

My dear Sir

I shall with much pleasure dine with you
on Thursday.

Your father I have ever regarded with admiration, & affection; & lately that I

be to look again
on his venerable head.

If I have not had

happily, be pleased

to let him know
that my heart is troubled with the right emotions toward the wages who first told me why I looked with such love
on the material world,
how spiritual was
that love, and

how it might be preserved & perfected.
I am
Yours respectfully
John Wilson
