NEW ELIGIBILITY RULE IS PASSED

Funkhouser Resigns as Secretary of Southern Conference; "Big Ten" Still Tentative

No action was taken at the Southern Conference meeting which was held in New Orleans, December 17-19, other than discussions of a "Big Ten" of the South.

Dean W. D. Funkhouser, of the university graduate school, resigned as secretary of the southern conference because he will be on a tour of scientific research shortly after the end of the first semester.

Few rulings were made at the meeting which are being considered by the University of Kentucky. The most drastic regulation states that students will hereafter have to pass three-fourths of their work in order to be eligible to compete in athletics...

Reasons advanced for the regulation were that the redacting of game statistics and newspaper photographs had been taking places on the players' bench at many of the games.

Notice Secretaries

The following announcement has been issued from the office of the notice secretaries: Secretaries of societies and honorary and professional organizations are requested informally to turn in to Hugh Maguire, editor of fraternities, a complete list of the members of the organization, giving the home town and date of graduation...

RELATIONS CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Pres. Frank L. McVeey Speaks at First of 1932 Series on "Causes of World Depression"

Five Reasons Given

Pres. Frank L. McVeey had as his subject, "Causes of World Depression," when he addressed the members of the International Relations Club in the lecture room of McVeey hall Monday night. The meeting was the first of the 1932 series which will continue until the latter part of March...

In the second place, Doctor McVeey said that the depression in currencies is responsible for a part of the world depression. There are only two countries now maintaining the gold standard and in practically all other countries there has been a depreciation of the value of their currency...

In the fifth place, Doctor McVeey stated that in the United States the breakdown of banks and the inability to turn frozen assets into liquid form had added its bit to the depression...

Lexington in 886 Is Described in Rare Volume in O. K. Library

By G. M. SPENCER

That Lexington was the bustling, bustling town in its good old days of 1886 that she is today is proved by a volume entitled "Lexington, The Central City" which has as its subject the history of Lexington. It was published in the early '80s. Whiskey, tobacco, horses, and women are hailed in it as the city's pride...

The population at that time was 26,000, an increase of 10,000 over 1880, six years before that. The town was on the "up and up" as is shown by the fact that the assessed value of the city was $483,570 while the debt per capita was $5.39. Their farms compared favorably to any town of size in the country at that time.

FOUR UNIVERSITY MEN TO SPEAK AT EDUCATION MEET

Association of Kentucky Colleges and Universities to Convene Here

Pres. Rainey T. Wells Will Give Address

Representatives from 16 Kentucky Institutions Expected to be Present

The list of speakers for the annual one-day session of the Association of Kentucky colleges and universities, which will convene at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in room 111 McVeey hall, includes four members of the university faculty.

Dean Paul P. Boyd, of the college of Arts and Sciences, is secretary of the executive committee of 1931 and 1932, which will hold its session at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning in room 100, McVeey hall, preceding the general meeting of the association...

Beginning with the invocation at 10 o'clock, the program for the morning will include the president's address by Rainey T. Wells, president of Murray State Teachers' College; a discussion on modern programs for physical education and intramural sports by Prof. M. E. Potter; a talk on educational experimentation college level by Prof. J. E. Adams...

The first part of the afternoon session will give over to comment about Dr. Abraham Flexner's book, "Universities, American, English, and German." The first talk, delivered by Prof. Wm. Walter Georgetown College, will be from the point of view of a pastor and college president...

"The Lower Depths," Maxim Gorki's famous Russian tragedy, will be presented Thursday evening, January 14, at the Gorki theatre by the members of the dramatic production class under the direction of Frank Fowler.

The play depicts the sordid existence of a household of thieves and drunkards of the lowest type. Jealousies and quarrels, tragedy and death, are their every-day companions, and are to be expected and borne without complaint.

Gorki remains true to Russian style by making his characters just as they are in real life, and by not trying to them the customary but untrue beauty and virtue of the general run of characters.

The cast will be as follows: Poppel John Watts, Jr.; Sahtan, Lillian Collins; Luka, Eugene Beck; Natalia, Hilda Cooper; Nastia, Marian Schuler; Wassilisa, Barbara Alexander; Kvaschina, Marian Cooper; Klechsh, Sam Mangley...

Examinations Will Begin January 23

Final examinations will begin Saturday, January 23, and end January 30. The Monday, Wednesday, Friday class examinations will be held in the mornings and the examinations for the Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday classes will be held in the afternoons.

Final examinations will begin Saturday, January 23, and end January 30. The Monday, Wednesday, Friday class examinations will be held in the mornings and the examinations for the Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday classes will be held in the afternoons.

Dr. J. C. T. Noe is Chosen Commencement Speaker

Chemistry Professor

Dr. J. C. T. Noe, Professor of Chemistry and Head of the Department of Chemistry, will give the commencement address at the annual Mid-Year Exercises.

Plans for the commencement are being made by a committee in charge of arrangements, the chairman of which is Professor J. C. T. Noe, professor in the College of Education, who will deliver the commencement address the afternoon of January 29, in Memorial Hall.

Approximately 76 degrees will be conferred upon senior and graduate students. The exact number of seniors who will receive diplomas is dependent on the results of the examinations. The Master's degree will be conferred only upon those candidates who have completed the prescribed courses and have turned in acceptable theses.

At present the list of candidates for the various colleges is as follows: Arts and Science, 26 candidates; Agriculture; Law; Education; 13; Commerce, 36 Candidates for the Master's degree number 15, and there is one who is nominated for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Last January, for the first time green jackets were held for those completing their work in mid-year. Seventy-seven seniors and 27 graduates received their diplomas. The speaker for the commencement address was Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, Dean of the Graduate School.

National Body Admits U. K. Department of Journalism as Member

Having complied with all the rules of membership for the International Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, the university department of journalism was admitted to membership in the association during the holidays at its annual meeting in Minneapolis.

The association is made up of approximately 27 of the leading schools and departments and a number of journalism units throughout the United States. Requirements for admission necessitate a full specified four-year curriculum with the special training of a B.S. Journalism and a specified and adequate staff personnel in adherence with the rules and regulations of the association.

CADET HOP TO BE SATURDAY

Sponsored by Scabard and Blade, the national military fraternity, the second of the annual series of cadet hops will be held between the hours of 12 o'clock and 2:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon at the Alumni gymnasium. Tickets for the dance may be purchased at the door, or season tickets may be secured from members of the fraternity.

Leap Year Dance to Begin 'Open' Season on Males

When Mortar Board senior women's honorary fraternity entertains with its Leap Year dance in the recreation room of Patterson hall the fair co-eds will take advantage of their proverbial license which they will use to the limit in their grants to them each fourth year.

Of course there will be chaperones to keep the collegians from becoming too bisterous in their freedom. They will be Miss Sarah O. Blanding, Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, Mrs. Margaret McLaughlin, Anne Callahan, Sally Pines, Mrs. W. S. Server, Mrs. Eda M. Giles, Misses Kitty Conroy, and Dora Berkeley.

Scotland is not the only country to localize this custom, and it may be found in many lands. In Stockholm, now is your chance. You have the law behind you. Go right along with your Leap Year dance and have the time of your lives.

Annual Mid-Year Exercises Will Be Held Friday, January 29

In accordance with a custom inaugurated last year, the speaker for the mid-year commencement exercises has been chosen from the faculty of the university. Dr. J. C. T. Noe, professor in the College of Education, will deliver the commencement address the afternoon of January 29, in Memorial Hall.

Approximately 76 degrees will be conferred upon senior and graduate students. The exact number of seniors who will receive diplomas is dependent on the results of the examinations.

Faculty Notice

Students of the university pay for their kernel each semester when they register. A paper is printed for each student registered and for each member of the faculty and staff who has subscribed to the paper. Several members of the faculty who do not subscribe to the paper pick up as many as four or five papers that were placed on the truck for students who have paid their share. Any faculty member desiring to subscribe to the kernel can do so by sending $1.80 to the business office and the paper will be mailed to his office for the remainder of the year.

Non-subscribers will please refrain from taking papers from the truck in McVeey hall. Students are requested to take only the one paper they have paid for.

LEAP YEAR DANCE

Although the leap year dance sponsored today by Mortar Board honorary society of senior women undoubtedly is offered to students of the university in the interests of social entertainment and good fun, there is a side issue involved which, while only heightening the entertainment, should prove somewhat of an experiment in psychology—an incident in the battle of the sexes.

Social supremacy, rather, direct social supremacy, with regard to dances long has been the prerogative of the male. His is the initiative in securing and arranging the "date." He sets the time, appoints the place, chooses the manner of transportation, and afterwards approves or commends his partner's dances.

Men may dance with whom they choose. But not without inciting the co-eds' rebellion. Time and again after dances we have heard expressions of resentment arising from the ranks of women students. They say—even the worst dancers, the most besomest, the less handsome, the least likeable—seek the middle of the floor, choose as partners only the most attractive co-eds, the best dancers, those who receive the "biggest rush." Women must countenance such selection; they dance with whoever chooses them.

Again a man may or may not attend a dance. If he chooses he may go alone. Curtin frowns on the unsecured co-ed. She must have a "date" or stay at home.

Retaliation is a law of nature. Today, social positions of men and women are reversed. Men entertaining mistaken notions of their value in co-ed estimation may have their conceits altered. Many will not receive "bids"; many attending the affair will find their services as dancing partners not desirable and unclaimed.

Anticipating such embarrassing occurrences, many men have intimated that they will not attend the dance although they are so fortunate as to receive invitations. Kentucky men have always upheld the ideals of chivalry and sportsmanship. Kentuckians' heritage from pioneer forefathers, these qualities have heretofore had their existence unquestioned. To the contrary, such fame is countrywide. Today, the university co-eds challenge this heritage. Shall this spirit of chivalry and sportsmanship be unbroken? Men students of the University of Kentucky should attend the dance—and like it.

LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION

In a recent public statement, Pres. Frank L. McVey announced that the appropriation which would be asked for the university this year would be for only sufficient funds to pay the maintenance expenses of the institution and the active building program of past years would be temporarily abandoned. We do not pretend to know the situation as well as does President McVey; nor have we any doubt that in reducing his appropriation request he is following the course which he believes will be operative for the best interest of the commonwealth. We cannot but remember, however, that in proportion to its importance to education in the state the University of Kentucky is far behind several other institutions in its building program.

It is the intention of the present state administration to reduce expenses in all departments, thereby making possible a reduction of the tax rate. At the same time, valuation on property generally will be much lower than it has been in the past, thus reducing the funds which accrue to the state. From the decreased funds which will be available for use by the state there are many functions of government which must be financed before the university can be considered. It is our firm belief, however, that large sums of the taxpayer's money have been expended in the past for purposes far less worthy than education, and that if the present state administration is sincere in its efforts to eliminate unnecessary expenditure it will at the same time see the necessity of adequate appropriation for the university.

The need of modern institutions of higher education in Kentucky will not be doubted by anyone. The importance of the University of Kentucky in the system of education of the state is indisputable.

EXAMINATIONS

It has become customary for students, returning after the holiday season, often to repeat expressions of their intention to study diligently during the period just preceding final examinations. It has become customary for The Kernel to carry an editorial warning students that examination time is close at hand and that unless they devote the remainder of the semester to a studious perusal of their text books all will be lost.

It is not our intention that this editorial should reflect the faculty attitude toward study, and we do not believe that it does. In reality, there is little reason for members of the faculty to care whether or not students study during these closing days. It is a problem which the student himself must face. He knows all the arguments in favor of distinguishing himself, academically, and he knows the processes of rationalization he has followed in attempting to make himself believe that study is unimportant.

All that we can do is to remind the student body that the time in which it can achieve the scholastic standard to which it aspires is decreasing daily. If the grades which are given at the end of the semester are to approach in value those which the student expects, something must be done immediately to warrant their presentation.

THE BASKETBALL SEASON

So far this season Coach Adolph Rupp and his Big Blue netmen have given an excellent account of themselves, and the outlook for the season is as brilliant as it has been in recent years. Kentucky again is a potential Southern Conference champion, and this fact should assist materially in developing more than usual interest in the team of this year.

Since coming to the university Coach Rupp has distinguished himself as one of the leading basketball coaches of the country. Both his theories of good basketball and the teams with which he has carried out these theories have proved popular with local followers. It is evident that the team of this year is working smoothly and efficiently with Coach Rupp's brand of basketball.

Naturally the student body is ambitious for a Southern Conference championship, but whether or not the team achieves this goal the year will be recorded as one of the best in the history of university basketball.

WHEN ONE COMES AT CHRISTMAS TIME

When one comes home at Christmas time it seems to me to be a crime, the little of one's folks one sees—they are the ones that we should please. For Mother's the one who sent that cake, and with thoughts of you has lain awake; and Dad's the fellow who mailed that check, with the house bill due and the funds a wreck.

But the saddest of sorrows that can occur to a college boy is when he first sees Her—and she's terribly happy to learn he's back, but with heavenly smiles (and a world of tact) she tells him how sorry she really is, but a date is quite impossible. 'Tis 'cause so many others returned from school, and they'd written for dates (that seems the rule), but she certainly hopes he'll write to her when he goes back to school occur.

And so it happens one stays home and listens for the telephone. This seems a sorrow, nay, a crime, when one comes home at Christmas time.

OF TRAGEDY

I sit beside the narrow sea,
And watch it flow continually
Now here I can not change the sea,
But it has surely altered me.

For I am ill (the sea is life)
A mere spectator of the strife,
And I remain confined to see
What life had always handed me.

For while within and up and brave
I smiled and took just what it gave
For I was strong and healthy, young,
But now I lie and breathe unusung.

What can it mean? Where are the friends
That pledged to stay until the end?

Leap Year Loops

Detailed report on the plans of the various sisterhoods for Leap Year is impossible at this date. The gentle dame asserts that the Alifagans have been planning a cooperative arrangement by which they hope to place at least their graduating group, and that the Kimegas are standardizing a proposal which will be used by every member of the chapter. The proposal is being written with the assistance of formerly successful alumnæ.

The Bull Market

For the benefit of our countless readers among the gentle sex who are entering the marriage mart for the first time in the last four years we have gathered information on the value of various fraternity stocks.

With the beginning of the new year stocks of the organizations are at the lowest ebb of the winter season. The expected slump occurred in the Sigalf stock and the bears (Fidels) succeeded in forcing back the bulls (Kappas) to cause Fidels Preferred to reach a new low. Although Sigamsky was weak early in the day, owners of that stock sat tight and little exchange was made. A slight rise was noted in Deltataw-delta at noon when it was learned that three of the brothers had dates with Kappas, but prices fell rapidly when it was found that two of the dates had been broken and that the other was only an idle rumor in the first place.

As the market closed the bulls Too well I see them off to be Another's friend 'til tragedy.
—EDITH MARIE BELL

pushed Sigalf up two points, bringing it to zero.

Since the announcement of the Leap Year dance at Pat hall the office has been crowded with frenzied femininity. The beautiful belles seem to believe that we have nothing more to do than to run around to parties with them. We have tried to be courteous in our refusals, but it is now becoming so tedious that we must insist that future invitations be withheld. We will continue to consider several offers, however.

Brief Bits on the Big Shots

Sigalf Brad Stevenson tells his lady fair what she may, may not eat... Fidelt Zave Schuller and Adelt Ploy Bowling would be that way about each other if it were not for such an intense interest on the part of their public... Alifagan Georgianna Weedon believes that Kentuckians are barbarians because they have localized names for vegetables... Kappasig Bill Gess is one of the new city attorneys, will get ahead... Alifawomags O. K. Barnes' Christmas card was two feet square, weighed three pounds, six ounces, one gram... Alifawomags Verdon D. Rooks used the news story idea... Sigamaditaky Neil Plummer sent photos made by himself of himself punching his unfortunate typewriter. Kappa Theta Tebbis is still trying to convince the campus that she is not in love... Pictures of Zeta Betty Whip have appeared in almost every hamlet newspaper in the state... Deltatromthebottom Derek Smythefield is planning a new edition of his romance directory, which was so successfully accurate last spring.

The Sneer Magnificent
Alifagans asserted that one of the sisters had talked for two hours over the phone they all wanted to use. When to gentleman with whom she had been conversing next entered the scraggly one of the ladies thanked him for terminating the conversation, she, evidently, having been next in line for the instrument.

University Graduate Now in Legislature

That the "baby" member of the present state legislature is a recent graduate of the university was revealed when the body convened on last Monday and Jimmy Chapman, 30, took the oath of office. Chapman is only 24 years old and received his law degree at the spring commencement. In winning the election he became one of the few Democrats to represent his district. While at the university Chapman was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Scabbard and Blade heavy-weight boxing champion of the university, and a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Leap Year Dance

Members of Mortar Board fraternity will entertain Friday, January 8, from 4 to 6 o'clock, with a leap year tea dance in the recreation rooms of Patterson hall. Jimmy Gatewood's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing. All are invited to attend, and a nominal sum will be charged for each guest.

Evening Meeting

Miss Eleanor Smith entertained for members of Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary professional journalistic fraternity for women at her home in Elmhurst Park, Monday evening.

Following a business meeting, with Miss Mary Alice Salyers, president, delicious refreshments were served to Misses Margie McLaughlin, Mary Alice Salyers, Virginia Nevin, Emily Hardin, Edythe Reynolds, Juliet Galloway, Joan Corgan, Bliss Warren, Marjorie Hoagland.

Finalists in I-M Boxing, Wrestling Meet Tonight

By NORBERT CAMPBELL

Finals in the Intramural boxing and wrestling tournament will get under way tonight in the Alumni gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock, after two weeks of inactivity caused by the Christmas holidays. One of the best cards ever to be scheduled in the Intramural boxing and wrestling is on hand for tonight's show, with eight boxing bouts and eight wrestling matches scheduled to be run off.

Plans are being pushed forward rapidly for the erection of a ring and bleacher seats in the gym to take care of the large crowd that is expected to witness the bouts. A small admission to the gym will be charged, and with a student book the charge will be less.

The finals come as a fitting climax to the hectic struggles of the athletes in the elimination rounds of the tournament. Many of the fighters have shown great class and form in their bouts, and can be expected to put up good battles for the championship in their respective divisions. Tonight's contests have already taken on all the glamour and excitement that usually precedes the eve of the world's championship in each of the respective sports. Even around the campus, the followers of the two sports are discussing the chances of their favorites for victory, and are backing up their beliefs with tempting odds.

Those fans who journey out to the Men's gym tonight will not starve for action and excitement, as, unlike the professional bouts, there will be no stalling and fights won before the contestant's ever enter the ring. The boys who are on tonight's card are three because they fought their way through the elimination bouts through their own merit.

The bouts scheduled for the evenings show range all the way from the fast stepping fly weights to the ponderous and hard hitting heavy weights. These boys all represent the cream of their division, and as such are sure to give the fans their money's worth. It would be very hard to make even an attempt to list any winners, or make any predictions to the outcome of the boxing bouts or wrestling matches.

The following is a list of the wrestling and boxing matches carded for tonight:

Banquet Planned by Y. M. C. A. Cabinets

Winning Discussion Groups Will Be Special Guests at Entertainment

The freshman and senior Y. M. C. A. cabinets met at 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. room, with Robert Stewart presiding. Arrangements for the discussion group banquet which will be held January 19 were almost completed and George Yost, chairman of the discussion group program, was appointed to arrange the program.

Special guests of honor at this dinner will be the members of the fraternity and the independent group which had the highest percentage of attendance for the annual series of six religious discussion group meetings. Other guests of the banquet will be representatives of each group participating in the discussion series. Incomplete results of the reports prevent the naming of the winning groups.

A committee, composed of George Yost, Fred Hafer, and William Shafer was appointed to make nominations for the editor of the Y. M. C. A. "K" book next year.

James Gary, Trenton, who has just returned from the International Student Voluntary convention in Buffalo, New York, gave a report of the convention. Students interested in missionary work attend this convention from all parts of the world.

Busses?
Buses have been detained for various reasons before the trip, but never before for a reason of such import. The special bus from Paducah Sunday night had delayed long, its getting under way while parents and friends were bidding dewy adieus to the students returning to school for the holidays.
At last the bus started and the passengers variously blew their noses or dried their eyes, and settled themselves for the long ride. But the ride was interrupted early in its course when a porter came running from the station frantically halting the departing bus, and it returned to the station for the forgotten article.
Yes, buses have been detained for numerous reasons, but never before for a reason of such import as a freshman cap!

Violinist Will Give Sunday Musicales
Frank Kneisel, youthful New York violinist, will present the first musicale of the new year at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall. Frank Kneisel is the son of the late Frank Kneisel, leader and founder of the famous Kneisel string quartette and head of the string department of the Institute of Musical Art in New York City. He studied under his father's supervision for eight years and is now using in his concerts the famous Stradivarius on which his father played.
Mr. Kneisel will have as his assistant at the piano, Thome Prewitt Williams, Cincinnati, who has appeared on several of the Sunday afternoon programs.
The program:
Sonia in D Major—Handel
Adagio-Allegro
Larghetto-Allegro
Symphonie Espagnole—Lalo
Allegro non troppo
Andante
Rondo
Guitarre—Moszkowski
La Capricciosa—Ries
Tango—Elman
Burlaska—Suk
Midnight Bells—Heuberger-Kreisler
Zigeunerweisen—Sarasate

Kernel Appointments Announced by Editor
Recent appointments to the staff of The Kernel have been announced by Lawrence Herron, editor-in-chief. They include William Ardery, Paris, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, associate editor; Louise Thompson, Augusta, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, managing editor, and Gilbert Kingsbury, Covington, junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, news editor.
Assistant news editors also have been appointed. They are Robert McGaughey and Mary Carolyn Terrell. Present appointees will continue in office until January, when the annual election will be conducted by the Board of Student Publications.
Reporters before receiving final appointments to the staff will be taught the style employed by The Kernel, according to plans announced.

Building Program Not Decided Upon
The building program of the university for 1932 has not yet been decided upon, Pres. Frank L. McVey announced yesterday. It will be decided Wednesday, January 13, when the Board of Trustees will meet.
President McVey's statement corrects a report which has been prevalent in Lexington and on the campus that the university would not ask the 1932 general assembly to appropriate funds for buildings, but would ask for $1,000,000 which is needed to carry on the present program of the university.

Charles H. Ingersoll Will Speak at U. K.
Charles H. Ingersoll, president of the Ingersoll Dollar Pen company, New Jersey, will speak at 2 o'clock this afternoon in McVey hall on the subject, "Henry George and the Single Tax." Mr. Ingersoll was brought here by Prof. W. R. Sutherland, Prof. E. F. Farquhar, and Dean F. P. Anderson, for the benefit of all public speaking classes and junior and senior engineers, but the entire student body is invited.
Mr. Ingersoll was a close friend of the late Henry George, and is now trustee of the Henry George Foundation in Pittsburg, besides holding offices in many other organizations throughout the country.

Commission To Hold Oratorical Contest

Students Interested In Taking Part May See Professor Sutherland
A feature of the George Washington bicentennial celebration will be oratorical contests among the institutions of higher learning throughout the United States. Anyone at the university wishing to take part may do so by getting in touch with Prof. W. S. Sutherland at 215 McVey hall.
The oration must be on one of the following subjects: "Washington, the Courageous," "Washington and the West," "Washington, the Man of Business Vision," "Development of Washington's Military Ability," "George Washington's Understanding of Men," "Washington, National Builder," "First in Peace," "Washington the Exemplar of American World Builder," and "The Spirit of Washington."
The work of each student must be original. The winner in each elimination contest must give the same oration in the next higher contest. Orations will be limited to twelve hundred words. The contests will include a local, state, regional, and national contest. The commission will present the official George Washington commemorative medal in silver to the student winning the contest; to the winner of second place, the official medal of bronze, and to the student in third place, a certificate of award.

Lexington in 1886 Described in Book

izens. The city had two race tracks, one running and one trotting, and both drew attendance from all over the country when meetings were held.
The Kentucky A. and M. college, now the University of Kentucky, and the Kentucky University, now Transylvania university, were the most famous institutions of learning in the city. A view of the A. and M. campus shows only two buildings, both of which are fixtures on the university today. They are the Administration building and White hall.
The mayor of the city of that time was C. F. Johnson, and his popularity is shown by this excerpt: "Mr. Johnson is one of the most popular mayors that have ever sat in the chair of chief executive of this city. With Lexington he has during his entire lifetime been identified and from his boyhood has taken a deep interest in politics."
There were 11 churches of six denominations in the city and in addition there were 10 churches for colored people. Seventeen hundred and eighty-three pupils were aggregated in attendance at school, with two Catholic and seven public schools catering to educational needs. Four were colored. An up-to-date fire department efficiently kept fire loss down to a minimum. Which is, no doubt, a pretty mark at which to shoot, or squint
