

Nov. 26. 1912

ROCKDALE, ORWELL ROAD, RATHGAR.
Dublin

Dear Sir,

Thank you for allowing me to see the note of Pedro Gamba. The date is undoubtedly - as the post-mark shows - 1824. At that time - Nov. 1824 - Mrs. Shelley was living at Kentish Town as letters of hers show, and this note of Gamba's is - I think certainly - addressed to Mrs. Shelley. I think I can see through the covering paper 'Mrs' before "Shelley" on the address.

I congratulate you on the very interesting find of letters which you mention. I hope if they deserve publication that you will put them in print. The New York Nation

might be glad to give them a place in its columns.

Again cordially thanking you I am

Very truly yours

Edward Dowden.

Charles A. Herpeth Esq.

DOWDEN, EDWARD (1843-1913). Author. Dublin.

A.L.S. to Charles A. Herpiete[?][26 Nov.1912.
2p. (double sheet, octavo.) With embossed address of Rockdale, Orwell Road, Rathgar.

He is glad to see the note of Pietro Gamba,
and feels sure it was written to Mrs. Shelley in 1824. The find of letters sounds very interesting, and he suggests that the New York Nation might be interested in published some of them.

9271

Nov. 26, 1912
Dublin

Dear Sir,

Thank you for allowing me to see the note of Pietro Gamba. The date is undoubtedly - as the postmark shows - 1824. At that time - Nov. 1824 - Mrs. Shelley was living at Kentish Town, as letters of hers show, and this note of Gamba's is - I think certainly - addressed to Mrs. Shelley. I think I can see through the covering paper 'Mrs' before "Shelley" on the address.

I congratulate you on the very interesting find of letters which you mention. I hope if they deserve publication that you will put them in print. The New York Nation might be glad to give them a place in its columns. Again cordially thanking you I am

Very truly yours

Edward Dowden.

Charles A. Herpiete [?] Esq.