Chicago Leading The Way

TO ROBERT MAYNARD HUTCHINS and his University of Chicago associates, education is a living, pulsating thing, which needs constant experimentation in order that its efficiency be intensified, its effectiveness strengthened, its confines and definitions consistently broadened.

Friends of higher learning, therefore, are looking with some optimism toward the University of Chicago as one of the first tenets of its new plan as it goes into effect. In September, what heretofore has been pure theory will become actual practice.

The plan itself will be an attempt to tie up more closely the gap between the high school and the university or college. Under it, it is hoped that by combining the last two years of high school and the first two years of college, this long and disjointed step will be materially articulated.

This is just the first of what Doctor Hutchins promises for education. If there were more Hutchins in the educational world we could feel more optimistic for the future of American higher learning and culture.

Need For CCC Is Shown

IT IS HOPED THAT CONGRESS will react favorably toward the bill now before it, purporting to continue the program of the Civilian Conservation Corps. To stop the service of this national body would be to turn deaf ear to the interests of present and future generations and defer our nation-wide development.

The Civilian Conservation Corps, generally spoken of as C.C.C., was organized in 1933 for the purpose of providing employment. Its vision was to meet the needs of unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 25 for material and spiritual sustenance.

Each year an average of two hundred million young trees have been planted covering an area of more than 200,000 acres. This planting has been of multiple value. Aside from conservation it has served as an erosion check, a means of flood control, and a protection for water sheds.

Annual loss from forest fires is estimated at $53,000,000, and the burning over of forty-one million acres of land. CCC has made possible enormous fire control work. Three thousand fire lookout stations have been erected near dangerous sections. In 1936 a total of 800,000 work days had been spent in fighting forest fires. Seven million acres of timber was saved.

Not only have programs of conservation, reforestation, and fire control been organized; there is the presence of scientific effort to improve quality of timber tracks, rate of growth, and composition. Silviculturists say that treatment of both pine and hardwood forests will increase the timber value 250 per cent.

CCC's value to the nation does not end here: many camp units are engaged in rodent control, centering their efforts on grazing lands rented out by United States Forest Service. These rodents, consisting of moles, ground squirrels, and other burrowing creatures, make thousands of acres of grazing land worthless.

Remote sections of the country have witnessed the building of 87,000 miles of much needed roads and truck trails; the erection of nearly 50,000 miles of telephone lines; the beautification of highways, topographical improvement of thousands of camp sites, and among many other things the building of substantial bridges and "short cuts" in rural districts. Apart from its contribution to the economic wealth of the country, CCC has turned hundreds of thousands of semi-criminal hitchhikers into self-reliant, resourceful, ambitious, and industrious young men of America. It has taught these young men initiative. It has given them confidence in themselves. It has inevitably increased the moral standards of future generations.

Need for CCC as a means of employment has passed, but the forcefulness with which it has demonstrated its service to America has made it difficult to conceive how the nation could afford to dispense with it. May Congress find that conception too difficult to entertain!

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—Oh, yes, hurry, look, it's Gypsy Rose Lee!

The Campus Powerhouse—Because three freshmen (all trying to be popular) fell in "love" with him and six other dolts last September, the C. P. is bloated with a sense of irresistible Casanovism.

Under that new tutoring the Independent combine, with Miss Farmer as its lonely candidate, was forced to denounce its victim chances for they were coerced to vote for six among whom would be at least four of the hated enemy.

For he it from us to be angeli but May Queen balloting should be under law and order. The student council, an organization fat with political intrigue, should speed up rules governing this thing for the future.

Scrap Iron By HARRY WILLIAMS Just because May is here and the semester is drawing rapidly to a close is no reason for creditors and tradespeople to come haggling at your very doorstep.

The article that appeared in last month's College Humor entitled "Girls Are Bun Sports" has caused us a good deal of argument on the campus. We heard it being re-bashed in the Commons the other day: two Tri-Delts were doing their best to out-point an SAE. The female of the species seemed to be getting the worst of things and finally one of them said, "It's a silly question anyway, let's quit talking about it." Does this prove anything?

Overheard in the Kernel news room: "Well I think they should convict him, look at the headline you could write, THE GENERAL DIES AT DAWN."

Well done, thou good and faithful servant, the high school students were favorably impressed. We saw a group of the yearlings staring open-mouthed at the regimental parade. We also saw a group of them horizontally open-mouthed in the Canary Cottage. Oh, they got the idea of college life all right!

The Independent Combine's proposed coup d'etat fell through. They decided to meet the Fraternity organization on an equal basis. We all know that both groups are noted for their clean-cut tactics and open-above-board coercion.

The May Day floats are to make their debut next Friday. They will be judged by faculty members and down-town business men according to their originality and humorosity. We wonder if their sense of humor is as well developed as the float-makers? The ATCo's will remember last year!

And as for SuKy's "name band," it might just as well have had a number. We have never heard of it, have you?

This Campus and That World By RALPH E. JOHNSON

TODAY I am happy all over again! Herewith I shall print my reasons for being happy—a letter from one who chooses to be known as "R. M. R." but who actually is Robert M. Rankin, of Dayton, Ky. I elect to divulge his name because there will be ever so many of the "201" who will wish to congratulate this gentleman on his literary effort. I also choose to publicize his name because any one who takes it upon himself to send a letter to the editor blasting away at me in an attempt to whither me into oblivion must come out in the open to do so.

Now I could go through that letter and point out numerous biased and egotistical statements such as the one that every member in Lances is outstanding on the campus, but I won't, for this audience is quite capable of doing its own thinking.

This letter was addressed to the editor, who very graciously turned the missive, or shall we say mislie, (just to be funny—hal ha!) over to me. Attached to the letter was a note which requested, "Could this letter go in just as it is written, just for the hell of it? If you can't print it without harshness and not only that, but everyone of the boys in the fraternity are outstanding on the campus. In fact, dear Mr. Johnson might not have even got a bid to the dance or had any dance to go to if these 'social parasites,' as he calls them, had not helped get the dance up. And another thing, he wanted to do away with all the ceremony, well there were quite a few there—especially those who had not attended the dances regularly that enjoyed the ceremonies. If you want to do away with all the ceremony, then Mr. Johnson, why don't you take a correspondence course and not go to affections and become linked with the Kappa Alpha look. To these new heartshippers, this column gives a canonade of congratulations. . . . For your haberdashery edification don't forget the Blue Mash, Esquire Style Show which will be presented at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in Memorial Hall. No entrance tariff, free entertainment and Free CIGARETTES. Men only! . . .

The Dice Of the People By GEORGE KERLER

When the quintessence of brains and the young muscled of the land (college students) can't run off an election with dispatch and efficiency the common people must have all kinds of trouble electing a county clerk.

We were not alarmed over Friday's postponement. Such short-comings have been in evidence all year. Yet we are inclined to disagree with chief Leba, who says that the decision which called for the abandonment of precedence and for each voter to check six names. Princes we were electing a May Queen, not a queen and five accomplices.

Under that new tutoring the Independent combine, with Miss Farmer as its lonely candidate, was forced to denounce its victim chances for they were coerced to vote for six among whom would be at least four of the hated enemy.

For he it from us to be angeli but May Queen balloting should be under law and order. The student council, an organization fat with political intrigue, should speed up rules governing this thing for the future.

Thousands of poems are written each year by Dr. Arthur B. Crosier, professor of accountancy and secretarial work at the University of Mississippi. Since last September, he has composed 1,500 pieces of rhyme—but not without reason, we hope!

Elementary Schools Will Open Festival

Approximately 800 city elementary school children will participate in the annual elementary school music festival program at 8 p. m. tonight in Alumni gym. The program is intended to show a variety of music which is carried on in the schools.

Outstanding events included will be presentations by a fifth and sixth grade chorus of 600 children, a second grade chorus of 200 children, the all-city elementary school orchestra, the all-city elementary school band, the harmonica band, the saxette band, and a rhythm band from the first grade of Miss Irma Bishop at Ashland school.

Under the direction of Paul W. Mathews, supervisor of music of the city schools, Mrs. Charles E. Skinner, Miss Cemira Howard, and Clare E. Grundman, the festival is made possible through the cooperation of the principals and teachers of all the schools.

Two former campus idols roared into town Saturday. Joe Quinn and Jack Crain greeted more people and unwillingly tossed down more solutions offered by flattering crowds than an average man could withstand.

Quinn was embraced by the athletic department, chiefly Stan Nevers whose publicity volumes have been unwound since the Quinn Era. Joe works on the Cincy Post at an enviable salary for a rookie just starting up the ladder.

Hill-billy Crain signaled his arriving at the dance by spraying breakfast beauty Opa and his friends with the mountain-minny, hung her to the ceiling, caught her, and riveted a kid that melted the surrounding acres of wax floor.

The love bug was rampant last week. Five couples succumbed to the wonderousness of romance. Phi Tau Bobby Coleman, a pre-possid and saxophonist, has lung his fraternity label on Alfagam Mary Helen Barrett.

college any more—it might do away with all the trouble of college tuition and not interfere with your education so much. "You say social parasites eh, well this campus must be in a bad way then as nearly everything on it is run by, what you call, social parasites, in fact your immediate boss, the managing editor of the Kernel, was the outstanding social parasite in the Lances pledging.

"Even at that I think I'd rather be called a social parasite than a sour grape artist." The only remedy to such a case as yours, that I can see, is for you to quit writing This Campus and That World, and instead leave This Campus and join the Lances pledging.

"You will probably, wither this feeble retort with a deluge of your fine intellectual terms, but even at that I hope I'm better off than you, for I have your intellect, or should I say, sophisticated manner.

"Sincerely yours, "R. M. R." (one of the many social parasites.) "P. S. Pardon another suggestion, but why don't you read Dale Carnegie's book on "How to Win Friends and Influence People" or is Carnegie to be criticized too?"

KENTUCKY'S undefeated track team turned in another victory Saturday afternoon at the expense of Coach Blair Gullion's thimble from the University of Tennessee. The Volunteer cinder artists, striving for a revenge victory, to offset the defeat of Tennessee's basketballers in the Southeastern conference tourney by the Wildcats, failed to take Coach Striplin's men in town, but certainly pushed them in several events. Ralph Carlisle, Wildcat broad jumper, exceeded his previous meet tallies and soared over 22 feet in the broad jump event, to outdistance Tennessee's George Hunter, who jumped 21 feet 7 inches. Hunter, who also serves as a star on the Volunteer eleven, is a Kentucky boy, one half from Somerset. Tennessee took the mile relay, with Pick, star anchor man, breaking the tape far in advance of Kentucky's Hillard.

GOLFERS LOSE THIRD AWAY FROM HOME TILT TO DAYTON BY 15 POINTS

The Wildcat golf team lost their third out of town game of the season when they bowed to the crack Dayton University foursome, 16 1/2 to 14, in a match played Saturday afternoon in Dayton, Ohio.

Though the loss was not a surprise, the Kentucky boys had expected to give a much better showing than they did. The Dayton school has one of the best inter-collegiate golf teams in the country and has not been defeated by a Kentucky team since the two schools have been meeting on the links.

Jack Mohney, playing number one match for the Cats, garnered one point when he defeated his opponent on the first nine. The other 15 point was gained by him and Captain Robert Thaxton playing as partners in one of the foursome matches.
