My dear Sir

My movements are now so extremely uncertain that I really cannot fix a time to dine with
you. I have a household of company at home and I am detained here by business which requires Henry Ricknell Esq.

me to keep myself entirely disengaged. It is possible I may get away to Dublin tomorrow for a day or two, and when I return I cannot tell in the least what my movements
may be. I must therefore,
much against my will postpone my visit to you

you hear till the spring when I hope
I may have more time
on my hands

Yours faithfully

Joseph Sartow
