Broadstairs

Sunday 29th at Oct. 4th /40.

My dear Sir

I send you my paper, in case you should not have seen one. I should have sent you at the same time yesterday's copy, but not knowing where you may have left off, feared to bore you with it on the chance.

Further of these 'shoneds'. I should have come to see you to day, but I have been troubled with a raging fever, and being out for a few minutes was visited by certain admonitory symptoms which sent me home again, faster than I came out.

I am always my dear Sir

Heartly yours

W. W. W. W.
