Miss Emily R. Ingers

Andover.

The check is torn — but is just as good though not so beautiful. Andover, No. 11 in another. Yesterday.

My dear Miss Emily:

I enclose
check for the frame.
Are there any other things for which I owe you?
I should like the box,
or whatever, if it is worth anything to move the pictures, and will sometime send for it.

Will you kindly send me the hair and photograph?

like, were the one letter changes.

But with the change before for your pictures which I have, and in the interest with which I shall watch it ~~as it~~ there will always be a touch of the personal gratifiers which we must feel ~~always~~ broadly the individuality which has so thoroughly studied and treated that belongs to our own time.

I am most sincerely yours
E. J. Phelps.

I would call, but I cannot; I am still in the hands of so many nurses and doctors that there is no time left to do anything; or nerve to do it.

I like the portrait better and better.

To-day I caught the flesh in the eye, which was the thing I thought you had forgotten - could not

- got without seeing the original.

I was very sorry to hear that you were a little disturbed that you took other work that so long delayed this; at least my disapprobation was strong.

But I am too much gratified with the picture to encounter any more the error "of the style. And it would be impossible for the portrait to any one who had brought so much comfort to me
