CLEARING HOUSE

By THE EDITOR That convention today should be the best of the year, and it will be if all go. It really does you good to relax once in a while and sing and, of course, Dr. McVey is ranked among the best speakers in the country. Why not try attending one time to see how you like it?

Scandal Column? Some of the letters that poured in this time left quite a good taste in our mouth for the holidays. Because we couldn't include all parts of each one, we are including that we consider the most interesting points. "Can it be that the scandal column is gone? Heavens! While I never bother with it myself, I can hardly believe it is doomed to die. How can you get a good writer to keep it up with the other columns?" - J. P. B.

No Scandal Column "Your paper Tuesday was one of the best of the year. It is quite a relief not to see a scandal column. I think the paper can get along without one, especially when it is overshadowed by 'Behind the Ecstacy.'" - H. J. M.

That Man Hiller "Granted that Hiller is a 'vital problem' in the world today, but why must Jim Caldwell write about him. Much as I appreciate the difficulties of writing a column, surely he can find some topic more novel than Hiller, who in six forms, especially that used Tuesday, is definitely tried. If we want to do a European problem, why not let it be in any paper we pick up. We can keep him out of the Kernel unless he does something really like shaving off his mustache. The hell with Hiller!" - B. L. W.

Still No Scandal! I noted in particular the use of larger headlines on several stories, which is the best improvement I saw. Keep that up for it certainly does add to the entire paper. Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I think the headline on the scandal column is for the best." - H. L. J.

What About Jefferson? "Dear Sir: The 'Clearing House' edition of the last Friday proved especially pleasing and interesting for several reasons. The chief reason, however, was the evidence that not all the students here in this University are blindly self-satisfied, as rumor would have it. One of the T. L. not only read my 'Protest Against Error' but even went so far as to get the essence of my protest against my error. G. T. L. is right; Thomas Jefferson did not die on the fifth anniversary of the Constitution. The fifteenth anniversary I had in mind was the Declaration of Independence, that portal to a dream of Democracy which has never been realized. Thank G. T. L. and my other friends for making this correction and agreeing with me that understanding our country's history should stimulate us to fight for tolerance and freedom." - B. G. T. L., how Thomas Jefferson in a place of honor on our campus?" - P. A. G.

Very Sorry "Dear Sir: Now, the reason is a nice guy and we like him a lot... and his account of the 196... Louis-Johnson boy... it was when we read it in Henry McLenore's column Tuesday... Cranson insists on continually reproducing McLenore's works, he should at least be a credit to his profession and acknowledge the creator. Another improvement could be effected if Joe would discard his sycophantic book of similes." - P. J. B.

Very Happy "In justice to Joe it would be well to say that three contributors to the L. A. S. H. L. J. P. B. all complimented 'Calling 'em Wild' with such remarks as 'This month is fine, especially the way he boosts all Kentucky teams.'" -

Don't Discuss Us "I came this from a member of the boxing team who prefers to remain anonymous. 'Fellow students: As a member of the boxing team, I would like to make a few remarks about the match with Xavier last Wednesday night. First, we members of the boxing team think boxing is a fine sport... it is mostly a art of self-defense. Don't discuss us with it!'"

Root In Silence "There is an inter-collegiate ruling to the effect that no fighting shall go on in silence. The spectators are not supposed to applaud or encourage the fighters excepting between rounds and between bouts. The fighter is under tremendous (Continued on Page Two)

Campaign Checkup Reveals That 1,100 Students Saw Syphilis Films

Marking the conclusion of active phases of the anti-syphilis campaign, yesterday's final total showed that health films had been shown to more than 1,100 students and that Wassermann tests had been administered to approximately 2,000 individuals.

Included in the program which originated on this campus in October were the giving of Wassermann tests, local and state-wide publicity, educational articles and editorial, library exhibit, film showings on syphilis and lectures on the subject.

Among the men who accompanied the showing of films and answered questions regarding the disease are Dr. J. S. Chambers, head of the dispensary; Dr. T. C. Sherwood, of the anatomy and physiology department; W. A. Heinz and Dr. W. B. Hamilton, department of hygiene.

The campaign was conducted through the cooperation of fraternities, societies, honoraries, and departmental organizations, most of whom pledged complete support and included the program heartily.

Kernel staff members stressed the point that, although the campaign has officially closed, various departmental organizations are expected to include in their programs a discussion of syphilis as it affects their particular fields.

Although the Kitten schedule is not complete, eight tilts are already billed with possibly three more before added. The schedule as it stands: Jan. 13-Mayville, away. Jan. 20-Sie Bennett, at London. FROSH NETMEN TO OPEN SEASON

Kittens To Play High School As Early Preliminary To Varsity Tilt With six weeks of grueling drills behind them, the Kentucky freshman basketball team will make their initial start of the season tomorrow night against Mayville high school in Alumni gym.

The game will be presented as a preliminary attraction to the Kentucky-Cincinnati varsity tilt, and is due to start at 6:30. Rated weaker than last season's frosh powerhouse, the Kittens will be facing the team that was runner-up in last year's Kentucky high school tournament. The Kitten attack is expected to center last season from Sharpe, a deadly man on follow-up shots. The starting forwards are expected to be Lloyd Ramsey, University High sharp shooter, and Reggie Palmero of Home Cove. Henry Walker, Mayville and Marvin Akers of Jefferson, Indiana, are expected to cover the back court.

Although the Kitten schedule is not complete, eight tilts are already billed with possibly three more before added. The schedule as it stands: Jan. 13-Mayville, away. Jan. 20-Sie Bennett, at London. OATES BECOMES VICE-PREXY - FOR HE DREW 'HEADS'

By GEORGE T. LAMASON Lady Luck must be a Greek. Lady Luck decided on Harmon Oates, Phi Kappa Alpha, as vice-president of the freshman class last year. Both Oates, candidate for the office of the Interfraternity Party, and Independent Helen Cullen received the same number of votes in the freshman election, December 8.

The two candidates, their political managers, and Men's Student Council members met at 4 p. m. Thursday in Room 206, Union. "Heads" was flipped again. "Heads" again. "Then each of the contestants drew a slip from a hat. The slip which drew drew also read 'heads,' thereby winning him the office.

Photographers from the downtown papers arrived just too late to "snap" the coin-flipping. So the coin was flipped once more. For the third time it landed "heads."

Although the anti-siphilis campaign has officially closed as a campaign, the education should not stop here.

The interest is here. By the number of Wassermann tests given, by the attendance at film showings, by the interest and encouragement shown, we believe firmly that the University of Kentucky is vitally interested in self-improvement and the strong leadership of her fellow man.

Behind The Eekdahl

This is a humor column, not Clearing House, and we jolly well don't intend to become a clearing house. Fairly obvious is the fact that Clearing House stays away from humor, except inadvertently as in the case of P. A. C.

First, a letter from Miss Jean Abel, president of Kappa Delta sorority. Miss Abel, who must be an obliging soul, includes a photo of the Kappa Delta house to be used as joke in our Gony Ko Joke contest.

Second, a letter from one R. P. who includes several items for our Gony Ko Joke Department. Unfortunately, these jokes arrived too late to be considered in the contest, although they afforded us a few private chuckles.

Legal technicalities always bother us. We just can't seem to figure them out. Maybe the law students can help us in this instance. Probably involves some fine point of Blackstone, but what we want to know is: "Is a man really married if the shotgun wasn't loaded?"

Our good turn for the year: "We advised a coed not to buy her brother a tie for Christmas."

And so it's Merry Christmas. Happy New Year, and Hi Yo Silverman. Awa.

College Football Still Popular Says 75 Percent of Students

Pro Competition No Serious Foe Is Belief

By STUDENT OPINION SURVEY Austin, Texas, December 16.—With another football season ended in all except the "howl" games, the everlasting question whether college football is giving way to the professional game enters into the annual stock-taking.

Those are the opinions derived from the second national poll of the Student Opinion Survey of America, organized for the sampling of opinions of the entire college and university enrollment in the United States along scientific lines.

Yearly the pro and con of commercialized football is discussed from all sides. President Hutchins of Chicago leads this time with a severe rebuke to the professional game to take profits out of intercollegiate football, commenting that the Sports Illustrated magazine which has indicated the game is business, Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, who admits in his book "Winning Football" that he would like to see the profession subsidized and has no apologies to make for the profession.

YFS, said — 75.8 percent believe it is likely to come about. But although one in every four believes this is likely to come about, more than one in five believes this is likely to come about.

commerce and business administration. Enrollment in such courses increased 33 per cent over the previous year. Although liberal arts is steadily declining in popularity, it still attracts a great majority of students, enrolling 64 per cent of all students to higher education.

A check-up reveals that junior colleges are rapidly gaining in prominence, increasing 29 per cent over the 1936-37 enrollment and 136 per cent in the last ten years.

The New Mexico School of Mines reported that the University of Minnesota and only two women, but down in Virginia, where women are increasing their enrollment, the State Teacher's College at Harrisonburg. Its popularity must have increased since it was founded.

Among the larger universities that show such a marked difference in sex enrollment is the University of Florida with 3,038 men and only 317 women, or 100 to 1. Both Yale and Harvard also reported big enrollment increases.

Since Matthew Vassar maintained that women, having received from her creation the same intellectual constitution as man, has the same rights as man to intellectual development, she was the first to make the distinction between men and women.

Then one discovers that Harvard had an enrollment of 8,200 students in 1937, the largest enrollment of higher learning in the United States, having been founded in 1863.

At the matter of teachers, Columbia University rates the laurel crown over its "enrollee superior," New York University, with 2,387 to 1,916 professors. Dropsie College, Philadelphia, and Santa Maria Juvenilia in California represent the other extreme, having only seven instructors.

Shawn Pantomimes American Epochs In Dance Program By LESLIE LEE JONES Ted Shawn and his ensemble of men dancers who were presented at the Henry Clay high school auditorium Tuesday night by the Women's Athletic Association, left in the audience a host of new admirers for the modern dance.

In the two hour program presented by Shawn and his dancers entitled "O. Libertaria," a panorama of the development of America was shown through the story of the American stage in three acts, the drama created by Shawn with accompaniment by music composed by Jess Meeker, depicted highlights in the development of our country.

Act II, interpreting the future in modern dance, was entitled "Kinetic Mosaic." The choreography for this symbolic dance was created by Shawn. He offers this as one of the drama of dance for the American man of the future.

Act III, interpreting the future in modern dance, was entitled "Kinetic Mosaic." The choreography for this symbolic dance was created by Shawn. He offers this as one of the drama of dance for the American man of the future.

Act I "The Forty Niners," a number danced by the full ensemble, was an entertaining surprise to the prospectors when they discovered gold was expressed in a lively, rhythmic movement.

COLLEGE MAN TELLS COLLEGE MEN THE HISTORY OF PIPES

Ed. note: This feature was reprinted in complete form in the managing editor of the Kernel, who is now recovering from an appendectomy.

By E. H. MUEHLER You are a college man. You smoke a pipe, if not all the time, at least occasionally, but just how much do you know about the pipe you are smoking, or about the various kinds of the evolution, or the romance of pipes?

The American Indians are credited with having first used pipes. The story connected with this is that the red man, while kindling a fire with leaves which happened to be tobacco leaves, noticed the pleasing effect of the smoke, and native ingenuity resulted in the "ground-pipe" which was merely a hole in the ground with a hollow stem thrust into it.

"The Pipe of Peace" or the "Calumet," as it was called, was the most important pipe of the American Indian. They were made from "pipstone," a soft, easily carved stone found in a quarry at what is now called Pipestone, Minnesota.

The "Calumet" had important religious significance to the Indians; it was used in their ceremonies and was sometimes buried with their chiefs as an offering to make his peace with the Great Warrior.

Early European explorers, Sir Walter Raleigh, in particular, brought the pipe to England. From this pipe evolved the familiar long-stemmed "Chimney" and the "Coronet" in the English sporting prints of the period.

After progressing this far, pipes were developed all over the world, each nation varying the pipe to suit its own tastes.

The "Hookah" or water pipe was invented by the inhabitants of the Eastern Mediterranean and has become the national pipe of Turkey. The calash gourd from Africa is used to have excellent smoking qualities and the Boers have made them popular throughout the world.

While some historians contend that pipes were known in China long before they were introduced from America, it is generally conceded that the long, bamboo-smoking pipes of the East are but an adaptation of the pipes of Europe.

While meerschaum is a native material of Turkey, the first pipe of this material were made in Vienna, the best of which are still made there. All the meerschaum used is imported.

Brian, the last link in the evolution of the pipe, and by far the most satisfactory, has as its birthplace the Island of Corsica. As legend tells, one of Napoleon's officers broke his meerschaum while on a visit to the island, and a local carpenter made a make-shift pipe for him out of the root of a health tree.

It smoked so well that in the soon few decades it became by far the most popular pipe in the world and is today so universal that it has put all other pipe materials in a position of relative unimportance.

Cincinnati Alumni Hear Coach Rupp

Addressing Kentucky alumni of Greater Cincinnati Tuesday night at the Sinton hotel, Adolph Rupp, Cat basketball coach, admitted that the Blues work had been impressive in two starts to date but left all predictions until after Saturday night's bout with the University of Cincinnati.

Rupp seemed to hinge the success for the season on the outcome of Saturday night's game and stated that if Kentucky passes the Cincinnati block in good style, the season may turn into one of their best in recent years.

Patterson hall girls entertained needy children Tuesday afternoon with a Christmas party for 56 children.

Arrangements were in charge of Dorothy Band, social chairman for Patterson hall, and members of the social committee.

Each group of four girls bought clothing and toys for one child. Santa Claus hurried to distribute gifts. Each child also received apples, oranges and candy at the close of the party.

1939 Grid Captains And Lions Club Plaque Go To Shepherd

Alternate Post Tied By Carnes And McCubbin; Awards Given

Controlling the votes like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, Joe Shepherd, junior blocking back, was elected captain of the 1939 Kentucky football team Tuesday night at the annual grid banquet held in the Union ballroom.

Shepherd, a Louisville Manual high school product, was voted the Cat leader-elect by varsity squadmen who were unable to break a deadlock between Bill McCubbin and Wilce Carnes for the post of alternate captain. After four ballots found the vote still tied, it was decided to postpone the selection until a later date. In his new capacity, Shepherd succeeds Sherman Hinklebein, graduating center.

The banquet, attended by 228 Wildcats fans and alumni, might well have been christened "Shepherd night" for immediately after his selection he was awarded the Lexington Lions Club plaque, given each year to the season's outstanding Kentucky player. Other high points of the evening were the address by Dr. Frank L. McVey and short talks by members of the faculty, newspaper men and the coaching staff, including Coach Ab Kirwan. Letter awards were made to 26 varsity team members, while 50 freshmen were presented with numerals.

James Park, former Kentucky athletic star, presided over the banquet. The regular program was marked by a telegram from Gov. A. B. Chandler which read: "We are getting Bose Bowl ready for Wildcats in 1940."

In electing a backfield man to the captaincy the Wildcats broke a tradition of 10 years standing. The last secondary man to lead Kentucky was in 1929 when Will Ed Covington of Mayfield held the post. Shepherd, a College of Arts and Sciences junior, is the third successive Louisville player to be elevated to the Cat leadership. Hinklebein and Joe Hogan, 1937 leader, both being Louisville natives. Before matriculating at Kentucky Shepherd played under Ab Kirwan, present head coach, at Manual. Although tugging but 169 pounds, Shepherd started each of Kentucky's nine games this year and played without substitution five of the toughest on the list.

Coach Kirwan in his talk discussed the past season and prospects for next season. Although he refused to make any predictions, Kirwan did venture the belief that the team would improve this year's record in Philadelphia Convention Hall, is unknown, but Wednesday night, the Quakers mashed Western Maryland by 41-0. Student admission to tomorrow night's game will be in line for the Student activity book.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

These lines are written with a little green-eyed jealousy still standing at my elbow gouging me with his barbed wire. I'm seething in jealousy and my pride is as battered as an unclaimed parcel post package. And it all happened because a person has been uncovered who is my peer at picking wrong things. The name of this person, this destroyer of my one distinction as a sports predictor, is Prof. Frank G. Dickinson, University of Illinois mathematics whiz, and the originator of the system of picking football teams is just on paper, but so are the prof's predictions.

Broken Hearted Me Hold on, this is not to be taken as a criticism of Professor Dickinson, rather it is the outpouring of a jealous soul. How I envy him and his luck in hitting on a method by which he can not only arrive at 14-carat foolery, but can even break it down to the impressive decimal point.

Tough Assignment Joe Shepherd has two thankless jobs ahead of him for next year. For Tuesday night Joe was given the duties of Wildcat football captain to shoulder next season along with his regular quarterback job. There are three positions connected with football that are thankless; the first is coaching—the other two, quarterback and captain. By a slip-up on one play or a bad decision at a crucial moment and the fat-haired hero is transformed into the goat. Both these responsibilities are Shepherd's for next year. An example of the fickleness of fans is the Kentucky-Clemson game.

Kentucky, led by Hoot Combs, had marched down the field in their only scoring threat and held the ball. The Wildcats had two thankless jobs ahead of him for next year. For Tuesday night Joe was given the duties of Wildcat football captain to shoulder next season along with his regular quarterback job. There are three positions connected with football that are thankless; the first is coaching—the other two, quarterback and captain. By a slip-up on one play or a bad decision at a crucial moment and the fat-haired hero is transformed into the goat. Both these responsibilities are Shepherd's for next year. An example of the fickleness of fans is the Kentucky-Clemson game.

My rival's system is without this imperfection. With all the grid pundits heard from, Professor Dickinson settled himself in his fireproof chair and picked Minnesota and Michigan to raise over undefeated United States Christian. Despite Southern California's decisive win over Notre Dame, the Trojans are expected to fifth place while the Irish come in second. As to Tennessee being second, how could they be kept out of first place? Since the good professor depends so greatly on statistics from which to draw his folly, here are a few figures by which even a kindergarten mathematician could decide Tennessee rates over Notre Dame: Notre Dame narrowly defeated Georgia Tech by 7 points. Tech was lucky to win over Kentucky 19-18 and we all remember to our sorrow how Tennessee snow-balled the Cats Thanksgiving. Sure, that ball on the Tiger 8-yard line with first down. An end around play, the identical play that had shortly before gained 12 yards, lost 3. A power plunge gained back the lost yardage and still another plunge was held for no gain. Then a last down pass missed its mark and the fans rose in a body to protest Shepherd's not calling on Combs to carry the ball over. The reason for that was explained by the fact that Clemson, sensing another of Combs loopepped end runs, had drawn two of their backs up to the line of scrimmage, making their front line really guarded by nine men. So power plays, some trickery or a pass was the logical call.

Good Choice In choosing Shepherd to lead the team, the Cats could not have selected a better man for the job. A hard and willing worker, Joe rates about tops with the squadmen, a mighty important factor. For a 169 pounder, Shepherd carries a lot of defensive damage. One of his favorite tricks during the past year was to lift a long punt, then dash down the field and make the tackle. In the Clemson game, for instance, he sprang a 65-yard boot to Shad Bryant, who had averaged 20 yards on punt returns, then beat it down the turf and grounded Bryant with such a vicious tackle his helmet was knocked completely off his head.

The Last Shot Before making any New Year's vows to refrain from all forms of folly, especially predictions, I pass on to you these guesses:
Southern California 14
Duke 7
Texas Christian 14
Carnegie Tech 14
Tennessee 25
Oklahoma 7

Ab Kirwan, head Kentucky football coach, was guest speaker at the grid banquet given in honor of the West Kentucky conference champion Tighman high school football team last night in Paducah.

The banquet was sponsored by the Paducah Junior chamber of commerce and held in the Irvin Cobb hotel. The program was featured by pictures of several of the Kentucky games. Preceding the banquet the election of the Tighman captain for 1939 was held. Kirwan delivered the main address and was followed by Leo F. Keller, who presented the team with the trophy awarded the conference champion each year.
