My Dear Sir,

Do you intend to have any articles or Books, in their material aspect? I mean, on such matters as style of writing, miniature etc, and the form & material of the Christian book of our period. The Art portion of the Dictionary has dropped into my hands by Jones's default, and I thought of taking in the subject of books in the manner that I have described; but it occurred to me, that if you were treating the Res Diplomatica, I might very likely be crossing your path.

I do not know whether you take any interest in the election of a Minor Canon at Peterborough.
If you do, I should like to recommend to your favourable consideration a man named Parker, who has been an extremely good curate for some years to a friend of mine at Hitchin.

He intones well, and I understand from persons more competent to judge than I am, that he is a ~~good musician~~ has sufficient knowledge of Church Music; and he is a hearty, pleasant fellow: rather high in his tendencies, but not extravagant.

I remain,

Very Dear Sir,

Yours very faithfully
S. Cheetham
