This is just a reminder that we discussed with Russell Harris the possibility of giving him a raise in salary after a three months' trial period. That period is up today.

It is my firm conviction that Russell has done a very good job and, will in the future, make us one of our best foremen. The manner in which he has taken over his job has been very effective and he seems to like his work. He is willing, able and cooperative.

You and I also discussed the possibility of giving V. B. King, Supply Clerk, a small raise when he was put on this job full time.

Volley is doing a good job and by putting him on full time, it permits both Russell and me to be out of the office at the same time.

I am sure that your decision will be fair and in the best interest to the Company.
