Miss Barrows has just phoned to say that the President thinks that the meeting this afternoon should be for men only, which would exclude Miss Newman. Mrs. Truman is giving a tea at 4:00 p. m., and the President suggests that Miss Newman attend that. The way it stands now, Miss Newman will be unable to accompany the group unless you wish to pursue the matter with the President direct.

The attached memo was sent to the Chief Justice on the Bench today. He took it up with the members of the Court in Conference after the adjournment of Court, and it was agreed that the Chief Justice should inform Miss Newman of the President's wishes in regard to the matter. The Chief Justice saw Miss Newman at 1:45 p. m. , explained the situation to her, and she informed the Chief Justice she would like to attend Mrs. Truman's tea in lieu of accompanying the Court to the White House. An invitation for her to attend Mrs. Truman's tea was delivered by the White House.
