My dear Agatha

I am very sorry not to answer your letters - but am compelled to give up all teaching by letter now. I nearly all my former duties a pleasure,
- I have now, ^{many} more serious - of the first - and scarcely any remains of the last.

The Lucca drawings, as been safe - I meant to have looked over the parcel of your own - with all Shields', which are excellent for their purpose -
- but can only now return them with thanks - All is going on as well as can be -
- with sincere remembrance to Miss Bell, believe me affectionately yours. Bunker

"My dear Agatha,—I am very sorry not to answer your letters but am compelled to give up all teaching by letter now. I . . . all my former duties and pleasures,—I have now many more serious of the first — and scarcely any remaining of the last. The Lucea drawings are here safe. I meant to have looked over the parcel of your own—with W. Shield's, which are excellent for their purpose, but can now only return them with thanks. All is going on as well as can be. With sincere remembrances to Miss Bell, believe me affectionately yours."
