Dear Mr Wicken,

Do you think you could sell the enclosed two short articles to one or other of the dailies or evenings? I had the notions for them during the Christmas holidays, and have written them for fun. But if they can be sold, so much the better. I do not know whether you would think them worth offering to 'The Daily News'; but my own feeling is that some other paper would be more likely to use them quickly--and one of these, 'Our Exemplary Novelists'-- is rather immediately topical, as it is a reply to something said last week by Sir Arthur Keith.

Happy New Year to you.

Yours sincerely,

Frank Swinerton

F. C. Wicken, Esq.

I have written to the 'Daily News' man, offering to go and see him on the 10th Jan, to discuss possible subjects. That is why I think perhaps some other paper or papers would do better.
