ENROLLMENT NEEDS 57 FOR NEW RECORD

Total Climbs to 3,100 as Monday Registration Period Lures 55 Hold-outs Into Fall

REGISTRAR OPTIMISTIC DESPITE NYA BISECT

Present Number Is 100 Better Than a Sum Recorded Same Time in 1936

With less than 60 students needed to set a new record when registering stopped at 3:30 p. m. yesterday, the registrar's office was confident that a new high enrollment would be reached by the deadline, September 27.

Fifty-five students signed Monday pushing the total number registered to 3,400. This is 131 more than the total of 3,269 that had signed on this date last year.

According to a statement from the registrar's office the number registering this year has surpassed approximately 100 above the number registering on the same day last year.

This fact led the registrar's office to predict that the present record of 3,400 would be shattered by more than one hundred. The present record was set in 1936 when it was surpassed by NYA help awarded to the University.

If a record is set this year it will be in the face of a drastically slashed NYA allotment. Federal help for University students was cut less than half of last year's amount.

Lack of NYA help deepened to such an extent the enthusiasm of the registrar's office early in the summer when it optimistically predicted a record increase in enrollment.

A total of 3,217 signing during the past three days revived the hopes of the registrar's office as this number was 193 better than the number signing during the period last year.

The prospective record this year is in line with the continued growth of the University. Since 1934-35 the number of students at the University has been increasing.

Depression inaugurated in 1932 when enrollment plummeted more than 800 stunted the growth of the post-depression increase is an indication that the University is headed upward.

Students may register any day this week from 9:30 to 3:30 p. m. at the registrar's office.

Agriculture College Sees Less Burley

It was announced yesterday from the College of Agriculture that the 1938 agricultural conservation program provides for a larger acreage of burley tobacco and for somewhat less dark tobacco.

The program for next year, while similar to this year's program, sets national, state, county, and farm goals for soil-depleting crops, and for soil-building crops. Provision is made for crop acreages that are usually required to meet national needs for consumption and for export.

New Central Heating Plant, Ready For Use This Fall, Will Save University $15,000 Yearly In Fuel And Labor

Designed and Supervised by College of Engineering System Cost $265,000

The new $265,000 central heating plant, which was designed and supervised by the College of Engineering, and which will save the University approximately $15,000 per year in fuel and labor, is ready for use this fall.

Location of the new plant will be South Upper street, adjacent to the service building that houses the departments of buildings and grounds and physical education. It was located in this position to allow the coal to be handled directly from the railroad siding, and also to permit the condensate from all the buildings to be returned to the plant by gravity.

This plant was designed by the College of Engineering to serve the double purpose of a utility for the entire institution and a steam power plant laboratory for the engineering students. It has a capacity of 150,000 pounds of steam per hour and to act as a testing laboratory for the present and proposed new buildings, with 50 per cent in reserve.

The plant was designed to burn any kind of eastern or western bituminous coal, the only one of its type in the state, and two side furnace water wall spraker stoker fuel boilers.

The design has all the diversification of equipment for educational purposes, compatible with first cost, operating cost and practicability of operation, including two kinds of boilers; a late type of pulverized boiler, the only one of its type in the state, and two side furnace water wall spraker stoker fuel boilers.

Vandy Jinx Menaces 'Cat Chances In 1937 Lid-Lifter

Does Vanderbilt possess the celebrated "jinx" over Kentucky teams? We don't know, and we hesitate to say, but one thing is certain: In the fifteen titles played against the Commodores by previous Wildcat winners, not one of these games was won by the Cats. Kentucky has never beaten the Commodores, and has only tied them once.

A Letter From a reader, in part, from Elvis Star, 36, Letter-Scholar-Elect, now studying in Europe, at Oxford, Louisiana, Switzerland.

A Kentuckian "in temporary exile" in the crazy-quilt of Europe sends greetings and salutations. "I've been almost a year away from home now, and what a full life it's been! Three terms at Oxford studying law; Christmas in Switzerland at winter sports; Easter in Greece and Italy—six weeks of concentrated heaven; and this summer all over Germany and in Denmark, Belgium, France, Austria, Hungary, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Russia, with the whole Russian trip and the Paris Exhibition yet to come at this writing. It all began with the Coronation in May and the Wimbledon Tennis tournament in June; it will end early in October with the boat trip from Helsinki to Hull and a return to Oxford. I'll get out of Russia without a long trial for espionage, a misfortune which almost overtook two Merion College friends of mine in Moscow in July."

Baseball By GEORGE H. KERLER

MY HEART was educated in Ebbets Field, a big league baseball stadium in Brooklyn, N. Y. For eleven years I have lavished a love on the Dodgers. For eleven years the Brooklyn has made me unhappy. For eleven long years I have casted in my ribs a soul broken with indignation, bewildered by constant shortcomings, but ever proud as long as Mr. Time continues to bring new year.

My school spirit was nursed on Stoll Field, a big college football stadium in Lexington, Ky. For four years I have poured my loyalty on Kentucky football. Four years of following a team unpredictable, subject to criticism but always interesting. With tears frozen on my face, I have shivered and watched them founder and blunder. Other times I have seen them soar to majestic heights. I sat silently and smugly, understanding and believing. Yet, when the last game was over the season's ledger was not rich with victories. Disappointed? Yes, surely? No. Mr. Time was not far off with another year.

Ten days ago I found myself fumbling with dreams of a Wildcat and grid campaign fat with victories. By mid-season I saw football being played on Lexington, Ky. I was trying out to see Wynne's machine, a punch that had crushed every team it met. Alabama and Tennessee were trembling. Boston College was ready to take its first defeat. The Hubs' Rose Bowl dreams were waiting recklessly for defeat. The Wildcats, "outstanding flop of 1936" had come back. They captured the nation's fancy. Mothers in Maryland were more entranced by Coleman's passing and Simpson's place kicking than by hubby's affairs raises. Chicago was proud because Ed Synor played in the Kentucky line.

I woke up while sitting in the Stoll stadium Saturday afternoon when the varsity was having difficulty in breaking through a green fresh line. I was uncomfortable as the rookies in Vanderbilt formation, three passes in the hands of lonesome receivers. And when the stands, resembling the gathering that would watch Brooklyn and Cincinnati go about on a Monday afternoon mumbled words of ineffective Cat blocking. I began to lift out of my dream. Reality had reared its ugly head. Then, as Red Simpson came hobbling out of a human fangle, I realized why I suffered with death for my teams. Late in winter optimism about the Blue and the pennant. Early in the fall it's optimism about Kentucky and the Southeastern crown. Psychologically primed for triumph I am wide open to be taken out by our first defeat. Understanding the situation now, I am planning not to be discouraged if the worst should happen someday. The same plans should fit everyone. "Everyman's natural desire" to be a Brooklyn fan, to counteract such wildness with a speck of logic. If come, there will be fewer broken hearts in the Blue Grass Sunday morning.

Great Divis. "Snooker" Dowd ran 210 yards to a touchdown in a game between Lafayette and Lehigh. He ran in the wrong direction, circled the goal posts and wormed down the field again for a score. "Big Bill" Edwards lost thirty pounds in Yale-Princeton game. Bert Harris Rutgers gained 77 successive placements. "Skivy" Davis, Oklahoma, kicked 23 goals after touchdowns in one game against Kingfisher College, Sept. 1937. Red Grange gained 93 yards per minute during his three years of varsity football. Notre Dame made 145 substitutions in the 112,912 saw Notre Dame and Southern California play on Soldier's Field, Chicago, 1929. South's top mob saw Duke beat North Carolina, 25-0 in Durham, 1935. 46,880 spectators. Football's longest forward pass is credited to Bradbury Robinson, St. Louis U., who threw 87 yards to John Schneider for a touchdown against Kansas in 1906. Ohio State team of 1883, which beat Kentucky, 19-6, had 150 different offensive plays. Haskell Indians schedule, 1935, required

Joe McCluskey broke the American 4-mile record in the New York A. C. handicap games when he ran the distance in 19:45. This broke a 24 year mark.

Bert Niehoff has signed a contract to pilot the Louisville Colonels for another season.

The longest major league game was a 1-1 tie between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Bees May 1 1920 which went twenty-six innings before it was called on account of darkness.

At the Dade Park race meet recently completed little Willie Johnson, of Owensboro rode forty winners, placing him second of the nation's jockeys in victories.

The longest string of triumphs of any major league club and this record belongs to the New York Giants who compiled this feat in 1916.

Connie Mack has been manager of a major league team longer than any other man. He is now in his thirty-ninth managerial year and thirty-seven of these have been with the Philadelphia Athletics. He managed Pittsburgh for two years before moving to the Quakers.

Alpha Delta Kappa Party Alpha Delta Theta entertained with a "Kid Party" from 3 to 6 p. m. at the chapter house yesterday afternoon. Features of the party included a peanut hunt, the cutting out of paper dolls, and other children's games. Hot chocolate and lollipops were served.

VANDERBILT TO LECTURE Dr. Willen Vandevall, of the music department, will be to New York this week in connection with the Carnegie Corporation Research Foundation. He will also give a series of lectures on "Music in Social and Mental Health" at the Teacher's College of Columbia University.

St. Xavier will be pointing for the Kentucky eleven again this season but they can offer no better team than that which they had last year. The fact that the same will be played in the afternoon will be in favor of the Cats. I see a win here.

The Big Blue will be laying for Georgia Tech after that humiliating defeat that the Ramblin' Wreck handed them last year. I can see no hope for the Cats though, but the Atlantians are stronger than ever this year. We lose this one.

The Generals of Washington and Iowa are coming back to the strength with which they once threw terror into other Southern teams but they have not come back for the Wildcats. The Cats should have a breather with this foe.

Chick Meacham's charges from Manhattan are just as strong as they were last year when they turned Kentucky back on the short end of the tally. This game should be a toss-up with the Cats having their own field in their favor.

It looks like Alabama Jinx will not be broken this year. The Crimson Tide just rolls on and on. Three deep in every position again this year, the Red Elephants look for an undefeated season. Another defeat for the Cats.

South Carolina looks like an average team this season. By the time they run up against the Wildcats they may have assumed formidable proportion but at the present time I see a win for the Kentucky boys.

To believe dope which is coming out from Boston way, Gloomy Gil Doble is polishing up the seasons national champions up there at Boston College. Everyone who has seen the Boston team in practice agree that they have a formidable looking outfit and are very apt to receive the bid to the coast this year. Kentucky will lose this one, probably by a large score.

If the desire to avenge themselves means anything, the Wildcats will win over Tennessee by a large margin in the Thanksgiving day tilt. The Vols are just as strong this year but with the game being played on Stoll field this season many strange things which happened in Knoxville last year will not be apt to take place.

The Florida Gators have very little to offer again this year but the sandy soil and hot weather which the Cats will encounter in the Gulf state may prove too much for the Kentuckians.

PASSER RINGLEADER SPEEDER

New Student Union Expected To Be Completed By January 1

By MILDRED Mc DANIEL

Red steel in the sunset glitters and reminds us that a Student Union building is slowly coming into its own. Steel girders and slabs of stone stand before the student as the vision of a ten year old dream coming true, which the Federal government has made possible for the student body of the University by a $250,000 grant of the P. W. A.

This spacious monument to the determination of University of Kentucky students will be a three story structure of stone and brick in a modified classic design. The basement floor of the new building will accommodate a soda grill, a cafeteria, kitchens, three dining rooms, a men's lounge, lavatories and a barber shop. On the second floor there will be a large lounge room, game rooms, reading and social rooms, a beauty parlor, club rooms, offices of University and student organizations. The third floor will be a source of beauty and joy forever to the long suffering student who has waited so many years for a good ball-room. A large part of the third floor will be taken up by a magnificent ball-room, around which there will be conference rooms, a serving room, a woman's lounge and powder room, and a promenade deck.

It is hoped that the new building will be completed by January 1, 1938 but it is expected that it will take until spring to get the S. T. B. finished and equipped. Students look forward to seeing and enjoying the new Student Union Building which will be the center of campus activity and social life.

Development of a thirty-five millimeter photographic film without a dark room is made possible by a light-tight tank in which film can be immersed without removing it from its daylight-loading magazine.
