Talk About Tough

Watch those cleats dig in! No matter who wins the game, the grass gets a terrific beating.

It takes good turf like that of Kentucky's field to survive such treatment. Just any old grass seed won't produce good playing turf. A scientific blend of choice varieties—all first string material cleaned and recleaned to remove weeds and chaff—produced the University of Kentucky's fine field.

The big games in the country today are being played on Turf by Scott's.

FRANK L. McVEY, PRESIDENT
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

“Maryville My Maryville”

IN THE MOUNTAINS OF EAST TENNESSEE there is an enchanting little city known as Maryville, where Andrew Jackson once lived. It is a pioneer settlement and is to Tennessee what Harrodsburg is to Kentucky. It is the home of Maryville College and this year marks the seventeenth time that the football team of Maryville College has met the University of Kentucky Wildcats on the gridiron.

In all the sixteen games which have been played between the elevens of these institutions, Maryville never has been able to defeat the Wildcats although coming mighty close to it on two occasions. In twelve of these games the Maryville Highlanders have been unable to score, but in 1927 they held the Wildcats to a 6 to 6 tie, giving Kentucky fans the jitters. That was the best team in Maryville's history for, after tying Kentucky, the Highlanders threw a scare into a fine University of Tennessee eleven that season and the Volunteers considered themselves fortunate by winning by 6 to 0.

The first Maryville-Kentucky game was played back in 1907, when the Wildcats were glad to get off with a 6-to-0 victory. The next two games between the Highlanders and Wildcats were fairly close but in 1914 Kentucky massacred the invading Tennesseans by 80 to 0. That was the most severe beating ever suffered by Maryville at the hands of the Wildcats.

Outside of that tie game in 1927, the Highlanders never have been much of a threat against Kentucky in recent years but the boys from Maryville have won the admiration of the players and fans here by their sportsmanship and courage. No Maryville team ever laid down and regardless of the score, you can bet your shirt that the Highlanders will have the same fighting spirit expressed by that Transylvania hero of several years ago who, when his team was trailing Centre College by 98 to 0 in the last minute of the game, yelled out in stentorian tones, “Come on gang, they haven't got nothing!”

Kentucky welcomes Maryville. Our hats are off to you. May yqur stay in the heart of the Blue Grass be most pleasant and may you again “Come up and see us sometime.”

Past Maryville-Kentucky scores:

HEAD COACH CHESTER ALLEN WYNNE

"Chet, you show them how it should be done!"

Those words have a familiar ring to those who attended the summer football coaching schools conducted at South Bend by the late Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's celebrated coach and probably the most astute student and teacher of football strategy of all time.

And those words frequently were addressed to Chester Allen "Chet" Wynne, favorite pupil of the great Rockne and now head football coach and athletic director of the University of Kentucky, where he is entering on his second season with the hopes of leading the Wildcats to greater things.

Born in a Kansas prairie town, Chet received his early education in that State, then entered Notre Dame University with aspirations of becoming a barrister at law. Being somewhat of an athlete while in high school, young Wynne became interested in athletics at Notre Dame and concentrated on football and track.

Notre Dame football teams, directed by "Rock," already were famous when Chet enrolled at that institution and it took a real athlete to win a berth on an Irish eleven, but The Chetter made the grade during the days of the immortal George Gipp, one of the most talented halfbacks this country has ever seen. Chet owes a lot to Gipp as well as to Rockne, for while the latter taught him how to play the game, it was Gipp who gave him the necessary confidence which led to his becoming Notre Dame's star fullback in the years just before the coming of the "Four Horsemen."

Chet tells a story of a famous Notre Dame-Army football game played at New York when he was given his first big chance as starting fullback in the backfield with Gipp. The Irish had the ball deep in their own territory when Wynne's signal was called. He fumbled the ball but recovered for a loss. Looking to the side-lines, Chet saw Rockne leading out another fullback and his heart sank, realizing that he was to be replaced, but just before the substitute could run out on the field and report, Gipp waved him back from the gridiron and yelled, "We have a fullback," and Rock chased the substitute back to the bench. Chet halts the story there but records show that Fullback Wynne was the big star of that Notre Dame victory over the Army.

While establishing a great reputation on the gridiron, Chet devoted enough time to track to become a world's champion high hurdler while, at the same time, making a fine record as a student.

After graduation, Chet took up football coaching as a profession and made a success wherever he went. After leading a small Kansas College team to a championship he was called to Creighton, where he piloted the Blue Jays to a championship of the Missouri Conference, then heeded the call to Alabama Poly, where the Auburn Plainsmen were in a sorry plight. For years Auburn had not won a conference game but the Chetter soon remedied that and his third year at Auburn his team won the co-championship of the Southern Conference.

Last year was Wynne's first season with the Kentucky Wildcats and he did well, winning half the games. This year his team is faced with a terrific schedule but Chet doesn't give a rap. The bigger they come the harder they fall and "There'll come a day."

While coaching at Creighton, Mr. Wynne was elected to the Nebraska State Legislature and was licensed to practice law in that state. Since coming to Kentucky he has been admitted to the Kentucky bar, although he has not hung out his law shingle.

CHESTER A. WYNNE
HEAD COACH AND ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

The 1935 University of Kentucky football squad of forty-seven men, includes payers from ten states—Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee, Connecticut, West Virginia, Illinois, Alabama and New York.

Although the two institutions are only 90 miles apart, the University of Kentucky Wildcats and Xavier Musketeers of Cincinnati, Ohio, will meet on the gridiron September 28 for the first time. The Xavierians replaced the University of Cincinnati Bearcats on the Kentucky schedule.

The University of Kentucky and Tulane University will end their three-game contract November 16 in a game at New Orleans. Tulane has won three straight from Kentucky. Alabama replaced Kentucky on Tulane's slate.

The University of Kentucky Wildcats, although defeated by 20 points, showed more offense against Alabama last fall than any other Alabama foe. The Wildcats scored 14 points against the Tide while Stanford, the Rose Bowl opponent of Alabama, scored but 13.

The University of Kentucky football squad has two red-haired fullbacks. One is a sophomore, Simpson, from Bessemer, Ala., and the other is Sympson, a senior from Bardstown, Ky. Because of the similarity of names, in order to avoid mistakes in identity, the sophomore Simpson has been dubbed "Suitcase".

Sophomores compose the majority of players on the University of Kentucky football squad, which includes ten seniors, ten juniors and twenty-seven sophomores from last year's undefeated freshman outfit.

After a year's lay-off, the University of Kentucky and Georgia Tech will enter on a four-year football series this fall. In the three games between the two teams, Kentucky has won two. One was a 3 to 3 tie.

Bob Davis, sophomore halfback on the University of Kentucky football team, won the middle-weight boxing championship of Ohio in 1934.

Bert Johnson, junior at the University of Kentucky, and all-Southeastern Conference halfback, was married during the past summer to Miss Wilhelmina Lampert, daughter of Prof. C. A. Lampert, head of the Music Department of the University.

Three of the four men considered as starting backs on the University of Kentucky football team are considered as better than average punters.

Two former All-Americans are on the University of Kentucky football coaching staff. They are Ted Twomey, Notre Dame tackle, line coach; and Bernie Shively, University of Illinois guard, freshman line coach.

Chet Wynne, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Kentucky, has been licensed to practice law in the State of Kentucky. He studied law at Notre Dame and was a member of the Nebraska State Legislature while coach at Creighton.

For the first time in history, the three high schools of Louisville all are represented on the University of Kentucky football squad and all the Louisville boys are sophomores.

KENTUCKY'S COACHING CREW

The man on the left is Head Coach Chet Wynne; in the deep South they call him "The Chetter." He is the boss and there is no dispute about that..

Next we see a big Irishman by the name of Timothy Aloysius Twomey, Ted to you, who has the job of developing the Wildcat linemen. He was a big success as a tackle at Notre Dame only a few years ago, and he displayed his ability to coach linemen at the University of Georgia, where he coached before coming up to Kentucky with Wynne.

The handsome young man next in line is Porter Grant, whose job is to coach the Wildcat ends. He was one of The Chetter's star pupils at Auburn and after his graduation from that Alabama institution he remained to assist Wynne in coaching the Plainsmen.

Next Birkett Lee Pribble, a former Wildcat captain who is head freshman coach. Pribble has two little daughters born on days on which Kentucky's freshmen played Tennessee's freshmen in Lexington. Those were two games Pribble did not see.

The little fellow is Frank Moseley, star quarterback on Alabama teams for the past three seasons. He was poison to the Wildcats at the Capstone and now he is teaching that same poison to the Kitten backfield men.

Ever hear of Bernie Shively? If you haven't then you haven't been in Lexington long. He has been with the Wildcats for eight years and has won a host of friends. Shive was an All-American guard at Illinois and came to Kentucky as assistant 'varsity coach. Chet Wynne retained him on the coaching staff. He helps with the 'varsity and is the freshman line coach.

Let's Wreck Tech

ONE are "Father" Lumpkin, Doug Wycoff, Peter Pund and the fiery-thatched Barron brothers—names to conjure with down Atlanta way—but old Bill Alexander, the native Kentuckian who has coached the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech for 10, these many years, has a way of jumping into the National gridiron limelight when least expected, and the crew he will bring to Lexington next Saturday to meet our Wildcats will provide Chet Wynne's hopefuls with a right merry afternoon unless all signs fail.

There was a time, not so long ago, when Georgia Tech ruled the South; when it even went so far as to win a National football championship, if Rose Bowl victories count for anything, but the Tornado, after contributing another Rosebowl victory to southern football honors, went off the touchdown standard for a while and there were lean years in the city of the Five Points and Peachtree Street.

Things began looking up last autumn in the camp of the Tornado with the arrival of as fine a gang of freshmen gridders as ever graced a football field and, while the Tech varsity's season last fall was no great shakes of success, the old familiar cry of "Just wait until next year" could be heard all the way from Georgia to Kentucky—and here they are.

Kentucky has been quite successful in its athletic relations with Georgia Tech, never having lost either a football game or a basketball game to the lads from Atlanta, although the gridiron victories have been too close for comfort.

The game to be played on Stoll Field next Saturday will mark the fourth football encounter between Georgia Tech and Kentucky. The first of these games was played in Atlanta way back in 1923 when Curt Sanders, the crashing fullback, was captain of the Wildcats. Kentucky was, by unanimous vote, the underdog in that encounter but managed to rear up and hold the mighty Yellowjackets to a 3-to-3 tie, which so amazed and disgusted the Atlanta sports writers that they ignored the football completely in their write-ups and devoted columns of space to the Kentucky band, which they named the "best band in Dixie."

The next meeting between these two institutions on the gridiron was in 1932 when Harry Gamage then Wildcat coach, took his team to Atlanta. After a bitter contest, the Kentuckians were declared the winners by 12 to 6. The winning touchdown was the cause of plenty of comment down South that red hot Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky scored early in the game on an end run by the great Ralph Kercheval. Then Georgia Tech slipped over a touchdown, and there matters stood until late in the final quarter when the 'Cats managed to get inside of the Tech 20-yard line. There it was that the Big Blue decided to use the old Illinois "flea-flicker" in a desperate attempt to score. It was a combined forward-lateral pass with Pug Bach as the final handler of the ball. It caught the Yellowjackets flatfooted and Bach raced across for the winning marker.

The following year Coach Alexander, eager for revenge, escorted a fine looking crew of football players to the Blue Grass and, boy what a game that was. The Battle of Gettysburg was a tame affair alongside of that game in which the Wildcats finally came out on top by 7 to 6 after protecting a one-point lead for half of the game. The Kentuckians were mighty glad when that affair was over and they were still ahead.

And you can bet your shirt that the game next Saturday will be a whiz from beginning to end.

Frank Mosely, assistant freshman football coach at the University of Kentucky, has ambitions of becoming a physician. The former Alabama quarterback is taking a pre-medical course at Kentucky.

Two former University of Kentucky athletes, now lawyers, frequently oppose each other in the court room. They are James Park, vigorous Commonwealth's Attorney, and George R. Smith, noted criminal lawyer. Park was a star quarterback on the football team and was a pitcher on the baseball team. Smith was a vicious tackle. Park pitched for the St. Louis Browns in the American League after his graduation until he grooved one to a Boston Red Sox pitcher whose name was Babe Ruth. Ruth lost the ball. Park lost his job.

Bill Tuttle, famous University of Kentucky half-back of 20 years ago, who now manages a big pineapple plantation in Hawaii, visited his alma mater during spring football practice and voiced amazement at the improvement of the Wildcats and football in general.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky and one of the outstanding educators of America, is an ardent football fan.

A survey among Lexington professional men shows that physicians and surgeons are among the most rabid football enthusiasts. If someone were to shout, "Is there a doctor in the stands?" he would probably be answered by a mighty chorus.

In addition to the similarity of names of two University of Kentucky football players—Simpson and Sympson—both are red heads, both are full-backs and both are members of the track team, on which both excel in throwing the javelin and discus.

Prehistoric Americans once lived, fought, died and were buried on the University of Kentucky football fields. Excavations last summer revealed the bones of an Indian child, boxed in with flat stones, buried under the practice field. Other Indian graves and artifacts have been found beneath the surface of Stoll Field. So far, no prehistoric footballs have been unearthed.

The University of Kentucky football team meets two "bowl" winners this fall. On November 2 the Kentucky Wildcats play Alabama, which won the Rose Bowl game from Stanford last New Year's. On November 16 the Kentuckians meet Tulane, winner of last winter's Sugar Bowl game from Temple.

John "Frenchy" DeMoisey, All-Southeastern Conference basketball center of 1933 and '34, was given a tryout as a pitcher with the Louisville Colonels of the American Association last summer.

Visitors from all over the world come to Kentucky to see the much talked of blue grass. The finest stretch of blue grass turf in Kentucky carpets Stoll Field, where the University of Kentucky Wildcats play football.

A versatile young man is "Andy" Anderson, University of Kentucky athlete. Not only is he an end on the Wildcat football team and a great guard on the basketball team, but he also is a first rate student and is making his way through the University by directing his own orchestra, which is greatly in demand for dances at Lexington. In the Kentucky-New York University basketball game last winter, Anderson was acclaimed by Gotham sports writers as the greatest basketball star ever to play in Madison Square Garden.

The University of Kentucky practice football field, where the Wildcats prepare for their Saturday afternoon battles, had its face lifted during the summer. In the past it was a morass in wet weather and as hard as a brick when the weather was dry. With a tile drainage system, a well plowed surface and a new stand of blue grass, the old field has been improved greatly, thus lowering the chances for injury to players during practice.

Chet Wynne, football coach and athletic director at the University of Kentucky, has not missed returning to his alma mater, Notre Dame University, at commencement time since his graduation from that institution in 1922. Mr. Wynne was a great football and track star at Notre Dame during the halcyon Rockne days at South Bend.

Bert Johnson, All-Southeastern Conference half-back last year as a sophomore in the University of Kentucky backfield, caused the Rose Bowl winning Alabama team more grief in 1934 than any other player. In one game he scored two touchdowns against the Crimson Tide. One of these was a 69-yard run, the longest individual gain made against Alabama all season.

Ted Twomey, Notre Dame graduate and line coach at the University of Kentucky, spent the summer at his camp for boys on Lake Spene, in the Province of Ontario, Canada.

Col. J. H. Graham, newly appointed dean of the College of Engineering, University of Kentucky, was a great football player as an undergraduate at the University of Kentucky, from which he was graduated in the class of 1900. He played left guard on the "Immortas of 1898", which team was undefeated, untied and unscored on. Colonel Graham is an internationally known engineer and the author of "Joseph, the Husband of Mary." During the World War he was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal by the United States Government and the Legion of Honor by the French. He is one of Kentucky's most distinguished graduates.

That Chet Wynne, head football coach at the University of Kentucky, doesn't mind tough competition, is indicated by the fact that he has scheduled two of the strongest elevens of the country for his Wildcats this fall. They are Alabama, champion of the Rose Bowl, and the powerful Ohio State University eleven.

The University of Kentucky football team will play two games in Ohio and two in Alabama this fall. They play Xavier University at Cincinnati and Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio, and they will meet Auburn at Montgomery and Alabama at Birmingham, Ala.

Football players at the University of Kentucky range in height from 5 feet 7 inches up to 6 feet 4 inches. The largest man on the squad is Franklin Wallace, Jr., Lexington, who weighs 225 pounds and towers 6 feet 4 inches. His reach is the same as that of Primo Carnera.

Chet Wynne, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Kentucky, and S. A. "Daddy" Boles, graduate manager of athletics, spent two weeks during the past summer at Line Coach Ted Twomey's camp at Lake Spene, in the wilds of Canada. They brought back photographic proof of their success as anglers.

When Coach Wynne of the University of Kentucky Wildcats calls for "Red" he is likely to be answered by four fiery thatched football players, all of whom are called "Red". They are "Red" Simpson, "Red" Sympson, "Red" Hagan, and "Red" Craig, three of whom are sophomores.

Sam Potter, guard on the University of Kentucky football squad, underwent an operation this summer in order to be in shape to play football this fall. He recuperated at his home town, Whitesburg, Ky.

Russell Ellington, one of the leading candidates for an end position on the 1935 University of Kentucky football team, did not go out for the freshman football team in 1934, concentrating on basketball. After winning his letter in basketball as a sophomore he decided to try out for the football team during spring practice, and is considered one of the best end prospects on the squad.

TENNIS

Under the expert tutelage of Coach H. H. Downing, the University of Kentucky tennis team experienced another successful season in 1935, winning four matches and losing two.. Four other matches were scheduled, but inclement weather would not permit the playing off of these.

One man on the squad was lost by graduation, and with this same combination back next year, Kentucky is sure to have another cracker-jack net team. The scores of the five matches are as follows:

Kentucky 7, Berea 2; Kentucky 6, Berea 3; Kentucky 6, Vanderbilt 3; Kentucky 0, Alabama 6; Kentucky 7, Auburn 2; Kentucky 0, Georgia 9.

Eight received varsity K's. They are: Charles Randall, Dave Randall, Capt. Jas. Moore, Elvis Stahr, Alt. Capt. George Tullock, Lawrence Jenkins, Marion Brown, and George Skinner. James Moore and Elvis Stahr were elected co-captains for 1936.

Since its formation in 1922 the tennis team has participated in 118 dual meets, winning 76, losing 39, and tying 3.

GOLF

After being on the athletic shelf for the year 1933, the University of Kentucky again backed a golf team last year, and it was one of the best all-around teams ever to be at the University.

Captained by J. D. Haggard, the Kentucky golfers wound up the season by winning the Intercollegiate State championship. To top off this successful season Johnny Eversole, Lexington, seeded number one man on the team, won the individual Intercollegiate State championship.

The scores of the matches follow: Kentucky 2 1-2, Tennessee 15 1-2; Kentucky 9 1-2, Eastern State Teachers College 8 1-2; Kentucky 11, Eastern State Teachers College 7; Kentucky 10, University of Louisville 8; Kentucky 14, University of Louisville 4; Kentucky 3, University of Dayton 15; Kentucky 5, University of Dayton 13; Kentucky 18, Western State Normal 0.

Five men received their K's. They are: J. D. Haggard, John Eversole, Walter Hillenmeyer, Louis Hillenmeyer, and Jack Howard. The prospects for a successful team next year are great. Haggard is the only man lost by graduation.

TRACK

Led by Ben Willis, the sophomore sprint ace, Coach Bernie Shively's University of Kentucky Wildcat track team succeeded in winning three out of five meets during the 1935 season. Willis was high point man of the Wildcat thinlies, scoring a total of 89 points.

Opening the season against Vanderbilt, the Kentucky tracksters scored 85 points, and defeated the Commodores 85 to 32. Their second meet was won by almost as large a score when they defeated Hanover College 77 to 54. After a week's rest Coach Shively sent his squad against Berea and they again scored 85 points, defeating the little college 85 to 46.

This third victory ended the Wildcat's winning streak, and in their next two meets with Georgia Tech and Tennessee they lost 81-50 and 68-48, respectively.

With most of the 1936 squad returning, Coach Shively expects to have one of the best track teams ever to be at the University. Jack Crain, Jackson, Ky., was elected to captain the Wildcats for 1936.

BASKETBALL

Without a doubt Kentucky can be said to have the best basketball team in the country, and it is only because of a few tough breaks that this title is not put on the records. Last season the Wildcats played a suicide schedule of 20 games and won 18 of them—losing to New York University 23 to 22, and to Michigan State College.

However, the loss of these two encounters did not put much of a black mark on the Kentuckians record, although it did keep them from being National Champions. Instead they won the Southeastern Conference championship by going through that division without being defeated. It made the third consecutive year that the Wildcats have not been defeated by any Conference quintet.

Under the capable leadership of Coach Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's affable basketball mentor, the Wildcats have won 85 games and have lost 11 in the time that he has been here. There is no other collegiate basketball team in the country which holds such a record. On top of this the Wildcats hold the world's record for number of consecutive games won. They took this title in 1932-33-34 when they won 24 straight games before they were defeated.

Besides holding all of these records the Wildcats have turned out many All-Conference players and two All-Americans. Out of the 25 all-conference players selected during the past five years, 13 of them have been Kentucky Wildcats, while the All-American teams of 1932, 1933, and 1935 each contained a Kentuckian. In 1932 and 1933 it was Forest "Aggie" Sale, Kentucky's great forward, who was selected for All-American honors. In 1935 it was Leroy "Big Ed" Edwards who was selected for the All-American center position. Sales was twice selected as an All-American forward, but Edwards has the fine chance of being an All-American center for three consecutive years. Another Wildcat cage star to receive All-American mention was Capt. Dave Lawrence, whose accurate shooting eye was one of the main reasons why the Wildcat basketball team was always in the limelight.

The 1935-36 season probably will be one of the toughest that any Wildcat quintet has ever encountered. Coach Rupp has completed another suicide schedule for his cagers, but this time it will be even harder than last season's. Included in this game list are such teams as Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Creighton, and of course, a return game with New York University.

If all goes well next season Kentucky can well say that she has the best coach and the best basketball team of any university in the nation.
