Imperial Court Busy in February/March

By Shot Z,
Contributor

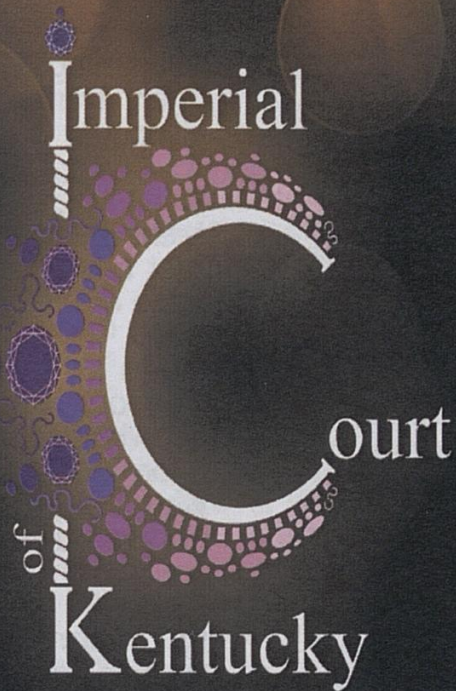

February was an exciting month for the Imperial Court of Kentucky. Congratulations are in order to several of our members and their wonderful accomplishments. First we would like to congratulate our first King of Drag winner, Mystikal Jackson. Next we would like to welcome our newly crowned Miss Gay Valentine 2012, Starla Velour. You are nothing short of amazing! Last, but not least, congratulations to His Excellency, Wes Nelson, Emperor 28 of the Imperial Court of Kentucky for his appointment as Prime Minister of Her Majesty's Parliament.

The Imperial Court of Kentucky was represented well at three out of state Coronations in February. Our members were seen promoting our upcoming Coronation in June as far north as Halifax and as far west as San Diego and San Francisco. In our travels we get the opportunity to make new Court friends and promote the Imperial Court of Kentucky in other realms as we invite our friends, new and old, to our Coronation 31: A Red Carpet Affair – A Night with the Silverscreen Academy on June 3, 2012.

The Imperial Court of Kentucky will be experiencing their own form of March Madness with a month full of exciting shows lined up. It's Kentucky's turn to host the annual Miss Big Bone Lick pageant and we will be having it on Sunday, March 4 at Crossings Lexington. Don't miss the "Bone Licking" category; it is a definite must see! Applications are available now by contacting Empress 30, ShotZ, at shotzwithaz@live.com or call/text to 859-229-2122.

Show starts at 9: 30pm but get there early to enjoy a drink with us first. The following weekend on Saturday, March 10 at 6pm we will be helping our furry friends once again as we provide the entertainment for the Scott County Humane Societies annual event, Wags and Drags. For more information and to order your tickets go to www.imperialcourtkentucky.org. On Tuesday, March 20, Lexington Fairness will be hosting the NOH8 campaign at the Hilton in downtown Lexington. We encourage everyone to stop by the Hilton and get in line to have your NOH8 photo taken to show your support. We have been ask to host a fundraiser at Crossings Lexington for Lexington Fairness immediately following the photo shoot. Watch our Facebook page for more information about the show. Then get out your gowns and tuxes and get ready for the always fabulous Falsie Awards being held on Sunday, March 25 at the Crown Plaza Campbell House – Bogart's Lounge. Nominations are posted on the Imperial Court of Kentucky Facebook page and voting for Outstanding Achievement in Hair, Outstanding Achievement in Make-up, and Absolut Diva of the Year 2012 can be done there as well. Just go to the appropriate folder on our page and vote by "Like"ing your favorites for each category. Voting ends on Thursday, March 22 at 2pm so be sure to vote for your favorite. These votes will determine the winners of the two categories Outstanding Achievement in Hair and Outstanding Achievement in Make-up. The top 3 vote recipients in the "Absolut Diva..." folder on Facebook will qualify to compete for Absolut Diva of the Year 2012 at the Falsie Awards. The night of the Falsies, each attendee will receive a ballot to cast with paid admission to the event. If you

GSA celebrates Eleventh Anniversary

The GLSO Gay Straight Alliance for Youth has now been active for eleven years! We started to have meetings in a half-completed Pride Center in February, 2001. We had 3 youths at two meetings in February. Then our first meeting in March attracted 13 high school teens plus an older sister who wanted to be sure her brother would be OK. (He now works for an auction house in Chicago... doing better than OK.)

We met in what is now the computer room and, boy, it was crowded! The energy was electric. There was sawing and hammering in the larger room but that did not drown out the excited conversation. Those young people--and others who have spent time with us--are now collegiate leaders, activists, dancers, authors, teachers, mothers, actors, and work in a wide variety of diversified fields. Among our graduates, we also have an opera singer, an Eagle Scout, a nurse, a chef, and a writer who was nominated for a Lambda Literary Award while still in college.

A "first" for this year: a young man who is a junior, and head of his school GSA, ordered a high school ring with the initials "GSA" on it. This is just one example of how many of our youth have worked for, and achieved a change in, the atmosphere in local high schools. They have also helped us produce a variety of social dances, and are now gearing up for our sixth Pride Prom.

Straight teens share a part in the GSAs, too. Sometimes they are there because they also experience themselves as different, in some way, from the dominant culture; some have a gay person in their family; others just enjoy hanging out with us. We sometimes refer to our youth as our "Queerlings", a word invented by Trilby Trent, a long-term GSA adviser.

It has been great to work with teens during these years. I think that teenagers are on the cutting edge of many changes in our culture. They are risk takers; willing to tell the truth, as they know it, about who they are. They are knowledgeable, sharing with us information to help fellow teens who are struggling with unsupportive families or with suicidal feelings.

They are also activists; setting up information booths at their schools, celebrating "Ally Week", "Day of Silence", "No Name Calling Week", and working to stop bullying. One school GSA published a magazine with articles about GLBTQ issues. Some youth take a stand simply by being flamboyantly themselves.

Calling All Volunteers!!

It is now time to start thinking about contacting us for volunteering for the Pride Festival. We have had many individuals help us in previous years and hope that we have the biggest turnout and response ever for volunteers for the day of and the duties leading up to the Festival. There are many volunteer opportunities in all areas including merchandising, concessions, first aid, services, activities, set-up and breakdown and more.

All volunteers will receive a little something as a token of appreciation. Take 2 hours to volunteer and then enjoy the rest of the day and know you had a part in helping to make it possible.

For any and all Pride volunteer inquiries, please contact Chad at chad@lexpridefest.org or Adam at adam@lexpridefest.org.

What Does It Mean to Be A Christian?

By Pastor Karen Taylor,
Contributor

Recently I took a simple survey asking friends, co-workers, and my Facebook friends what they thought it meant to be a Christian. I received a variety of answers but none that surprised me. My church friends answered the way I would have expected with it's being Christ like. Others, who classify themselves as Christians, gave answers like being a good person, not hurting people, being truthful, not stealing, back stabbing, that sort of thing. Then a few who do not see themselves as a Christian gave a little more vague answer like who's to say with so many different religions. As a minister of the gospel, I look to the Bible for my definition of a Christian.

Even though the Bible doesn't come right out with a definition it does give us a description. Jesus told his disciples to come follow me. By that Jesus was not referring to just drop what you are doing and walk with Me, but learn from Me, do what I do. One of Christ's characteristics is forgiveness. The first thing I think of is the story of the woman who was caught in adultery and was about to be stoned to death by the crowds of people. When confronted about the situation Jesus simply states that the person without sin can throw the first stone. No one did, they all walked away. Jesus looks at the woman and says basically that no one is accusing you, now go and sin no more. Jesus knew she was guilty but wasn't there to put blame or guilt, just to say yes you missed it by committing adultery but stop committing the sin and carry on with life. The definition of sin is missing the mark and we all do that. The mark of course is being like Christ. Ephesians 1:7 "We have redemption in Him through His blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of His grace" Redemption in Him is having been bought with the price of the blood of Christ on the cross which results in total forgiveness. Then we are told to go and forgive as we have been forgiven.

Jesus was all about showing the love of God the Father. One of my favorite verses on love comes from the book of John 15:12-13 "This is My command; Love one another as I have loved you. No one has greater love than this, that someone would lay down his life for his friends." This command is impossible to keep without the help of the Holy Spirit. We are to think more of one another than we do ourselves. The fact that Christ was willing to suffer the torment and pain He did so that I could spend eternity with Him is beyond my comprehension. Yet I know He did. And that type of love He showed us we are to show one another. This love takes a lot of different forms. It comes in the form of lending a helping hand when we would rather be doing something else. It's demonstrated when you reach out to someone you know needs a kind word or a listening ear. It's giving up your Starbucks money so someone can receive a much needed meal. Many probably know of a story where someone went to great lengths, perhaps to the point of near death, to save someone else. The people who call themselves Christian and spout hate and condemnation are not following Christ's example and do I dare say they have no business calling themselves Christian.

Another characteristic of Christ is that he was determined to do only what His Father in heaven told Him to do. John 8:28b-29 "But just as the Father taught Me, I say these things. The One who sent Me is with Me. He has not left Me alone, because I always do what pleases Him." In case you need further proof that Jesus only did what the Father told Him you need look no further than the Garden of Gethsemane. It was there Jesus cried out to His Father that if it were possible for this cup (meaning His death on the cross) to pass Him by then please let it be so. Yet, Jesus continues, it's not what I want that matters. If this is what you want from me you will have it. As I write this I'm feeling over whelmed with the love Jesus has for us. Has God been calling you? He could be calling you to a heart to heart relationship with Him, or calling you to mission work of some kind, or perhaps He's just calling you to stand up for Him where ever you go. Oh for the heart of Christ that longs to follow after God the Father.

A characteristic that (see Christian Page 10)

Wednesday Night Discussion Group Is Back

Wednesday night Discussion Group is starting back at 7PM on Wednesday February 1, 2012 and every Wednesday thereafter.

The Discussion Group, held at the Pride Center, 389 Waller Ave, is a support group for newly coming out, newly broken up, newly widowed/widower, problems with work, friends or family because of sexual orientation. In short, any problem related to being GLBT in central and eastern Kentucky.

The group is a support group, not therapy. This year, there will be a topic every third Wednesday. This month is "Coming Out Stories". Why don't you come and tell your unique story about coming out? We all have one and we all have that in common.

If you are not out yet and are out to yourself, this is a safe spot to come for support. The Pride Center may look scary the first time, but I assure you that there are welcoming and accepting people there. The group will be co-led by Ginger Moore-Minder and Chris Whittington. It is open to everyone.

lows suit with the previous trait is that Jesus was relentless in showing people the way to eternity with God. Everywhere He went and the people gathered He was preaching about the ways of God. He desired for all to be saved, especially the chosen people the Israelites/Jewish people. He taught his disciples what to say, how to get the word out that the Messiah had come and in fact was right in front of you. That it was by faith in Him we are saved. When they as a group (because there was some who converted) would not accept Jesus as the Messiah, He set to spread the message to the Gentiles, those who were not born Jewish. A read through the first four books of the New Testament will demonstrate the resolve Jesus had to get the word out. Then just before He ascended into heaven He told the disciples that as God had sent Him, He was sending them/us.

What does it mean to be a Christian? It's not an easy answer for a Facebook response or a quick discussion during a teacher's 20 minute lunch break. But it is good to think about who we are and why we refer to ourselves as a Christian from time to time, because it's easy to forget. It's easy to fall into that rut of just going to church or saying a prayer here and there. To learn more about being a Christian or about the ways of the Bible, join us for our 10:30 am Sunday morning service at Open Arms of God Ministry in the Pride Center on Waller Ave.

Senior Social Group

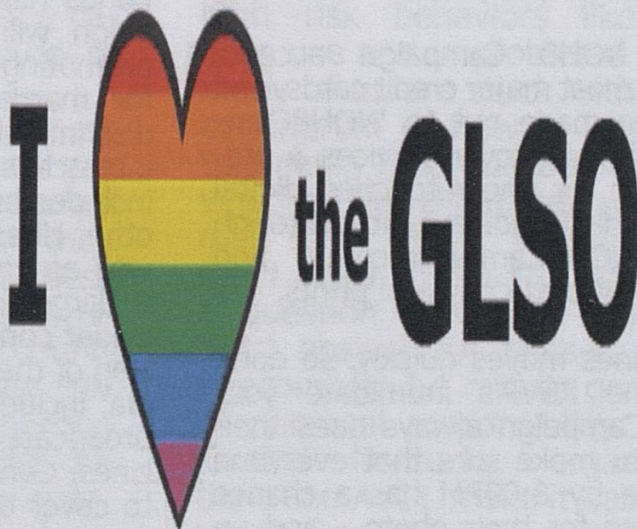

The GLSO is interested in starting a Senior Social Group that will meet Saturday, March 17th at 7PM at the Pride Center.

Anyone that would like to join the NOH8 Campaign is asked to wear a plain white shirt to match the look of

If you are interested in volunteering, e-mail info@noh8campaign.com with your contact information and make sure to note you'd like to volunteer for the Lexington, KY shoot!

Funds raised by the NOH8 Campaign will be used to continue promoting and raising awareness for marriage equality and anti-discrimination through NOH8's interactive media campaign. This includes bringing the campaign to other cities around the country, as well as compiling the images for a large-scale media campaign. Under consideration is the expansion of the campaign to other media, including television and radio broadcast, billboards, and magazines. Contributions are also used to cover the daily operations and maintenance necessary to run this rapidly growing campaign. The NOH8 Campaign is an approved 501(c)(3), donations will be tax-deductible up to the amount allowable by law.

The Blood Donation Controversy: Is it okay to lie?

By Aaron Baker,
Contributor & GLSO
President

I hope everyone is enjoying the new column by Cousin Query. I know you're reading it, because I've heard from a number of readers that they were appalled that Cousin Query said he has lied in order to donate blood.

It's certainly a sensitive topic, situated at the crossroads between legality and morality. In Canada, it is illegal to lie in order to donate blood, but that's not the case here in Kentucky. Nevertheless, some people still believe that it is immoral.

My own personal view is that the ban on gay men donating blood is immoral, and that in order to provide lifesaving blood, it is acceptable to lie when asked the question, "Have you had sex with a man since 1977?" But there's a caveat: you should be sure of your status first.

You might wonder why I'm so convinced that the ban on gay men donating blood is rooted in homophobia, rather than good science. Consider these statistics: in 2005, men who have sex with men accounted for 49 percent of new HIV cases. These men are permanently deferred as blood donors if they answer the questions honestly.

By contrast, in 2007, African Americans accounted for 49 percent of new HIV cases. It would be utterly unthinkable to tell African Americans that they are permanently deferred from donating blood simply because of the color of their skin. The statistics make clear that it isn't the risk of HIV which drives the ban, but rather a climate that makes it okay to discriminate based on sexual orientation.

The counterpoint is that while blood testing procedures have improved drastically since this rule was first enacted during the AIDS scare of the mid-1980s, there is still a risk that some HIV-infected blood will make it past the testing procedures. While this is true, and there is a very real need to pre-screen blood by turning away high-risk donors, current policy is throwing out the baby with the bath water. A better policy would involve tailoring the screening questions towards high-risk behaviors, rather than excluding an entire group of people regardless of how safe an individual member is. Until the screeners begin asking specific questions about high risk behaviors like IV drug use and unprotected sex, many of us are stuck with the conundrum of how to answer that pesky little question about whether we've had sex with a man since 1977. Whether to lie in order to donate blood is a question that each person must answer for himself, but I recommend a middle ground of personal responsibility. In Central Kentucky, organizations like AVOL make it easy to know your status. If you practice safe sex and get regular HIV tests to know your status, I see no problem with telling a white lie to save lives.

One World Film Festival

and 7:30 pm
Kentucky Theater

Stonewall is a fictionalized account of the weeks leading up to the Stonewall riots of 1969.

Inspired by the memoir by gay historian Martin Duberman, the film mixes historic fact with fiction to explore gay life and civil rights activities of this time period.

Matty Dean arrives in New York City, become friends with La Meranda and other local drag queens, and is caught up in a raid at the Stonewall Inn.

He meets and works with gay activists who favor peaceful protest.

Matty helps La Meranda deal with the draft board, visits Fire Island, and learns about the mafia's controlling interest in gay bars.

This is an enjoyable film that also teaches some gay history.
