ALUMNI RETURN TO ALMA MATER TO HOMECOMING

Many Former Students Expected to Arrive Saturday DEDICATE STADIUM Fraternities to Entertain Friends After Game

The 1924 Homecoming Day of the University of Kentucky bids fair to surpass by far any such day of the past. The entertainments for this day will include open house at the new gym, a luncheon at the Phoenix hotel for the alumni and students of the college of law. In the afternoon will be held the dedication and presentation of the new football stadium and later the game between the Blue and White warriors of Kentucky and the Gold-jeried sons of Old Centre.

The luncheon of the law alumni and students is to be well attended, according to Dean Turck. The committee sent out letters to the alumni and the response has been good. There are now about three hundred alumni scattered throughout the state and judging from the response to the letters sent out, at least half that number will be in attendance at the banquet. Among those who have accepted are: H. S. Gruen, J. K. Hayles, Bailey E. Baxter, J. Sneed Yager, A. B. Chandler, M. J. Morgan, George R. Smith, Harry Hogg, E. S. Dummitt, Harry Staples, Robert L. Porter, J. Preston Cherry, J. Owens Reynolds, A. A. Bahlitz, M. K. Eblen, Marcus A. Redwine, Neville Moore, J. D. Sorg, Otto C. Garlin and Gus B. Bruner.

Dedicatory Exercises The dedicatory exercises will open at 1:30 with the playing of "My Old Kentucky Home," by the university band. Mr. W. H. Townsend, chairman of the executive committee of the alumni association, will preside and will introduce Captain C. C. Calhoun, president of the alumni association, who will make the presentation address. Judge R. C. Stoll, circuit judge of Fayette county, who has been a member of the board of trustees of the University of Kentucky for twenty-five years, will make the speech of acceptance.

During the exercises, a bronze tablet will be unveiled on the south side of the stadium in honor of Judge Stoll, to whom the stadium has been dedicated, and another will be unveiled on the north side and will bear the following inscription:

"In memory of those Kentuckians who gave their lives in the World War, this stadium is dedicated by the Kentucky Memorial Fund, the Alumni, Students and Friends of the University of Kentucky, to clean and honest sportsmanship."

The program will end with the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the university band.

A canvass of the numerous social fraternities on the campus showed that they are making preparations for the care of the visitors during the Homecoming celebration.

KITTEN KLAWS November 8.—Centre at Lexington. Jenkins, Phipps, Ross & Co., will show these little boys how to play football. November 15.—Vanderbilt at Nashville. What about beating Vandy this year? November 27.—Centre at Danville. This is the deciding game of the series. Win it! November 22.—Tennessee at Lexington. A 2-touchdown victory will suffice.

Six Most Popular Girls Chosen in Contest Wednesday

Student classes of the university held their annual election of officers for the year 1925 last Tuesday and Wednesday, October 28 and 29. Clyde Gray, engineer and a member of the Triangle fraternity, was elected president of the senior class, and Frances Smith, a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, was elected vice president.

Richard "Dick" Williamson, junior in the college of engineering and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, received the highest vote for the presidency of the junior class and Elizabeth Glascock, a member of Chi Omega sorority, was elected vice president.

Carter Farrington, who had no opposition, was elected president of the sophomore class and Sue Lockett Mitchell, a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, won the vice-presidency of the same class by the narrow margin of ten votes.

Loyal VanArsdale, freshman in the college of engineering and a pledge to the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, walked away with the presidency of his class when he received nearly half of the total number of votes cast for the seven candidates, while Alice Thompson, pledge of the Kappa Delta sorority, took the vice-presidency of that class by a large majority.

DR. SLOSSON WILL SPEAK AT ALL-SCHOOL CONVOCATION

Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, of Washington, D. C., is scheduled to speak at the first convocation to be held in the new gymnasium at 10:45 o'clock, Thursday, November 6. The weekly convocation of freshmen has been abolished and in its place the senate has adopted a rule placing convocation in the new gym with compulsory attendance of all students from the five colleges of the university.

FREE! FREE!

The University Book Store, following a custom inaugurated several years ago by the manager, Miss Carrie Benn, will present to the first Kentucky player scoring against Centre, a large felt Kentucky banner. The banner is on display at the Book Store in the basement of the main building, and the offer of the prize is creating a great deal of comment among students in general and the football team in particular, each of whom is anxious to be the man who scores first against the mighty Colonels.

A similar banner was given to the Kentucky man who scored the first touchdown against Vanderbilt three years ago, after 12 games without a Kentucky marker.

STUDENT COUNCIL ACTS PROMPTLY IN EXONERATION

Students Not Guilty of Giving Signals to "Generals"

FOUR HOUR SESSION

Council Holds W. & L. Mentor a True Sportsman

The Men's Student Council, due to rumors widely spread on the campus and elsewhere in Lexington, to the effect that certain men, reputed to be students, had given or offered to give to the Washington and Lee University football team certain Wildcat information previous to the game between that institution and Kentucky on October 18, held a meeting Tuesday night and made further investigation of the charges.

All information that could be procured through various persons reported to know the facts was presented to the council. After a session of four hours' duration, the council gave out the following for publication:

First, Coach DeHart displayed true sportsmanship and declined to accept information from such sources; "Second, that the three men who were generally rumored to have been the parties attempting to convey this information were entirely exonerated from any connection in this matter; "Men's Student Council University of Kentucky."

It was reported in the Lexington Herald that the young men under suspicion would go further with the matter and would present the case on appeal to the university senate, the governing body of the university, the purpose of this action being to pest that Coach Murphy add to the exoneration of the Student Council a public apology to the accused.

The Student Council did not communicate in its statement the names of those under suspicion. It was brought out in the investigation that Coach DeHart of Washington and Lee had been offered information concerning the Wildcat players and that he had declined to accept it.

One of the men accused made the statement to the Student Council Tuesday night that he did not intend to continue in school.

ENFORCE THE RULES

The Men's Student Council makes the announcement that the rules for freshmen, which have been posted, will be rigidly enforced. Surprise was expressed by some upper classmen that they themselves are responsible for the enforcement of the freshman rules.

Every freshman is required to wear his cap at all times. He is required to obey all the rules posted by the Men's Student Council. It is the duty of all upper classmen to report the infraction of rules violated by freshmen. These reports should be made to the president or other member of the Council. This body will take such action as it may deem proper in the enforcement of its rules.

Prof.—(exasperated). Will you fellows quit exchanging notes back there?

Stude.—We ain't passing notes. They's dollar bills!

Stude.—Yeah, we're shooting craps. Prof.—Oh, I beg your pardon, I thought you were passing notes.

DEDICATION

Tomorrow the official dedication of the new stadium will take place amid ceremonies designed as a fitting prelude to the annual football classic between the Fighting Wildcats and the Gallant Colonels.

Indications point to a record breaking crowd for this initial game in the new edifice dedicated to the development of manhood through contest.

When the ceremony on Saturday is completed, it will signify the first of the tremendous steps the university is taking toward future development. It will stand as a symbol, mutely eloquent in its sculptured design, of the clean sportsmanship, the manly courtesy, the honor and integrity that has always characterized the wearers of the Blue and White. And, also, it will proclaim a tribute to the loyal alumni of the university, whose munificence has made its erection possible and whose generosity is epitomized in one of their number whose name adorns its portal.

The University of Kentucky is in a stage of transition. Improvements and additions along all lines of education, to be put into effect in the near future, will place our Alma Mater at the top of the scroll on which is emblazoned the achievements of southern institutions of higher education.

The ideal in complete education is three-fold, mental, spiritual and physical, and Stoll Stadium stands as a monument to the development of one of this trinity whose vital influence will be felt throughout the commonwealth, because of the essential part it plays in development of true and enduring character.

November 1 is "Kentucky Day," a day of re-dedication to the service and progress of our Mother State and on which it behooves all students to portray the manliness so inextricably interwoven into the warp of every Kentuckian's character; a day to mark the beginning of a new era for the university; a day consecrated to the development of manhood through clean and manly contest.

A LAMENTABLE OCCURRENCE

Disposition of the case of the three men whom rumor has charged with being perpetrators of a despicable attempt to reveal information concerning the Wildcat eleven was made at a special meeting of the Men's Student Council held Tuesday.

In the aftermath of the Washington & Lee—Kentucky game, rumors were started about the campus which linked in derogatory connection the names of three men in the student body. The Men's Student Council, exercising the duties of their office, investigated all the circumstances surrounding the case; witnesses were called and a complete examination was made, the result of which disclosed that the men whom rumor had arraigned were innocent.

It is indeed gratifying to the students of the university to believe that their campus harbors no one whose conscience and honor is so infinitesimal, that, but for the sportsmanship of the Washington & Lee men, would have harbored their Alma Mater's victory for a few paltry dollars.

The rumor implicating the men exonerated by the Student Council had its origin in a statement made by Coach DeHart of the Washington & Lee team, that prior to the game three men came to his room and offered to furnish information about the Kentucky eleven. Coach DeHart, a typical example of the manhood of the school whose sportsmanship he so signally exemplified, refused, he said, to accept information from such sources and ejected the three men from his room.

It is regrettable that such rumors should ever gain headway at all, but once started they spread, like a stone dropped into a placid pool of water, until they impinge on all that is close about. The Kernel desires to commend the Council for its prompt and decisive action in this most regrettable affair.

COURTESY AND THE UNIVERSITY

Several weeks ago the manager of the Kentucky Theater commended a group of students of the university for their courtesy in repressing their emotions and for refraining from "rushing" the house during the running of the film. The result was that a few days later he instituted University of Kentucky Night and permitted the band and cheer leaders forty-five minutes to feature their program. Because of the thoughtfulness of those first-mentioned students, the university later received more widespread publicity than it could have secured in any other manner.

But the public is not only a minor factor. The good will and favor of the townspeople increase when they hear of such acts on the part of the students, and this institution must have the sympathy of Lexington if it is to grow and prosper. Even though the inborn traits of gentility and politeness were not planted at the roots of this institution, selfish interests alone would force us to watch our step.

The spirit of our university is higher than it has ever been in the past. Our students, who are manly men and womanly women are not ashamed to be thus designated. The wave of practical jokes which often pervade a school is not present on our campus. We believe with all our hearts in taking our fun where all find it, but we do not recognize it as fun when it is at the expense of others. The banners of U. of Ky. are floating high this year and it is our responsibility to see that they do not drag in the dust.

PROMINENT MEN INDICATE PERILS OF BOND FAILURE

J. Will Stoll and Desha Breckenridge Are Speakers
200 ATTEND RALLY

Wilson Presents Plans For Election Day Program

Hon. J. W. Stoll, president of the First and City National Bank of Lexington and former state senator; Desha Breckenridge editor of the Lexington Herald, and W. C. Wilson, Commissioner of Public Works and secretary of the alumni association of the university, addressed a mass meeting of the students of the university, called by the Men's Student Council on Tuesday evening, October 28, at Patterson Hall, on behalf of the bond issue. Great enthusiasm in the passage of the $75,000,000 bond issue to be submitted to the voters of Kentucky on November 4 was displayed by the students at this meeting. Bob Creech, Kentucky cheer leader, led the assembly in a series of yells.

Mr. Stoll declared in his address that it would be a terrible thing for Kentucky to fail to carry the proposed issue. The state would receive a blow from which she would not recover in twenty-five years. Mr. Stoll said, "We are working in the interest of practical politics; our purpose is to effect a good aim; we endeavor to do something great, grand, and glorious for Kentucky.

Mr. Stoll referred to the conditions in eastern Kentucky where he delivered an address on Monday evening: "The children of eastern Kentucky walk, many of them, six miles or farther through the mud to school. We are getting more than our share; we must listen to their appeal. Education is their salvation and it is our salvation. We must have it or we cannot compete with the educated people of other states. Few parents can afford to send their sons and daughters to schools out of Kentucky; they must be educated here." Mr. Stoll stated that his only regret is that he did not begin to take part in the campaign as soon as the legislature passed the bill last spring.

Mr. Breckenridge presented to the students a brief history of the place Kentucky has always held among the other states of the nation. "The cause for which Kentuckians fought in the sixties was not more vital than the cause for which we fight today," he said. Until after the Civil War, Kentucky dominated the imagination of the country and Europe. She was a far step in advance of other states. This position was lost by lack of education. The pioneer statesmen recognized two great truths: a great commonwealth cannot be built upon the backs of uneducated men, and a great commonwealth must have adequate education," he said. He pointed out various fields in which Kentucky has always led. After the Civil War the imperative need of education for all people was recognized. Since 1870, Kentucky has dropped from her position of leadership.

"Those who fight the bond issue endeavor to perpetuate the deplorable conditions existing in our institutions," he said. He concluded his address by an appeal to each student to do all in his or her power to win supporters for the issue. "If we give ourselves up as those in the sixties gave, the fight is won," he said.

Mr. Wilson presented the plans for election day to be carried out by 100 women and 50 men students, who have been selected to work at the polls. Two women and one man will be stationed at each of the sixty-seven precincts in Lexington and twenty-three precincts in Fayette county. A meeting of these students will be held Monday evening, November 3, at 7 o'clock in the gymnasium. Final instructions will be given then. The Women's Club of the university will serve breakfast and will distribute literature to the workers at 5:15 on Tuesday morning in the University Cafeteria. The workers will be conveyed to the polls in automobiles.

INSTALLATION FOR YOUNG VOTERS

Services To Be Held in Court Room Sunday.

In the circuit court room of the Court House on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, the first installation service for young voters will be held under the auspices of the Democratic party. Mrs. E. L. McDonald, the sister-in-law of John W. Davis, will preside. All young people between the ages of 18 and 24 are invited to attend the brief installation services.

It was customary when Knighthood was in flower to introduce the young squires into the right and duties of knighthood with appropriate and impressive ceremonies. In view of the absence of an understanding and appreciation of the importance of the rights and duties which fall to young Americans when they are automatically admitted on becoming twenty-one to the high privileges of exercising the vote, it is felt that some such service should be instituted in America as was in use in the days of chivalry.

The first of these services will be held next Sunday afternoon. A committee of young people from both Universities and also the city and county are in charge of the program. Misses Annette and Virginia Kelley and Mary Marshall McMeekin represented the University of Kentucky at the committee meeting held at the Phoenix Hotel Thursday afternoon.

WILDCATS MAKE STRONG BID FOR KY. CHAMP'SHIP

Kentucky-Centre Game is Thirty-Second Contest

COLONELS IN LEAD

Record Crowd Expected to See Gridiron Battle

What Damon was to Pythias; what Bryan is to prohibition; what ham is to eggs—so the State-Centre game is to football in Kentucky.

In the days when whiskers weren't regarded as a badge of holiness; when the youth of the land rode to trysts on tall wheeled apparatus known as bicycles—trysts with maidens whose small waists were the hallmark of gentlemen—when to the layman the term "squirrel" meant a small four-legged rodent which cavorted in the trees, and "applesauce" was merely culinary delectation—the first game was played between the University of Kentucky and Centre College. Not that these names are the ones these institutions have traveled under during the ensuing period of time, for Kentucky has been Kentucky State College, Kentucky State University and latterly the University of Kentucky. Centre has at various times been Centre College and Central University. Once there was a Centre College and a Central University, the latter institution being located at Richmond. Both of these schools were among Kentucky's football opponents.

But what's in a name, as our friend Shakespeare would say? The rivalry that existed in pre-Ford days is present today even in a more aggravated form. And now on the Kentucky side it is tinged with drops of gall which have come as the result of a long series of defeats at the hands of her arch-rival. Since that day in 1917 when the ball, under the impetus of the mighty McMillan's toe, sailed between the Kentucky goal posts, carrying her down to defeat by a 3-0 count, the one consuming desire of Kentucky followers has been expressed in the phrase, "Beat Centre!"

Now on the far horizon has appeared a faint rosate glow that may presage the dawn of victory or may be only a mirage to the hopeful. The question will be decided tomorrow, when all roads lead to Lexington and the ancient rivals again fling down the gauntlet in deciding the football supremacy of the state.

Since the aforementioned day in '17, the Colonels have had a monopoly on the state championship far more secure than John D. has on oil. At the beginning of the present season it seemed that this supremacy was doubt to be Centre's but lately there has arisen doubts in the minds of the Gold and White followers as to whether or not their team will tread the primrose path to victory this year. This doubt budded forth at the end of the scoreless tie game with Valpo, and reached full bloom at the time of the Carson-Newman fiasco, and has not withered, even though Centre smothered Transylvania and held West Virginia to a 13-0 score. The doubt received fresh stimulus through the defeat the Wildcats administered to Sewanee.

Followers of the Kentucky team predicted, after seeing the team in action early in the season, that the Wildcats would genuflect to the Colonels, but the sudden strength exhibited by the line in the Sewanee struggle has encouraged them to believe that the 'cats have a good chance of turning the tables after such a long weary wait. No longer, they contend, will speedy backs circle the ends for long gains; no longer will a big full-back rip the line to pieces and the stand sit silent as the scorekeeper has writers cramp hanging up numbers which spell ignominious defeat for Kentucky.

There have been many startling upsets in other years in Wildcat-Colonel tilts. Back when the game was emerging from the primordial stage and open play was beginning to supplant the old flying wedge, Kentucky provided one of these upsets. In the previous meeting with Centre she had lost, but came back to win two games in 1904 by scores of 40-0 and 81-0, the latter being the record score in their long series.

Centre will see for the last time members of the "wonder team" in action. The mighty McMillan and the redoubtable Roberts have passed on, this is the last season for the lanky Lennon and the capricious Covington. Whether Centre's glory will fade with the passing of the Mayfield pair is problematical. But it is felt by all that it will be many years before she will be able to develop another team that will stand out as did the teams of '17-'22.

Kentucky adherents take no joy from the fact of Centre's waning power, but wish rather to see their team down Centre while she still retains vestiges of her former glory.

They feel that if the high gods of fate elect to permit the little god Chance to perch on the shoulders of the blue clad warriors, only for a little while, the Valkyri will have to transport the slain hopes of the Boyle courtians to the Valhalla of unfulfilled dreams.

"ON TO CENTRE!" IS CRY OF FROSH

May Decide Championship of State on Nov. 8

Refreshed from a rest from actual combat with the enemy, the young feline team is primed for its annual tilt with the Centre Lieutenants on November 8 in the new stadium.

The locals have added greatly to their offensive and defensive tactics and will go against Centre's first year men in the best of condition. Coach Ecklund has given his men plenty of scrimmage with the varsity and they have been able to withstand the onslaughts of the more experienced men quite successfully. The coming scrap with the Lieuts will decide the freshman championship of the state and from all indications, Kentucky will probably be returned the winner.

The game with the Georgetown yearlings showed that the State fresh rank with the best in the country. The Kittens deserve much credit for their work and it is through their efforts that the varsity is able to try its plays and formations. With but one week left before the game with the Lieutenants, Ecklund will drill into his charges many new plays which will be used in the game on November 8. It is hoped that the '28 men of Kentucky will carry off the state championship in no uncertain manner.

'CATS TO ENTER LOUISVILLE MEET

U. K. May Send Team to W. & L. For X-Country

Kentucky has received an invitation to run a team in the first annual Southern Conference cross-country run, to be held at Washington & Lee University November 15. The Wildcats also plan to compete in the Kentucky Intercollegiate cross-country meet in Louisville on Thanksgiving day. There will be an inter-class cross-country run on Saturday, just before the Centre game, if the upper classmen show sufficient interest in the event.

It is doubtful whether or not Kentucky will be represented in the meet at Washington & Lee, which is over a six mile course, and in which five men must qualify for the school. Ten entries are allowed, of which seven may start. Medals will be awarded the winners. Coach Applegram said that there were not enough candidates coming out for practice to make it advisable to enter a team in this meet. Unless more candidates report the invitation to this meet will be declined.

It is a certainty that Kentucky will send a team to the Kentucky Intercollegiate meet at Louisville on Thanksgiving day. All of the larger colleges of Kentucky will be represented. Coach Applegram wants to win this meet above all others, for Kentucky has never failed to emerge the victor after this run.

SIXTY GRADS TO ESTABLISH CLUB

Clifton Lowry is President of Alumni Branch

Dr. Edward Wiest, acting dean of the Graduate School, called a meeting of the 60 graduate students of the university in the Little Theatre, at 3:45 p.m., Thursday, October 23, for the purpose of organizing a Graduate Club to develop the esprit de corps among themselves.

Clifton S Lowry was chosen president of this club, Roscoe Cross, vice-president, and Mrs. Vaneta Horlach, secretary-treasurer. An executive committee was appointed by the president.

In the 1923 Summer Session the Graduate School had an enrollment of 60 students. The present enrollment of 60 students shows an increase of 38 over last year's enrollment. The distribution of graduate students according to major subjects is as follows:

Education 21; Mathematics 6; Animal Industry 7; English 5; History and Political Science 4; Physics 3; Agricultural Economics 3; Economics 2; Civil Engineering 2; Electrical Engineering 1; Sociology 1; Zoology 1; Psychology 1; Home Economics 1; Botany 1; Zoology 1.

The Graduate Club purposes to foster research work. It expects to hear men of national reputation speak during the year.

STROLLERS WILL GIVE THREE BEST TRY OUT PLAYS

Mortar Board to Have Special Pledge Service

BE HELD TONIGHT

Faculty Invites All Students to Annual Dance

According to an established custom of the university, Halloween night, or "Amateur Night," as it is catalogued in the annals of the school, will be converted into a veritable evening of mirth and amusement for the students.

Amateur Night is in reality "Stroller Night," when the dramatic club of the university, after having held preliminary try-outs for admittance into the organization, presents the three best plays of the many submitted for entrance.

An unusually large number of dramatic aspirants have sought admittance into the organization this year and the plays presented have been exceptionally good. Try-outs have revealed a large amount of new material among the students, many of whom have shown marked histrionic ability.

The program for Amateur Night promises to be the very finest the Strollers have ever presented to the student body, and an added attraction will be a program which will be rendered between acts by the University Male Quartette. Between the first and second plays Mortar Board, senior women's honorary fraternity, will hold pledge service for one girl whose credit hours did not conform to the standards of that organization at the time of its annual pledging last spring. The three one act plays to be presented are:

"Overtones": Harriet McCauley, Margaret Simpson, Cynthia Bush, "House of Cards": Marie Langford, Junius Millard.

"Mothers of Men": Sara Burgess, Hattie M. Carter.

These plays will be judged by Lexington dramatic critics, and the best one of the three will be awarded box seats to the first performance of the spring Stroller production.

The Strollers are planning pledging exercises for the new eligibles, at which time all the Stroller officers, the pledge, old eligibles and every one wearing a Stroller pin, will have a get-together meeting. The date of the pledging has not been decided upon, but will be decided later and announced in the Kernel.

After the presentations of Amateur Night, which will be held in the new gym at 8:15 o'clock, following the pep meeting, students are invited to remain in the gym for an entertainment promoted by the faculty, at which time the usual Halloween festivities, including fortune telling, dancing and other amusements will be provided.

"FRESHMAN BIBLE" IS NOW ON CAMPUS

"History and Information Are in 'K' Books"

The Y. M. C. A. Handbook, commonly called the "K" book by students, was issued Tuesday afternoon, October 21. This book comprises the history of the institution in every detail, including athletics, organizations, publications and such information as might be of interest to students.

J. Sterling Towles, editor-in-chief of the handbook, is a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, honorary men's journalistic fraternity. He is managing editor of the Kernel, was recently pledged to the Su-Ky Circle, is a member of the Kentuckian staff and is a candidate for the Rhodes Scholarship from Kentucky. Other members of the staff are: Frank Hoover and Rachelle Shacklette, assis- Robert Miesem, Jr., Foundator; Charles Wheeler, assistant manager; Margaret Combs and Beth Huddleston, Y. W. representatives.

DEANS OF WOMEN

Harmon were the leading speakers in discussion, having for their general topic "Fundamentals and Ideals of Citizenship for College and High School Girls." Reports of the committees were given as follows: Publication and Library Miss Hattie Funk; Health, Miss Alma Edwards; Relations with Other Institutions, Miss Sarah Blanding; Membership, Miss Olive Fisher.

Miss Lurline Moody, dean of women at Georgetown College, led a discussion on "The Woman's Foundation for Health and Its Program." Miss Joy Seor presented a bibliography for deans of women. At 10:30 o'clock questions and problems were discussed by Miss Marie L. Roberts, the topic under discussion being "How Can State the Association be Most Helpful to the Individual Deans?" The meeting adjourned at 11:30. The last part of the program was a luncheon at the University Cafeteria at noon Tuesday.

NOTICE

All members of the Woman's Athletic Association will meet in the Little Theatre Thursday, November 11, at 8:30 o'clock. Very important.

SQUIRREL FOOD

"No," said the Flapper, "I don't believe in showing too much of my silk stockings."

"I know why," said the cat, "it's because they have cotton tops."

Chi-O—Don't you boys have a clock at your house?
SAE—Sure. Why?
Chi-O—You seem to have so many watches in the windows.

Trade (re)Marks
"Opportunity" would make a fine name for an automobile, for isn't it said that opportunity knocks but once?

"We guarantee that you will never wear it out" could be excelled as an advertisement for underwear. "Something coming off around here," thought the professor as he followed a levy of co-ed to the swimming hole.

"What trouble we should all be spared,"
The weary sophs remark,
"If father Noah had not had two Freshmen in the ark."

I hate women, and I'm glad I hate 'em, 'cause if I didn't hate 'em I'd like 'em, and I hate 'em!

Experimental Research?

1st Co-ed—I was going thru the college farm with a freshman Ag and he tried to kiss me. He said he had never kissed a girl in his life—
2nd Co-ed—And what did you tell him?
1st Co-ed—I told him I was no agricultural experiment station.

The channels in which the minds of freshmen are apt to run during a quiz are demonstrated in the answers given in the mental test to which all freshmen have just been subjected. Certain it is that their minds suffer some strange reactions if we may judge from some of the answers given. Among these we find such gems as:

A dynamo produces dynamite.
The larynx is in the abdomen.
Polo is a kind of disease.
An author is a kind of literary composition.
Shakespeare was a great military leader.
Napoleon was a renowned religious teacher.

A Methodist is a member of a certain political party.
Fever is often caused by the guilotine.
Sonata is a term used in football but may be occasionally be applied to drawing and music.
A cerebral hemorrhage is helpful to thinking.

Curriculum is intended for horses. Quotients result from multiplications.
Conspicuous objects are difficult to see.
A priest is a civil officer.
Lagoons migrate periodically.
Rome was ruled by the Pharaohs.
Confucius was a great religious teacher of the Indians.
Cartons are made by cameras.
Birds often nest in diamonds.
It is easy to work when one is sleepy.
A new form of religion is called astigmatism.
Transparent substances are not used in windows.
Napoleon met his Waterloo at Verdun.

Dot—"and then he put his arms around me and I wanted to scream and couldn't, and when I finally could I didn't want to!"
