

(Brussels)

29. DELAMERE TERRACE,
WESTBOURNE SQUARE. W.

London

March 13. 1890

Dear S. Westcott

May I be permitted to say how greatly I am rejoiced by the news which reaches me here, - quaintly travestied by a Belgian newspaper? To all those who love Cambridge it must be delightful that there should be this succession of Cambridge prelates, and to all those who in ever so small a degree have enjoyed the privilege of your acquaintance and the deep stimulus of your writings, it must be pleasant indeed to see this public recognition of the good that you have done.

We must all now be anxiously hoping that your physical strength may not be too severely tried at first by these new duties.

Pray forgive me for troubling you with these lines, and believe me to be

Dear Sir Westcott

Very sincerely yours

Edmund Gosse.

The Rev. Professor Westcott D.D.

at St. W.