UK's campus is surrounded by bars and restaurants with patios, such as Two Keys Tavern.

With more than 30,000 students, UK can be an intimidating jungle of faces.

Here are some ideas on places to meet people.

Student organizations
Find an organization that suits your interests. Visit www.uky.edu/StudentOrgs for a listing of all student organizations.

Bar and restaurant patios
There's something about being outdoors that sparks conversation. Avoid the West Nile virus as a conversation starter.

Elevators
Break the silence and impress the beautiful creature hiding in the corner with your witty comments about elevator safety.

Bookstores
Not the dirty ones. Unless ...

THE 'RENTS

How to survive a day when your family visits

Hello muddah: Play host to family, other visitors

You can only show your parents your dorm so many times. Here are some ways to spend the obligatory parents' weekend.

Start at UK Bookstore, Kennedy's or Wildcat Textbooks

Offer to buy your parents a "UK Mom" or "UK Dad" T-shirt. With luck, they'll offer to buy you some UK gear instead.

Don't visit UK without taking a moment to genuflect before the greats of Wildcat past.

Tour the UK Basketball Museum in the Civic Center.

Open 10-5 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays
Adults $5 and students $3

Convince your folks you're into scholarly learning more than anything here at UK.

Visit Ashland, the Henry Clay estate. Spout off some interesting facts about Kentucky's famous statesman. We recommend touting Clay's nickname, "The Great Compromiser."

120 Sycamore Road. Tour the garden for free. Mansion tours are $6 for adults and $3 for children and students.

Get dinner at Billy's Hickory-Pit Bar-B-Q.

Start with fried banana peppers. The BBQ is famous, but burgoo and a side of cornbread is another good bet.

101 Cochran Road
Open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Finish with America's favorite pastime.

Watching the Lexington Legends play at Applebee's Park can help put a great end to any night.

Their season runs April to September. Call 252-HITS for tickets.

The stadium sits at 1200-1295 North Broadway, directly adjacent to the Northland Shopping Center.

The Legends season runs from April to September. Call 252-HITS for tickets.

FINE ARTS

Explore Lexington's art scene

www.kykernel.com

DREW PURCELL | KERNEL STAFF

In touch with UK's right brain

UK shows its artsy side all over campus, even on buildings. These sculptures are attached to the facade of the Fine Arts building.

Inspired: From traditional to contemporary, these places display all things creative

Lexington is known for its loyal sports fans, but it's got a great arts community, too. Here are few places to go for all you wannabe Picassos or Keroacs.

What: Open Mic Night

Where: Common Grounds, 343 E. High
When: Monday nights, 9 p.m. to midnight
What else: Local poets and musicians welcome.

What: Gallery Hop

Where: Participating local art galleries around town
When: The third Thursday of September, November, February, April and June; 5 to 8 p.m.

What else: Walk around for a taste of local art. Plus, many galleries serve hors d'oeuvres and drinks.

What: Fourth Fridays

Where: The Lexington Art League, on the third floor of the old Festival Market Building — the corner of Main and Broadway

When: 6 to 9 p.m. on the fourth Friday of every month
What else: Each month features different art exhibits, local bands and food from local restaurants. If you're over 21, there's also beer and wine. Admission is $5 from 6 to 6:30 p.m., $7 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

What: University Art Museum

Where: Singletary Center, on the corner of Rose and the Avenue of Champions

When: Tuesday through Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. Friday, noon to 8 p.m.

What else: Starting Sept. 1, the UK Art Museum will feature a show called "Enhancements," a collection of hand-crafted functional objects.

365 S. Limestone St.
Pazzo's plans to have a few bands playing weekly this fall.

Kitty O'Shea's

381 S. Limestone St.
50 Snapbid plays most Wednesday nights offering an original/cover acoustic mix. Other bands will be announced.

Atomic Cafe

287 N. Limestone St.
The Atomic Cafe brings in the reggae band, True Believers, on Fridays and Saturdays, now through September.

Local beats

Kitty O'Shea's affectionately known to locals as simply "Kitty's") features weekly music by a featured band.

BOOKS

When assigned reading gets old, area stores offer change of pace

Calling all bibliophiles: Good reads exist off-campus; stores have more than books

Scared that the electronic shelves at William T. Young Library will squish you before you can find your Shakespeare?

Consider taking time to explore some of the off-campus bookstores around Lexington. Many stock more than just the average bestsellers and two offer cafes.

FOOD AND DRINK

Cold beer and hot eats: Local bars offer variety

Lynagh's is arguably one of the coolest pubs in Lexington. It's a must-see for any UK student. The laid-back atmosphere welcomes a broad range of people.

DREW PURCELL | KERNEL STAFF

DREW PURCELL | KERNEL STAFF

Hanging out: The campus area boasts several unique watering holes

Although there may not be a place where "everybody knows your name," Lexington still has a variety of different bars, which you'd expect from any self-respecting college town.

A1A

A1A, 367 E. Main St., offers a menu filled with burgers and chicken sandwiches. A1A is a frequent venue for bands traveling through Lexington; past shows have included George Clinton, Cracker and everything in between.

Cheapside Bar and Grille

Cheapside, 131 Cheapside, boasts a menu with a little bit of everything. You'll probably hear this bar before you even see it, as the patio is a favorite place for bar-goers.

High on Rose

Located on the corner of High and Rose Streets (hence the name), this bar has a unique blend of Japanese and American cuisine. It's a stone's throw from campus, and a great place to unwind after class.

Lynagh's

Lynagh's, 384 Woodland Ave., offers a selection of sandwiches, including their famous hamburgers. Though it has shut its doors as local music venue, Lynagh's is still a great place for a burger and a beer.

Back to school blues ...

Varsity Blue is located at 1080 S. Broadway in the old Lexington City Brewery Building.

EARLY BIRD

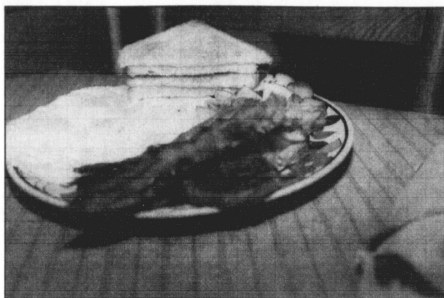

The forgotten meal: breakfast

Set the alarm:
Eateries help you start the day off

Admittedly, a lot of college students will never wake up early enough to catch breakfast. But for those who do, there are some great places around campus for a morning meal.

Out of the AC: As the weather cools, explore Kentucky's backyard excursions

Try these outdoor spots.

Jacobson Park
Off Richmond Road past Man O'War Boulevard.

The paddleboats and lake set Jacobson Park apart from other parks in Lexington. It's a nice spot for picnics and feeding the ducks.

Lexington-area horse farms
Treat yourself to a self-guided tour of the horse farms and scenic countryside.

Call 233-7299 for a free map from The Lexington Convention and Visitors Bureau.

UK Arboretum

Alumni Drive, across from Commonwealth Stadium.

Within walking distance of any dorm, the Arboretum is more than just trees and green space. Tucked behind the trees is a vibrant flower garden and fountains.

Lexington Cemetery

833 W. Main St.
The Lexington Cemetery, burial place of Henry Clay, Adolph Rupp and Gen. John Hunt Morgan, is also a nationally-known arboretum with flower gardens, more than 200 types of trees, lily ponds and sunken gardens.

A vacation from campus eateries

Tired of subs? Try Kashmir Indian Restaurant, 341 South Limestone. The restaurant offers a buffet style Eastern food.

HOLLY DAVIS | KENTUCKY KERNEL STAFF

A hop, skip and jump away: Good choices, variety close by

For a break from cooking or eating cafeteria food, the area around campus boasts several restaurants. Here's a sampling:

South Limestone
In the South Limestone area, you'll find everything from Fazio's to Smoothie King. Start with pancakes at Huddle House, grab a Jimmy John's sub for lunch, tear into a calzone for dinner at Pazzo's, and end the night with a midnight milkshake at Tolly Ho.

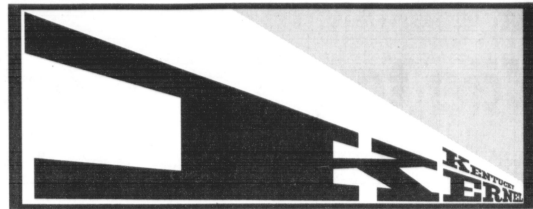

Downtown
It's not New York, but you can find a good variety of restaurants in downtown Lexington. Try the Melodeon or Sam's Hotdog Stand for lunch. For French fare, try a la Lucie.

Euclid Avenue area
The opening of Tomo, Roy's East High Diner and Cold Stone Creamery last year added to numerous restaurants in this area. Old favorites include Charlie Brown's (go for the couches and free jukebox) and Rincon.

Rose and Euclid Avenue
You'll find Papa Johns, Qdoba, Bangkok House Blimpies and Baskin Robbins all one corner.

Jimmy John's is one of many restaurants along South Limestone Avenue.

How to get a second date, or at least not be boring

Take a date to the Kentucky Theatre, one of Lexington's oldest movie houses. They show everything from independent art films to 3-D porn (if mayoral candidate Scott Crossbie is on vacation.)

WHAT IS HE WEARING?

Prime spots for people watching

It's not staring: Delight in the oddities of human nature without feeling like a peeping Tom.

If all your spare cash is tied up in pizza and beer money, you probably can't afford to pay for entertainment. Don't worry — here are some people-watching locations you can frequent to pass the time.

Wall in front of Classroom Building
A front-row seat for the heaviest traveled path on campus.

Commonwealth Stadium parking lot
Before football games, memorable moments are bound to occur when thousands of people get drunk and tailgate before noon.

Woodland Park skate park
Located on Woodland Avenue, this is a great place to watch irritating young skaters injure themselves, and to do a social study of melodramatic teen romance.

Euclid Avenue, 2 a.m.
You'll see it all: handcuffed delinquents sitting on the curb as cops search their cars, off-campus party goers attempting to stagger home and beligerent drunks fighting over the meaning of "Saved By the Bell".

HELP

Tutoring saves many grades

Smarty pants: Writing Center, other tutoring options

When classes get tough, students should get going — to tutoring. UK organizations offer tutoring across campus, in nearly every subject. At the Writing Center, located in the basement of William T. Young Library, students can get assistance on every step of the writing process — from brainstorming to research to polishing the final draft. To make an appointment at the Writing Center, call 257-1356. Student Government, Residence Life and the Undergraduate Education Office sponsors tutoring in other subjects. Check www.uksga.com for tutoring schedules. Also, some graduate students advertise tutoring services within each department. Check bulletin boards and ask professors for more information.
