MEMORY OF WASHINGTON HONORED BY STUDENTS

Dr. Wiley, of Washington, Delivers Address on Patriotism

STANLEY IS SPEAKER

"If the horrible event, which now seems inevitable, comes, I am willing to do what I can, and if necessary will walk in the ranks, altho I am 73 years old and slightly above the military age prescribed as a standard," said Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, of Washington, D. C., in his address at the exercises in chapel yesterday morning in honor of Washington's birthday. Dr. Wiley's subject was "True Patriotism."

There should be no diversity in opinion in this country at the present time, he said. Unarmed citizens have been ruthlessly killed on the high seas; foreign nations have prescribed where our ships shall sail, how they shall be painted and from what part of the ship the Stars and Stripes shall wave. We have believed in peace, we have been patient, but now we have come to the breaking point and it is the duty of the people of the United States to support the President, the speaker said. Party lines have now been forgotten, there are no organized parties but organized patriotism.

Dr. Wiley defined patriotism as the love for one's birthplace. No one who ever forgets the place of his birth, his father and mother and his childhood companions, can ever rise to the dignity of a true patriot. Love for one's birthplace is the fundamental principle of patriotism. It is not a matter of area, of wealth or of population, but the incident of birth where one first saw the light that arouses our patriotism.

When one looks with disdain upon his birthplace and upon his parents, Dr. Wiley said that the only prophesy he had to make was that that man would be a failure.

The next step in the development of patriotism is the love for one's native State. Then comes the love for our country. When the final crisis of our allegiance comes, we must be able to say that we owe ourselves to our country and be willing to die in her defense.

In telling why he loves his country, the speaker said it was not because of her large bank deposits, her railroads, her great mineral wealth, her oil, her forests or her farms, altho all these are of the utmost importance, but because our government embraces the immortal principles typified in the life of George Washington, and because it is the land of liberty and education.

Washington was the man of the hour during the Revolutionary struggle, he was the leading figure at the end of the war and continues to be such. We love those things which typify his life.

IMPORTANCE OF FAITH DISCUSSED BY SPEAKER

300 Students Hear Talk By W. C. Erdman, Korean Missionary

COLLEGIANS NARROW

"No man can come face to face with Jesus Christ without receiving a challenge," said Walter C. Erdman, of Korea, when he addressed the students of the University in chapel Friday morning. "Everyone who knows His doctrine is morally bound to go out and impart it to others."

The message does not have to be sent by preachers and missionaries. It is worth while even when it comes from the mouths of professional men and engineers. He told that it was thru an engineer that the Christian faith had obtained such a foothold in Africa.

The speaker cited four things that are derived from faith in the Lord. Only by true faith in Jesus Christ will you have God. Unless you have a spiritual dynamo in your soul, your life will be a failure as far as God is concerned. Faith in Him gives us power in our lives. The third gift of faith is the work which it gives us to do; "As the Father has sent me into the world, even so I send you." You will never escape the opportunity of bringing Jesus to bear on fellow beings. Mr. Erdman said that college communities are provincial, that our eyes only take in narrow circles of things which are immediately interesting. Faith in Jesus Christ gives us a world vision.

Altho man is much sought after in these days of turmoil and interest in education—invoked by the cries of war and civilization—the call of Christ is greater than every other call to man. The world does not owe every man a living, but every man owes the world a life.

"Let us pray!" With these sacred words, some 300 men and women bowed their heads while the speaker of the exercises invoked the common God.

Secretary Johnson, of the University Y. M. C. A., introduced Mr. Erdman and also announced that the speaker for next Tuesday morning would be Professor Snoddy, of Transylvania College.

PRE-MEDICS ELECT 2ND TERM OFFICERS

The Pre-Medical society met in the rooms of Dr. Pryor in the Science Building Monday evening, February 12, and elected the following officers for this semester: R. Pearlman, president; George Park, vice president; L. T. Rector, secretary-treasurer. The next meeting of the society will be held March 5. At the meeting on that date, addresses will be made by Dr. Pryor and Messrs. Berkman, L. T. Rector and L. F. Rush.

DEAN MILLER WILL ADDRESS AG. SOCIETY

Professor A. M. Miller, dean of the College of Arts and Science, will deliver an illustrated lecture before the Agricultural Society at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the Horticulture Lecture room of the Ag. Building. The subject of Professor Miller's talk has not been announced, but those who heard him address the society last year will vouch for the prophecy that it will be highly interesting and instructive. Every student is cordially invited to attend whether a member of the society or not. The members of all the literary societies on the campus are extended special invitations to attend.

K. C. W. FALLS VICTIM TO KENTUCKY GIRLS

University Girls Come Back Strong After Bad First Half

SCORE IS 28 TO 10

(By Eliza Piggott.)

The lady Wildcats had their first away-from-home game of the season last Saturday night, when they journeyed to Danville and defeated the team of Kentucky College for Women 28-10.

The game does not sound as interesting as it really was, for at the end of the first half the score stood 8-7 for Kentucky. Between halves the Kentucky girls must have discovered the source of Wildcat spirit, for they came back on the floor with "pep" redoubled. Then ensued a combat which resembled somewhat the Kentucky-Rose Polytechnic game. With true Wildcat spirit the blue and white girls came to the front and in the last few minutes of play made most of their twenty points.

Spectacular goals from the middle of the floor featured the game. The work of Miss Ellwanger at forward, deserves especial commendation. Miss Crane, also at forward, was responsible for much of the sensational shooting. The defensive work of Misses Innes and Haydon was good. Miss Gregor, at center, was somewhat hampered in her work by the jumping ability of her K. C. W. opponent, who played a splendid game for the home team. The result follows:

U. of Ky.	K. C. W.
Crane (6)	Reed (4)
Ellwanger (10)	Asbury (2)
	Forwards.
Gregor (4)	Long
	Center.
Innes (2)	Buckner
Haydon (2)	Leech (2)
	Guards.
Fouls—Crane, 4 out of 7; Asbury, 2 out of 7.
Referee—King.
Monday night the girls' team will play Kentucky Wesleyan, whom they defeated here 35-18, in Winchester.

CATS MEET TIGERS AND GAME IS OURS 32-18

Hot For Revenge Our Boys Win Last Game on Local Floor

DUTCH AGAIN STARS

Revenge is sweet. Kentucky wiped out the blemish on her early season record by defeating the Georgetown College quintet Wednesday night 32 to 18. The game, aggressively contested, was featured by the superior goal shooting, passing, and teamwork of the Wildcats.

As a Mazda makes better light than brilliant oil-burning lamps and perfect tallow candles, so did Dutch Schrader, in his all-round playing, outshine his teammates and the ferocious Tigers from the nearby college. His passing was accurate and well done, and at times he made the Georgetownians see double.

Campbell, during the course of the one-sided argument, threw five baskets which counted two points each. His efforts swelled the score greatly.

Boo Ireland did excellent work against Wobbold, the premier Georgetown guard, and was very solicitous for the ease and comfort of his man, inquiring every now and then how he liked the brand of basketball displayed by the Wildcats.

The position within the circle was filled by Thompson and Longworth. No, Mabel, not at the same time. When Thompson went out, after playing eight minutes (a very good eight minutes, too), Pug replaced him. Three field-goals was Longworth's contribution.

Six minutes before the end of the final half Rodes, at guard, was taken out because of the personal foul cause. Bart Peak, substitute, went in, shot one goal and lasted the game out.

The performance of Taylor, even tho he shot one goal, the like of which is seldom seen, was not up to the standard he usually sets. Wobbold, for the Scott County lads was star on the defense.

With sincere regret did the spectators and followers of University athletics see the finish of the Georgetown-Kentucky game, the last to be played on the local floor this season.

The line-up and summary:

Kentucky.	Georgetown.
Ireland (4)	Somers (Capt.) (8)
	Forward.
	Henderson (2) and
Campbell (10)	Anderson (2)
	Forward.
Thompson (2) and
Longworth (6)	Taylor (4)
	Center.
Schrader (8)	Adams (2)
	Guard.
Rodes and Peak (2)	Wobbold
	Guard.
Fouls—Schrader, 4 out of 10; Somers, 2 out of 4; Adams, 0 out of 2.
Referee—Littick, of Centre.

MARCH 10 IS DATE OF 1917 STROLLERS' PLAY

Conflict Makes Change of Announced Time Necessary

CAST WORKING FINE

The Strollers' annual show, "The Lion and the Mouse," will be presented at the Lexington Opera House on the night of Saturday, March 10, instead of March 9, as was announced last week. It was found necessary to change the date of the performance on account of a conflict.

Rehearsals have already been in progress for more than a month and it is believed that this year's performance will measure up to the high standard set by the Stroller shows of previous seasons. The two weeks remaining before the performance will be spent in polishing up the rough places and a finished production may be expected on the night of March 10. Each year the annual Stroller show occupies a more and more important place in the University social calendar, until it is now one of the premier functions of the entire year. New students who are not yet familiar with U. of K. traditions would do well to make their plans without delay. In other words, make that date.

The cast as finally selected is evenly balanced in every particular. "Gus" Gay, a late entry in the part of Jefferson Ryder, is proving to be a "find," and it is certain that he will give his co-stars, Emery Frazier and Miss Mamie Woods, a close run for the honors. This part requires acting of the most difficult kind and a number of men were tried out before one was found who measured up to the high standard set by those in charge of rehearsals. "Gus" had the lead in the Lexington High School play, "Higbee of Harvard," last year.

There are a number of parts in "The Lion and the Mouse" which do not have a great many lines, but all of which give opportunity for excellent acting in character portrayal. The Strollers were fortunate in having about sixty people try out for parts in this year's play, and from this number it was possible to select actors for these small parts who are temperamentally suited for the parts. The part of Judge Rossmore has been entrusted to Herndon Evans, another late entry, and he is making the most of the part of the pathetic old man, who is broken in health and spirit, because he "stands falsely accused of accepting bribes." Tate Bird, as Judge Stott, is doing an excellent piece of acting as the close friend and counsel of the accused judge. Miss Martha Buckman, as the wife of John Burkett Ryder, the "Lion," and Miss Freda Lemon, as the wife of Judge Rossmore, are showing themselves to be capable actresses in parts which depict almost directly opposite types. "Bill" Shinnick, in the part of the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, don't you know, will bear the brunt of the comedy work in the play, but he is ably assisted by a group of actors in the first act who are to start the show off with a laugh. Roy Barnhill, as the Rev. Pontifex Deetle, Miss Vennie Duley, as his sister Jane Deetle, and Miss Peggy Wilkinson as Miss Nesbitt, "the banker's daughter," are a trio of comedians who deliver the goods. Miss Eliza Spurrier as Eudoxia, the maid-of-all-work in the Rossmore home, and W. C. Draddy, an expressman, work their parts for all the laughs they contain.

In somewhat larger parts are Preston Cherry as Senator Roberts, Ryder's henchman, and his daughter, Kate Roberts, played by Miss Angela Morancy. Kate is in love with Bagley and engaged to Jefferson Ryder, which of course gives possibility for complications. The University's "darling of the screen," Mary Turner, has only a small part as Thurza, Shirley Rossmore's maid, but Mary gives an excellent demonstration of how much can be gotten out of a small part. Grover Creech will be Jorkins, the pompous butler in the Ryder home.

The complete cast is as follows:
John Burkett Ryder, the "Leon"—Emery Frazier.
Shirley Rossmore, the "Mouse"—Mamie Miller Woods.
Jefferson Ryder, son of Ryder—Augustus Gay.
Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, secretary to Ryder—William Shinnick.
Senator Roberts, Ryder's right-hand man—Preston Cherry.
Kate Roberts, his daughter—Angela Morancy.
Mrs. John Burkett Ryder—Martha Buckman.
Judge Rossmore, impeached Federal Judge—Herndon Evans.
Judge Stott, Rossmore's counsel—Tate Bird.
Mrs. Rossmore—Freda Lemon.
Rev. Pontifex Deetle—Roy Barnhill.
Jane Deetle, sister to Pontifex—Vennie Duley.
Miss Nesbitt, "the banker's daughter"—Peggy Wilkinson.
Eudoxia, maid in the Rossmore home—Eliza Spurrier.
Thurza, maid to Shirley—Mary Turner.
Jorkins, butler in the Ryder home—Grover Creech.

What Ziegfeld's Follies is to the patrons of two-dollar-attractions, Woolfolk's Junior Follies is to vaudeville patrons. Mr. Woolfolk's show is patterned after the larger organization, being a revue and the title Junior Follies was appropriated on account of the company being composed of juvenile performers.

Among the specialties is The Dance of the Cities, which was such a sensation last season which in itself represents an investment of nearly twice as much as an ordinary musical comedy. The Junior Follies will open at the Ada Meade, starting Monday, February 26.

"Around the Town," the latest tabloid production of E. P. Churchill, will be seen at the Ada Meade Theatre commencing Thursday, March 12, for three days.

"Around the Town" is presented in five scenes which are said to be the most beautiful from a scenic standpoint yet offered in a vaudeville theatre. The book and lyrics were written by David M. Wolff, while the music all of which has been specially written for this production is by Ray Peabody, a composer, who has many song hits to his credit. The cast is headed by Earl S. Dewey and Mabel "Billie" Rogers. Among the other well-known players may be mentioned Mr. Bruce Richardson, Mr. Hans Herbert, Miss Emily Clark and the usual Churchill beauty chorus. Call 612 for seats as all will be reserved.

The opening games of the fraternity basketball league were played in the gym last Saturday afternoon, with Kappa Sigma and Kappa Alpha coming out victorious over Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Pi Kappa Alpha, respectively. Sigma Chi failed to put a team on the floor when time was called and the game was forfeited to Alpha Tau Omega.

The score in the Kappa Sig-S. A. E. game was 12 to 10, and in the K. A.—Pi Kap game 8 to 6. Both contests were tied at the end of the regular period and a five-minute extension of time had to be given. The playing thruout was clean and snappy, and few fouls were called.

The line-ups were as follows:
Kappa Sigma—Archer (4) and Randall (4), forwards; Berckman (2), center; Brittain, F. Shinnick (2), and W. Shinnick, guards.
Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Fields (4), and Strahm (4), forwards; Dempsey, center; Hines (2) and Fogg, guards.
Kappa Alpha—Ford (6) and Wright, forwards; Harbison (2), center; Melton, Brunson and Parker, guards.
Pi Kappa Alpha—Faulkner (4), J. Rawlings and Triplett, forwards; Collins, center; Newman (2) and Herndon, guards.

The second round will be played in the gym Saturday afternoon. Sigma Chi and Kappa Alpha will attempt to draw each other's blood, Pi Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma will mix it up, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will attempt to take Sigma Nu into camp.

UNION LIT. SOCIETY HAS MEDAL CONTEST

The annual declamatory contest of the Union Literary Society was held in the chapel last evening at 8 o'clock. A twenty-dollar gold medal, presented to the society by President Barker, was awarded to the winner.

A feature of the evening's entertainment was a short musical program, consisting of a vocal solo, violin solo and selections by a male quartet. Professors Dantzier, Chalkley and Rowe acted as judges.

Owing to the fact that the Kernel make-up was completed before the contest was held, the winner cannot be announced in this issue.

The program follows: "The Modern Paradox," J. J. McBrayer; "Mother," L. F. Bischof; "American Spirit," T. L. Creekmore; "The Ideal Man," E. E. Hardin; "America for Americans," Roy Barnhill.

"SAP" SELLS INSURANCE.
Joe M. Robinson has accepted a position as special agent of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Company. His headquarters are in the Trust Building.

Another instance of Mr. Griffith's effort to realize Babylonian opulence is the trailing cape worn by the Princess Beloved. Sixty yards of chiffon velvet went into the making of this cape on which were embroidered solid gold butterflies measuring three feet from wing to wing tip. Only one woman could do this embroidery at one time and it took this woman five months to complete her task. The total cost of the cape was $940.

The sale of seats will open Friday morning at the Ben All Theatre.—Advertisement.

Early Lead Cut Down By Fast Work of Danville Boys

SCHRADER IS ACTIVE

Centre College on its own floor, walloped the Wildcats for the first time in seven years last Friday night. The score was 28 to 24, the fighting hard and playing rough. The tangled teams caused the mix-up to look like anybody's game until the last few minutes of play.

Kentucky started off with a bang, and when the neutral timekeeper, after having nonchalantly examined his stop-watch and noticed that as much as five minutes had flown by, carelessly glanced up at the scoreboard, he saw the following defiantly looking down at him: Kentucky, 8; Centre, 3. But alas! The second hand started to roll off that fatal sixth minute. The tables began to turn and those dandy Danvillites came to the surface like a bar of that famous floating soap. This inhospitable spurt of the lads—who were acting as hosts—caused the first half to end 17 to 13 in their favor.

The Wildcats kept plugging along, after the four-point lead which their opponents had gained in the first half. It was to no avail, however, for the Centre aggregation did not let up until the referee's whistle tooted the grand finale. The score of the second period was Kentucky, 11; Centre, 11.

Schrader and Ireland did the stellar work for Kentucky, giving excellent exhibitions of floor work and basket tossing. Montgomery and Diddle starred for Centre.

Victory over the Wildcats probably means that the Danville quintet will have little or no trouble in defeating the other aspirants for the floor-championship of the State.

RESOLUTIONS VOTED BY MINING SOCIETY

At the February meeting of the Kentucky Mining Society of the College of Mines and Metallurgy, held February 12, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Frank R. Grainger, who was a valued member of this society and one of its former officers, passed from the present life to the new life in the dawn of Monday, the first day of February, 1917, be it resolved

That in his death the society has lost one of its most loyal and most beloved members; one whose active interest in its affairs has been an invaluable help and incentive to the society.

That we shall cherish his memory as one whose earnest endeavors as a student and whose integrity as a man rendered him an exemplar for the members of this society.

That, deeply deploring the loss of this fellow member, we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy.

That these resolutions be entered upon the records of the society and a copy of them be sent to the family.

RESOURCES OF CANADA DISCUSSED IN ADDRESS

Frederick Yeigh Talks To Mechanicals Last Thursday

TALK IS INTERESTING

Frederick Yeigh, of the Department of Education, Bureau of Commercial Economics, of Washington, D. C., addressed the Seniors and lower classmen of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering last Thursday afternoon. His subject was "A Travogue of Canada," illustrated with slides and moving pictures.

The lecture was a rare treat. Mr. Yeigh with his command of English and his knowledge of the commercial and national resources of Canada, made a strong appeal for our northern neighbors. With scientific agriculture, the vast plains of the Canadian West are being developed into the greatest wheat-producing region of America, he said.

The water power of Canada is sufficient to supply her entire needs and offers a broad field for hydro-electric development. The engineer and agriculturist have the full powers of nature at their command.

Mr. Yeigh, formerly a newspaper man, author and historian, has converted his entire efforts to bringing Canada into prominence. He has traveled extensively in that country and has prepared several authentic histories which are standard the world over. Many of his works have been published by the Canadian government, under whose direction he is now making a tour of this country.

ENGLISH CLUB MEETS WITH PROF. DANTZLER

The English Club met Monday afternoon in the recitation room of Professor Dantzler with Miss Jane Dickey, president, presiding. After the business of the club had been transacted, invitations from Miss Frances Jewell and the Library Club were considered and accepted.

Miss Jewell invited the members of the club to meet at her home the third Monday of March. The representative from the Library Club invited them to attend a joint meeting of the two clubs Thursday afternoon to hear an address by Professor Dantzler.

The third Monday of every month was decided on as the date for the club to hold its regular meetings. A suggestion was made by John Price that cards announcing the time of meeting should be sent to each member from this time on.

TALKS FROM MEMBERS FEATURE AG. MEETING

Benefits of Agricultural Education Landed By Students

MARKETS DISCUSSED

Talks by some of the older members featured the meeting of the Agricultural Society Monday night in regular weekly session in the Agriculture Building.

The program was opened by a talk on the growing of dark tobacco by Jesse Tapp, who handled his subject as one "who had been there." June Lewis discussed the marketing of potatoes and covered the handling, grading, packing and marketing of this crop, which he stated should be one of the most important crops of the farmer, tho there are farmers in every section of the State who do not even raise enough for their own consumption.

John P. Ricketts was due for a talk on "What the Agricultural Course Has Meant to Me," but as he was not present on time, impromptu talks on that subject, mostly reminiscences of their college life, were made by Ivan Clay Graddy, who was called on by the president and introduced as a journalist of note, A. L. Cole and W. W. Owsley.

Mr. Graddy stated that no matter what is presented to you it is the manner in which you assimilate it which counts. The greatest benefit of his Freshman year was that he found out that he was in the wrong course and changed to agriculture.

Mr. Owsley emphasized the fact that the agricultural course was not strictly a farmer boy's course, but is of value as well to the city boy.

Mr. Ricketts then strolled in and gave his side of what the agricultural course has meant to him by contrasting his experiences, knowledge and enjoyment of life before and since he has been in college. He had at one time very little idea of ever entering college, he said, as his one great desire was to be able to drive a one-eyed mule in the row without having to bother with lines. He built many air-castles which have since been thrown down, but have been replaced with a broader knowledge of life and of the activities of the world in general. Mr. Ricketts digressed greatly from the subject assigned him by giving a great deal of inside dope on his life, but not quite all of it.

Mr. Nance ended the program by telling some of his experiences and then said that he wasn't so sure that he had obtained so very much knowledge, but that he now knew just where he could get it and that he had it "kinda" classified. He is sure, however, that he will make a better farmer because of his college course than he would have if he had not taken it.

Business of the society was next taken up and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Grant. It was voted on to strike from the rolls all those who have not paid their dues entitling them to membership. The constitutional revision committee was given more time to make necessary changes in the constitution.

An appeal for more material for The Rural Kentuckian, the official paper of the society, was made by I. C. Graddy, the editor.

George Washington.

There is, in the life of every nation, as in the life of every man, a great crisis. The United States has reached that crisis. The need for patriotism and self-sacrifice was probably never so great before as it is today. It is, therefore, appropriate in the highest degree that we should celebrate the birthday of the first President in a manner in keeping with the great name which he made for himself. The University of Kentucky yesterday made a great step forward when she held a real patriotic celebration on the campus.

The address of Dr. Harvey Wiley, who is one of the really great men of the country, was inspiring and provocative of grave thought on the part of his hearers. To those who might have heard him and did not, the Kernel only says that it is sorry for them; to those who were unavoidably kept away we express our regrets. Every man who heard him feels that he understands better the spirit which animates the United States today and carried her thru the great crises of the past. The University is to be congratulated on its good fortune in securing such a man as Dr. Wiley to make the address of the day.

To pay a tribute to the memory of George Washington is not necessary; he has been eulogized and epitomized as the great American. There is something about such a man as Washington that the world admires. He was born an aristocrat, of a family that was wealthy and honored in the society of the British colonies. But he was a true American in that he would not rest in idleness; he was a pioneer as truly as Daniel Boone; he was a fighter as truly as General Grant; he was a statesman as truly as Jefferson. In his youthful days as a surveyor in the Western wilderness, in his long and bitter struggle with a Congress that could not or would not support him with men and supplies, in the awful days of Valley Forge, his courage was undaunted; his spirit rose superior to every obstacle and carried the American nation, as it then was, thru the darkest passage of its early existence. Being rich, he might have taken his ease on a Virginia plantation, but being a great patriot, he sacrificed the pleasures he might have enjoyed in supine ease and gave his all to the cause of independence. His principles were above all else with him. In the words of Governor Stanley, "we venerate him for his high morality rather than for any of the intellectual qualities he possessed."

We have celebrated the birthday of the Father of Our Country in a fitting manner. Let us see that the high example he has set for us was not wasted, that the American people of today may do in their way as much to preserve in dignity and honor the great name of the United States as the people of his day did.

The Fatal Note.
 The youth held a thin, scented missive in his hand. Its faint aroma was wafted into his nostrils as he examined it uncertainly. Musingly he tore it open and slowly read the message from within. A despairing expression came over his countenance.
 "As I thought," he sighed, "a notice from the chemistry department that my notebook must be handed in."

The faculty has received some adverse criticism for neglecting to declare a holiday on Lincoln's birthday. Squirrel Food refuses to take the view that the slight was intentional and sincerely believes that the holiday would have been granted had the faculty known the twelfth was Lincoln's birthday.

We are in favor of progress, but if the newspapers persist in calling women's Greek letter societies "fraternities," we see no reason why such expressions as "Beta Theta Pi sorority," "Jilted Sisters," "Modern Woodwomen of America" and "Sisterhood of Locomotive Engineers" should not come into vogue.

Officials implicated in the recent "leak" charges may be "whitewashed," according to a headline in The Lexington Leader. While we realize the danger of becoming involved in a national controversy we cannot refrain from suggesting that they make it tar and feathers instead of whitewash.

Hope He Feels Better Now.
 Clint Williams stayed over night with his brother the other night. He got up the next morning feeling rather badly. On seeing one of his friends passing by he called him to the door. Clint said, "Say, if you see Martha tell her if she wants to marry me, come over."

It was not many hours until the prospective bride had walked the two-mile journey to Vibert Williams. In a short time the prospective bride was no longer Miss Martha Culdwell, but Mrs. Clint Williams.—Sayersville Mountaineer.

THIRTY CANDIDATES ARE OUT FOR TRACK

Thirty candidates for the track team were out Tuesday afternoon and the outlook for a winning team this year is very promising. At present more men have answered the call than in many years past.
 Grabfelder, Hickerson, Whaley, Logan and Heick, all veterans, are showing up well. Kinne, Planck, Wallingford, Pullen, Brunson, Knight, Farmer, Shouse, F. Shinnick, Forman, Heber and many others are also showing excellent form and with a little training will have a good chance for the team.

Tuesday was the first time the track men could get outdoor practice. The aspirants will be put thru rigorous workouts the rest of the season in preparation for the meets with Georgetown and Vanderbilt this spring. Negotiations with Sewanee for a match here are under way and it is probable that this will be arranged.

ANNUAL TO BE ON SALE FIRST OF MAY

The Kentuckian will be put on sale during the first week in May. With practically all the copy in now, that of baseball and basketball excepted, and the pictures from both Spangler and Humphrey due yesterday, Editor Street says that he expects to have all the copy to the printers and every photograph to the engravers by March 1.

Senior biographies are being written now. That no one in the University may have the illusion that a spirit of unfairness exists where he is concerned, the Kernel has been requested to warn the tardy ones that if they want no lies written about them, they had better make their appearance at the Kentuckian office. Out of the 140 members of the Senior class, 130 have turned in their photographs. Less than a dozen, ten to be exact, will not be represented in the Senior section of the annual. In order that the 1917 Kentuckian may surpass its predecessors in arrangement, accuracy and beauty, the staff intends to have all copy to the printers early so that they will have a full month to work on the book.

VALUE OF EDUCATION EMPHASIZED BY REA

Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, and director of a number of other Eastern railroads, addressed the Seniors of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering at Mechanical Hall last Friday morning, while on a short visit to Lexington.

In his talk at the University, Mr. Rea spoke of the bearing of the American railway on educational and commercial development, and of the engineering problems that face the construction engineers. "It is idle for young men to enter the field of engineering," he said, "without the most thorough preparation."

Mr. Rea told the students of his experiences in the railroad business. He started as an engineer for the Pennsylvania Lines, and gradually worked his way up to the presidency. He entered the service of the railroad at the age of fifteen, advancing to assistant construction engineer, chief engineer, assistant to the president, fourth, third, second, first vice president and president in 1913.

He talked of the shortage of freight cars, and explained that the shortage was not due to the need of more cars, but to the lack of facilities in handling the shipments to the eastern ports. More cars, he said, would only increase the congestion.

While in Lexington, Mr. Rea was entertained by local business men, who accompanied him on his tour of the city.

METEORITES SUBJECT OF MILLER'S LECTURE

Dean A. M. Miller delivered a lecture to the members of the Kentucky Mining Society last Monday evening on "Meteorites." Following this cigars and fruit were served. After the refreshments and cigars a business session of the society was held at which the following officers were elected: Louis Ware, president; O. G. Schwant, vice president; E. V. Elder, secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting of the society will be held Monday, March 12. All members are requested to attend, as important business is to be transacted.

NOTED ENGINEER TO ADDRESS STUDENTS

Professor F. Paul Anderson, dean of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, has received a communication from J. G. Vincent, vice president of the engineering department of the Packard Motor Company, saying he would visit the University in April and address the student body.

Mr. Vincent is supervising work on a new aircraft machine, and while he did not state the subject of his talk in his letter, he will probably speak on aircraft.

More Money from Purebred Cottonseed

There is always a big demand for the best grades of Cotton Lint. Use the best purebred seed for planting, since it is just as easy and twice as profitable to feed a purebred Cotton Plant as it is to feed a low-grade Lint Producer. Don't forget that Nitrate doubles the yield of both Cottonseed and Lint.

Grow more Corn and other crops, but select your seed for all with the greatest care.

If you grow a longer staple you will get a longer price for your Cotton.

IN MEMORY OF WASHINGTON

Dr. Wiley, is willingness to serve one's country, both in the civil budget and in military service. By serving the nation everyone is breathing the spirit of patriotism. The speaker said that he desired to see Congress pass the bill requiring universal military service in order that the country will be prepared in case war comes. It is not fair, he said, to let the volunteers do all the fighting and allow the shirkers to remain at home and reap the profit.
Speaking of the glory of the United States, Dr. Wiley said that it is a country which venerates religion and morality and makes the life of the individual the most precious thing in the world. Every man has a fair chance to do his work, of being rewarded for it and of being protected while doing his duty. In our government we have the principles of democracy and our love for our country is the love for humanity, typified in patriotism.

Dr. Wiley was severe in his criticism of the pacifist and said that he would like to be "the guy to put the fist in pacifist." He sounded the warning of the danger of unpreparedness, saying that at present we were physically unprepared for war. We are without training and when we do offer ourselves for service we are not physically fit.

Dr. Wiley has made a study of the number of men who offer their services in the army and navy and also what per cent of this number is rejected. In the last few years 70 per cent of all who have offered their services have been rejected because of physical unfitness. The principal cause of national inefficiency is bad food.

The speaker said that the women of the country are patriots as well as the men and he advocated equal suffrage, not because the majority of women want to vote, but because it is right. If freedom had been left to the vote of the slaves in the South they would still be in bondage, he said.

Intermingling amusing anecdotes with patriotic utterances, Dr. Wiley held the interest of his audience thru-out his entire address.

Dr. Wiley was introduced by President Barker, who compared the speaker with Edison in the service rendered mankind. He said that too much honor had been attributed to the soldier and not enough to the doctor, who in his laboratory did a much greater service to the nation and to humanity. It is to the man who preserves life, rather than to the one who destroys it, that the greater honor belongs, the president said.

Governor A. O. Stanley, who did not arrive until after the services had begun, made a brilliant address, in which he set forth the merits of Dr. Wiley and emphasized the crisis that this country is now facing.

"This is a solemn time," the Governor said. "Not in fifty years have we faced such a twenty-second day of February. How we have suffered the lives of men, women and children to be taken; how we have allowed other nations to spit upon our flag! But it was love of peace and not fear of battle that moved us. If the hour should come, those who have dreamed that we are weak will find that they have aroused a sleeping giant."

In case of war no man would do more to win a victory than Dr. Wiley, the Governor said. Just as much depends upon what you put in the ration as in the shell, and it is Dr. Wiley who has spent his life in discovering what kind of food brings the best results. "Europe has no Dr. Wiley, thank God," Governor Stanley said in conclusion.

PROHI ORATORICAL SET FOR MARCH 23

The Prohibition Oratorical Contest will be held Friday evening, March 23. This will give the winner a month to prepare for the State contest, which will be held at Georgetown, April 22. An effort will be made to get the local W. C. T. U. to give a prize to the winner. The State winner gets $50.00 in gold. For further information see E. K. Robertson or Clifford T. Dotson.

'WOMAN QUESTION' IS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Mrs. A. M. Harrison Speaks at Y. M. C. A. Meeting Sunday

"Changes in industrial and home life in the present day have abolished three-fourths of woman's former duties," said Mrs. A. M. Harrison in an address before the Y. M. C. A. Sunday night, "and woman is now drawn into outside fields of endeavor to protect the home."

Because of the fact that the home of today is more vulnerable than it was a generation ago, the speaker said it becomes the duty of every Kentucky man to study the signs of the time with an open mind.

"Being a Democrat," Mrs. Harrison said, "I am proud that ten of the twelve States in which woman has the right to vote went for Mr. Wilson. All these things point to a new life, a new era. We must study to interpret the signs."

In commenting upon the appointment of a policewoman in Lexington, the speaker said that this signifies to us one of the changes of the time. She said that woman understands and appreciates the sacredness of life more than man and is therefore more deeply interested in problems affecting the giving and taking of life.

MISS DULEY SPEAKER.

The well-known quotation, "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder," was interpreted for the Y. W. C. A. Sunday night from a new point of view by Miss Vennie Duley. The speaker applied the idea to the union of the whole world by Christianity thru God's messengers, the missionaries. This program preceded the organization of mission study classes by the Y. W. C. A., which will begin this week. The meeting was in charge of Miss Zula Ferguson.

MISS TUTTLE ENTERTAINS.

Miss Margaret Tuttle entertained Wednesday evening with a dinner party in honor of the active chapter of Alpha Xi Delta. Her home on Maxwell Street was decorated following the valentine suggestion, the same idea being carried out in the place cards. The guests were: Misses Mildred Graham, Austin Lilly, Jane Dickey, Jane Crawford, Zula Ferguson, Carrie Lee Jones, Virginia Croft, Ruth Weathers, Virginia Helm Milner and Zerelda Noland.

PROM DATE CHANGED

The date of the Junior Prom, which was announced in last week's Kernel for Friday, April 20, has been moved forward one week to April 27, making the second change in the date. This action was taken after it was found that this date would conflict with the State Intercollegiate Peace Oratorical Contest. The various committees are hard to work in an effort to make this year's prom eclipse any previous one.

PROBE COMMITTEE TO BEGIN WORK MAR. 12

Gordon Elected President at the Organization Meeting

The Probe Committee, which will investigate affairs of the University and Experiment Station, will meet March 12 to begin actual work. The committee held its first meeting in Frankfort last Saturday and organized by selecting Robert S. Gordon, of Louisville, as chairman.

Members of the faculty, administrative officers and representatives of the student body will probably be summoned before the committee to give testimony.

It is expected that experts in University administration and in curricula of the Carnegie or Rockefeller foundations will be called upon to assist the committee in its work, although no action has been taken as yet.

The investigation followed charges and counter-charges of inefficiency of members of the faculty and "peanut politics." Composing the special committee are: R. S. Gordon, J. Irvin Lyle, Senator H. M. Froman, Dr. J. A. Ammons and J. W. Turner.

STAFF AND CROWN TO ENTERTAIN WITH TEA.

The Staff and Crown, Senior girls' society, will entertain the Junior girls of the University, with an informal tea at Patterson Hall Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5.

Y. W. C. A. GIVES VALENTINE TEA AT PATTERSON HALL.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. advisory board were the guests of the cabinet at a Valentine Tea at Patterson Hall Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6. Those present were Mrs. Alfred C. Zembrod, Mrs. Elizabeth King Smith, Miss Frances Jewell, Miss Mabel Pollitt, Mrs. Elizabeth Underwood, Miss Elizabeth Hopper, Dean Anna J. Hamilton, Miss Elizabeth Pickett, Judge Henry S. Barker, cabinet members; Misses Linda Purnell, Jane Dickey, Mary Hamilton, Coy Wilson, Mildred Graham, Eliza Piggott, Celia Cregor, Myrtle Smith, Vivian DeLaine, Lelah Gault, Emma Holton, Marie Becker.
