

Oxford University Press Warehouse,
Amen Corner, London, E.C.

Oct. 31 1887

Reverend Sir

I am sorry I should have asked for an expression of opinion on our Oxford Bible for Teachers, and shall esteem it a great favour if you will be so kind as to accept the specimens which were sent, without troubling to examine them critically or saying anything about them.

The Oxford and Cambridge Presses are just now doing their utmost to bring the Revised Version prominently before the public, and have recently issued cheap editions in strong school bindings at prices ranging (for the New Testament) from 6<sup>s</sup> upwards. We believe that if the Version could be largely adopted in Sunday and Day Schools the rising generation would soon become aware of its immense superiority. It would greatly help us in our effort to bring this about if those in high places who are in favour of its adoption, would speak out plainly on the subject. We are very thankful for your papers in the Expositor.

I am, Reverend Sir,
Yours faithfully
H. Browde

The Reverend
Canon Westcott