They Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

Late in November of this year James S. Shropshire was named chairman of the 1949-'50 Loyalty Fund drive. Although the campaign for funds was inaugurated at a later date than usual, Jim took up the reins in his usual efficient manner and the executive committee is convinced that if anyone can get the job done, it will be Jim. However, he needs the financial and moral support of every good alumnus, and to make this year's campaign a real success he is hoping to hear from each of you to the extent that you are able to contribute.

Let's all get in and "chip in," so that this very fine project of the Alumni Association may become a perpetuating program. Your contributions are income tax deductible and no more worthy project has ever been presented to you.

The Cover

The University's new Fine Arts building, pride of the campus, will be dedicated in week-long ceremonies during Founders Week, February 19-24, February 22, 1865, the date upon which the Kentucky Legislature officially accepted the Federal Land Grant with which to establish a state university, is annually celebrated at the University.

Facing Rose Street, the low split white-limestone entrance is modernistic and impressive.

SUGAR BOWL CHAMPIONS

That the University of Kentucky remains a big power in the basketball world was shown this past week when the Wildcats captured the Sugar Bowl crown at New Orleans. Coach Rupp and his young cage stars naturally have the warmest congratulations of Kentucky basketball fans.

Members of this year's team in winning the tournament have proven that they are fully capable of preserving UK's basketball tradition. They have surprised a good many fans, and apparently even Coach Rupp himself, who at the beginning of the season didn't hold much hope for the team's success. But Coach Rupp must not have realized that his reputation for producing champions is still inviolate.

fast St.

His team took the Sugar Bowl crown by defeating Bradley, a team which the coach himself had rated as the nation's best. The fact that Bradley might turn out to be only the second best would hardly detract from Coach Rupp's reputation as a basketball genius.

It could have been surmised at the beginning of the season that this year's team would be handicapped psychologically, because it was succeeding last year's all-time great team at the University. However, inheritance of a big-name reputation surely hasn't fazed this year's team a bit, although as much cannot be said about Kentucky fans. The thrilling comebacks which the team has made in several games, the see-saw games it has played and the inclination the team has shown a time or two of running up a comfortable lead and then relaxing while the other team made a desperate last two-minute splurge all have bordered on being dangerously exciting for easy-chair fans.

The Sugar Bowl victory indicates that there will be plenty of interest in basketball at the University of Kentucky for the next two years at least. We can stop worrying now, too, about not having a top notch team to go with the new 12,000-seat coliseum which is nearing completion.

Lexington Herald, 1-2-50

YES BASKETBALL IS GREAT

In many respects the past year has been a great one for the University of Kentucky. Its basketball team won world acclaim as Olympic champions while the football squad will climax the school's most successful season in the Orange Bowl. And though they have gotten off to a shaky start, Coach Rupp's sophomore basketballers will cause opponents plenty of trouble in the next three years. Aside from its athletic achievement, the university has grown from a pre-war enrollment of 3,500 to more than 8,000 students. The facilities and trained personnel of the school have been used increasingly during the past year for service to the state, and the university is playing a more vital role in Kentucky's progress.

Despite this progress, officials of the university are desperately concerned over the school's growing financial crisis. Booming enrollments which accompanied the end of the war brought a need for more instructors. In order to meet rising costs of living, they required higher salaries. The Griffenhagen Report of 1947 criticized the university for its understaffed faculty, crowded classrooms and low salaries, and recommended immediate employment of 50 more instructors. The university could not follow this recommendation because it did not have the money. Indeed, only the strictest economy and the federal tuition fees of G.I. students enabled the school to survive this period of readjustment with its staff fairly intact.

Several developments have added to the school's trouble. Like all others this university is losing its G.I. students with their federal fees. And whereas a large percentage of the G.I.s paid the higher out-of-state tuition fees, the freshmen replacing them are mostly Kentucky students and pay low state tuition costs. Though the student body continues to grow, the loss of federal support for G.I.s will cost the university $500,000 this year. In 1951-52 this is expected to amount to $800,000.

University officials must not only find money to make up for this loss, but also find some money for salary raises. Since the Court of Appeals ruled that the state salary limit did not apply to university instructors, there has been increasing pressure from the faculty for better pay. This pressure was doubled by the constitutional amendment raising the $5,000 state salary limit, and the university is faced with having to give pay raises or lose a lot of its teachers.

This accumulation of needs underlies the university's request that the legislature increase its appropriation to $12,479,600 for the next two years. And in presenting its budget requests, the university emphasized that the most important item, the one which must be approved, is the $5,500,000 asked for the Division of Colleges, in which is included payment and maintenance of the faculty. With a fairly fixed income and increased appropriation requests from every division of the state government, the legislature must soon begin to whittle these budget requests down. Perhaps some aspects of the university's budget, regardless of need, must be reduced. But neither the legislature nor Kentucky can afford to deny this request for the university's division of colleges. Without it the quality of education at our state university must be drastically diluted. This could not be considered an economy.

Fine Arts Building To Be Dedicated On Feb. 22

Formal dedication of the University of Kentucky's new Fine Arts Building, finest university art center in the South if not in the nation, will be held February 22, Founders Day.

Celebrating the event will be a week-long series of music, dramatic and art programs featuring University personnel and several visiting lecturers.

Among the visitors will be Walter Prichard Eaton, dramatist, critic and professor emeritus of playwriting at Yale; Philip Rhys Adams, director of the Cincinnati Museum of Fine Arts, and Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y.

All programs during the week will have as their theme, "The Place of Humanities in Our Society."

The Founders Week observance will begin Sunday, February 19, with afternoon and evening performances by the University Symphony Orchestra and Mixed Chorus at Memorial Hall. Directing the programs will be Dr. Edwin E. Stein, head of the Department of Music.

Other cultural offerings are scheduled daily throughout the week.

For the first stage production to be held in the new Fine Arts building, Guignol Theater Director Wallace N. Briggs and his associate director, Mrs. Lolo Robinson, have selected the Greek tragedy, "Medea." The Euripides classic will be presented by the Guignol players Monday night, February 20, as part of the Founders Week observance.

The week's first major address is scheduled the following night, Tuesday, when the Eastman director, Hanson, will speak on "The Place of Music in Our Society."

Formal dedication ceremonies for the new art center will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, February 22, the University's 85th birthday. President H. L. Donovan will preside and Dr. Raymond McLain, president of Transylvania College, will deliver the principal address.

Wednesday evening, the noted Yale playwright, teacher and critic, Prof. Eaton, will be heard in an address on "The Place of Drama in our Society."

Adams, last of the week's three principal speakers, will be in Lexington the following day, Thursday, to talk on "The Place of Fine Arts in Our Society." Immediately following his address at Guignol Theater, a recently completed portrait of Dr. Donovan will be unveiled. Painted by William P. Welsh of Lexington and Chicago, the portrait will be hung in the music lounge on the first floor of the new building.

On Friday night, a group of Kentucky authors will participate in a panel discussion entitled "Writing; For What and For Whom?" The group will include Hollis Summers, Jesse Stuart, Robert Penn Warren and William Sloane. A. B. Guthrie, Lexington novelist whose latest book, "The Way West," currently is a best-seller, will serve as moderator.

As the finale of the Founders Week program, University authorities have booked a concert program by the Louisville Philharmonic Orchestra directed by Robert Whitney. This program is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, February 25, at Memorial Hall. Prof. Nathaniel Patch of the University Department of Music, will appear as guest artist with the Louisville orchestra.

For the convenience of visitors and the general public alike, guided tours of the Fine Arts building will be conducted daily during Founders Week. With members of student organizations serving as guides, the tours will be conducted for periods of one hour before and after each Founders Week program Monday through Friday.

Begun in 1947 and completed last November, the new Fine Arts building houses the Departments of Art and Music, Guignol Theater, and the speech and dramatics division of the Department of English.

It is located on Rose Street between Stoll Field and Maxwell Place and is of red brick construction with an entrance of split white limestone. Three stories in height, it has overall dimensions of 281 x 248 feet and contains approximately 150,000 square feet of floor space.

Its south wing houses the Department of Art, including an art gallery

'50 Reunions May 31--June 1, 2

The welcome sign has been given a new coat of paint, the class secretaries are digging in their files for names and addresses of classmates, and things around the Alumni Office are taking on a hue of renewed activity—It is the time of year when Kentucky alumni everywhere begin talking about June Reunion Week.

Fourteen classes have scheduled regular or special reunions for the week of June 1-2 and big plans are under way to make the program pleasant and happy for returning alumni.

The class of 1900 will hold its 50th jubilee celebration this year, and the class of 1910 is going all out to celebrate the 40th anniversary of its graduation.

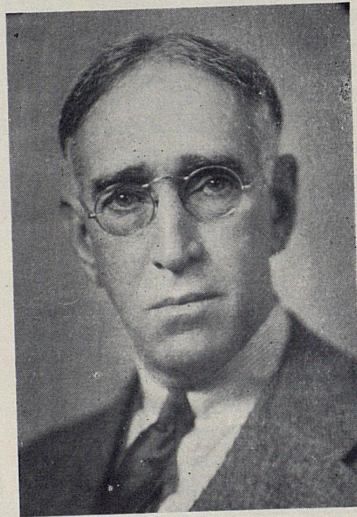

Among those classes scheduled for regular reunions is the class of 1925, which will come back for its 25th anniversary. Other classes which will come back for reunions under the Dix Plan are: '1903, '04, '05, and '06 1922, '23, and '24 and 1941, '42, '43, and 44.

Thursday, June 1 will be Alumni Day this year, with special class lunches arranged for noon on Thursday; the commencement tea that afternoon at Maxwell Place, the home of President and Mrs. H. L. Donovan; and the alumni banquet at 6:30 that evening in the ballroom of the Student Union.

It is hoped that all returning alumni will remain over for the commencement program Friday evening, which will include the presentation of Golden Jubilee certificates to members of the class of 1900 and their admission into the Alumni Association's Half Century Club.

The Association, in cooperation with the University, inaugurated the presentation of Golden Jubilee certificates to graduates of 50 years or better at the 1949 commencement, and this event will be an annual custom. The recipients are presented to the president of the University by the president of the Alumni Association, and march up to the rostrum to receive their citations.

Each year the University provides class banners for the commencement procession, under which the reuniting classes are expected to march, and it is the sincere hope and expectation of the Alumni Executive Committee that all returning alumni march under their class banners in the commencement procession.

Dr. Frank LeRond McVey, president emeritus of the University of Kentucky, eminent scholar, author, educator and administrator, will extend greetings to alumni of the University at the annual banquet to be held in the Bluegrass room of the Student Union Thursday night, June 1, in connection with June Reunion Week.

Jerry Claiborne, Hopkinsville, Ky., senior and defensive quarterback on the successful 1949 Wildcat football team, was chosen "most valuable senior" on the squad by a vote of his teammates, following the Orange Bowl game, and was presented with the Jerome Lederer trophy at the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce banquet honoring the team.

described by Prof. Edward W. Rannels, head of the department, as "one that rivals the best in the country." The Department of Music, located in the north wing, boasts sound-proofed rehearsal rooms and a central recording unit with which records or tape recordings may be made of music played in all studios or practice rooms in the department.

The dramatics division, including the new 440-seat, air conditioned Guignol Theater, occupies the center part of the building. There is also a smaller theater seating approximately 125 persons that is used primarily as a laboratory theater for drama classes.

On the first floor, adjacent to Guignol, is a music lounge with a well-stocked record library and individual listening cubicles.

Though the building has been occupied for several weeks, University authorities purposely selected Founders Day as the date for its dedication. Founders Day, 1950, not only will mark another milestone in University history but will mark as well an important step forward in the University's physical and cultural growth.

Lieut. Col. James C. Bishop, '34, formerly of Louisville, who is serving with the U.S. Air Force in the Philippines, has been named new executive officer of the 24th Maintenance Group of Headquarters, 24th Air Depot Wing, stationed at Clark Air Force Base, in central Luzon.

Lt. Col. Basil Lee Baker, '36' formerly of Lexington, has been appointed deputy public information officer of the Military Air Transport Service headquarters, Andrews Air Force Base.

George W. Trotter, '49, has been appointed editor-manager of the Campbellsville, Ky., News Journal. During the past year he served as advertising manager of the paper. Mr. Trotter is secretary-treasurer of the Taylor County Alumni Club.

Alumni Scholarship UK's New 'Pot Of Gold'

What The Alumni Scholarship Means

By John Biggerstaff,
Sophomore Recipient

The task with which I am now confronted is by far the most difficult one that I have ever encountered. I am to tell you in a few lines what the Alumni Loyalty Fund Scholarship has meant to me and what it can mean to others in the future. It would be impossible to express fully how much I appreciate the opportunities offered by this scholarship; I shall only try to summarize briefly some of the things it has meant to me.

First of all, the scholarship has meant being at the University. Being at the University encompasses a great many things, which you, as alumni, can well remember. There are stimulating classroom discussions and competition with other capable students interested in closely related fields, extensive laboratory and library facilities, and well correlated courses of instruction in fields such as mathematics and physics which are combining to produce a thorough knowledge of physics, my major field of interest. Outside of this field of concentration there are un-

Proselyting Brains

By Leo M. Chamberlain
President, Kentucky Research Foundation

Do you know that about one-half of the high school seniors in Kentucky, who rank in the top twenty-five per cent scholastically, never attend college? Its a fact. And the chief reason why they don't is because they haven't got the necessary money.

This situation is not peculiar to this state. Several studies have indicated that the case is about the same in every state in the Union. As a nation, we are wasting about half of our potential leadership — wasting it because it cannot be matured except by advanced and specialized education. Our concept of conservation has thus far been restricted to the management of our natural wealth. Generally, we have not been aware of the appalling waste in human resources that results from the failure of one-half of our high-ability boys and girls to continue their education beyond high school.

It is easy to see the connection between this problem and the scholarship program at the University of Kentucky. To the degree that aid can be given these young people who cannot finance their college education, the waste can be reduced. The University has been asking its alumni and friends and all friends of youth, to help it in proselyting brains. Each year a deliberate search is made for those high school seniors who have shown unusual aptitude for college work, but who are unlikely to continue their education because of inadequate funds.

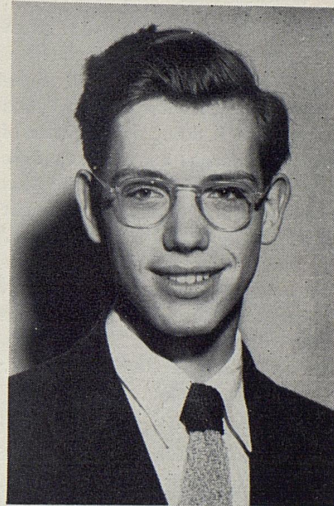

Early in the spring each high school principal in Kentucky is asked to nominate one or more graduating seniors who show unusual scholastic promise and who will find it difficult to start college work without some financial assistance. The nominees are

by Don Hartford,
Freshman Recipient

This scholarship which I received this fall means a lot to me, and some of it can't be expressed, but I'll do my best to give you an idea of how I feel: The scholarship means, not so much, money, as opportunity and experience. The opportunity is offered to go to a fine university and study for four years. This one statement means a lot to me.

It means education, and enjoyment, friends and acquaintances, and the difference between success and failure in later life.

It is a chance to meet and know people from all parts of my state, and other states, and even other nations. The help given by the Alumni Association means not only a chance to go to college, but a chance to profit more from college, in that the comparative freedom from financial worry it affords allows time for study, overload, and activity—time which otherwise would have been occupied in working for the next semester's tuition. At col-limited opportunities for a broad general education; these opportunities include many things; the facilities of the newly completed Fine Arts Building, and again, the facilities of the library and the association with students with different interests than mine. Most of all, being at the University has meant being in contact with the best teachers, men such as Dr. Webb of the Physics Department, who, along with the lesson they are teaching, can always find time to teach some "common sense."

Secondly, the scholarship has given me a new sense of pride in the University. The fact that University alumni appreciate what the University did for them and is doing for the state of Kentucky enough to want to help others obtain the opportunities that they enjoyed is a significant fact. The Alumni Loyalty Fund Scholarship and other scholarships reflect a general attempt by the University and its friends to attract to the University the highest possible type of students and an attempt to build the University into a really great institution.

Finally, the scholarship means that a great number of University alumni have expressed their confidence in my ability. The tremendous responsibility this confidence has placed on me, although frightening at times, has provided a motive for determined effort far stronger than any other motive could ever be.

These are but a few of the many reasons why the Alumni Loyalty Fund Scholarship can never be defined in terms of dollars and cents. The scholarship will mean different things to different recipients, but to each of them the actual cash value of the scholarship will be but a fraction of the total worth.

Come Home June 1-2

then given an opportunity to compete for the available freshmen scholarships by taking a battery of tests. For the convenience of the applicants these tests are given at several centers throughout the state. In 1949 almost 500 boys and girls made themselves eligible by completing the tests. Unfortunately, many in this group who were quite deserving could not be assisted because the number of scholarships available was so limited.

The procedure differs somewhat for certain scholarships. There is, for example, the $700 award made from the Alumni Loyalty Fund. Applicants for this scholarship may be nominated by alumni or by alumni clubs as well as by high school principals. Moreover, a few selected candidates are given personal interviews before the award is finally assigned. Lastly, unlike most of the scholarships, this one is not restricted to Kentucky students.

With the appointment of a general scholarship committee, the University, a few years ago, launched a definite program for increasing the number of scholarships available, not only to freshmen, but to upperclassmen as well. In a comparatively short time, the number of awards has risen from 120 to about 220, and the funds available annually, from about $18,000 to almost $60,000.

An important factor in the promotion of the scholarship program was the establishment in 1945 of the Kentucky Research Foundation. This is a corporation through which funds may be received, invested, and expended in the interest of certain legitimate activities of the University of Kentucky. It is possible for a foundation of this character to perform functions under the law which would be difficult or impossible for the University itself to perform, but which are a part of the total service that the University is expected to render the state and society generally. In the minds of many donors, such a foundation offers a more satisfactory medium for the administration of a gift than does a publicly controlled institution. The administrative structure of the Foundation is closely tied into that of the University and the Articles of Incorporation provide that in the event of its dissolution, all of its assets shall vest immediately and absolutely in the University, subject to all the limitations and uses by which it is held by the corporation at the time of its dissolution.

lege one also gains independence, poise, the ability to get along in a crowd and with other people, and many other little skills and experiences which do not befall the person who hasn't the opportunity to go to college.

In short, I can see only partly, at present, what college life and the scholarship mean, but later in life, I shall see in retrospect and truly appreciate these values which are now hidden from me.

Currently gifts for scholarships are being received by both the Foundation and the University itself. Thirty-four awards, or about 16 per cent of the total, are administered by the Foundation. These involve an annual expenditure of more than $15,000. Among the scholarships administered by the Foundation are those supported by the Alumni Loyalty Fund. In cooperation with officers of the Alumni Association, two awards were made from this fund for 1949-50, each in the amount of $700. One of these grants is a renewal of the first scholarship assigned last year and is held by John Biggerstaff of Berea, Kentucky. The second is the freshman award for 1949-50 held by Don LeRoy Hartford, a graduate of Holmes High School of Covington, Kentucky.

ld' Grid 'Cats Complete Best Season In '49

By Ken Kuhn

Sports Publicity Editor

Regrettably, some booing and criticism always seems to accompany the loss of an athletic contest — whether it is “just another ball game” or an important clash between two good football teams in a major post-season bowl.

Most people seemed naturally disappointed following Kentucky's hard-fought loss to a good Santa Clara football aggregation in Miami's Orange Bowl early this year by a 21-13 score. Loyal alumni and fans can't be blamed for wanting a victory almost to the point that it becomes a mania.

But the shortsightedness of a few in letting disappointment overshadow the fact that the Big Blue of Coach Paul Bryant played their hearts out, both in the bowl game and all season long, to bring Kentucky to the forefront of national prominence and to the high point in its football history must be reckoned with and disputed.

It is well to remember that Kentucky's bid to the Orange Bowl, one of the very top post-season extravaganzas in the nation, climaxed the most successful football season in the history of athletic competition at the Bluegrass school. True, the Wildcats had won as many as nine games in seasons past — they did it back in the days of turtle-neck sweaters in 1904 and 1909 — but never before had a Kentucky team received a major bowl bid.

Those with short memories could not think how long and hard a road it had been in the Wildcats' journey to national recognition contingent with participation in a big bowl game. When the blue and white went “to the post” in Miami last Jan. 2 with a chance for the biggest gridiron stakes that a U.K. team ever qualified for, there had been 499 previous contests in 60 years of competition on the greensward.

Only in the war year of 1943 had there been any break in the constant climb of Kentucky's state university toward the top in intercollegiate football competition. The 1949 edition of the Wildcats achieved a goal that had been striven for by the U.K. moleskin wearers since November 12, 1881, and the initial grid victory over Transylvania by a 7/4 to 1 score. A total of 274 victories, 195 losses and 30 ties had been recorded in the drive to the top.

The 'Lucky 13' Senior Wildcats, Bowl Bound

Kentucky's first entry in top bowl sweepstakes was truly a surprise starter. No less than three bowls sought the engagement of the 1949 Kentuckians at the end of their surprising season — surprising mainly because the "thoroughbred darkhorses" ranked 11th in the nation at season's end instead of eighth in the conference as had been predicted in preseason polls of coaches and sportswriters.

A backward glance would have revealed an unequaled success story of coach and team. Four short seasons ago, an industrious and hard-working ex-Alabama end took over the Southeastern Conference's football door-mat. In four years on one of the country's most unwanted jobs, youth tactician Paul Bryant achieved what 26 other coaches could not touch in more than a half century of grid competition at Kentucky. He gave victory-famished alumni, used to hearing the tune "wait until next year," some refreshing new lyrics based on winning seasons and climaxed this year by an Orange Bowl march.

The close defeat after an exciting last-ditch fight in the New Year's classic lost the Wildcats very little prestige. Despite a loss to a good, fast-closing Santa Clara team, Kentucky still maintained respectability coincident with a general belief among neutral sportswriters that they deserved to win the game on the basis of statistics and because they had looked much better than many teams with better pre-game reputations who went down to ignominious defeat in the same bowl in years past.

The Cats still had a very successful season behind them. Fighting every inch of the way, they had bowled over such perennial powers as Georgia's defending SEC champions (25-0), L.S.U.'s respected Sugar Bowlers (19-0), powerful Ole Miss (47-0), and the fast-rising Miami Hurricanes (21-6). Their only losses in 11 regular season contests were respectable, toss-up defeats at the hands of Southern Methodist (7-20) and arch-rival Tennessee (0-6). Other victims of the Cats in the final half of the season included The Citadel (44-0), Cincinnati (14-7), Xavier (21-7), and Florida (35-0).

IT HAPPENED THIS YEAR

Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant, the man who lifted Kentucky's football team from a Southeastern Conference door-mat to a Bowl aggregation in four short seasons, is pictured addressing a gathering of 500 at the annual Alumni football banquet Dec. 5.

Capt. Harry Ulinski of the Orange Bowl Wildcats says goodbye to alumni, faculty, students and friends at the annual football banquet, and expresses appreciation for the fine gold watches presented to graduating seniors.

Approximately 350,000 fans — a record number — saw the Wildcats in action during the regular season. Due to a greatly increased seating capacity at Stoll Field, two sellout houses for home games were recorded for the first time in the school's history. For the Georgia game, a record 36,000 crowded into the stadium and when Tennessee's Vols came to town an extra 2,000 sideline chairs were added to care for an overflow crowd of 38,000 — the largest crowd ever to see a sporting event in the state outside of the Kentucky Derby.

Although losing the Southeastern Conference championship to Tulane by a technicality, Kentucky had the best combined offensive-defensive record in the South and led the nation in total defense throughout the season to earn the school's first national grid title. The nation's No. 1 defensive football team held 11 opponents to an average of 153.8 yards per game (Army was second allowing 185.6) and gave up only 53 points in 11 starts (48 points per game) to become the toughest major grid power to score on during 1949. While suffering only one shutout, the Wildcats "skunked" five opponents.

Also an offensive minded outfit, the Wildcats were the second highest team in the number of plays run. They executed 569 plays off the "T" formation, lavishly using spreads, flankers, wing backs and other tricky formations.

The records and achievements of the 1949 Wildcats, as a team and individually, and their hard-working members would take pages to enumerate and diagnose.

Truly, the loyal many can look forward once again to "next year" — but without feeling any qualms of remorse at the record of the 1949 Kentucky football Wildcats.

Ky. Sharpshooters, National Champions

The U. S. Army presented a medal to nine members of the University of Kentucky's national championship rifle team at ceremonies held on the campus in September.

The Kentuckians won the intercollegiate title last June, registering 7,632 points out of a possible 8,000. It was Kentucky's second successive national title.

UK Dean Heads Oak Ridge Group

Dr. Louis A. Pardue, dean of the University of Kentucky Graduate School, has been named chairman of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, a non-profit educational corporation which utilizes Oak Ridge facilities to conduct a broad program of research and training in the nuclear sciences. Acceptance of the new post will not affect Dean Pardue's connections with the University.

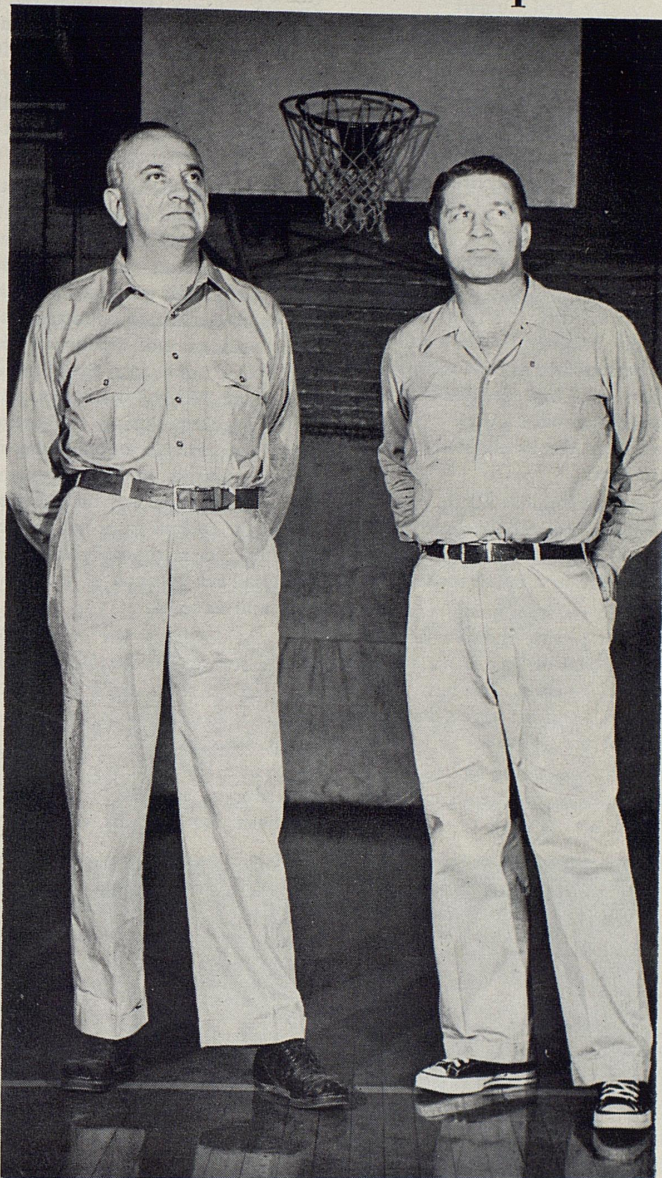

An internationally known physicist, Dean Pardue made important contributions to the wartime atomic energy program at Oak Ridge and at the University of Chicago metallurgical laboratory. He returned to U.K. at the end of the war but has since made frequent visits to Oak Ridge in connection with research work being carried on there.

Dr. Pardue became dean of the University's Graduate School in July, 1948, succeeding the late W. D. Funkhouser. Under his leadership the University has participated actively in the Oak Ridge research program and has used facilities there to provide additional training for its faculty.

The Look Of Champions

Head Basketball Coach Adolph F. Rupp and Assistant Harry Lancaster have visions of championships in their eyes—and well they might! With a preponderantly sophomore quintet the Maestro and his expert assistant went to New Orleans in December and brought home the Sugar Bowl championship.

O.K. Kentucky—Let's salute the men who make the champions!

S.E.C. TOURNAMENT — — MARCH 23-4

U. K. Basketball 'Babies' Win '49 Sugar Bowl

By Fred Luigart
Sports Assistant Public Relations Dept.

With the departure of the Fabulous Four—Alex Groza, Ralph Beard, Wallace Jones and Cliff Barker—at the end of the 1948-49 season, University of Kentucky cage fans retired to their corners and prepared to paint a picture of gloom as they considered the prospects of another great world-beater in 1949-50.

Moreover, their picture was not made any brighter by the easel-work of pre-season forecasters for these authorities, too, had decided that the Kentuckians could hardly be expected to enter into the limelight during the current year.

But Coach Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's colorful basketball mentor, took brush and paint in hand and blended a masterpiece of a much rosier hue.

Although far from being completed, the present picture shows a Kentucky team composed of "green" sophomores and "pink" veterans who have racked up ten wins against three defeats in defiance of the pollsters.

Kentucky was never figured by pre-season dopesters to rate second in the nation in the AP poll or to win the Sugar Bowl cage classic. However, like President Truman, Coach Rupp proved to be still in the running from the day that the Fabulous Four graduated, and his boys are already well on the road to one of the major post-season net tournaments.

The current Kentucky quintet already has accomplished a feat which the world-famed Fabulous Four were unable to master—annex the Sugar Bowl basketball championship. Kentucky's predominately sophomore team took the measure of Villanova 57-56 in the opener that saw Sarasota, Fla., sophomore "Skippy" Whitaker connect for five points during the overtime period to provide one of the most thrilling finishes in the tournament's history. This same boy had previously pulled the DePaul game out of the fire by hitting for a crisp and charity toss in the final five seconds of play as the Cats won 49 to 47.

In the finals of the New Orleans tournament against Bradley, Kentucky conquered a team which Coach Rupp picked as best in the nation in a pre-season forecast. This marked the first time since 1937 that the Wildcats had walked away with the seemingly "hexed" Sugar Bowl trophy, although they have appeared in the invitational tournament numerous times since that year.

St. John's of Brooklyn, the nation's number one cage outfit, boasts one of three victories to date over the Bluegrass aggregation. The other two defeats were by Tennessee and Georgia. In their premier appearance at Madison Square Garden, the U.K. sophomores proved that whatever they lacked in experience they made up for in fight, regardless of the game's outcome. Kentucky pulled to within five points of the Redmen in the final few minutes of play after having trailed at halftime, 34 to 20. The final score was St. John's 69, Kentucky 58, but the contest was a fight right down to the final two minute rule.

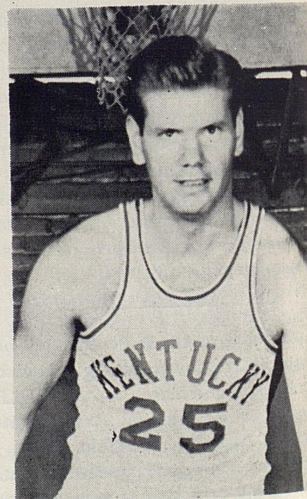

To date, Bill "Grits" Spivey, Kentucky's seven-foot sophomore center, has been tops for the Cats in the point column, sinking baskets at a pace faster in ten games, than Groza did for a similar period last year. Groza's 10-game total last season was 150 points, but "Grits" has already bettered this mark by 18 points to compile a 168 point total. Veterans Jim Line and Walt Hirsch, both forwards, are next in line in scoring.

Dale Barnstable

Skippy Whitaker

Jim Line

In Kentucky's opening game against Indiana Central, Line came within one point of breaking Groza's 38-point Southeastern Conference and Alumni Gym scoring record. Line fouled out with better than eight minutes left in the fray. Hirsch has found a starring role in rebounds and stealing the ball, and is also to be compared favorably to Cliff Barker for his ball-handling wizardry.

Three other players, Capt. Dale Barnstable, Bobby Watson, and Guy Strong, the latter two both sophomores, have played stellar roles in Kentucky's current march to glory. Watson racked up 20 points against Arkansas, 16 in the second half of play, in another Kentucky victory which was characterized by a "never say die spirit." Strong has shown amazing accuracy from far out in the court and may eventually surpass Beard as one of Kentucky's greatest set-shot artists. Capt. Barnstable, the only returning starter from last year's national champions, is not only picking up points but is also proving a steady influence and capable leader to the inexperienced Kentucky quintet.

Kentucky's lop-sided victory over Indiana Central, 84 to 61, in the opening game of the season again sent sports-minded Kentuckians into a quandary.

Sure enough, the Cats had shown surprising strength in running over the small Hoosier school, but this victory could hardly be considered a criterion for what was to come. A win over the Canadian team, Western Ontario, and their close loss to St. John's did not help crystal gazers determine what Coach Rupp had assembled.

Against DePaul, Kentucky won the game and criticism of the fans for haphazard play, but they had beaten a top-rated, veteran-laden team. Purdue was expected to take Kentucky easily, since they had won impressively over Bradley. But the Cats stacked up a large halftime margin for the Boiler-makers to overcome and then capably withstood a second half rally by Purdue to win 60-54 and startle the nation.

The Sugar Bowl tournament definitely served notice to the basketball world that Coach Rupp, the "Baron of Basketball," had again assembled a team to be reckoned with.

At Arkansas, the Wildcats were forced to overcome a two-point halftime deficit in order to win, 57-53. Victories over Mississippi State (85-55) and the University of North Carolina (83-44) followed in succession to round out the first 10 games of Kentucky's 26-game regular schedule.

Coach Rupp has come up with a team which is a far cry from the mediocre outfit which was supposed to bear the blue and white colors for the current season. His opponents, who at the beginning of the season had looked upon this year as the time when they would romp over the Wildcats and taste revenge, are now bitterly yelling "watch Kentucky."

Alumni Clubs Reach Organization Peak In '49

Alumni throughout Kentucky and the United States have "turned on" this past year, to make 1949 the greatest organization year in the Association's history.

Metropolitan clubs in key centers carried out fine activity programs and approximately 80 of the 120 counties in Kentucky either formed groups or revitalized clubs which have long been dormant.

The Alumni Association, assisted in Kentucky organization by Mr. Hambleton Tapp, assistant to University President H. L. Donovan, hopes to have the state completely organized before June 1950. Mr. Tapp, giving unstintingly of his time and efforts to this work, has made a fine contribution to the over-all program of the University and, incidentally to the work of the Alumni Association, and with the help of every individual alumnus and every organized club there is every reason to believe that this effort will result in a continuing program of mutual cooperation.

Some of the more recently reported meetings of the metropolitan clubs include those of Detroit, Atlanta, Chicago, Miami, New York, and New Orleans.

* * * DETROIT, MICH.

The Detroit Club held an annual dinner meeting Dec. 13 at 6:30 p.m. at Northwood Inn, 11½ Mile Road and Woodward Avenue. A short business meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year, following which there was a floor show and dancing.

Officers elected by the Detroit club were: T. A. Walters, president; J. E. Perkins, vice president; Richard Stites, secretary, and J. Terry Taylor, treasurer. Directors are: Henry Beam, J. W. Carson, Virginia Stein Jayne, T. W. Neblett and Nancy Bird.

* * * ATLANTA, GA.

On November 17 the Atlanta Club met in the County building at Decatur, Ga., at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of showing the Kentucky-Georgia football film and electing officers. The same officers were reelected except for the secretary, Mrs. Alan Davis, who resigned and was replaced by Miss Dorothy Donahue a 1949 graduate. The officers are: Hugh Adcock, president, Jack Kinner, vice president and Allie Mason treasurer.

When the meeting opened the club tuned in on a local sports program on which were featured two Kentucky and two Tennessee alumni to discuss the coming Ky.-Tenn. football game. Based on a question and answer procedure, the sports director declared the two Kentucky alumni winners of the "game," with a seven to 0 decision in favor of Kentucky over Tennessee. Kentucky alumni participating on the program were Gordon E. "Babe" Burns, and C. L. Templin.

* * * CHICAGO, ILL.

The Chicago Club met for luncheon at the Builders Club on November 14, and had as guest speaker Homer L. Baker of Louisville, a member of the Alumni Association's executive committee.

Twenty-five members were present for the luncheon and C. W. Gordon, '20, presided. Preston H. Williams, '13, is club president, and P. V. Keating, is club secretary.

Mr. Baker reported back to the executive committee that he met an enthusiastic and interested group in Chicago. This club meets the third Monday of every month on the 22nd, floor of the Builders Bldg., 228 N. LaSalle St.

* * * MIAMI, FLA.

A group of University alumni in Miami, Fla., entertained the team, athletic department staff and visiting alumni and Kentucky rooters at a reception at the Columbus Hotel in Miami, following the Ky.-Miami football game.

Sparkplugs of the group are Conway

Hamilton, James Dixon and Dr. Jack Rash, and the day preceding the game the alumni secretary met for lunch with these men and outlined plans for perfecting a permanent organization in Miami.

At the reception the secretary set up a registration table, and turned over the registration cards to the Miami alumni to facilitate the formation of the organization there.

* * * NEW YORK CITY

The University Alumni Club of the greater New York area, with William E. Butler at its head, held a reception for the Kentucky basketball coaches and team following the Kentucky-St. Johns game in Madison Square Garden on December 15.

Alumni in New York last spring for the N.C.A.A. tournament will recall the fine style in which the New York alumni entertain, and reports from Coach Rupp indicate that the December party was up to the club's fine standards.

* * * NEW ORLEANS, LA.

The New Orleans Club, headed by Bernard Freedman, entertained the basketball coaches and their wives, the Vice President and Mrs. Leo M. Chamberlain and Executive Secretary Helen G. King at dinner Wednesday night, Dec. 28, preceding the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament.

The party was held at the Jung Hotel and the New Orleans club presented members of the team with Christmas gifts as a token of their appreciation. Gold cuff links were given to Coaches Rupp and Lancaster, Dr. Chamberlain and team members, and the Alumni Secretary was presented with a beautiful "Listick" for addresses.

The New Orleans alumni occupied a bloc of seats at the Sugar Bowl basketball games on the two succeeding nights.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The Philadelphia Club held its final meeting of 1949 on December 7, for the purpose of electing officers and making plans for the new year.

New officers chosen were: William Lurty, president and Palmer Evans, secretary-treasurer.

Outgoing officers of the Philadelphia club are James A. Moore, president and Margaret Blackerby, secretary-treasurer.

This has been one of the many active clubs in the association during the past few years and the general association wishes them continued success under their new administration.

MIAMI, FLA. (Again!)

Kentucky's fine football team kept Miami alumni busy entertaining this fall and winter, and the climax to the winter's program came on New Year's Day, when the group sponsored an open house at the Hotel Flamingo, headquarters for the Wildcat Orange Bowl team.

Approximately 800 alumni and Kentuckians from various parts of the United States attended, and it was pronounced one of the highlights of a glamorous week-end for Kentuckians in Miami.

HOPKINS ORGANIZES

J. C. Finley was elected president of the Hopkins County unit of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association at an organization meeting held in September at the Madisonville High School.

John Casner was named vice president, and John H. Gray was elected secretary-treasurer.

president of the group, Newton W. Neel, vice president and William Sullivan named secretary-treasurer.

Dr. W. H. McAdams, '13 Wins Chemical Engineers' Award

Dr. William H. McAdams, B.S. '13, M.S. '14, D.Sc. '45, professor of chemical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was presented the William H. Walker Award for distinctive contributions to the literature of chemical engineering, at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers held Dec. 6 in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Connected with M.I.T. for 30 years, Dr. McAdams was nominated for the award by a committee of chemical engineers for his work in heat transfer. He is the third M.I.T. faculty member to win this honor. F. J. Curtis, vice president of Monsanto Chemical Company and retiring president of the professional group of chemical engineers made the presentation to Dr. McAdams, whom he cited "for his long series of authoritative publications in the field of heat transmission."

Doctor McAdams also delivered the First Institute Lecture at the 42nd annual meeting of the Institute, discussing the fundamentals of the various types of heat transfer.

Death Claims Dr. F. E. Tuttle; Was Chemistry Head 28 Years

Dr. Franklin E. Tuttle, 85, professor emeritus of chemistry and for 28 years head of the University of Kentucky chemistry department, died at the Good Samaritan hospital in Lexington January 7.

He had been in failing health for several weeks and under treatment at the hospital since Dec. 20.

He was graduated with an A.B. degree from Amherst College in 1889 and received his doctor of philosophy degree from Gottingen University, Germany, in 1893. He came to Kentucky in 1906 from Pennsylvania State College. Dr. Tuttle was one of the founders, many times chairman and councilor of the Lexington branch, American Chemical Society, oldest organization in continuous existence at the University. The society's affiliate student chapter was named in his honor.

He brought national recognition to his department and to himself through the execution of his regular duties and important laboratory developments and in the writing of various papers in his field. He recently had done research on the concretions of Chamberlain clays in the Connecticut Valley, had made extensive studies in crystallography and had developed important laboratory apparatus, the most widely used being the Tuttle burette holder. He also had done extensive investigation of oils from native Kentucky seeds.

When E. V. Murphree, Kentucky graduate, former student of Professor Tuttle and president of the Standard Oil Development Company was presented the Perkin Medal for outstanding work in applied chemistry on January 6, Prof. W. K. Lewis of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology introduced him.

In presenting Mr. Murphree to the assembly he said: "Sixty years ago there were on the campus of Penn State under that great teacher, Pond, two young instructors in chemistry, F. E. Tuttle and W. H. Walker. In time the first went to the University of Kentucky and the second to M.I.T. Because of the friendship dating from Penn State days, they kept in close touch and Tuttle sent many men to the Institute for graduate work. One day in 1922 a letter came to the Institute from Dr. Tuttle about a student of his, Eger Vaughan Murphree. Because of the prestige of Tuttle's recommendation, Murphree was immediately offered a job which brought him to the Institute's Research Laboratory of Applied Chemistry."

Active in numerous professional, honorary and social organizations, Dr. Tuttle was a member of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd and had served as vestryman, senior warden and choir director.

He was married to the former Clara Reynolds Palmer on Dec. 27, 1893 and the couple had just celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary. Besides his wife he is survived by his daughter, Margaret, a member of the University library staff; a son, Frank W. Tuttle, Gainesville, Fla., and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held January 10 at the Church of the Good Shepherd and burial followed in the Lexington cemetery.

Louis T. Iglehart, '40, formerly of Hopkinsville and until recently editor of the Campbellsville News-Journal, has joined the Department of Public Relations staff at the University of Tennessee.

Resolutions Passed On Death Of Frankel

December 5, 1949

Leon Kaufman Frankel, a graduate of Kentucky A & M College in 1900, past president of the Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky, and for many years an active member of the Board of Directors of the Association, died at Holmes Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio, on Sunday, November 27, 1949. Funeral services were held at W. R. Milward Mortuary Chapel, Rabbi Sidney Ballou of Adath Israel Temple and Rabbi Joseph Rauch of Louisville officiating. Burial took place in the Lexington Cemetery. Mr. Frankel is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ora Slaughter Frankel; a son, James S.; his mother, Mrs. Gus Frankel, of Louisville; two sisters, Mrs. Daisy F. Klein, of Louisville, and Mrs. Edith F. Daniels, of Chattanooga; and four brothers, Gilbert Frankel of Washington, D.C., and Harry M. Nathan, and Raymond Frankel, all of Louisville.

"L. K." attended the October dinner meeting of the Executive Board, reported for his Finance Committee, and gave some valuable suggestions. That was probably the last time many of us saw him as his illness developed soon after and he was first taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington and later to Holmes Hospital.

During the more than fifty years of his citizenship in Lexington as student, teacher, architect, and churchman, he came as near attaining the all high in qualifications as any resident of the Blue Grass ever did. This accomplishment was due in great part to his sincerity, Sincerity and steadfastness were key-notes of his life. More than was asked and much more than was needed, he gave, and he sought nothing for himself that was not his just return.

Always immaculate in his attire and personal appearance, he was cordial in his manner and although a twinkle in his eyes, a guarded smile, and a slight flush showed his jovial characteristics, he was at all times keenly alert. When asked for an opinion, he gave his associates a confidence which few could

E. V. Murphree, '20, Honored By Chemical Industry Group

E. V. Murphree, B.S. '20, M.S. '21, D.Sc., '49, native of Louisville and currently president of the Standard Oil Development Company with offices in New York City, was honored by the American section of the Society of Chemical Industry on January 6 when he was presented the Perkin Medal for 1950 for outstanding work in applied chemistry.

Probably the most coveted award in the chemical industry today, the medal comes to the Kentucky alumnus as a highly deserved reward for outstanding achievement in his field.

Mr. Murphree was called back to his alma mater last June to receive the honorary Doctor of Science degree.

inspire. His readiness on important matters was an assurance that he was not a "Yes man" given to dodging issues but on the contrary that he could and would back an opinion, a cause or a person to the end. Likewise he stood strongly against the many escape methods and innuendoes so commonly resorted to.

The completely filled life of L. K. Frankel was an inspiration. His home was a sanctuary where devotion was shared and loved ones and friends were welcomed. He was gracious and sociable and enjoyed many forms of entertainment including travel and sports.

This sketch is inadequate in many ways but those of us who had the privilege of his friendship for a half century, know that day in and out he was a real man.

Therefore, be it resolved that this expression be written in the minutes of the December meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the University Alumni Association and that a copy be sent to each member of Mr. Frankel's family and published in the February edition of the Alumnus.

Young Alumnus Successful In Indiana Coaching Field

By Helen G. King

Langan Hay, '35, is a young Kentucky athlete who has taken his coaching abilities to the New Castle, Ind., high school and turned out a fine record and a number of winning teams.

He went to the Indiana school in 1944 as teacher and assistant football coach, and early in 1947 was named head coach. That year his team won three games, lost six and tied one. From then on, things began to hum.

His team record for the last two years is 16 wins, one tie and one loss, and that, in anybody's book, is a top record. The 1948 team was undefeated.

Besides his football coaching job he has coached boxing and has used these two sports to turn out a fine array of young men. He has also done an outstanding job as a school man and civic leader.

In 1948 Mr. Hay was awarded the J. Brandon Griffis Medal for "the manner in which he handled his fighters" during the Perfect Circle Golden Gloves tournament at Hagerstown, Ind., a medal coveted by all boxing instructors in that area.

Recently, they have put Langan to coaching the golf team, and in addition he serves as city recreational director. In 1948 he won the Optimist Club and Knights of Pythias "Outstanding Youth Leadership Trophy," the award going annually to the person contributing most to the youth movement in the community.

While a student at the University Langan played fullback on the varsity in '33, '34 and '35. He was champion wrestler of his weight class for three years and never lost a match in his weight class during his four years in college. He was also a member of the swimming and track teams.

Mr. Hay is married and has two children.

The nominee appointed by the governor will replace T. H. Cutler, '03, of Frankfort, whose term expired December 31, 1949.

Excerpt From BILL LADD'S ALMANAC (Louisville Courier-Journal, Nov. 23, 1949)

The world is a rather lonely place this morning, for Henry A. Taylor of Henderson has left it.

If the measure of a man's success is the number of his friends, then Henry was the most successful of men. His never-failing good humor was with him to the end, through a lot of pain.

His friends will find nothing incongruous in sending a donation to the American Cancer Society, Cancer Clinic, Methodist Hospital, Henderson, instead of flowers to adorn his grave. You know that's the way Henry would have wanted it.

And I'm sure Henry would have wanted me to remind you that if you have already sent flowers, or weren't going to send flowers, send a little money to the cancer clinic anyway.

It might help to lick the scourge and save other men like Henry.

Only, I'm afraid, there are none.
