My Lord

Having just had the honor of an interview with the King, I have received the commands of His Majesty to write to your Lordship to inform you that the Portrait of the Late King being ready to be sent agreeable to the purpose for which it was painted, to the Palace of Holywood House. His Majesty requests that your Lordship will consider, what arrangement may be necessary for its reception and will state to whom care it should be sent, when by His Majesty's command I shall be ready to send it accordingly.

I have the honor to be

My Lord

Your most obliged & faithful servant

David Wilkie

The Right Hon^{ble}
Lord Melville

Please address him at Kensington, and excuse the humble individual who addresses you through from so high a quarter.
