My Dear Senior

I am writing a book to be called "The Lives of the Chancellors" which will soon come out. Murray my publisher has suggested to me the importance of having it ably reviewed - and mentioned
to me your name
as the fittest man

LORD CAMPBELL

author of
Series of the Chancellor

in the literary world to undertake it.

Now I do not know whether you would like to have any thing to do with it - although enjoying and exercising the most unbounded
freedom to censure
or to praise.

But if you will consent to look at the work and then consider whether you

would condescend to review it I will send you the two volumes that are printed.

There are to be 3 volumes in the first series coming down to 1888.

The whole will soon be printed off, but the publication is to be deferred till about

The work proposes to combine History & Jurisprudence with both of which you are so familiar.

I remain
yours truly
Campbell
