WISE . . . and otherwise

By P.V.T. BOB AMMONS

As Summer Approaches In '43

So it's the end of another quarter, and next week the class of '43 will go through the motions of graduating from a University. There will be a June week with its round of tests, its solemn farewells, and its ceremonies. Even the diplomas will be the same as those which each Kentucky graduate has received for years.

But though the motions will be the same and the proud parades will be just as proud, the behind-the-scenes action will be different.

Not for the graduate of '43 will the commencement speaker paint a rose picture of worlds to conquer with his newly acquired certification of learning. The class of '43 already has a job cut out for it to do before it can begin making a place for itself in a normal world. Many of the candidates for degrees have already begun this task and will not be on hand to lead the traditional cap and gown.

No, the class of '43 will need none of the qualities of initiative. It is going out into a ready-made world. The majority of its men are on active service with the armed forces today. Its women are going from the campus, not to seek positions in the business world, but to accept them.

Never before has as much been expected of a class as is being expected of the class of '43. It needs no initiative for it has been assigned a task, the task of making the world a fit place for all before it can hope to live in it in peace and pursue the callings of its choice.

When it began its college career, the class of '43 was just another group of young Americans, a whirl for a smattering of higher education, ready at a good time, and its share of hell-raising.

Well, it's completed its four years of classes, it's had a good time as long as it could, and it's going out to really raise its leg with a purpose with the enemies of the United States.

May we add our voice in assurance that we know that it will do a good and a thorough job.

The class of '43 leaves behind it a University that is more a military reservation than a campus. The day of the good-time Harry and the convertible date is gone. The undergraduate population is almost entirely composed of women.

So I Paek Up My Khaki Pants And Leave To Save The World

By Pvt. Jay Wesley Wilson
I am going to pack my two shirts with my other socks and my khaki pants in my suitcase. I am going from the Campus. For four years I have ambled over its dormitories and its dining halls, I've eaten its numerous stairways, slept in my required courses, and rested in the shade of the trees that shade the Building and Grounds provided, but that was another day.

Fraternities Impressive
I am going from the Campus without farewells. Farewells are little affairs smacking of common ideas and burdened with sentimental notions. I am leaving as I came—eager, excited, and a little awed. Everything once seemed so wonderful on my Campus. The grass was bluer than the grass at home, the buildings higher, and the girls, the girls were the most sophisticated, most posed things I'd ever seen.

I was miserable! I guess it was the fraternities that saved me, with their convalescents, and steak dinners, and gay, friendly chatter, and apparently, all the time in the world. Or maybe it was the sorority houses which always seemed filled with boys, although the girls they said lived in them.

I might have been excited over making a good play on Oreo, Mrs. Freshman football team. I never did. I may have been hoping to keep up a high standing and pledge Phi Beta Kappa. I never will. It could have been the BMOCC's that stimulated an ambition to take the University by storm. I have lost it.

Perhaps the Kernel editor was driving a new car or the Business Manager wearing a suit and the day I arrived I'm still walking around in G. I. britches.

My Campus was a beautiful thing in those first days at the University. . . beautifully mottled, and writhing with scholars who smiled at Dr. McVey's accusation

Krafoglis Protests Editorial Regarding Political Posters

Milton S. Kafoglis 612 Columbia Ave. Lexington, Ky.

The Kernel Editor: Upon reading your editorial of May 21 in regard to the question of posters, trees, and bulletin boards.

First may I say that the Independent party cannot be accused of any of the things mentioned in your editorial. The party agreed at several of its meetings that it would not touch any of the posters that the opposition would put up. Yet, and I openly accuse the "clique" of defiance, tearing the posters of the Independent party. But, there is supposed to have been an agreement between both groups not to resort to any malpractices.

Secondly, about posting placards on the boards that have been so practically placed on the campus for the purpose of informing of a student body of "things to come." Tell me just who has the keys to these glass enclosed boards and would these people allow such placarded placards to be placed there. I didn't believe they would because of certain existing restrictions. I also wish to inform the writer of this editorial that the placards and posters of both parties which were removed from the open bulletin boards in the halls in school were removed by the hands of the various departments because they said that school rules did not permit such placarded posters and placards.

Therefore, I assume that the aforementioned was written by some "clique" member or members who still have a sour taste of the defeat that the Independent party so honestly and admirably administered. The writer or writers should first find out the facts and then speak not speak and then have the painful facts told them afterwards.

Tell me, just where are you going to put posters, and announcements if no one will co-operate with you, instead they will tear them off you. If you had read carefully the editorial to which you refer, you would have noticed that we were not aiming at any specific party. Both parties were guilty of the practices to which we referred. We felt the need to write this editorial when it was called to our attention by a faculty member that trees on the campus were being damaged. We see that you are not denying that your party did this. The Kernel, just as its editor who wrote the editorial, is entirely non-partisan in regard to politics. Early copy deadlines even make it necessary for the editor to write the article before the election, so it could not possibly have been the outgoing party who had the trees destroyed. If this was not done by party supporters, we will have to blame the damage on gentlemen.

We feel sure that department heads would have allowed the placing of placards on their bulletin boards if their permission had been asked.

SGA Officers Express Thanks To Student Body

Lexington, Ky. May 24, 1943

Through the Kernel, we want to express our thanks and our gratitude to you who were responsible for our success in the recent election. Without your support and influence the task would have been impossible.

Rather than move as two opposite forces, we plead that the two parties unite and move as a unit to further close relations between the students and the administration, and to accomplish in the future what the SGA of the past has failed to do.

Keeping the slogan of Kentucky in mind, the students of Kentucky cannot fail.

Sincerely, Vincent Spagnuolo Jimmy Hurt

half-squinted grey eyes, . . . ambitious to attain my goals . . . excited over the prospects . . . and a bit awed by a tremendous hurdle about to be made.

Yes, I am going from the Campus! I am going to tackle one of the great futures ever handed down. Am I going? Brother, I've got to be! Excited! I'll say I'm excited.

YOU GUESSED IT, FELLOW—I'M GOING TO SAVE THE WHOLE DAMNED WORLD FOR DEMOCRACY.

We have not met Miss Marie Thompson, A. S. Freshman. The whose comments appeared in the Kernel's "So They Say" column last week, but we are sure we are missing an experience. Here is one freshman girl who really calls her shots.

When asked by The Kernel's 35 inquiring reporter what she was doing for the national election, Miss Thompson said she had no need for the "writing letters to the boss in the service, buying stamps and bonds, weeding our victory garden, and planning the death of Hitler."

This, coming as it does like a thunderbolt from the clear sky, should strike terror to the very heart of the Axis. With all his worries, Adolf Hitler will be forced to pause a moment and quiver with apprehension as he hears the whispered reports that over in Lexington, Ky., a Miss Marie Thompson, A. S. Freshman, is plotting against him.

In our four long years at the University we have seen and heard many things, but nothing which sums up the wrongness of college life as well as a sophomore we saw curled in a chair in the Union's music room when the whistler reports that anything outside the doors of that sanctum, he sat there, listening to a Bach quartet, eating a candy bar, with his eyes bulging out over some cartoons in Esquire.

When the history of the University of Kentucky is written, we hope someone can find a place for the story of the UK Press Club—the one organization on the campus completely without subterfuge, 100 per cent honest in all its dealings, and actually worth the money it takes to run.

In a college racked by nickel-grubbing fraternities, fake "honors" and all sorts of Greek With A Purpose, the Press Club has been like a drink of cool water in the middle of the desert. It is with regret that we announce its disbanding "for the duration" still unhonored, unsung, but with its banner unsunk.

We doubt if an outfit like the Press Club could exist anywhere except on the UK campus, or in the halls of a school where the "honorary" racket or

What Goes On There . . .

By Janet Edwards
Besides the daily routine of drilling, marching to classes and spending long hours of study in hopes of completing the basic training, sailors stationed at the Naval Training School at Purdie University, and all sorts of good things, and skills before the student body, faculty and friends. The entertainment included, five boxing bouts by former Golden Gloves winners who are now stationed at the University.

The University of South Carolina sends in something on the poetical side which is vaguely familiar. If little Red Riding Hood lived today, The modern lass would scorn her. For she had only to meet one wolf. Not one at any corner.

A certain column from the staff of the V.M.I. Cadet sent in the following sentences which were clipped from actual letters received from mothers, wives, etc. of men in the service. They were either making or correcting applications for absences—at any rate, here they are!

Sir, I am forwarding my marriage certificate, and my two children. One is a mistake as you can see.

This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?

In accordance with your instruction I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope.

Please send my wife's form to fill out.

I am told that my husband sits in the YMCA every night with the piano playing in his uniform. I think you will find him there.

There is one thing which has always impressed us about the University—and that is the faculty attitude taken toward even the editorial page. This was brought home forcefully just last Tuesday, when we found a notice in our mail box. Even in the last few days of our stay here the University had not forgotten us. It was a letter from Dean DeBo, inviting us to our own graduation.

Well, folks, this is the end of our spring. For four years we have been writing on and around this editorial page, and as Calvin Coolidge said—four years is enough for any man. Laid out to end, all the words we have typed out would reach to the bottom of Lake Erie—and it probably would be a good thing.

We have no tears to shed, no old wounds to lick, no apologies to make. We'll just stop to make one wish—that you all have been along with us the most useful lesson you can pick up in college: how to laugh, and especially how to laugh at yourself—how to be serious, and not to be a sorority about it.

It's our belief that a lot of the trouble in this godly world would be solved if the Big Shots and the Little People knew how to laugh off the rankling little disagreements which they have. The trouble is the track of the really important things.

And the same goes for college professors, and college students, and hawk pirates, too. So long, folks.

where the telephone is right outside the door. You eventually hear a conversation like this: "Hello, may I speak to Sue? Well, is May there? How about Jean? Well, is Margie there? Oh, hello, Margie. You know, we're going to have a party Saturday night and you're the first one I thought of."

Currently popular with students at Tulane university is the "Pain Dodo" dance, greatly similar to the French dances long held in the country of Louisiana. The dance is especially popular now in wartime since the costumes of oricals and cotton dresses eliminate the necessity of elaborate clothes and dresses.

For the past few months we have been reading "Wise and Otherwise" by Pvt. Bob Ammons. We have noticed that Pvt. Bob has become a fairly well-known BMOCCSA (Big Man on Campus U. S. Army) through the medium of his column.

We, too, should like to have our name in the headlines of the editorial page. We should like to have people read our column and as to ourselves over our cute sayings.

Informal Reception And Dance Set For 9-12 Tomorrow Night in Union

Affair Is Given For Students, Service Men

An informal reception and dance will be given for students and service men from 9 to 12 p.m. Saturday in the Ballroom of the Union building.

Edith Weisenberger, newly elected president of the Union board, will be in charge of general arrangements.

Members of the committee for arranging the reception are Jean Reynolds, chairman, Claudine Malinaux, Jeanette Graves, Bob Davis, Edith Weisenberger, and Helen Harrison.

In the receiving line will be Dr. and Mrs. Herman L. Donovan, Dr. T. T. Jones, Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, Tom Walker, past president of the board, and Edith Weisenberger.

Arrangements for the dance are being made by the dance committee including Jay C. Doyle, chairman, Katy Lee Snyder, Jane Denney, Camilla Westberg, Martha Ringo, Marian Harris, Nell Sebre, Jane Bandy, Bill Barton, Phil Bent, Melba Bowen, Jane Ann Redd, and Julie Landrum.

Chaperons for the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Holmes, Dr. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. M. White, and Dr. and Mrs. Leo Chamberlain.

Zeta Tau Alpha Will Give South Sea Island Tea

Alpha Chi chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha will entertain with a South Sea Island tea, from 3-6 Sunday afternoon at the chapter house in honor of a group of Lexington high school seniors.

The house will be decorated to carry out the theme with palms, grass, fruit, and music. The table with the punch bowl will represent the island. Several members of the society will be costumed.

Mrs. Karl Von Allemen, Louisville, will preside at the punch bowl. Those in the receiving line will be June Wyatt, president; Mrs. J. M. Collier, housemother; Esie March, vice-president; and Reeda Rose Von Allemen, rush chairman.

Reeda Rose Von Allemen and June Wyatt are in charge of the arrangements.

Spicer, Chrisman To Attend First Inter-Racial Meet

Carolyn Spicer, president of the YWCA, and Norman Chrisman, president of the YMCA, have been selected to represent the University at the Small Leadership Interracial seminar which will be held at Berea from June 10 to June 15.

Although only one student and one advisor from the Y at each college are customarily asked to attend, previous two conferences were held for the southern section. The meeting place for white members of the YWCA, and Blue Ridge, N. C., for colored members was at Talladega, Ala. This is the first such inter-college conference to be held in the South.

Geologists' Cumberland Trip Is Gone For The Duration

By Dorothy Jack Eckler

"The annual geology department field trips offer opportunities which students cannot receive in a classroom or laboratory," said Dr. Arthur C. McFarlan, head of the University geology department.

"The chance to get first-hand experiences in mining; to see different types of geology specimens; especially mineral resources, in the various regions; and to become acquainted with noteworthy things of geology is made possible through this summer field work in regional geology," Dr. McFarlan stated.

During the field trips, held for fifteen years, the geology department has compiled a good reference collection of fossils, rocks, and minerals from some of the largest iron, nickel, gold, coal, bauxite, and asbestos mines in this country and Canada, according to Dr. McFarlan.

Nutrition Discussions Make Women Very Food-Conscious

By Dorothy Angle

The army is not the only group that travels on its stomach. Judging from the interest in food shown by the women students in the group discussions held in the halls and houses, they too are food-conscious.

These discussions led by Phi Upsilon Omicron members as a part of the Vim, Vigor, and Victory program brought out the fact that eating between meals and the breakfast-or-not-breakfast question are admittedly the biggest nutrition problems of most women students on the campus.

Each girl has been given a check list with which she can check her daily food intake to be sure she is getting the necessary foods. Persons who did not get one of these may obtain them in the Home Economics building.

If a nutrition clinic has been arranged whereby any person interested in discussing a particular problem with an expert in the field may make an appointment with Dr. Stacie Erickson, head of the home economics department, or Miss Taylor, instructor in home economics, any day between 1 and 2 or between 4 and 5 o'clock.

WAAC Information

Women graduates who are interested in becoming officers in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps should apply at the office of the dean of women for additional information.

Under a newly formulated plan, women who qualify in examinations given to college graduates will be sent directly to Officers' Candidate school.

Former UK Tackle Is Instructor At Corpus Christi

Lieut. (j.g.) Joseph W. Bosse, U. S. N. R., former University football player and physical instructor at Merton junior high school, has been transferred from the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school to the Naval Station at Corpus Christi, Texas.

He was graduated from the University in 1932 and played tackle on the Wildcat football team.

Physical Fitness Plan Almost Loses To Ole Man Weather

By Betty Tevis

The best laid plans of mice and men, physical education instructors go off stray. That's what happened to the entire women's physical fitness program because of simply—rain.

The blank, or nearly blank, charts in the women's gym are mute testimony to the horrible spectacle of muddy courts. Tennis and softball are at the mercy of the elements.

Individual calisthenics are still going on in scattered corners of the University campus where the gospel of Vim, Vigor, and Victory found apostles.

Conclusions on the fitness program cannot be made until next week when the competitive sports progress further in the play-offs. But from here we can say that the program was a noble idea, well-executed, but considerably hampered by rain and other diverse and sundry weather conditions.

Wildcat Netters Triumph Over Berea Second Time

Big Blue Wins By Score Of 5-4 On Downing Courts

The Wildcat tennis team triumphed over Berea's racquetists by a score of 5-4 Wednesday, May 19, on Downing courts. Our netters had previously defeated the Mountaineers on their home courts by 8-3.

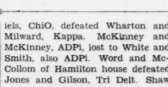

In the singles: Ratliff (K) defeated Durham 6-2, 6-2; Smith (K) victored over Benjamin 6-0, 6-0; Hunt (B) won over Hicks 6-2, 6-2; Scharstein (K) defeated Warrick 6-4, 6-4; Saylor (B) emerged the victor over Cunningham 6-0, 13-11.

Important court seams," Dr. McFarlan commented. He concluded that as much as the department staff hated to discontinue the summer trips, this year's trips probably will be the last shot for the duration.

Twelve to fifteen boys accompanied by Dr. McFarlan and Prof. David M. Young, geology instructor, usually make up the traveling caravan, but this summer only eight men and Dr. McFarlan plan to go. Since the trip is to cover fewer miles this year, traveling expenses will be materially less but food expenses will be more. The cost this summer will be $15 for traveling expenses, and $20 for camp expenses. If the students register for the field courses only, the tuition cost is $12. However, if they plan to register for further work, the first term upon return from the trip the tuition is $22 for one term in colloquium being as part of the or $35 for the full summer quarter. Lend-Lease program.

We refer, of course, to Arrow Sports Shirts. They're made for men who like to feel comfortable, and look well-dressed.

Arrow Sports Shirts come in long sleeves or short, in white and in handsome colors, and in a selection of cool fabrics.

But most important, Arrow Sports Shirts come in a wide variety of styles... sure to please any man. Don't start the season short of sports shirts. Come in and look over our large Arrow selection.
