He was also listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Donovan Gives 248 Degrees

Eisenhower Is Guest Speaker

President H. L. Donovan conferred degrees on 217 University seniors, 27 graduate students, and awarded four honorary degrees, at commencement Friday evening, June 3, on Stoll field.

Honorary Degrees

Recipients of the honorary degrees were Gov. Simeon Willis, Dr. Francis S. Hutchins, president of Berea College, and Fred M. Vinson, director of the Office of Economic Stabilization, who were awarded doctors of law degrees; and Jesse Hilton Stuart, poet and author, who was awarded a doctor of literature degree.

These colleges announce the following degrees: Arts and Science, 106; Engineering, 16; Law, 4; Education, 37; Commerce, 16; and Graduate School, 27.

Eisenhower Speaker

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Kansas State College and brother of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, delivered the commencement address. He spoke on the present war situation and declared that world democracy "will not be achieved in our time."

Mutual understanding, Dr. Eisenhower said, "is the cement which must be used to build the foundations of world democracy. That cement is a compound of two elements: a physical communications system, along which accurate information, and ideas flow freely. It consists of tangible things like newspapers, radios, airplanes . . . the other consists of intangible things such as value, judgments, and basic mental processes which yield comprehension and wisdom." Important in bringing about these

Attention Seniors

All seniors who expect to complete their requirements for graduation at the close of the summer quarter and who have not made application for degrees, are requested to do so Friday, June 23. This applies also to graduate students who expect to complete their requirements for graduate degrees. All applications should be filed in Room 16 of the Administration building.

As the commencement lists are made from these cards, it is important to file an application at this time.

European War Will End In '45 --UK Students

By Mary Jane Dorsey

Fighting in the European war theatre will terminate by the first of the year, so say students interviewed this week by The Kernel.

Allied gains in occupied France, which followed the invasion, and the success of the 5th Army smashing through Nazi lines 75 miles northwest of Rome, have led persons to believe that with that recent all-out movement, victory will come much sooner than formerly expected.

One University war analyst voiced this opinion, "Germany is being bombarded on three fronts at once. On the southern front, we have broken the German hold in central Italy. Soviet forces on the eastern front are initiating crushing blows; they have driven the enemy from lands invaded three years ago. The Allied air forces, dropping death on the Germans in continuous day and night raids, are succeeding in destroying German war industries and air power. With all these things raining on them at once how can they last long?"

The majority of persons interviewed expressed this same sort of opinion, and each commented that the bitter air war being waged by Allied fighter and bomber squadrons over Germany and western Europe is so important because "the Air Force is stopping enemy war production while the ground forces are driving Axis positions back rapidly."

When asked about the invasion and its significance, one soldier re-

Laboratory Drops Wenner-Gren Title Trustees Undecided On New Name

The University Board of Trustees voted at its last meeting to drop the name "Wenner-Gren" from the name of the Wenner-Gren Aeronautical Research Laboratory on the campus, and directed that the bronze plaque on the building be removed. Termination of the lease agreement with the Mawen Motor Corporation for operation of the laboratory was also passed.

Formal Protest

The action followed a formal protest against the name, made to Gov. Simeon Willis by a group of Lexington women recently, and came within a few hours after a legal opinion from Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit that "the name of the laboratory should be changed and the bronze plaque be removed until such time as Mr. Wenner-Gren has been cleared from the black list" of the United States Government.

Donated In 1940

The laboratory was donated to the University June 12, 1940, by the Viking Foundation, an organization controlled by Axel L. Wenner-Gren, Swedish industrialist, who was placed on the State Department's so-called "black list" early in 1942.

A telegram from J. C. Galvin, New York City, secretary-treasurer of the Mawen Motor Corporation, which said that the Mawen corporation has approved "cancellation of its contract for the operation of the laboratory," if the University thought it advisable, was presented to the Board by Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University.

Suit Filed

Henry A. Harper and James M. Molloy, alumni of the University, filed a suit in Fayette Circuit Court May 23, seeking judgment against the Mawen Motor Corporation for profits the suit said should have gone to the University on several contracts for services and tests made in the laboratory during the last three years.

Dr. Donovan said the University would continue to operate the laboratory, but the trustees took no action in selecting another name to replace "Wenner-Gren."

180 ASTP Trainees Remain On Campus

The summer quarter of the University opened with the lowest enrollment since World War I. The unofficial tabulation is approximately 869 students, with the ratio of women to men judged to be 5 to 1.

The enrollment for the spring quarter was 1,291, which was considered to be the time. Compared with the 1,065 students who signed up for summer quarter work in 1943, a steady decline of about 20 per cent has been tabulated.

ASTP Men

Approximately 180 to 180 A.S.T.P. men remain on the campus. The teachers who are attending classes in the Education College increase the enrollment to 40. The college heretofore has led the other colleges during the summer quarter, but this is not true at the present.

The other colleges are credited with the following number of students: Commerce, 60; Law, 65; Agriculture, 40, and Engineering, 50. The number of students enrolled in Arts and Sciences college has not yet been calculated. The normal number of graduate students in the University is down to a minimum.

Halls Open

Five residence halls are remaining open. Jewell hall is housing 113 students and the fraternity houses are filled to capacity, with Sigma Chi, 21; Sigma Nu, 24; and SAE, 23. The Lydia Brown house is accommodating 19.

Redecorated

The regular women's dormitories, Patterson and Boyd halls, are being made ready for the students in the fall, as the fraternity houses are being turned back to the men, and will be closed for the duration.

Lieutenant Duggan Receives Promotion

The Military Department of the University has announced the promotion of Lieut. James E. Duggan, to First Lieutenant as of June 8, 1944.

Lieut. Duggan has been at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana where he took the Officers' Refresher Course. He and Captain Preston B. Powell have now been returned to duty. Lieut. Duggan has been on duty as Adjutant of the 1548th and 3518th Service Units. Second Lieut. Wayne P. Moynihan, is still in attendance at the Indiana post.

QUESTION: What do you think of summer school?

Ann Stevenson, A&S, Frosh: It's too hot!

Mrs. Bonnie Burris, Special Student: I'm delighted with it. It's a change from teaching, at least.

Billie West, Educ. Sr.: It's too hot to work.

Nancy Thomas, Graduate student: Right now I think it's just too hot.

Ruth Boyd, Educ. Sr.: It's fine if you can take it.

Anne Greene, Commerce, Jr.: It's a helluva way to spend the summer.

Louise Land, Educ. Jr.: I think summer school is O.K. At least I'll get out earlier by going this summer.

Coeds Beware

Now that the summer months and the football players are here, we think a few do's and don'ts for you co-eds would be in order. You've got to find something to do in your spare time, so you might as well make it interesting and fun. Rule one: Find someone to love. Although it is not necessary try to find someone who could love you. One-sided love affairs are usually very beautiful, but tragic in a painful way. If you do some shrewd picking, your summer romance might lengthen out into an all-year affair.

Rule two: Don't pick someone else's man. If you're going to get your material from the football crew, then just give up.

Regardless Of The Heat

LINCOLN'S VISION

is today's reality!

STEEL RAILS connecting coast with coast! That was Abraham Lincoln's vision, realized by the Driving of the Golden Spike. This historic event, in 1869, united the first trans-continental tracks, and initiated the nation-wide delivery by Express of commercial goods and personal packages at passenger train speed.

Today, Railway Express operates on 230,000 miles of track. Over them daily, 10,000 trains speed shipments of every kind to and from 23,000 offices. Included in this nation-wide network is almost every college town in America. Generations of students first learned about Express Service when they left home for college, then grew to depend upon it during their years on the campus.

When you do have packages to send, you can help us do our war job better by aiding in three ways: Pack your shipments securely—address them clearly—start them early. Our century of experience proves that "a shipment started right is half-way there!"

Another Summer Kernel

To those of you who attended summer school last year, this tabloid form of the Kentucky Kernel is not a new feature. To those of you who have not seen our tabloid issue, we present the first edition of the summer Kernel.

Although the staff is limited and our offices are over 200 degrees, there will be no change in the news coverage. The same wide variety of news, sports, and features are to be issued weekly as in previous quarters.

An appeal is made to all amateurs and professionals interested in working on The Kernel. It is an invaluable experience for an aspiring journalist, in addition to being just "lots of fun." There are still many vacancies to be filled on the staff.

From you who only read The Kernel, we would appreciate any suggestions or criticisms. It is your paper, written for you, and issued for you; therefore we want to publish it the way you like it best.

The Economics Of It All, Or Woman, The Frozen Asset

By Adele Denman

It cannot be said that this article did not take much research, and you who have been students of the great science of economics will corroborate my statement that anything concerning it takes a great amount of delving into many mysteries which, if you are not careful, still remain at that same status.

Many bachelors, hermits, and woman haters in general were consulted, which caused much effort on the part of my grade ten tires, for they took me to caves, desolate islands, bars, and other places where these individuals could be found.

They all said, quote, "Just trace the history of any great woman and you will find that she always costs men something!" Some said "Have a drink," but that is not important or world-shaking.

Beginning With Eve

In our research, let us begin at the beginning—which is synonymous with Eve. Adam was quite limited in his selection but he was quite satisfied until Eve acquired her big appetite for apples and literally ate him out of house and home.

The origin of the first late date was brought about by Paris and Helen of Troy. They took a little boat trip and forgot to return; consequently, Ulysses was forced to give her the Trojan horse laugh, and after mangling a few good men like Hector, she was brought back.

Joan of Arc

Next we could point out Joan of Arc. She put on the first pair of slacks and had ten thousand Frenchmen fighting over her.

The first female wolf was Elizabeth of England. She couldn't say no, so she tried poison. Her activities, which involved the elimination of a few English wolves, started the first man shortage in the country.

Marie Antoinette was the female siren type, and where did it get her family? She was a good conversationalist, but she succeeded in talking their heads off.

Eleanor

Last, but not least, we go to Alaska, or maybe the South Seas, in search of the greatest woman, the one who makes the women haters look foolish. Let's try the White House. Maybe Eleanor is home now. She dated Franklin and got her man and left him for a few million army camps all over the world. They may talk about her, but Eleanor isn't so dumb.

Some of these women won, and some lost, but we could not help but agree with the men, they cost plenty. On the other hand, let a good-looking woman pass and their aspirations to be millionaires go out the window. Men aren't so dumb; or are they?

Live, Learn

By Adele Denman

"One is never too old to be a co-ed!" is the motto of the teachers who are now occupying the residence halls with the girls.

Now the line outside the shower door is not only composed of girls with hair rolled up and cream on their faces, but older women are included in the group, and are clad in the same attire and with much the same accessories.

Just Wait

The co-eds are just waiting to see if they cram for exams too, and although they can't lend them clothes, they are glad to let them borrow ink, paper, and other essentials.

They really can take it, say the co-eds, and are right handy to help one brush up on that big quiz as some have large and conspicuous AB's in the very subject you are slaving over.

The Fischer Bowl

By Billie Fischer

Well . . . here we are again. Back to the old grind . . . after a week filled with the thrills, chills, and bills of New York. Somehow, the Big City "ain't what it usta be."

Never before did we go into a Swedish restaurant and hear an Hawaiian band play Irish melodies. Nor did we go into a typically American night club and listen to a Russian orchestra play rhumbas!

After being away from the bright lights for awhile, the idea of seemingly sane human beings packing themselves into a tiny artificial paradise, for the sole purpose of "having a good time," seems rather silly.

In one famous nightery, the people were crowded so close together that it was not unusual to find that you had mixed your ginger ale with the bourbon belonging to a poor soul sitting three tables away. And when the floor show begins, you find yourself plunged into utter darkness. And it never fails to happen that you are just beginning your first course when the lights go out. You decide to let the food wait, and you watch the show until you are seized with pangs of hunger. So you start your meal, only to discover, when the lights go on, that you have been chewing on your napkin . . . not your pate de fois gras.

So, you taste your soup, and you are once more enveloped in blackness. You watch the gorgeous six-foot-tall show girls and you comfort yourself with the thought that beauty is only skin deep. Besides, you have a beautiful soul!

Luckily, the lights are on when (Continued on Page Three)

Summer Reading Series Will Feature Sallie Pence

The summer session of the "Invitation to reading" series will be opened at 3 p. m., Tuesday, June 20, by a talk on garden and wild flowers which will be given by Miss Sallie Pence.

Miss Pence has chosen as her subject, Beauty in the Commonplace, and she will endeavor to give her listeners a greater appreciation of the garden spots of Kentucky. For some time Miss Pence has been interested in making Kentuckians take an even greater interest in the beauties of the state. Many trips have been made to showplaces, gardens, and parks to collect the material for her talk.

One of her chief hobbies is photography and she will use her pictures to illustrate the talk. Pictures from Cumberland Falls, state parks, and other points of interest as far as Henderson, Kentucky, will be included, to give a complete composite view.

The other meetings of the series will consist of three talks and two book reviews, which will be given by Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women at the University; Rabbi Julian F. Fleg; Mrs. Frank L. McVey, wife of president emeritus McVey, of the University; and Dr. Thomas D. Clark, professor of Kentucky history.

The series has again been planned to bring together persons interested in books and reading, and the public is invited to attend. All talks with the exception of the first which will be held in Room 314 of the library, will be held in the Browning room of the library.

The complete schedule of the series is as follows:

Black Birds on the Lawn, by Jane Morton, to be reviewed by Mrs. Holmes, at 3 p. m., Tuesday, June 27.

Palestine, Land of Promise, by Walter Clay Lowdermilk, to be reviewed by Rabbi Fleg, at 3 p. m., Tuesday, July 11.

Gastronomically Speaking, a talk by Mrs. McVey, at 3 p. m., Tuesday, July 25.

The Country Store, a talk by Dr. Clark, at 3 p. m., Tuesday, August 8.

In answer to a query as to the location and time of the first practical oil well, a newspaper know-it-all column answers: "Titusville, Pa., in 1859." That'll be nice, won't it?

Radio Schedule

The University radio studio will present programs over station WHAS, Louisville, according to the following schedule

Saturday, June 17: 1 to 1:15 p.m.—Your Land and My Land—Virginia; 1:15 to 1:30 p.m.—Danger Ahead—Control of Fires, by Mr. J. M. Gregory, sanitary inspector.

Three Honor Organizations Discontinued For Duration

A recommendation that various chapters of honorary organizations on the campus be discontinued was approved by the University faculty at its last meeting. The recommendation was incorporated in a report made to the faculty by the College of Arts and Sciences.

Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary society for men in journalism; Phi Epsilon Phi, botany society honorary; and Omega Beta Pi society for pre-medical students, which have been inactive for some years on the campus, will be discontinued.

New Rules

The report on University organizations, which was submitted by the college to the faculty, and referred to the rules committee, takes up a statement of the present rules on student campus activities and social life; lists the new rules with the proposed changes and recommendations; and gives additional recommendations and suggestions concerning student organizations.

Probation

According to the new rules, a student who is on probation is not eligible to participate in such activities as membership on staffs of publications; offices, committee and the legislature of the Student Government Association; fraternity, sorority, club and society offices; military and band sponsorships and cheer leading; management of intercollegiate athletics teams and intramural sports; UK troupers; Women's Athletic Association offices; musical and radio grants in aid; folk dancing club; musical, dramatic, and forensic organizations; and stock judging teams. The list of activities affected by this ruling is subject to revision by the University faculty at any time.

Ode To Summer School

By Adele Denman

The sun shines bright,
I'm a sickly white,
Let's go swimming ol' girl—
Couldn't go for the world,
I go to summer school!

Up every morning at six,
I'm in a heck of a fix.
Up out of bed
And with slowness of tread,
I go to summer school!

I was out to get a three,
What a joke on me.
Later in the summer
I get dumber and dumber.
I go to summer school!

And when I die and go to hell,
I'll hear that second hour bell.
It'll be hot as heck there
But I won't have a care,
'Cause it'll be just like summer school!

Blackstone?

By Bob Feiring

This is the question two of the new football players asked the other night as they trilled all over the campus looking for their beds.

The experience started down town as the two he-men asked two of their team-mates if they knew where Blackstone hall apartments were located. Of course, being freshmen, they knew where it was, or thought they did, and started out across the campus to show their wandering buddies where to stay.

The quartet wandered all over the place but still no Blackstone hall. Finally, as a last resort, one of the fellows said, "Come on in my place and we'll sleep on the floor until morning when Coach Rankin can show you where the place is."

So the party went into the house to sleep. As they entered the front door one of the fellows yelled to Jess McCune and asked him if he knew where the hall was located. He said he didn't, so the boys went to sleep not feeling so badly, because they thought if Jess didn't know, no one would.

All went well until about six a. m. the next morning when Coach Rankin came to wake the boys who had seven o'clock classes. He stuck his head in the door of apartment 1, and what should he see but three big bruisers lying in the middle of the floor, sound asleep. He awoke the trio and asked them why they weren't in their own room. One of the new boys spoke up; "We couldn't find the Blackstone hall, Coach, so we couldn't find our room. It was apartment 4." The coach just laughed. They were in Blackstone hall, but their room was on the second floor. And that ended the hardest sleep I have ever had.

New Reduced Budget Voted By Trustees

Approving an estimated reduced budget expenditure for the University colleges division, the Board of Trustees voted last week to allow a budget totaling $1,449,793 for the 1944-45 school year. This is a sum of $288,209.01 lower than the original adjusted budget, Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University, said.

The trustees also voted to continue operation of the University elementary and high training school. A higher tuition rate was set for the school after Dr. Donovan withdrew a report proposing the closing of the school.

When asked his reasons for proposing the closing of the school, Dr. Donovan stated, "With the money we hoped to save by eliminating the school, it was our plan to extend the services of the Education college to a larger area."

Football Prospects Arrive

First Workout Held Wednesday

Kentucky will resume football play this fall after a year's absence on college schedules. Forty-one hopefuls went out for the first practice session, Tuesday afternoon, which consisted chiefly of calisthenics.

The future Cats were then told by line coach, Bernie Shively, to show their speed at nailing backs on kicks and punting. After this, the players were divided into three group line, ends, and backs.

Shively took the line and tutored them on stance, running, blocking and passing. Head coach Ab Kirwan watched the backs run the "T" formation.

The practice, which was just the first of a number of workouts in light equipment, showed several good prospects.

Those who reported Tuesday are: Floyd Shorts, Sharon, Pa.; Louis McDonald, Paducah; Leo Arenstein, New York City; John Satak, Tiltonville, Ohio; Bill Arnsperger, Paris; M. C. Noger, Hazard; George Kent, Scitoville, Ohio; Doc Ferrell, Richmond; Nick Engleis, New York City; Jim Brown, Ludlow; George Schaffer, Steubenville, Ohio; Jesse McCune, Louisville.

Many Classes In Sports Are Taught

By "M. F. Neuter"

Do you suffer from early class drowsiness? Have you developed stiff joints, heavy feet, a lame brain, a "want to do something but you don't know what" feeling, or any of the other usual summer session varieties of ailments? If so, are you seeking a sure cure (guaranteed to either kill or otherwise)? Do you wish to dispense with your weighty problems and relax after being knocked down, pushed up, and kicked around by the surge of food seekers whose sole objects are to indulge in the calories that they should make an effort to do without?

Get There

Well, GET ON THE BALL! (to coin an Army Phrase). Don't just make an attempt to take part in the non-credit recreation program which has been planned for you, but go to it! Sign up today in the Men's gym, or attend the first periods which will begin on Monday.

Included in this program will be archery, badminton, tennis, bowling, and social dancing. All five courses will be open to both men and women and will be lacking in extra fees, with the excepting of bowling.

Lose Poundage

Tennis, a great way to rid yourself of excess poundage, will be instructed by Martha Cockrell, '44 and will meet seventh hour on Tuesdays and Thursdays. It's grand "stuff," so the rumors go. Those participating will be required to furnish their own rackets, balls and regulation shoes and gym suits for the women.

Miss Cockrell will also be in charge of archery which will be held the sixth hour on Mondays Wednesdays and Fridays.

Badminton the "now you see it, now you don't" game, will be headed by Ethel Smith, physical education instructor, the sixth hour on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Bowling Too

Mary Johnson, physical education instructor, will direct the bowling class. This will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays during the fifth hour.

Last, but surely not least comes the "thriller" event of the summer—dancing. A social dancing and jitterbug class will be organized to be held from 6 to 8 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday night, being taught by all three of the instructors. If enough people attend, latest song hits will be purchased for the victrola. So "come on 'chil-luns,' y-es DANCE!" That means the entire student body, both civilian and military, and it also means a sure fire way to make new acquaintances on campus.

Men And Women

Since this was planned with the idea of providing recreation and enjoyment for the men and women on campus, they should not have to be "urged" to attend and take part in the activities mentioned. The idea is wonderful, and the opportunities even more so. Need proof? Then why not try attending a class or two and see how it appeals to you. After all, eliminating the wear loads previously mentioned ought to entice any weather-worn individual to relax and enjoy the gracious hospitality of the University physical education department, who deserves much credit for all of their efforts.

Help make this a worthwhile project by bringing yourself—meet your "campus cousins" en masse—and who knows, you might even be unfortunate enough to meet the author of this, who, for obvious reasons (this sad state of affairs, the "why journalism profs get grey" masterpiece) will omit "its" (neuter gender!) name!

Sororities Move Into New Homes

According to the tentative plans, Kappa Delta sorority will move into the Sigma Chi house, and Alpha Delta Pi sorority will occupy the Sigma Alpha Epsilon residence, Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, has announced.

The two fraternity houses will be redecorated before the women move into them in September.

Reporters Wanted For Kernel Staff

All students interested in working on the Kernel this summer are requested to attend a meeting at 3 p.m. Monday, in the Kernel news room, sub-basement of McVey hall. This meeting is compulsory for all staff members.
