

CARR, Sir JOHN, a writer of travels, was born in Devonshire 1772, and practised as an attorney in the Middle Temple, London. He received the honour of knighthood from the lord-lieutenant of Ireland about 1805, and died 17 July, 1832. He published 'Fury of Discord,' a poem; 'The Stranger in France;' 'Tour from Devonshire to Paris;' 'The Sea-side Hero,' a drama; 'A Northern Summer, or Travels round the Baltic, through Denmark, Sweden, Russia, part of Poland, and Prussia;' 'The Stranger in Ireland,' which gave rise to an excellent jeu d'esprit, entitled, 'My Pocket Book,' by Edward Dubois; 'Caledonian Sketches;' 'Descriptive Travels in the Southern and Eastern parts of Spain and the Balearic Isles;' and a volume of Poems.

Ms. D. Gaskell

See Mrs. Gaskell
1772-1832
Part
manuscript

MS. D. 1

Dear Madam

I was yesterday with the friend of mine she was informed of the confidence & affection of the Princess Charlotte, from early to the closing period of her life. She has a large collection of her letters, but I could not squeeze from her, even an envelope —
She said she had opened her nearest friend Walter, such was her devotion to that disappointed, young royal personage.

Lady Elizabeth Weston gave me the entire specimen of the hand writing of the King's sister, in an envelope to her father, but I cannot obtain any more of MS. I have enclosed with my kind friend

Mrs Rose, the widow of the admiral died, to show Joseph the good was so much attached, to show in address several letters which appeared in May's life of Pitt Chaplin, & wonderful man. I hope this will please you. With kindest regards to Mr Justice I remain

30 Dec 1796
New York N.

Dear Madam
Very faith^l Yours
Harr