

THE KENTUCKY KERNEL

Kentuckian Distribution Begins Tuesday Afternoon

Distribution of the 1951 Kentucky will begin at 1 p.m. on Tuesday in the Kentuckian office, Room 55, McVey Hall. Business Manager Fred Dorr has announced that the books will be distributed Wednesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday, June 2, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

January and June graduates and students who purchased subscriptions may pick up their books any time during the week. Seniors automatically receive a Kentuckian upon presentation of their graduation fee receipts. Graduation fee receipts must be shown, along with identification, before a senior can receive his book.

Veterans who are January or June graduates receive their books when their fees have been cleared through the comptroller's office. They need only show identification, as the Kentuckian has a list of approved payments.

August graduates cannot pick up their Kentuckians until the end of the summer session, but they may be obtained in the Kernel Business Office.

Students who purchased subscriptions must present their receipts and show identification.

All students who have ordered Kentuckians and graduating seniors should pick them up before noon on Saturday, June 2. No Kentuckians will be given out during the summer except to August graduates.

The 1951 Kentuckian is bigger and better than ever. This year's book boasts 400 pages, and many added features. Among these are cartoons throughout the book, and life and sports sections have been increased over last year's total, and color photographs have been added to the division pages.

Other Kentuckians on sale will be the 1947-48 editions.

Annual 4-H Club Meeting Begins On Campus June 5

4-H Club members from the 120 counties of Kentucky will converge on the UK campus Tuesday, June 5, for 4-H Club week activities.

This annual event, which was initiated 25 years ago, is sponsored by the College of Agriculture to acquaint teen-age farmers with modern methods in farm work, as well as offer them opportunities to compete in various skills. Famous speakers will address the group on such things as youth problems, religion and sports. Among the speakers will be Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, a former 4-H Clubber.

Ten outstanding members are allowed to be sent from each county and each representative will be chosen on a competitive basis. The members will stay in the men's and women's dormitories, and will have their meals in the cafeteria.

CALIFORNIA BOUND: UK's representative to the Football Festival is Pat Moore, last year's Kentuckian Queen. Marge Barnett, the 1951 Kylian Queen, will serve as alternate if Pat is unable to attend. UK's "Miss Football" selected Wednesday by members of the Mountain Laurel Queen Committee, will represent UK at Berkeley, California's Festival during the week of Sept. 17. Her award includes an all-expense paid trip to Berkeley, and a week of quietly living.

84th Commencement Foreseen By Donovan As UK's Greatest; Baccalaureate Services Scheduled

1200 Graduating Seniors Comprise 3rd Largest Class

The 84th University of Kentucky commencement week program will officially open Sunday with a baccalaureate address in Memorial Coliseum by Frederick Keller Stamm, noted minister and author.

The baccalaureate service, scheduled for 8 p.m., will be the final week exercise in the third largest graduating class in the University's 86-year history.

Dr. Stamm, who will speak on "Modern Man's Predicament," was educated at Franklin and Marshall College and the Theological Seminary at Lancaster, Pa. He received his Doctor of Divinity degree at Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga.

ALTHOUGH BEGINNING his work in a backwoods parish, Dr. Stamm has noted for his ministry at the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church in Brooklyn, N.Y., and the First Congregational Church in Chicago.

Ralph W. Sockman Will Deliver Major Address To Grads

"The finest University of Kentucky commencement ever" — an appraisal sponsored by President Herman L. Donovan — will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 1 in Memorial Coliseum. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Church, New York City, will deliver the commencement address.

Dr. Donovan has expressed his belief that this commencement, UK's 84th, will be unequalled for beauty and inspiration. He predicted that Dr. Sockman, a man whom Dr. Donovan regards as one of America's foremost, will deliver an address which his audience will long remember.

14 Classes Will Reunite During Graduation Week

Reunions of 14 UK graduating classes ranging from 1889 to 1940 will highlight alumni activities of the 84th annual commencement week exercises. Miss Helen King, secretary of the UK Alumni Association, has announced.

Luncheons for the returning classes have been scheduled for May 31 at various places in Lexington, and the annual alumni banquet will be held that night in the Bluegrass Room of the Student Union. Speakers for the latter event will be 14's Guy Huggett of Lexington, now chairman of the executive committee of the University Board of Trustees.

Recently named one of the 50 outstanding clergymen of any denomination in the United States today, Dr. Sockman has had a distinguished career since his entrance into the ministry in 1917.

SINCE 1928 he has ministered to the people of the United States and Canada through the medium of radio. Dr. Sockman's National Radio Pulpit is carried by the National Broadcasting Company each Sunday morning from October to May.

President of the Church Peace Union, a Carnegie Foundation, and the World Peace Commission, Dr. Sockman is also chairman of the World Council of Churches.

In 1941 Dr. Sockman delivered the famous Truman Becher Lecture at Yale University, and for two years lectured in various parts of the United States. He is director of the Hall of Fame for Famous Americans and recently received the appointment of Associate Professor of Practical Theology at Union Theological Seminary.

In 1948 Dr. Sockman was a delegate to the first Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam. He is now a member of the Central Committee of that body which meets every summer.

AT 7 P.M. JUNE 1 the Commencement Procession will form on the campus at Allen Field and the Student Union Building.

The Aide de Camp to the President will be Charles A. Morrey, Second Lieutenant, U.S. Army. G. T. Mackenzie, U.S. Army, will serve as Marshal of the Day. Thirty other Army and Air Force personnel will act as assistants to the Marshal of the Day.

Heading the Order of March will be the University Band, followed by the National and University Colors, the University of Kentucky Glee Club, the University of Kentucky Glee Club, and the University of Kentucky Glee Club.

Others on the banquet program include President H. L. Donovan, Alumni President R. Denney, and the Rev. W. Robert Lusk, the 1947 graduate who is now rector of Christ Church, Lexington. The Alumni Association's annual business meeting, at which officers for the coming year will be announced, is scheduled for May 31 during the banquet program.

All of the alumni events, however, are scheduled at least to the thirty members of the class of 1901, — will be the presentation of the Golden Jubilee certificates at the June 1 commencement program.

The Half-Century Club is comprised of those alumni with 50 years of "loyalty" to the University. The club, the brain child of Miss King, was started in 1949 when all living graduates of the Class of 1899 and all graduates of previous classes were made eligible for membership. In that first year 18 UK graduates of the 19th Century tracked "home" to Lexington to be made members. Last year 11 members of the class of 1900 received certificates of membership. The oldest member of the club as well as the oldest member of the Alumni Association is Dr. Meredith Pettit, class of 1890, who lives near Lexington.

McVey To Speak In Honor Of Retiring Dean Cooper

Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, retiring dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will be honored at UK's annual Commencement Luncheon Friday, June 1 at 1 p.m. in the Bluegrass Room of the Student Union. Speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Frank L. McVey, UK President Emeritus.

The acclamation will come just one month before the 70-year-old educator steps down from his threefold job as dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, and director of the Agricultural Extension Division, positions he has held continuously for 33 years.

At the luncheon, to which all seniors, their families, faculty members, and staff members are invited, Dean Cooper will receive gifts from friends throughout Kentucky, and achievements of his administration will be presented to the University.

During the program formal announcement will be made of the formation of the Thomas P. Cooper Agricultural Foundation. This is a non-profit organization designed to administer agricultural research and scholarship funds contributed by Kentuckians in appreciation of Dean Cooper's service to the state. A gift of $500 has been made by the Fayette County Farm Bureau.

Farm families from all over the Commonwealth and hundreds of UK alumni returning to the campus for commencement week activities are expected to attend the luncheon.

Ben Butler, Fayette County agricultural agent, is serving as chairman of a committee arranging the luncheon.

Reservations Open For Commencement

Graduating seniors may pick up their reservations for the Commencement exercises at the Student Union of Women's Office. Each senior will have three reserved tickets for relatives and friends wishing to attend the Commencement exercises on June 1.

Tickets not claimed by 9 a.m. on June 1 may be picked up only by seniors who want more reserved tickets.

Music family members and friends who do not have reserved seats on the Coliseum's west side may sit in the student section on the east side.

Moral—Kernel Is Moving

Old Newspapers Never Die—They Just Change Locations

By Dorman Cordell

The Kernel is moving out of the "Dungeon."

June 4 is moving day for the Kentucky Kernel printing plant, and the Kernel newspaper will follow just as soon as new furniture arrives. The new Journalism Building will be the home of the Kernel.

The University Press, now on South Limestone St., will occupy about one-half of the space now on the ground-floor used by the Kernel, according to tentative plans announced by Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president of the University. Expanded of the University Postoffice will take up about one-fourth of the space, and classrooms will be built in the additional space.

The basement, which now houses the Kernel newsroom and the press which prints the Kernel, will be used for storage.

THE KERNEL NEWSROOM, which is usually called the "Dungeon," and sometimes more unprintable names, has been in the basement of McVey since 1929, when it moved from the basement of Miller Hall. This newsroom has been a kernel staff members.

Hundreds of names could be included on the list, but a few of the more notable ones include John Day, Courier-Journal Washington correspondent; John Ed Pearce, editorial writer for the Courier-Journal; Kenneth Gregory of the Associated Press; Fred Coun, a publisher in Texas; Melvina Pumphrey, a public relations director in Hollywood; O. K. Barnes, a California newsmen; Larry Shropshire, sports editor of the Lexington Leader; Olie James, columnist for the Cincinnati Enquirer; Tom Riley of NBC; and Morton Walker, dead at men at the University of Louisville.

LOOKING THROUGH OLD KERNELS, one also sees such names as William Ardey, now a public relations worker for General Motors; Ralph Johnson, photograph editor of the Associated Press in the South; Woodson Knight, editor of Atlanta Refining Company's trade publication; John Craddock, art editor of a chain of trade journals in Washington; Joe Palmer, a syndicated turf writer; Gilbert Kingsbury, with WILW as a Washington staff member; James Miner and Joe Quinn of the Cincinnati Post; R. W. Wild, public relations director at UK; Dak Irvine, with the United Nations in Europe; William Arthur, Washington editor of Look Magazine; J. B. Fautoner, WIAF sports-caster; and hundreds of Kentucky newsmen and editors. And so the list goes.

After a shutdown of about two weeks, the Kernel printing plant will resume operations with what W. D. Grote, manager of the Kernel Press, calls "one of the best printing plants in the whole county."

TWO NEW PIECES of equipment will be in operation in the new location. An offset press is now ready for installation, and a larger letter press, which will take a sheet about twice as big as is now possible, will be installed. These will enable the Kernel Press to do a wider range of printing.

The business office will be moved along with the presses. The entire staff will be done by professional workers and will cost about $300.

"After we're set up, we'll be in better position to handle the University's printing on schedule," Mr. Grote said. "We'll have practically all the equipment of latest and most modern design to do it."

"We'll also continue to print books for the University Press, which we started this spring. We have already turned out three full-sized books which compare favorably with work done by large book-publishing firms," he added.

The three books printed by the Kernel Press this year are "The Impact of War on Federal Personnel" by Dr. Gladys Kammerer of the Political Science Department, "The Secular Lyric in Middle English" by Arthur Moore of the English Department, and "The University of Kentucky: Origins and Early Years," by Dr. James F. Hopkins, associate professor of history.

MEMBERS OF THE KERNEL editorial staff have suffered from heat, dripping grease (from the presses upstairs), and diverse inconveniences for, these many years. In summer, the Kernel newsroom is too hot; in the winter, it is too cold.

NEW PRESIDENT of the Interfraternity Council is Commerce Guy Cayce. He will head the council beginning in September.

Cayce Will Head Interfraternity Gavel

Bob Cayce, junior in the College of Commerce, was elected president of the Interfraternity Council at the regular May meeting.

Other new officers are Carl Turner, vice president; Fred Davis, secretary; and George Fisher, treasurer. They will take office at the beginning of the fall semester.

Draft Test Requests Must Be In Tonight

All applications for the Selective Service College Qualification Test must be postmarked not later than midnight tonight, May 25. The application blanks may be obtained by registrants at any local board office, regardless of whether or not it is the board which has jurisdiction over the registrant.

Selective Service officials reported that "the books have been completed and will be sent for this group on Thursday, July 12. The final May 25 deadline will apply to the July 12 test as well as to the earlier tests."

Alum Group To Play Host

Dr. Dorman Cordell
Hey, look! Free coffee! and coffee! Yes, it's a fact. The Alumni Association will serve free coffee and coffee Tuesday through Friday to all members, and from 1 to 4 each afternoon and anybody else that happens to be around.

The Music Room of the SUB will be the scene of action. Two hostesses will be on duty from 9 to 12 each morning, and from 1 to 4 each afternoon.

This is the first time refreshments have been served during exams, but if it is successful, the Alumni Association announced, it will become an annual practice.

"We hope for further better relations between the Alumni Association and the students," Miss Helen King, secretary of the Alumni Association said. "We thought it would be interesting for students to come in between exams and have a cup of coffee or a coke."

Remember, this is free," she added.

A word of advice: don't get tangled in the rush. There's plenty for everyone.

THEY COULDN'T WAIT. Members of Dr. Niel Plummer's Law of the Press class couldn't wait until next year to move into the almost completed Journalism Building, so they persuaded him to hold one class there this semester. Seating accommodations weren't too good, but the students seem to enjoy Dr. Plummer's witty lecture.

ARE THEIR EXAMS OVER? Must be, for these students are enjoying the free coffee and coffee offered by the Alumni Association in the Music Room of the SUB for those suffering during exam week. Students and faculty members can glare or grin at each other here from Tuesday through Friday.

Editor's Letters

Student Says I-M Program Needs To Be Reorganized

Dear Editor: I have a general complaint to make. I say general because I have talked to many students on the campus, and they feel as I do, namely, that an adequate, well-thought-out, well-planned and well-executed intramural program is lacking.

Back To Nature

The Coliseum may be great and wonderful and all that, and the University is fortunate to have such a building-for athletic contests. But it's hardly the best place available for commencement activities.

Retrospect

A year of editing the Kernel teaches a person a lot about the University. This peculiar position in the middle of the stream of campus life gives us an inside view of the workings of a great institution. We find out what makes things tick from the smallest campus club to the state legislature.

Bugs Or Bats?

Dear Editor: I'm just a poor freshman here at UK, and I try like heck to make a standing. Usually I get to bed before midnight after studying like crazy. Every now and then some crazy Zoology student has been collecting bugs. If you think those guys look pretty bad during the day, you should get a closer look at them when they're in their element.

Stewpot

Column (?) Devoted To Finer Things

Because of numerous requests I have lots of relatives in school here) the Stewpot returns to make itself obvious this week. Luckily, this is its last appearance. We have received several dirty jokes recently. This is a mistake; these should be sent to Paul Knapp, because the Stewpot is a serious column for lovers of the finer things of life, as you can plainly see.

The Lexington News, or Community News, or whatever in the world it is - It changes names from week to week - has a little column devoted to "Finer Things". One of the items was, "They say one of the Sorath Brothers still works in a mill; and since they show his nose." Now, we don't mean to say that our copywriters as none-way are there of blowing one's nose?

1780 To 1910 Hopkins Outlines Early UK History In Book To Be Released This Week

The first published history of UK, "The University of Kentucky: Origin and Early Years", by Dr. James F. Hopkins, associate professor of history, will be sold on campus during commencement week for $3.00 which is a 10 per cent discount to students and alumni.

Students Given Opportunity To Enroll In Summer Camps

For the first time this summer, French and American students in the summer camps of the Inter-University French Federation of Great Britain and Ireland, and the French Union will be given the opportunity to enroll in summer camps.

Ex-Days Far From Ecstasy For Students

The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year. No more will students have to do without their pretzels and their beer. Prof. Drake, hard, they make it tough, they'll have the students rough, until they cry out, "Please! Enough!" This is exam time.

Home Ec Coeds Learn Planning, Cooking, Meals

"Girls, if you want to keep your husband happy, feed him well," is a favorite saying of Mrs. Roberts Taylor, instructor in the UK Home Economics Department. That is just exactly what she is teaching the girls to do - cook and plan good meals.

Scherago To Spend Year In Far East

Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the Department of Bacteriology, will serve as visiting professor of bacteriology and preventive medicine at two Siamese medical schools for the next 12 months. He will leave for Bangkok, Siam during the week of June.

Old Newspapers

dead of winter, the Kernel newspaper is too hot; in spring, the Kernel newspaper is too hot. Staff members say the newspaper has never been so hot in its history.

The Final 30

The "30" that will be written at the bottom of this editorial means more than just the usual "end of this piece of copy." This "30" is final. It means this is the last Kernel this staff will put out, perhaps the last in this worn, old office which has seen so many Kernel staffs come and go.

Louisa Wilson Carries UK Colors At Fest

Miss Louisa Wilson will represent UK in the 1951 Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival being held at Pineville today. She is one of sixteen candidates representing Kentucky colleges and universities.

One of these candidates will be chosen as the 1951 festival queen this afternoon in a pageant at Laurel Cove, Pine Mountain State Park. Gov. Lawrence Wetherby will crown the queen, who will be chosen by a secret committee.

Other features of the 3-day festival which began yesterday include a parade, a grand ball in honor of the queen tonight and a concert by the Fort Knox band.

Engineers Choose Outstanding Seniors

James Alvin Howard, Billy Fraiser Eads, Charles Ward, and Bernard Willett last week were chosen Outstanding Engineering Seniors by a secret vote of an engineering student assembly.

These students, selected from a slate of names presented by the Kentucky Engineers, were chosen on a basis of academic standing, campus activities, and attitude toward class work and fellow students. Each of the honored students received an engineering manual.

Coolson Will Speak To Advertising Club

Prof. Frank Coolson, of the College of Commerce, will speak at the meeting of the Lexington Advertising Club at noon Tuesday. The meeting will be held in the Red Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

His topic will be "Consumer Research in the Bluegrass Area." All students interested in advertising and consumer research may attend.

Article In 'Look' Blasts Sororities

College sororities were attacked in an article in Look magazine written by an ex-member of a sorority. She accused the sororities of being hotbeds of snobbery, intellectual dishonesty, and racial discrimination.

Sororities are a stangle both for the girls who are excluded and those who join, says Rosanne Smith Robinson, a graduate of Northwestern University. The systematic snubbing of non-members often leads to later unhappiness. It is the chosen few who become the real victims, she continued.

Intergroup Relations Seminar To Meet Here This Summer

Forty community leaders from Kentucky and other southeastern states will meet this summer at the University for a six-week Seminar in Intergroup Relations sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The seminar is to be directed by Dr. Gordon W. Lovejoy, N.C.C.J. consultant in intergroup education. It will begin on June 18 and continue through July 27.

During the session, enrollees will study the causes and types of tension arising between groups having different religious, ethnic, or cultural backgrounds. Attention will also be given to the techniques and methods that have been developed for prevention of such tensions. Particular consideration will be given to the South's problems and needs in regard to intergroup relations.

The seminar is designed primarily to meet the needs of teachers, recreational leaders, ministers, social workers, law enforcement officers, and other community leaders. Tuition and fees will be $30 for Kentuckians and $60 for those from other states.

The N.C.C.J.'s Kentucky regional office, Louisville, has $1500 available for seminar scholarships. Kentuckians who wish to apply for this scholarship aid may do so by writing Mr. Howard W. Beers, head of the UK department of Rural Sociology, or Dean Morton Walker at the Louisville office.

Social Scene Clara-fying Campus Capers

By Clara Early

This is it. The last edition of the Kentucky Kernel for the 50-51 school year. What a year it has been. We will all remember. There have been many great parties, lots of fun, and also plenty of work. (Now ain't that poetic!) Seriously, it has been a good year, let's not forget it.

MADLEINE MACMILLAN, Delta Zeta, was chosen as the sweetheart of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity at the chapter's "Coronation Ball" Saturday night.

Selections From John J. Niles' Oratorio Will Be Sung At Baccalaureate Service

By Ed Colman

Selections from John Jacob Niles' oratorio "Lamentation" will be performed by the University Chorus at the baccalaureate service. The work had its premiere performance a few weeks ago at Indiana State Teachers College.

The oratorio which the composer has called a "homage upon Gregorian chants and folk music. Its text is taken from the Bible.

The visitor to the home of John Jacob Niles reads an inscription carved by the composer on the outer front door of the house which "screams up the hill. This inscription introduces the visitor to a wonderful household and a wonderful person.

"This house (which is the home of John Jacob Niles, Remi L. Niles, John Edward Niles, and Michael Tulliver Niles) is dedicated to the memory of the Anglo-Saxon people which in elder times had celebrated the process and cheered the halls of our earliest ancestors and having also cheered us had come out from this spot to the ends of the Earth, speaking words of peace.

JOHN JACOB NILES is a dynamic person. He sings, composes, and collects folk ballads. He also paints and farms. His interests are legion. He talks about early Italian composers, military history, or almost any subject with great enthusiasm and knowledge.

He was one of the 77 original aviators in World War I. He has led in the collecting and singing of folk ballads. A list of his accomplishments would take up the length of the page. As one person remarked, "How could so much artistic genius be in one person?"

He spoke about his oratorio, "Lamentation" in this manner, "I knew exactly what I wanted to say but I didn't know how to say it. Many times a composer reaches dead spots in his work. Bishop Moody of Lexington helped inspire me during the composition."

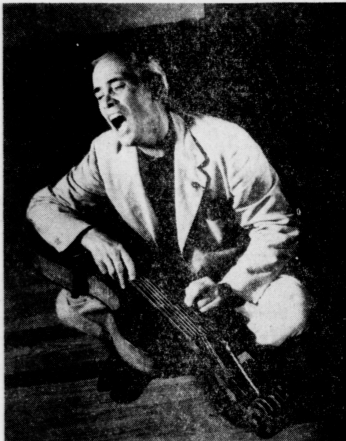

The composer had something to say about composing in general. "You don't have to play a word to hear it. I hear it before and after I write it. You've got to see the whole thing before you can write it."

MR. NILES THINKS that the folklore courses at the University are simply grand. He complimented Prof. William Jansen by calling him "magisterial."

He used an anecdote to illustrate the part that he himself has played in working with folklore. "When I went off to the first war, my father said to me, 'Everything that comes from the top down like a mountainous stream. Generals are leave rough for armies, colonels are rough on down to sergeants, sergeants are rough on down to privates. You will have to be rough enough for all of the men you command. Don't say go on, say come on.' That's what I've been trying to do to the American people since the war. I've been trying to bring folk music all of my life."

Mr. Niles spoke of his preferences in books. "Greek drama, Chaucer, and Douglas Southall Freeman's 'Lee: Lieutenant' were my favorite reading for years. "I don't see how a person can do any writing or composing without coming in contact with Greek drama. The psychological motives are the same now as they were then."

HIS MUSICAL TASTES are also varied. "I listen to Bach's 'Passion

Music. "Christmas Oratorio," Mozart's "Requiem," and the first three symphonies of Brahms.

"At present I am composing a Christmas Oratorio which I hope to finish in five years. I want to say it in a different way from Mr. Bach."

One of the composer's greatest thrills is the knowledge that his music is played over the Voice of America stations. A recording of "Lamentation" made at the premiere performance had already been beamed to the Iron Curtain.

"On Christmas Eve during the fighting in the Ardennes some of the GI's in the front lines rigged up a receiver set in a destroyed German tank. The Germans were receiving the same station in their lines. BBC was broadcasting a record I had made of 'I Wonder As I Wander.' The song was going up and down the Ardennes on both sides of the front."

Replies Slow For Info Book

The proposed Alpha Phi Omega information booklet on every campus organization cannot be published unless more replies to information requests are received immediately. Evangelos Levas, president, has stated. He said that letters were sent to advisors of all campus organizations three months ago, and that only 53 replies to 123 letters have been received so far.

Levas emphasized that the booklet, which will contain information about all campus organizations, how to join them, who to contact for particulars, and fees, will be given to all freshmen and will be available to all students. He pointed out that this is an ideal way for campus organizations to contact interested students.

To be in the booklet, replies must be sent to Levas at 332 Chinoe Road, Lexington, before the end of June.

Jest Knappin'

By Paul Knapp

No one can say that I don't take my column seriously. I'm even taking a summer job as a traveling salesman of sorts, just for the purpose of tracing the authenticity of all the farmer's daughter jokes. I probably won't make much money at it.

Along about this time of year I should thank all those souls who have often said humorously contributed to the orzy. Especially I would like to thank a couple of boys who write columns in other papers down South, that is, Martin Medick and Johnnie Nowell. Both are jokesters in the first degree. Also I would like to thank all my friends for telling me the unprintable jokes. I enjoyed them anyway. By the grace of God and next-editor Wiltz I'll be seeing you next fall.

Jack: Say old man, can you let me have five... Tom: "No..." Jack: "...minutes of your time?" Tom: "...trouble at all, old scout."

Teacher: "Johnny, do you wish to leave the room?" Johnny: "I ain't hitch-hiking."

Boss: "You're an hour late getting home with those mules, Bill." Bill: "I know it. You see I picked up Reverend Davis on the way home, and from there on the mules couldn't understand a word I said."

The hillbilly with a daisy blonde hanging on his arm, took the pen handed him by the hotel clerk and signed the register with an X. With a thoughtful look on his face, he hesitated, then circled the X.

"A lot of people sign with an X," said the clerk, "but this is the first time I've ever seen one circled." "Tain't nuthin' so daburn strange about it," replied the hayseed. "When I'm running around with wild women, I don't use my right name."

A doctor from the Infirmary, we understand, examined a woman patient and cheerily remarked: "Mrs. Smith, I have some good news for you."

"Mrs. Smith, the patient replied, "It's MISS Smith."

"Miss Smith, I have some bad news for you."

She (in parked car): "What would you do if you were in my place?" He: "You don't have any roller skates with you, do you?" She: "No." He: "Then don't ask silly questions."

Her form was, oh so nice;

And me I scanned it. (You should have read the rest. Before the censor banned it.) You have all heard a lot of talk about all the good will. That's strictly bunk, friend. They will not. "Shall we boil this guy?" said one cannibal to the other as he trussed up the clergyman. "No, he's a friar," said the other.

LEWIS DONOHUE
Kernel Sports Editor

Sports editors of school newspapers usually wind up their final columns with a lot of recommendations, thank you's and "Good-bye, I'll miss you." On a minor scale, that is what I intend to do.

The past year has been a very pleasant one for the sports staff of the Kernel. The staff has had the good fortune of being able to report on one of the most successful seasons in history for Kentucky athletic teams. The tests of our tournament-champion basketball team and our best-champion football team, which have been the talk of the nation, have been our special babies. Very few sports staffs anywhere have ever been in our position.

A little bit of the prestige of these teams has rubbed off on us because of our association with them. We enjoy that, too.

Our only disappointment of the year has been in the basketball team, which performed roughly throughout the season and wound up its schedule far down in the conference about the basketballers, but that will be taken up in the "recommendations" section.

And so my "Goodbye, I'll miss you" is to the athletic teams of UK. I only wish that I could be here as sports editor again next year but don't get any ideas on how to help me, any of you professors. Nevertheless, I'll always be rooting for you. Good luck to you!

My first recommendation is that the baseball team get a new full-time baseball coach. In saying this, I do not want to darken the record of Coach Harry Lancaster as a person or as a basketball coach. I think the latter two will speak for themselves.

However, this year's mark made by the baseball team leaves little doubt in the minds of its followers that some drastic change must be made.

Coach Lancaster has worked long and hard at basketball, which is becoming more and more a year-round job. This is one of the reasons I believe that he should remain only in basketball, rather than working also in baseball.

One of the complaints that has come up this year and in past years when the University has had a baseball coach who was associated with either basketball or football is that men who played in these sports were favored in selection.

Creation of the job of full-time baseball coach would eliminate these charges, as well as providing that the coach would have more time to work with his team and have a thorough knowledge of the candidate's abilities before making his selections.

This year Lancaster was busy

Joneses Lead SAE's To I-M Track Crown

Beat Delts 62-35; Twins Score 32

Harry and Larry Jones led Sigma Alpha Epsilon to a resounding victory in the intramural track meet held last Thursday, scoring enough points between them to almost beat runner-up Delta Tau Delta by themselves.

The Joneses netted 32 points in their team's total of 62, as opposed to the Delts total of 35 points. They finished one-two in the 100-yard dash and the broad jump, Harry finishing first in :04, and Larry second.

Larry took the broad jump on his final leap, which covered 22 feet, three and a quarter inches. Both boys had jumps bettering the marks set by the varsity track team. Up to that last try, Harry had the best mark with Tom Joyce second.

Another highlight of the meet was Willie Rouse's win in the 600-yard run. Competing in behalf of Kappa Alpha, the basketballing Rouse covered the distance in a time of 1:31 taking the race with plenty to spare.

George Lawson of Sigma Chi also turned in a creditable performance in hurrying the javelin 132 feet and 11 inches. The distance bettered that of the javelin throw, won by Bill Usher with a shove of 122 feet and seven inches. The closest man to Lawson was Zeta Beta Tau's Jim Wennerker with a throw of 118 feet.

Other wins notched by the Joneses were Harry's victory in the hurdles and Larry's tie for high honors in the high jump.

Scoring for other teams went as follows: Independents, 13; Kappa Alpha, 7; Sigma Chi, 9; Zeta Beta Tau, 11; Kappa Alpha, and Lambda Chi Alpha, 4; Sigma Nu and Alpha Gamma Rho, 3; and Kappa Sigma, 1.

Ramsey Paces Cat Batters For '51 Season

By Joe Howard

The Wildcats baseballers ended a mediocre season with a record of eight wins as against ten losses and a tie. In the SEC the Cats could manage only five wins while dropping nine and gaining the single tie.

Lack of ability in the field proved the downfall of Coach Lancaster's charges. The team had a fielding average of only .917 which isn't too impressive. Hitting didn't hamper the Kentuckians as they compiled a team average of a good .288. With some good fielding the Cats would have been right in the thick of the pennant chase. The better defense was guilty of 46 bobbles in 16 games.

On the brighter side of the ledger six of the regulars hit at a very respectable clip. Frank Ramsey led the batting brigade with a lofty .410. He was followed by Larry Jones with .355, Don Pucci with .340 and Bob Terrell with .333 to round the top bracket. Close to the select group were Walt Hirsch hitting at .296 clip and Harry Jones, who posted a .283 for his season's efforts.

Through the work of active campus organizations, Kentucky has become a leader in some of the minor sports. I would like to point out that the reason for the classification "minor sport" is because the attendance is smaller and not because the sport is of minor importance.

This year UK was a tournament host in fencing because of the contribution of a new scoring machine to the University by an outstanding campus organization.

Our school has had a new lighting system added to its intramural field because of organization interest in it, and it has had a new lighting system installed in its intramural field because of organization interest in it.

Of course many other things need to be done to improve these sports. They will come in time, we hope. But the actions of these organizations in showing the way are to be commended.

Graduating seniors who held membership in the campus Future Teachers of America were guests of honor at a farewell party last week.

Ann Wresman, past president of the campus FTA, and David McHenry, past president of the state FTA movement, were two of the 50 seniors honored.

Three Teams Compete For Softball Title

When Wednesday's rain postponed the finals of the Fraternity softball tournament, three teams were left in the running for the University Championship.

Phi Kappa Alpha and Delta Tau Delta were scheduled to play for the Green title Wednesday, but were rained out yesterday. Men's Dorms took the independent tournament last Thursday when they best Scott Street Barracks.

On Monday the Delts downed Phi Delta Theta easily, winning in a slugfest, 13-5. In the hitting department, the Delts held only a slight edge, but one big inning was enough for them to take the game easily.

Should the Delts have evened the score on PKA with a win yesterday, the two teams will play again today. The Phi Kaps best the Delts 1-0 earlier, and are undefeated. Thus DTD will have to win twice to eliminate PKA.

If the Phi Kaps won yesterday, they will meet the Dorms today for the championship—which is vested in one all-important game. If the Delts won, the final game will be re-set for Monday afternoon.

The Sullivan awards, presented each year to a citizen and two graduates of the state University of 15 Southern states, were established in 1923 by the New York Southern Society in memory of Algernon Sydney Sullivan, noted New York lawyer of the post-Civil War period.

Last year's "outstanding citizen" award was presented to Prof. Ezra Gillis, director of the UK Bureau of Source Materials in Higher Education. The student awards were received by Sara Mae Green of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Eugene Ryburn Weakley of the College of Agriculture.

In the past Sullivan awards have gone to such outstanding men as Vice President Albert W. Barkley and Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times.

Pharmacy Notes

By Eugene Miller

The American druggist was being tapped for an important new role as public officials expanded civil-defense preparations. The planner's aim: To use the nation's 100,000 registered pharmacists to insure a well-administered flow of drug supplies to stricken areas in case of enemy attack. The druggist would take over the job of storing and distributing pharmaceutical supplies in an emergency. 2. Organize round-the-clock shifts to handle local hospital supply departments. 3. Act as a clearing house for supply requests to the government.

BY EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE, the pharmacists are the logical persons for the job. Today's retail druggist is a combination scientist-businessman. In all states except Vermont, he must be a graduate of a four-year college or university pharmaceutical course. Whereas once the retail druggist faced a 60 hour (or more) work week, the present pharmacy graduate has his choice of some 50 allied professions. If he should turn to the corner drugstore, he usually can command $75 to start for a 40 hour week, and has a better chance of going into business for himself than most graduates in other fields.

But with better working conditions has come added responsibility. Pharmaceutical firms now spend more than 40 million dollars yearly on drug developments. The retail pharmacist joins the physician in channeling the benefits of this research to the public. Last year, druggists dispensed almost 40 million prescriptions. Ten years ago, 90 percent could not have been filled because the drugs used were unknown or untested. Like the doctor, the druggist must know drug dosage and effect, and must always be available for emergency calls.

THE EXPANSION of the profession has created a need for trained pharmacists. To help meet the demand the drug industry has formed the American Foundation for Pharmaceutical Education. It awards about $150,000 a year to help pharmaceutical schools and for
