Udall's 'Hunch': Possibility Of Bombing Halt In UN

By JEANNIE LEEDOM
Kernel Staff Writer

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall indicated Wednesday night that there is a possibility of a major step toward a bombing halt in Vietnam being taken in the next few days.

Udall said that it was only a "hunch" and "I bring no secrets from Washington."

Speaking at a Democratic rally at the Phoenix Hotel, Udall said that problems in the United States won't be solved by any single president. He said that we need a president who will bring us together as people and as equals.

Udall referred to the Democratic party as a "stand up and slug it out" party. He said that parties have to be renewed from time to time.

"I think Gene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy rendered a great service to the Democratic party. McCarthy and Kennedy enlisted new people in the Democratic party," said Udall. "Responsiveness to change is a vital factor for any party."

Speaking of Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Republican candidate Richard Nixon, he said that both candidates have made only one decision so far and that was in choosing their vice presidential candidates.

"About Spiro Agnew," Udall said, "someone has commented that he is a nice stupid man and that Nixon made a nice stupid choice."

"Edmund Muskie has been the surprise and star of this campaign." He referred to Muskie as a Lincoln-like image for the American people.

"There are great and burning issues before this country," said Udall. "The most vital question is how can we learn to work together as one people, learn to trust one another and learn to bridge the gaps between us."

Udall said, "We can move toward settlement of issues and peace or toward evaded issues. There is no one who has been bolder or more foresighted in trying to obtain peace than Hubert Humphrey. Wherever you look—in the field of conservation, civil rights, medicare, school aid—this man has been a pioneer in fighting for these issues."

SDS Thanks Senate For Convocation OK

By SUE ANNE SALMON
Kernel Staff Writer

Students for a Democratic Society in a meeting Wednesday night in the Student Center expressed thanks to the University Senate and others who approved the campus appearance of Fred Halstead.

The University Senate Monday voted to allow Fred Halstead, Socialist Workers' Party presidential candidate, to speak at UK as other presidential candidates like George Wallace, American Independent Party candidate, have been allowed to speak.

Financing expenses for Halstead's trip from New York City to Lexington was discussed. Six or seven members this fall have given blood to the Medical Center for $10 a pint to boost the SDS treasury, said Jeff DeLuca.

But that money has been used to pay off debts, DeLuca added, so more will have to "bleed for the revolution" or for paying Halstead's travel expenses.

Halstead is scheduled to speak Oct. 27 at UK, but the time of his speech is indefinite at present, Mike Fallahay said.

Fallahay was unanimously elected by the six members present to succeed secretary-treasurer DeLuca whose term just expired.

Secretary-treasurer is the only elected office in SDS.

SDS also clarified its stand on UK's speaker ban. Presidential candidates Halstead and Dick Gregory, senatorial candidate Duane Olsen and eight speakers for a "Revolution in America" forum planned for this year were invited to UK by SDS, but "it was not done to test the speaker ban," Fallahay said.

"Plans were made this summer by SDS members to invite the speakers, but invitations were not issued until after the first meeting of SDS this fall which was held after the speaker ban was in effect," Fallahay added.

Information on the SDS draft counseling service was distributed. Counseling is available every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. in Student Center Room 119. Evening counseling is available by appointment.

KUAC Ends Pike Hearings; Turns Up Criticism Of AV's

By WILLIAM BRADFORD
PIKEVILLE (AP)—Kentucky Un-American Activities Committee hearings on Appalachian problems, which ended Wednesday, turned up much criticism of Appalachian Volunteers Inc. but few specific recommendations.

The main recommendations made during the two-day hearing were that similar agencies should not duplicate one another's work and that more volunteers, or AV's should be native to the area where they work.

Criticism of the AVs voiced by the bulk of the 20 witnesses centered largely on alleged involvement of AVs in political activities. Other witnesses suggested that AVs working with the poor duplicated efforts by other, rival agencies and created a great deal of dissension as well.

KUAC Chairman Scott Miller, a Republican state senator from Louisville, declared at the conclusion of the hearing Wednesday that the committee intended to "get at the root of the problem and make recommendations to appropriate government agencies." Miller said the hearings would resume in Pike at a later date, subject to his call.

Although AV spokesmen said none of their members was subpoenaed for the hearings, Miller said several of their leaders had been invited to come but had declined. Miller said he hoped these AVs and anyone else having information on the problem would testify when the hearings were resumed.

Herman Dotson, a Pikeville attorney, suggested the KUAC subpoena documents which Pike County officials seized last year from Mr. and Mrs. Alan McSurely and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mulloy. Mulloy and the McSurelys were charged with sedition as a result of that seizure but the case was dropped when the state Court of Appeals held the Kentucky sedition law was unconstitutional.

Dotson said he understood the documents, which he said would "be very significant to the committee," are to be returned to their owners as a result of federal court rulings.

Dotson claimed the documents included a plan to take over the mountains of Kentucky.

Mrs. Blanche Justice, a public assistance official in the area, testified that AVs did not serve to help offset a shortage of public assistance field workers. But she also acknowledged that her

'Hippies' Invade First UK Wallace Meeting

By DANIEL E. GOSSETT

The fledgling UK Students for Wallace organization got off to a strange start Wednesday night as over a dozen bearded, long haired "hippies" offered to join the new group and lend their support to Wallace's campaign for the presidency.

The meeting had just ended because of low attendance—five people were there—when the "hippies" came in. Several of them approached Alex Dunlap, the state chairman of Students for Wallace, and told him that he needed a shave and ought to get a haircut.

Several of them told Dunlap that they wanted to join the Wallace group, and Dunlap replied "You can't, the meeting is over." After that Dunlap left the room.

When Dunlap had gone, "Wallace's hippies" held a meeting of their own and discussed plans to distribute Wallace literature and material over the campus.

The new group has no official name and no officers, but seems to be as zealous as the group that held the pro-Wallace demonstration at the Wallace rally here in September.

Four UK Groups Start Relief Fund

Four UK campus organizations have organized a Committee for Nigeria-Biafra Relief whose aim is to raise funds for refugees of the Nigerian civil war.

The moving force behind the committee is the Lexington Peace Council which found three other groups who had similar feelings.

The UK Office of Religious Affairs, the UK Campus Christian Fellowship, and the Campus Religious Liberals are also supporting the Committee.

At the Sunday meeting of the Lexington Peace Council a resolution was adopted calling upon students, faculty, and administration to assist the efforts to help in relieving the starvation of the peoples caught in the Nigerian conflict.

The non-partisan resolution has since been endorsed by the other three organizations. Don Pratt, a member of the Peace Council, said that the Relief Committee hopes to enlist other campus organizations in its cause.

Next week the group plans to hold a fund raising drive in the Student Center from Monday through Friday. The supporters of the drive will observe United Nations Day on Thursday with an "Evening Meal of Fast."

The Relief Committee is working with the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) which has already organized a drive of its own.

LBJ Signs $10 Million Education Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said Wednesday he was seeing one of his dreams come true as he signed higher education and vocational education bills providing $10 million in aid to college students and slum kids.

Johnson said his main dream as president was to advance education among all people. He said he wanted "every human being to have an opportunity to get all the education that he or she could take."

Johnson said the bills would help "rescue thousands of worthy young men and women from failure and frustration" and help assure those seeking professional and business careers of the best education the nation can provide.

He told the gathering of congressmen and educators in an East Room ceremony, "Education is not an expense—it's an investment."

The bills extend school and student aid programs for three years and increase funds for work training programs designed to break youngsters from slum poverty cycles.

Contained in the $7.3-billion aid to higher education act is a provision shutting off aid to students convicted of taking part in activities which disrupt a college or university.

Violations of college regulations "of a serious nature" or a civil conviction stemming from disruptions make the student liable to lose federal assistance for two years.

The higher education bill also contains a section removing from the Office of Economic Opportunity the Upward Bound program designed to acclimate ghetto youngsters to campus atmosphere. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare takes the program over.

The $3.1-billion vocational education bill contains a rider which some legislators said would nullify much of the $6-billion federal spending cut decreed by Congress.

Sponsors of the rider said it was intended to remove the power of the president and his Budget Bureau to make any reductions in education funds below the amounts appropriated by Congress.

The biggest authorization in the higher education bill, $3.1 billion, would cover grants and loans for building construction.

The next biggest item in the bill, $1.87 billion, will make funds available for direct loans to students, federal scholarships, and government insurance of private loans.

Soccer Club Tips Transy

By BOB HALL
The UK soccer team chalked up its third win by conquering Transylvania for the second time this season by a 3-1 count yesterday at the UK practice football field.

UK built up a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period on one-pointers by Moises Uman and Chet Robards, who scored on a header following a corner kick.

After Transy sliced the UK advantage in half on a tally by Bob Manasse, UK team captain Jean-Paul Pegeron added the final point after dribbling past three opponents.

Coach Abdelmonem Rizk praised the offensive effort by Frank Lodico, Andy Zwarun and Doug Delafield.

UK's next game is at 2 p.m. Saturday when they meet the University of Louisville in Louisville.

Lyons Rushing Leader: Also Paces Return Stats

By BENNIE PIKE

Dicky Lyons upped his rushing average and Stan Forston bettered his passing marks in last week's win over Oregon State, according to the recent UK football statistics.

Lyons, who was named Southeastern Conference "Back of The Week" by the Associated Press, now has gained 253 yards in 80 carries for a 3.2 average. Lyons has scored seven touchdowns this season to lead the SEC in scoring with 42 points.

Lyons' 73 points led the conference in scoring last season. Lyons also increased his punt and kickoff return leads. The senior tailback has returned 13 punts for 208 yards, a 16-yard average. Lyons has brought back the same number of kickoffs for 294 yards, a 22-yard average.

Forston Total Offense Leader

Forston's total offense lead has increased to 500 yards. Forston has gained 442 yards through the air and has run for 58.

Forston has completed 33 of 85 passes for a 38.6 percent average. He has thrown one touchdown pass and has had six intercepted.

Raynard Makin finally made the stats chart after being out the first three games by virtue of a shoulder injury. Makin gained 63 yards in 16 carries for a 3.9 average, best on the team.

Phil Thompson held his pass-receiving lead with two catches against OSU. Thompson, a junior end from Louisville, has pulled down 14 for 218 yards.

Panel Orients Students To Eastern Ky.

By ELLEN ESSIG
Kernel Staff Writer

The YMCA-sponsored Appalachian Seminar presented a panel discussion Monday night entitled, "Appalachia: Promise and Reality" for the purpose of orienting students participating in the seminar to the problems faced by Eastern Kentucky residents.

Members of the panel were Dr. Howard Bost, assistant vice president of the Medical Center representing the Appalachian Health Demonstration Center; Dr. James Brown of the rural sociology department who has studied Appalachian population migration; and Earl Forsythe of the Appalachian and Regional Development Program. Dr. Wayne McBeath, director of the Ohio Valley Regional Medical Program was moderator for the panel.

Forsythe described Eastern Kentucky as a "very diversified area in which sections of Appalachia are as different from each other as Appalachia is different from the Bluegrass area."

"This area," he continued, "is physically and culturally isolated. This isolation is being broken down gradually, but will take a long while."

In a discussion on how welfare programs affect recipients, Dr. Brown said, "Our welfare programs are too restrictive. Too often the recipients are penalized when they take jobs. For example, if a man takes a part time job, he must forfeit his welfare benefits. Then when the job is finished the man must reapply for welfare. This is a long and complicated process. While waiting for welfare checks to resume, the man is left without any financial means. This 'penalizing' minimizes welfare programs' effectiveness."

Dr. Bost, referring to Public Health problems in Appalachia said, "There is a tremendous picture of need here. The Health care resources are very widely dispersed and function in a very unsystematic fashion. The doctors available have so many patients that time needed for each individual case is hard to find."

Dr. Bost sees the increasing number of counties working together on health problems as a large step forward in attracting the manpower needed for Appalachia's health problems.

K.'s superintendent of Consolidation Coal's Loveridge Mine in West Virginia. He's responsible for over 440 men, and seeing that the mine makes at least 12,500 tons per day.

We see a great future for K. at Consol. Or, for any young high potential engineer. You see, having the nation's largest reserves of coal gives us some pretty heady challenges. Just today, we are planning on bringing 12 new mines into production, and this means adding at least 3,500 to our payroll.

Coal's an extremely important energy source, and becoming more so each day. And, leading the way is Consol — Consolidation Coal Company — where the young engineer moves just as fast as his ambition and ability warrant.

KUAC Turns Up Criticism

But Few Recommendations

agency did not seek out persons who might be eligible for assistance.

Part of the duties of the AVs, according to testimony at the hearings, is to visit residents in their homes and provide transportation and guidance if they need help.

Officials of the Big Sandy Community Action Program testified there was little communication or cooperation between them and the AVs while there was some duplication of effort. Both groups are funded by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

Acting AV Director David Walls, who was not present at any of the hearings, issued a statement expressing regret that CAP men "chose an un-American activities hearing as a forum to attack the Appalachian Volunteers." Previously, Walls maintained the KUAC was unconstitutional and its investigation illegal.

Walls cited a recent evaluation by an OEO team which said the Big Sandy CAP was "considerably more service-oriented than devoted to community organization on the part of the poor, perhaps at least partially as a result of strong political pressure from county authorities."

Richard Comfort, a Pikeville College professor in charge of Kentucky Students Serving Kentucky, said he had "nothing against the AVs."

But he was "put in a bind," Comfort said, by a letter from Gov. Louie B. Nunn in June telling the KSSK to have nothing to do with AVs. KSSK is comprised basically of college students working with the poor.
