedule follows:

- Dec. 4 — Alumni at Lexington.
- 8 — Georgetown at Lexington.
- 13 — Marshall at Lexington.
- 20 — Tulane at New Orleans.
- 21 — Tulane at New Orleans.
- Jan. 2 — Chicago at Lexington.
- 5 — New York U. at New York City.
- 7 — Maryland at College Park.
- 18 — Tulane at Lexington.
- 19 — Tulane at Lexington.
- 26 — Tennessee at Lexington.
- Feb. 1 — Alabama at Birmingham.
- 2 — Vanderbilt at Nashville.
- 5 — Xavier U. at Cincinnati.
- 9 — Georgia Tech at Lexington.
- 11 — Alabama at Lexington.
- 16 — Tennessee at Knoxville.
- 22 — Creighton at Lexington.
- 23 — Creighton at Lexington.
- Mar. 2 — Vanderbilt at Lexington.
- 7 — Xavier U. at Lexington.

Members of squad returning: Forwards, Lawrence, Tucker, Taylor; center, Lewis; guards, Davis, Anderson, Potter, Tierney.

Freshmen returning: Forwards, Carlisle, Donahue, Bliss, Atchison; center, Edwards; guards, Goforth, Ellington, Heinrich.

KENTUCKY CAMPUS

DANIEL BOONE

As this is the bi-centennial year of the birth of Daniel Boone, whose name is synonymous with early Kentucky history, it is fitting that the University of Kentucky Athletic Association should honor this great pioneer in the football program.

Trail blazer, colonizer and defender, Boone took a leading part in carving this Commonwealth out of the wilderness, and in so doing, contributed to the establishment of the University of Kentucky. Had there been no Boone there may never have been a Kentucky. Had there been no Kentucky, there certainly would have been no football game here today.

Every Kentuckian is familiar with the heroic exploits of Daniel Boone. What Kentucky boy has not, in his dreams, walked hand in hand with Boone as he crossed the mountains at Cumberland Gap; battled the painted savages with him, sorrowed with him at the death of his son who fell mortally wounded at the Battle of the Blue Licks; exulted with him at the recapture of his daughter who had been carried off by the Indians, and thrilled with him in his numerous narrow escapes from death at the hands of savage beasts and still more savage red men?

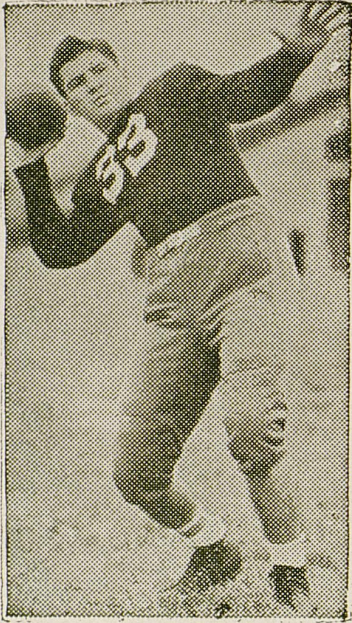

Kentucky claims Daniel Boone as her own, although he was born in Pennsylvania and spent his last years in Missouri. Not only did he lead the way for the first settlers, pointing out to them the richest lands, and building forts for their defense, but he also remained to help make their laws and to lead their military forces in the Revolutionary War.

The University of Kentucky, although never a contender for a National championship in football, has had a hand in three National gridiron titles in recent years by tying the University of Tennessee in 1928, 1929, and 1931, and thus removing the Volunteers from the championship picture.

In 1931 when Tennessee and Tulane were hoping for an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl the following New Year's Day, Kentucky was slated to fall before the mighty Tennesseans as they marched toward Pasadena. Tennessee had already defeated the best in the South, as had Tulane. The day before Thanksgiving "Shipwreck" Kelly, Kentucky's star halfback who is now a great professional football player, sent a telegram to the captain of Tulane's team. "Make your plans to go to the Rose Bowl," Kelly wired, "for we will take care of Tennessee for you tomorrow." Tulane took the telegram as a joke, but Kelly was correct. The Wildcats held Tennessee to a 6 to 6 tie the next day.

Many football teams have had a brother act but Kentucky, from 1925 until 1932, had three brothers who played fullback for the Wildcats. They were the Phipps brothers from Ashland, Ky. Frank was the first of the Phipps brothers to play fullback for Kentucky. He was followed by his brother, Tom, while Jack, the baby of the family, played fullback from 1929 to 1932.

Although they have been meeting each other in football since the gay nineties, never has there been a contract between Kentucky and Tennessee. It is mutually understood that the Wildcats and Volunteers will meet on Thanksgiving, one year at Lexington and the next at Knoxville. It is a real gentleman's agreement.

Kentucky and Tennessee battle annually for possession of a worthless beer keg which has remained at Knoxville since 1926. The keg began as a tradition in 1925 when the Wildcats defeated the Vols 23 to 20 at Lexington. The next year the keg was taken to Knoxville where the Vols won by 6 to 0. Since then Kentucky never has been able to defeat Tennessee and the keg, smeared with the colors of the two institutions and the scores of the game, has remained at Knoxville.

Kentucky has had two great football stars in recent years who bore the name of Johnson and both were from the same city, Ashland, Ky., although they are no kin to each other. Ellis Johnson starred as a triple-threat halfback in 1930, 1931 and 1932. Now it is Bert "Man o' War" Johnson, sophomore triple threat, who is attracting the attention of football fans throughout the South.

Kentucky's Basketball Squad

Kentucky can well afford to be proud of the Wildcats in basketball, especially since genial Adolph Rupp, the carefree Kansan, came to the Blue Grass as commander of the Wildcat basketeers.

Since Coach Rupp came to Kentucky his basketball teams have won 67 games and lost but nine, probably the greatest record held by any university in the country. Most of the games lost were by one or two points.

Kentucky now is recognized as the leader in southern basketball. For three consecutive years the Wildcats have ended the regular playing season at the top of the Southeastern Conference, while for the past two years they have been undefeated in the conference during the regular season, although losing their initial game in the post-season tournament last spring.

Kentucky holds the world's record for consecutive basketball games won by a major university, having won 24 games in a row, beginning in the latter part of the 1932-33 season and ending with the tournament of 1934. The Wildcats won 17 straight games last year and ended the season undefeated, but there had to be an end to the chain and so they lost to Florida in the first game of last spring's tourney. There was no reason for losing but they lost and no Kentucky supporter voiced any disappointment. Most Kentuckians considered the Wildcats as conference champions at the end of the regular season and saw no reason why they should be called on to risk their title in a tournament which finally was won by Alabama, a team which Kentucky whipped twice during the season.

Kentucky won the tournament in 1933.

Out of 20 all-conference players selected in the past four years, 11 of them have been Wildcats, while the All-American teams of 1932 and of 1933 each contained a Kentuckian. Forest "Aggie" Sale, Kentucky's great center, was selected as forward on the All-American team twice, an honor never before conferred on a Kentuckian.

The Wildcats who have been selected on all-conference teams in the past four years were Sale, twice; DeMoisey, twice; Johnson, twice; Yates, Spicer, "Little" McGinnis, Bronston and Davis. Of these great stars only one, Bill Davis, still is a Wildcat.

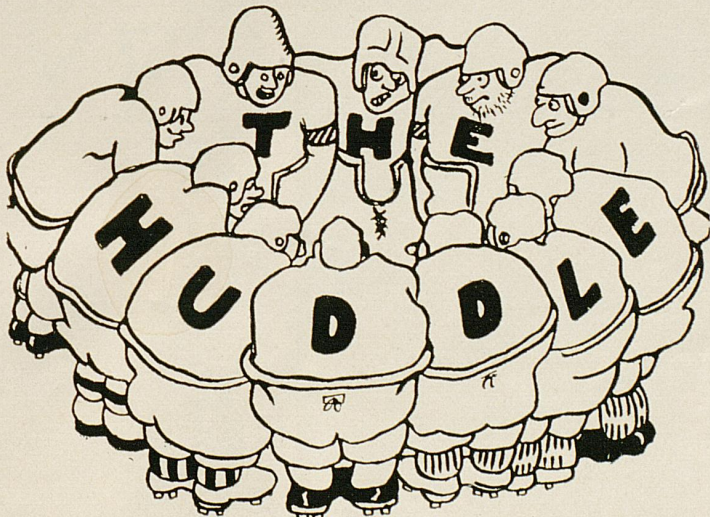

Now a word about Coach Rupp. A star basketeer at the University of Kansas, Adolph lives and breathes basketball, and he is recognized throughout the country as an authority on the game. He never had coached a college team before coming to Lexington, but had won success coaching the high school team at Freeport, Ill. He not only knows basketball but he also knows boys and how to handle them. The Wildcat basketball players fight for Rupp as they do for Kentucky.
