Dear Barbara

It was so kind of you to ask me to lunch ten days ago.
I was not well enough to write, but I hope my servant told you I was ill.

Victoria and I are both still laid up with in-fluenza, as we have been for nearly a fortnight. When we are in a normal con-dition I will write again and suggest a meeting.

We were rather lucky to have just got in here before we fell ill, but the workmen were still in the house, making a tremendous noise, and making the whole place reek with paint and bad tobacco: so we were not very happy!

I think this little house will be pretty some day. at present it is chaos.

I hope you and W. Sothely are well, and that 1920 will be kind to you both

In aff^r

many A. Mondley.
