

Student Gambling Condemned By SGA

Teacher Rating, Dance Discussed At Meeting Monday

A resolution condemning gambling, and especially football parlay cards, will soon be circulated on campus by the Student Government Association. At last Monday's meeting of the assembly voted to have a resolution presented at the next meeting. Members of SGA expressed the hope that such a resolution would curb gambling by students, and keep money from the hands of hangers-on. Representative Jim Thompson said, "If the members don't have large sums of money, they won't be able to fix games. If we persuade students to stop gambling, that will at least be one step in the right direction."

ONE OF THESE CHARMING COEDS will be crowned Kentuckian queen at the Lamp and Cross beauty, Nov. 16. The seven finalists will be chosen Monday night at Memorial Hall. Selection is based on beauty, poise, and naturalness.

Kentuckian Queen To Be Picked At Memorial Hall Monday Night

Winners of the Kentuckian Queen contest will be chosen at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Memorial Hall. Seven finalists will be announced there, but the Queen's identity will remain secret until the Kentuckian Queen dance Saturday night. The only judge announced to compete for the honor. The Regional Conference will be held Saturday night in the SUB Ballroom. Johnny Heaton's Blue and White orchestra will play from 8:30 until 12:30. Tickets for the dance are $1.50 for couples or single. Dean Holmes has given late permissions to sorority and dormitory girls. The Queen and her six attendants will be presented during intermission. In addition to receiving a crown, the Queen will also be given a trophy. Lamp and Cross Sponsors Dance Lamp and Cross, a senior men's fraternity, sponsors the annual dance. Any money taken in excess of expenses is given to the Kentuckian. Due to the low cost of the dance, however, profits in the past have been quite small. Jack Ballantine, president of Lamp and Cross, announced that tables will be reserved for fraternities and chairmen will report the number of tickets bought by their group and tables will be assigned on a basis of five tickets per table. Sororities and independent groups may reserve tables the same way, by notifying Ballantine that they want a specified number of tickets. Ballantine said that if a large number of tickets are sold, a readjustment of the ratio of tickets per table might have to be made. Candidates Listed Candidates for Queen and their sponsors are Barbara Musser, Alpha Delta Phi; Jane Daussman, Alpha Gamma Delta; Carmen Pyle, Chi Omega; Madeline McMillan, Delta Zeta; Barbara Baldwin, Delta Delta Delta; Sue Newell, Kappa Alpha Theta; Rosemary Tully, Kappa Delta; Betty Carol Fryman, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Jane Johnson, Alpha Xi Delta; Sonia Stone, Alpha Phi; and Catherine Campbell, Zeta Tau Alpha. Jean Whitworth, Dillard House; Mary Louise Carroll, Pat Hall; Fayeta Bewick, Hamilton House; Myrna Montgomery, Boyd Hall; Alice Parr, McDowell House; Ingrid Paul, University House; Lydia Brown, and Doris Morgan, representing Women Off Campus.

Miami Game Saturday With Climax Weekend Homecoming Events

Pep Rally Will Start On I-M Field

Homecoming events will get underway tonight with a torchlight parade and pep rally set for 7:30 p.m. on the intramural field.

The parade, led by the band, cheerleaders, and a fire truck, will meet at the intersection of Lane to Main Street. Torches will be given to the paraders at the railroad track. The parade will then continue to the hotel where the Miami team is staying. Cheerleaders will conduct a program here.

The parade will return to the UK intramural field by way of the Varsity Building dedication banquet in the SUB. This banquet is also part of the homecoming celebration. Don Whitehead, AP Pulitzer Prize winner and former UK student, will be the speaker. The banquet is at 6 p.m.

Special guests of the pep rally will be the persons attending the Journalism Building dedication banquet in the SUB. This banquet is also part of the homecoming celebration. Don Whitehead, AP Pulitzer Prize winner and former UK student, will be the speaker. The banquet is at 6 p.m.

Judging Contest Tomorrow Saturday, the sorority, fraternity, and student organizations will compete in the SUB. This contest is also part of the homecoming celebration.

BSU Planning State Meet In Lexington A state-wide Baptist Student Union Convention is being planned in Lexington for the weekend of Nov. 9, 10, and 11. Highlights of the program will include addresses by missionaries, speakers from Baptist groups in this locality, and reports from church representatives. The Georgetown BSU Choir will provide the musical part of the program.

The convention will begin Friday evening with William Hall Preston, of Nashville, Tenn., giving the opening address. The following morning simultaneous conferences will be directed by the youth leaders.

Saturday afternoon an important part of the program will be the election of officers. A special workshop service is scheduled Saturday night. Dr. J. W. Marshall, president of Wayland College, Plainview, Texas, is in charge of the Sunday morning program. His message will close the three-day convention.

Other speakers and leaders attending the convention will be Miss Billie Russell, of Nashville; Dr. H. C. Chiles, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Murray; Dr. H. Leo Edleman, pastor of Parkland Baptist Church, Louisville; Dr. L. C. Ray, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church, Louisville; Dr. V. C. Kruschwitz, pastor of St. Matthews Baptist Church, Louisville; and Dr. E. N. Wilkinson, Immanuel Baptist Church, the Rev. O'Ray Weeks, Porter Memorial Baptist Church; and Dr. F. Russell Purdy, Calvary Baptist Church.

At tonight's banquet, President H. L. Donovan will be presented with a master key to the new building by James S. Shropshire, a UK Journalism graduate, who will represent Journalism students and publications workers on student publications with many newspapers from the area.

DON WHITEHEAD To speak at dedication

More than 500 persons are expected to attend the dedication banquet at the Journalism Building at 6 o'clock this evening in the SUB Ballroom, according to Mrs. Winifred Leathers, secretary of the School of Journalism.

Three former Kernel staff members will be featured on the program. Don Whitehead, 1951 Pulitzer Prize winner and former Kernel staff writer, will be the principal speaker. Senator Thomas Underwood will act as toastmaster and ex-Governor Ken Johnson will introduce Whitehead. Underwood was sports editor of the Kernel and Johnson was a reporter.

Journalism graduates and former workers on student publications will be the hand for the dedication, along with many newspapers from the area.

The alumni and active chapters of Theta Sigma Phi, Women's Journalism honorary, and members of the Henry Waterson Press Club have been assisting in making plans for the open house and the banquet. Whitehead attended the University before working with his brother on newspapers in LaFollette, Tenn., and Harlan. He was one of six recipients of Pulitzer Prize awards for reporting of international affairs.

Dr. Snow Selected 'Professor Of Year'

Dr. Charles E. Snow of the Department of Anthropology has been named the Distinguished Professor of 1951 by the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Snow is the eighth member of the College to receive this award since its inauguration in 1944. He was on a leave of absence when the announcement was made last week by Dr. Irwin T. Sanders, chairman of the election committee. The winner of the title is in the field directing an archaeological survey at the Bernice P. Bishop Museum of Honolulu. He is studying skeletal remains of a pre-historic race that were recently unearthed during a naval construction project. A native of Boulder, Colo., Dr. Snow holds both masters and doctorate degrees from Harvard. His undergraduate studies were taken at the University of Colorado.

DR. CHARLES E. SNOW Distinguished professor

Dr. Snow, a member of the UK teaching staff since 1942, entered the Army during World War II, and again in 1948. His wartime assignment, with the Quartermaster Department's climatic research laboratory, was directed toward determining the effect on foot soldiers of various climatic conditions.

After the war he went to Hawaii to direct the identification of unknown war dead. Before joining the UK faculty, Dr. Snow had served with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In 1940 he was instructor of anthropology at Birmingham-Southern College. The 41-year-old professor joined the University staff as an assistant professor in 1942. He was promoted to associate professor in 1944. He attained the rank of full professor in 1946.

Previous winners of the Arts and Sciences distinguished professorship award have been Dr. Grant C. Knight, professor of English, in 1944; Dr. Amy Vanhook, head of the Department of Political Science, in 1945; Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the Department of History, in 1946; Dr. William S. Webb, head of the Department of Physics and Anthropology, in 1947.

home, the school, radio, television, the public press, and on the pressure of human events. Dr. Corey made the opening address at the general session of the twenty-eighth annual conference of the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools last Friday morning in Memorial Hall.

"Although we lead the world in wealth and in material and scientific advancement," said Dr. Corey, "moral deterioration is on the increase on all levels of national life." He said reaction to this situation took three forms. First was an attitude of apathy, next an attempt to place the blame on Communist activity, and then the feeling of a portion of the public that laws can be passed to control the situation.

"These last," said Dr. Corey, "don't seem to realize that laws not in conformity with public opinion are not enforceable." One group believes that answers lie in better education. Dr. Corey placed himself in this group.

In a changing and complex society, Dr. Corey said, schools have had more and more to do. At the same time public understanding of the school system, the largest single expenditure of tax money, has markedly lessened.

Dr. Corey told the educators that they should not indulge in "vain and futile" oratory to defend their position. They must not hold themselves apart as "experts" with a complete rejection of lay opinion. Their aim should be to interpret the school and its methods to the public. They must find ways of working with the parents in the interest of the school and the child. On Tuesday night the Reed and Lorton defeated the Vinson and Miller Clubs respectively to win the semi-finals.

Speech Group Will Meet In Cincinnati

The Tau Kappa Alpha Ohio-Kentucky Regional Conference will be held Saturday, Nov. 10, at the University of Cincinnati. Dr. Clifford Blyden of the English Department is the Regional Governor. The debating question will be "Resolved: The Federal Government should adopt a permanent program of price and wage control." Debaters taking the affirmative will be Mary Bowen, Barbara Lake, Jacob Meyer, and Capp Turner. The negative side will be represented by Bill Douglas, George Credler, Lester Wise and Ed Rue.

The question "How can we as a nation improve our ethical and moral standards?" will be discussed by Ed Rutnauer, Glenn Sandurfer and James Harris. In addition there will be a debate seminar headed by Benjamin Stoner, Director of the Office of Price Stabilization in the Cincinnati district, and a discussion seminar headed by Dr. Howard Roelofs of the UC Philosophy Department and Chesley Howell, minister of the First Hartwell Presbyterian Church in Cincinnati.

As everyone rushes to complete preparations for the annual Homecoming weekend no one seems to be busier than Miss Helen King, executive secretary of the Alumni Association. Miss King is surrounded by letters from alumni of the events each alum will be able to attend. In addition to this she receives numerous calls requesting information concerning the different events and also she must keep contact with all sections of the United States. Among those returning are: Don Whitehead, AP correspondent and Pulitzer prize winner; Senator Tom Underwood, editor of the Lexington Herald; former governor Ken Johnson, publisher of the Richmond Daily Register; Troy L. Perkins, author of "On, On U. of C." and now with the State Department; Milton Smith, vice president of Buessod-Stacy; E. E.

And they will take part in the program of the Citizenship Clearing House which encourages young men of character and ability to take an active interest in politics." Two students will be selected for each of the ten Federal Judicial Circuits, making a total of 20 students to receive the scholarship. Practically every top-ranking senior man on the 1951 American campus is expected to apply for the Root-Tilden Scholarships if he is between the ages of 20 and 28 and a citizen. Application must be made to Dean of the Law School, New York University Law School, Washington Square, New York, New York.

Moot Court Ends Nov. 9

Moot court competition narrowed to the finals Tuesday night as the Reed Club and Lorton Club law teams won the semi-finals in the eight club series in the College of Law.

The final argument in the moot court competition will be held before the Court of Appeals in Frankfort on Nov. 9 to decide which team will represent UK in the regional moot court eliminations in St. Louis later this month.

Law students who advanced to the finals are Joe Nagle and Don Wood, Reed Club; and Jack Lowery, and Robert Hall Smith, Lorton Club.

The case argued by the club was the one selected by the Bar of New York City for its annual national moot court competition. Entitled the U.S. vs. John Doe, the hypothetical case is an indictment of a prosecuting attorney for failure to respond to a question by a Senate committee," Acting Dean William L. Mathews of the Law College said.

On Tuesday night the Reed and Lorton defeated the Vinson and Miller Clubs respectively to win the semi-finals.

Guignol Play Opens Soon

The Glens Menagerie's Tennessee Williams' Broadway hit play will open at 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Guignol Theater for a six-day run. Players are Gene Arkie, Tom Lucille Little, Amanda; Louise Hill, Laura; and Don Hartford, the gentleman caller. The plot involves Amanda, who was once a Southern belle; her shy, crippled daughter, Laura; and what ensues when her son, Tom, brings a gentleman caller home for dinner.

The play is directed by Prof. Wallace N. Briggs, with Lolo Robinson as associate director. Anne Hill is assistant director. Ernest L. Rhodes is technical director, assisted by Mrs. Bailey. James Reed is stage manager and electrician, and Mack Wood is in charge of music. Flo Beckstedt will handle properties, assisted by Betty Deen Stull and Evelyn N. Burns. Stage crew members are Barbara Francis, Jim Holloway, Irwin Hines, Bob Sexton, and Richard Stevenson.

Reservations may be made at the Guignol box office, phone 2386.

Dr. Caughey said that in a time of crisis we are only too prone to throw laws to the winds. He said that they will be regained when normalcy returns, but that they seldom do. He recalled his audience first saw them in his first year of law school. Dr. Caughey's summary was to realize their freedoms, and scholars must gain the interest of all, so that truth may be brought forth, and taught.

'Experts' Confuse De-Emphasis Facts

The inevitable result of the university's becoming involved in the basketball scandal—the cry for de-emphasis—is becoming louder day by day. The whole problem has become confused with this expert and that expert putting forth this and that theory concerning the cost involved, the damage done to the institution and the like. Sometimes it seems that the experts are running all around the problem in large haphazard circles without ever getting to its heart.

The matter of cost is the first item mentioned when the so called "business" athletic plant is discussed. Just what is the cost to the Kentucky taxpayer of the actual running of the University athletic plant?

"The cost of his ticket" would answer this question correctly. The UK athletic program is now operating in the black because of the profits realized from the two major sports, basketball and football. These two sports not only support the other sports, baseball, track, golf, fencing, swimming, and tennis, but also the band and Stucky pep organization. Normal running expenses are not likely to cost the taxpayer a cent for some time to come unless the athletic program should be expanded.

The athletic plant, however, is a slightly different situation. Of the $3,740,103 which went into the Coliseum, about $3,200,000 was from state appropriations. The remainder was financed by bonds which are being amortized by the athletic program. But the Coliseum is not used for athletics alone. This year 11 varsity basketball games will be played there. During the same period, students and townspeople will see 12 programs in the Community Concert-Lecture Series. The Coliseum is also used for commencement, baccalaureate and other official University programs.

The building also houses the swimming pool which can be used by all University students. The Coliseum is as important a place to the most studious members of the student body—because of the opportunity it offers them to hear and see artists of international fame—as it is to those who are merely interested in athletics.

Not so easily justified on the grounds of cultural improvement was the $814,943 addition to McLean Stadium. Of this amount all but $300,000, which was financed by the sale of revenue bonds, was provided by the state or taken from University funds.

These costs are no doubt offset by the publicity they have brought to the state. It would be foolish to think that this publicity has not been worth much to UK. Admittedly the publicity we have received during the past few weeks is not the best, but for about twenty "basketball" years and six "football" years the University has reaped profits from this publicity in the form of increased enrollment and prestige. These profits have been far from insignificant.

In an otherwise excellent editorial in the October 28 issue of the Courier-Journal the following statement was made: "The condition of scholastics at the University of Kentucky was by President Donovan's own admission desperate. Unless more money is made available to the school, he warns, 200 teachers will have to be dismissed, although they are sorely needed. Yet the athletic budget this year will be almost three-quarters of a million dollars."

This statement implied a completely erroneous idea, that the athletic budget at the University is connected with the budget of the state.

Journalism Is Not All Glamour And Drama According To Kernel Columnist Kilgus

By Marilyn Kilgus

Journalism! The word forms a picture of flashes of action and glamour and the daily drama of serving the world.

The picture of journalism which should be created is the honest one—a composite of the day-by-day stills and action shots that make up the career. The fun, the fame, the money, the public service possible should be visualized as well as the chance for self-realization which is vital to any profession.

The aspirant to the profession will be told of the opportunity for fun, through excitement, through fascinating people in the news, through association with quick-witted newsmen. Indeed, there is fun. But journalism is a serious business. It requires long hours of research, the position, and routine. Often the newspaperman sees more of tragedy and gloom than is his due. The joy of "getting credit" for scooping a rival paper, or for succeeding with a service project does not come with the mail each day. Most of the fun must be found in a job well done.

And some say there is a path to fame through journalism. Here's the reason enough for breaking into the field. True though this may be, there are thousands of journalists ready to testify to their common place in society. Many a newsmen has proven worthy of national recognition. William Allen White, Vincent Sheehan, Henry Watterson are three of the scores who are known all over the world. But many another has remained obscure to all but his home staff. The real fame for a journalist comes when the fellow newsmen on his paper consider him indispensable.

A great many people would say you believe that there is real money in the profession. True — an excellent comparative high salaries. The Pulitzer, William Randolph Hearst, Adolph Ochs, and many an editor and publisher. Yet every man in journalism cannot expect to find millions at the tip of his pen point. There is no doubt about it — the columnist, publicity and advertising men, editors of today are making comparatively high salaries. The pay range for all types of journalism is higher, in contrast to other professions, than ever before. Still, financial reward must play second fiddle to the rewards of personal satisfaction.

There are those who hop on soap boxes and declare that the press is the most vital instrument for public service in the modern world. Blind faith in this results in a number of disillusioned young people in the vocation. A thorough study of the

which will be asked for at the next meeting of the state legislature. The athletic budget is a completely separate budget, as has been said before, and at the present time is doing better than holding its own. The de-emphasis question is not an easy mathematical problem that can be worked out by some mathematical formula, as might be gathered from the above quote. It is a problem that goes far deeper into human nature than that.

A recent Gallup Poll showed that 56 per cent of the people in the United States believe that intercollegiate sports are given too much emphasis. This sounds good, but we question the validity of the answers. When placed on the spot in the light of recent athletic scandals, the public may give this answer. Whether they actually mean that they want less emphasis is another question. Too often in the past pressure has been brought to bear on universities who are not fielding winning teams. From the business executive to the dirt farmer they complain about the "rotten teams up there at the state university." UK has not been an exception. Nor have wealthy alumni been the only ones pushing such a project, although they have undoubtedly contributed the most to it. Almost every citizen in the state is able to connect some of the glory of a winning team with himself. And we all like it.

Now the chips are down and the citizens face a choice. Will they sacrifice a winning team, which must be recruited by fair means or foul, for a "simon pure" team which will win once in a while, perhaps lose money, and certainly never go to another bowl game?

The decision is one of pride versus morality and nothing more.

Today Is A Proud Day

Today is a proud day for the Kernel and for the School of Journalism, for today the new Journalism-Publications Building is to be dedicated.

But one of the present journalism classes must be careful not to take too much of the credit for the new building. Actually, we have had a small insignificant part in its erection. It is to the thousands of journalism students who have attended UK in the past that the bulk of the credit must go. They worked with the realization that the goal they strived for would never be attained while they were students.

Hundreds of these graduates are returning today to see the building for which they worked. To them the present Kernel staff can only say: welcome and thanks.

We will not attempt to tell the story behind the completion of this new building. Instead we refer you to section two of this issue where factual articles tell the story far more graphically than we could.

Into this special section went the work of dozens of School of Journalism faculty and students. The job, which required a tremendous amount of research as well as writing was done under the direction of Mary Shinnick, who edited the section. Aiding Mary in the work was Prof. J. A. McCauley, who helped with the processing of copy and the make-up of the section.

These two deserve special credit for their "unblynd" work. Without them the story would never have been told.

problems of a locale, and a sensible scheme for its improvement have no better channel of communication than the newspaper, however. Nowhere else is there such a chance for the realization of "feet on the ground" campaigns in the interest of public welfare.

Put all the motives together, then, and the general shape of journalism is that of self-realization. There is room for fun, and fame, and money, and public service in the picture — enough to challenge the youth with people-fancy for a life-long fight for truth, and the ability to see journalism as it really is.

Exactly how can journalism be defined? It might be described as the gathering, writing, editing, and interpreting of all news everywhere. Let it be expressed this way: Journalism is the transfer of news from one party to another, there is journalism, in essence. And here are the facts and figures about the profession:

The 1740 daily newspapers in the United States employ 150,000 persons, whose total annual income is $400,000,000. Of these 150,000, only one-sixth are editorial workers, employed to do the actual writing and interpreting of facts. Two-sixths of this number work in the advertising, promotion, circulation, or business departments. The remaining 75,000 work in the mechanical division.

And there is work to be done on the 10,000 weekly papers, as well as on the 4,000 periodicals in America, which offer the chance for specialized writing in agricultural, trade, professional, or women's fields. United States press services—United Press, Associated Press, International News Service—are dependent on versatile correspondents with something special to say. Likewise, newspaper editors must be familiar with the business of advertising and promotion. In the advertising rooms of a paper, or through the corresponding offices in stores and corporations, the journalist with a flair for art of salesmanship can come into his own. And, the places for continuity writers, news analysts and drama writers in radio and television are too numerous to ignore. The media which reach the public sound are still founded on the printed word.

The well-trained journalist with an urge to disseminate information

Letter Writer And Cartoonist Give Views On Basketball Scandal And De-Emphasis

Dear Editor: There has been a great deal of talk during the last few days as to "where the real moral blame for the basketball letter scandal belongs."

The guilt of the players and the racketeers who put the temptation before them cannot be minimized. And one can hardly be less guilty than the other. A man who devises a dishonorable scheme can be held no more accountable than those who willfully subscribe to it.

Both the players and the racketeers were aware that they were breaking the law and that for selfish gain they were betraying an inviolable trust. Of those things they are guilty and should be punished.

But the real culprits in the case are the universities involved and all the others which sponsor athletic "amateur-professionalism" in their schools. They created the basic situation by paying men for their athletic abilities. Even when the situation grew out of hand they took no steps toward de-emphasis until it was too late.

They could not resist the temptation of the lucrative sports income. Their policy was one of exploitation of athletic abilities. It almost seems that they are getting just what they asked for. At any rate, the universities stand as the guilty but unindicted.

Band Performance Praised By Alumnus

Dear Editor: The band performance at the Mississippi State game was perhaps 100 per cent better than the week before.

The 1950 band was by far the most popular in history. That was because it played for a team that was playing for a championship. This year's team is worthy and somewhat fortunate. It will be more fortunate as the season progresses.

Claims Greeks Got Advantage At Dance

Dear Editor: The admission paid by the Greeks at Friday's dances' Carnival dance not only entitled them to the music of Clyde Trask, but to their choice of tables as well. Independents, on the other hand, were allowed to fight for seats at the one table so generously reserved for them on the balcony.

Which all goes to prove that a buck and a half in the Greek hand is worth more than the same amount in the Independent's bush.

True, the Greeks supervised the midway attractions in a manner befitting Barrum and Bailey, and are to be congratulated. But they hardly deserved the advantages afforded them at the expense of the unfortunate Independents.

Recommends Printing Words To Pop Song

Dear Editor: Perhaps you will find it worth while to print the words to "On, On, U of K." Like the "Notre Dame Victory March" it has been taken up by high schools as the music for their school songs.

Since the same man wrote "Alma Mater" it is no disrespect to him to say that it does not rate nearly so high as a football pep song.

WELCOME FOR HOMECOMING

The Party Line

Welcome Home Alums Is Week-End's Slogan

By Emily Campbell
"Welcome home alums" will be the greeting all over town and on campus this week-end as the Homecoming game. The celebration will be between the organization on campus for winners of the Homecoming game.

Four-Point Parade Features Queen
Be sure to go to the "Stuy" pep rally and torchlight parade tonight at 7:30 p.m. The parade will form at the corner of Euclid and Lime and will go down Limestone to Main, picking up the torches at the railroad track. Featured in the parade will be the candidates for Homecoming queen who will ride in convertible. The parade, led by the Marching 100, will return to the Inter-mural field where the candidates for queen will be presented by Dr. Eber. There will be a big bonfire on the field where the cheerleaders will lead the student body in victory yell.

FTA Dance To Be Held Friday Night

The Future Teachers of America will sponsor an informal dance and floor show next Friday from 8 to 12 P.M. in the Bluegrass Room of the SUB, in coordination with American Education Week.

The dance will be open to all students. Tickets will be $1.50 for couples and $1.00 for single. Refreshments will be served. The dance will be held at the Student Union Building on Monday and Tuesday.

The general theme for American Education Week is "Unite for Freedom." This week is being observed throughout the nation at this time. It highlights the public schools of the United States and calls attention to the service they are performing for the American people.

Pledge Presentation To Be Held Thursday

Panellenic pledge presentation program will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Bluegrass Ballroom of the SUB.

The sororities will present their pledges in the following order: Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Zeta Tau Alpha, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Zeta Phi Eta, and Phi Kappa Phi.

During the program a check from the Panellenic council will be presented to Ingrid Palmgren, foreign student from Sweden. The sororities by cutting their budgets for parties during rush season, will be able to pay for Ingrid's room in the dormitory. She is a guest of each sorority on campus some time during the year for her needs.

A check for $500 will be presented to Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, for the Frances Jewell McVey Fund. The money in the fund goes toward a scholarship for some Kentuckian girl each year. Panellenic has given a total of $3500 to this fund.

Marian Ebersson will play the piano during the program. A dance will be presented by Tau Sigma, the modern dance group.

Guests for pledge presentation will be the active members of the sororities, the presidents and social chairs, and the fraternities, the Dean of Women's staff, sorority and fraternity women mothers, residents hall staff of women, deans of the colleges and their wives, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Donovan, and Dr. F. L. McVey.

Dr. Martin To Talk To Women's Club
Dr. J. W. Martin, director of the Bureau of Business Research, spoke Monday night on "An American Look at Turkey." Dr. Martin's talk was the first in a series presented by the International Relations Committee of the University Women's Club.

The next talk, to be held at 7 p.m. Monday, in Room 218, Fine Arts Building, will feature Dr. W. W. Hayes, assistant professor of economics, and Mrs. Hayes. They will speak on "American Foreign Policy as Seen by the British Man on the Street."

The third talk in the series will be presented Nov. 12, and will be "Soviet Russia - One Part of an Analysis." The speaker will be Dr. R. L. Tullih, professor of geography.

Accompanied by Dr. Jane Hazelton, three girls, Ingrid Palmgren, Masako Inagaki, and Hannelore Graf, will compare the life of the college student here and in their home countries.

Dr. Hazelton will explain how the University gets foreign students and the way American students are admitted to colleges in other countries. They will be guests of the Williamsburg Women's Club this afternoon, where they will discuss the average clubwoman in their home countries.

News Of Realism In Hollywood Creates Sensation For Germans

By Erika Gasmoller
Hollywood is starting realism—that was the latest sensational news concerning American pictures we got in Germany two months ago. As for the interested movie-goer it really was a sensation.

Since 1946 we had the opportunity to see American pictures—English spoken at first, then, after the opening of several synchron-studios in 1947, in German language. Ever since, Hollywood's creations were to be seen on the screens of at least six out of 10 movie-theaters. People longed for entertaining shows—far away from present problems—which could make them forget the fear and confusion of war, and pre-war days. So show-movies, comedies, and swing from the late thirties found a revival in Germany of which Hollywood's producers and managers had not even dreamed. And they took advantage of this chance.

There was one movie which dealt with war-problems in a serious way: "The Lost Years of Our Life." It was a great success everywhere—and

Dinner To Be Given For Farm Delegates

Kentucky's five International Farm Youth Exchange delegates will be welcomed home with a luncheon today in the SUB Ballroom.

The 4-H delegates have spent several weeks visiting in European countries, and returned home this week. Their experiences over the summer will be related at the luncheon.

Delegates who made the trip are Mary Jo Rieder, Ohio County, who has been living in Scotland; Eloise Lorch, Jefferson County, who has been in Sweden; Minnie Mae Taylor, Logan County, who went to Denmark; Jack Heller, Oldham County, who visited Greece; and Sue Dossett, Henderson County, who spent the summer in Finland.

The luncheon is sponsored by the local International Farm Youth Exchange Committee.

Kinney To Be Featured In Sunday's Musicales

Mr. Gordon Kinney, assistant professor of music, will be featured as soloist in the University String Quartet musicale at 4 p.m. Sunday in Memorial Hall.

After attending the Eastman School of Music, Mr. Kinney received his M.F. degree at the University of South Dakota. He joined the faculty of the UK Music Department in 1949 as a theory instructor.

Mr. Kinney has performed with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra and was assistant conductor of the Sioux City Symphony. He has appeared as soloist and ensemble performer in many concerts at UK.

"Suite for String Quartet," composed by Mr. Kinney, will be given its premier performance at the Sunday concert.

Members of the String Quartet are Kenneth Wright, first violin; William Scott, second violin; Marvin Rubin, viola; and Gordon Kinney, cello. Mr. Scott is a string instructor in the Lexington City Schools and the others are members of the UK Music Department faculty.

Special guests and ushers are members of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity.

Dames Club Plans Wednesday Meeting

The University Dames Club, which is comprised of student wives, is presenting a style show to be held at its next regularly scheduled meeting Wednesday, Nov. 7, in the social room of the SUB.

Women that will do the modeling are: Mrs. Dana Buckner, Mrs. J. Thomas Mastaglio, Mrs. E. H. Johnson, Mrs. William Hornback, Mrs. Julian Henry, Mrs. Don Frester, and Mrs. Raymond Combs.

Phi Delta Phi Has Passed Quarter Century On Campus

By Lealand Sullivan

Phi Delta Phi, legal fraternity, has passed a quarter century on the UK campus, Cecil Walden, Jr., magistrate, said this week.

Breckinridge Inn, local chapter, was installed at the UK College of Law in 1925. The original petition for the inn was submitted to the national chapter in 1910. The first local members were Norman M. Daniel, Elmer E. Dixon, Lovell H. Liles, and W. Walter Thorp.

Phi Delta Phi, founded at the University of Michigan in 1869, was the first professional fraternity in America.

From this beginning Phi Delta Phi has grown to be one of the leading law fraternities, with 72 active student groups, having a membership of over 40,000 in the United States and Canada.

Fills Need

"For over 80 years members of Phi Delta Phi have found a need in the legal profession for the advancement of high scholarship and culture, the opposition to corrupt practices, and a rigid adherence to a code of professional ethics," Magistrate Walden said.

"In the process an amazingly large percentage of our members have attained unusual prominence in American affairs," he added.

Geographically the fraternity is divided into 15 provinces, with the 14th comprising the UK and the three Inns in Tennessee.

Government is Outlined

Government in the Fraternity is outlined in the organization's constitution with the legislative duties being carried out in a biennial general convention. Each student initiated by a delegation is entitled to one vote, and the council has one vote as a unit.

Pi Tau Sigma Will Be Host To Convention

The thirty-first annual national convention of Pi Tau Sigma, national mechanical engineering fraternity, will be held here on the campus Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The university's Pi ombsa chapter will be host to the convention, which will welcome delegates from more than fifty chapters over the country.

The Lafayette Hotel will serve as headquarters and all delegates will register there for the convention. A banquet will be held there Friday night.

'Miss Betty' Remembers 25-Cent T-Bone Steaks

By Leiland Brannan

Remember when you could buy a T-bone steak cooked and ready to eat for 25 cents? Miss Betty Gault, an assistant director of Student Union Commons, does. She also recalls a certain athlete who ate seven at one meal!

Miss Betty, as she is called by her associates, began working for the UK cafeteria 30 years ago. "Things have changed since then," she relates modestly. At that time Commons was only a small dining room in the basement of the Administration Building. From there it was moved to the third floor of McVey Hall, and finally in 1939 began operations in the Student Union Building.

Food is now prepared in a kitchen eight times as large as the original one and in somewhat greater quantity. Favorite foods are fried chicken and cherry jello. About 6000 fryers and 900 gallons of red jello are served each year, and it takes 21 barrels of soap to clean all the dishes, pots, and pans. Twelve hundred pounds of potatoes were used daily during one of the war years, when soldiers were in training on the campus.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOP PAUL was egg-sperated because every chick on campus gave him the bird. They told him: "We're all cooped up!" Then one day his roommate said: "The hens avoid you because your hair's messy, you dumb dick! I don't know feather you've heard of Wildroot Cream-Oil or not, but you better try it—er, try it! Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves dandruff. Removes loose, ugly hair! Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil—and now the girls think he's a good egg. Better lay down a few penny cents on the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask the one who has your favorite barber shop. Then the girls'll take off their hitch to you!

Civil Service Examination Announced

An examination for Student Aid Trainee positions in the fields of chemistry, physics, mathematics, metallurgy, and engineering have been announced by the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

The positions pay yearly salaries of $2,850 and $2,875.

Sophomores and juniors should be especially interested in this examination, according to the Commission, since the Student Aid Trainee program offers to them the opportunity to participate in special training programs of the various Federal agencies and to become acquainted with the work of these agencies while they are still in school.

In addition to passing a written test, applicants for the $2,850 must have received one-half of the total credits required for a bachelor's degree in their specialized field. Applicants for the jobs paying $2,875 must have received three-fourths of the total credits required. Age limits are from 18 to 35, but are waived for persons entitled to veteran preference.

Information and applications may be obtained from most second and second-class post offices, Civil Service regional offices, or from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C.

Applications will be accepted in the Commissioner's Washington office until Dec. 4.

'Round Table' Holds Talks On Education

The UK "Round Table," broadcast from WIAS, Louisville, next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, will have as its subject, "Is There an Organized Attack on Public Education?"

Taking part will be Dr. Harl Douglas, director of the College of Education of the University of Colorado; Dr. Herbert Sorenson, professor of education at UK; and Dr. Omor Carnichael, superintendent of the public schools of Louisville.

Among questions to be discussed are the evidence that there are groups aligned against public education and whether these groups oppose the principles or the policies of U. S. education.

They will discuss the part of criticism in keeping the schools out of the best over-all sortory house and the best over-all residence hall.

Study-Weary Students Relax By Playing Football

Football took on a new location this week as study-weary guys in the Law College found a new refresher.

If you've been past Lafayette Hall this week you probably saw one of these games in progress in the area immediately in front of the building.

In case Bryant needs any help during the season we want to be in "shape" one of the boys said.

Actually the whole thing began a few weeks ago when the law boys decided not to enter the regular intramural league play-off.

"We thought we would be too busy with all the law cases and everything coming up," Cecil Walden, a law student, explained.

But this week the boys broke down. "To heck with cases, court, and probates," they seemed to agree. And it was out front for a few games of "touch" football between classes.

Registration will be followed by a brunch served in the SUB ballroom from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

$6750 In Awards Is Offered

Awards totaling $6750 will be made this year in the fifth annual competition of the Lincoln Agr Welding Foundation's Undergraduate Award and Scholarship Program, which was announced this week by C. G. Herbruck, assistant secretary of the Foundation.

All registered undergraduate engineers are eligible to take part in the competition, which is designed to encourage them to use imagination and ingenuity in developing an engineering project in their own field.

Awards will be made for the best papers on design of machines or structures, or on separate components of machines or structures, in which welding is the method of fabrication. Welding research and maintenance projects can also be described.

Sixty-three awards, ranging from $1000 to $25 will be made. Scholarship funds totaling $1750 are also awarded to schools for the establishment of scholarships in honor of the main student awards.

Rules and conditions for the competition are now available in a 24-page illustrated booklet. The booklet shows pictures of the design and research projects described in award papers of previous competitions. Brief descriptions of last year's award papers are also presented, along with a bibliography of welding texts and references.

The booklets may be obtained by writing to The James F. Lincoln Agr Welding Foundation, Cleveland 17, Ohio.

Sigma Nu, Chi Omega Lead In Tag Sales

For the third straight week, Sigma Nu leads the fraternity division in ODK Tag sales. The Chi Omegas lead the sororities for the second week.

Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Tau Delta were second and third for the men. For the women, Kappa Delta was second and Alpha Gamma Delta was third.

Richard Ballantine, spokesman for ODK, said that there had been some confusion about turning in proceeds. Fraternity and sorority representatives are to turn in the money after every home game, at 7 p.m. Monday nights, in Room 127 of the SUB.

'Y' Groups To Hear Sumpter And Cowan

Miss Fay Sumpter and Reverend E. B. Cowan will be two of the speakers at the YWCA-YMCA meeting Thursday night in the Y Lounge.

Miss Sumpter, home economics major who spent several months in Europe last summer, will speak to the World Relatedness Commission.

Reverend Cowan, pastor of Everybody's Church, will use "The Bible" as the subject of his talk for the Faith and Life Commission.

Kyan Photo Deadline Extended To Friday

Dave Bere, Kentucky business manager, has announced that the deadline of junior and senior annual pictures has been extended to Friday at the Journalism Building.

A siting fee is charged at the time of the picture, but these prints can be made from these proofs.

Awards To Be Given In House Contest

The House Presidents Council will sponsor its annual Room Judging Contest on Sunday, Nov. 18, president Mary Fardus has announced.

A total of four awards will be given.

A cup will be given for the best room in the house of the division, and also for the best room in a residence hall. In addition, a large bottle of perfume will be given to the best over-all sorority house and the best over-all residence hall.

Press Club Active Again At University

The Henry Watterson Press Club returned to the University campus in 1948, with the same purpose as that of its predecessors: "To afford male journalism students an opportunity for mutual association in the professional journalism society."

Led by a group of young men interested in journalism, the club flourished until 1950, when most of the members were graduated. In the fall semester of 1950, Wynn Moseley, Bill Schulenberg, and Ed Coffman spread out the Club's welcome mat to new journalism majors and encouraged membership interest increased.

The need for a revised constitution and by-laws was recognized. The revision was started and completed this year when the new constitutional officers were voted in by current members.

The present club members, at their regular meetings, invite noted persons in the field of journalism to speak informally on the practical application of journalistic knowledge in their respective fields. Current officers are: Edward Hessel, Jr., president; Bill Mansfield, vice president; Tom Garber, secretary and Joseph Sophek, treasurer. Members of the club are looking forward to a bigger and better organization with fewer interruptions such as a depression and a war to slow down progress.

Past presidents of the club include Ted McDevoy, Stanley Schell, Gerald Finch, Thomas Spillman, Wynn Moseley, and John Witz.

Dr. Horlacher To Address New Ag Class

An address of welcome by Dean L. J. Horlacher of the University College of Agriculture will open the first annual Stud Managers Course, sponsored jointly by the Grayson Foundation and the College of Agriculture, which will be held here Monday through Friday.

This is the first course of its kind to be offered in this country and has received recognition from home farm managers throughout the United States. The course has already reached its maximum enrollment of 100.

The program will include morning lectures by several authorities on the care and management of thoroughbreds, and afternoon trips to the leading horse farms of this area for practical management demonstrations. The lectures will be held in Room 106 of the Animal Pathology Building.

The staff for the course is composed of Walter M. Jeffords, president of the Grayson Foundation; George D. Widener, owner of Elk Hill Farm; and Dr. R. A. Kober, dean of veterinary medicine at University of Pennsylvania.

The committee in charge of the course, headed by Dr. F. E. Hull, head of the University Department of Animal Pathology is composed of Clark Beard, Greentree Farm; Thomas Platt, Brookdale Farm; Dan W. Scott, Dan W. Scott Farm; Charles A. Kenney, Coldstream Stud; A. B. Hancock Jr., Clubbarje Farm; and Alex Bower, The Blood Farm.

One of the highlights of the program will be a dinner meeting Wednesday night.

Pi Tau Sigma Names List Of Initiates

Pi Tau Sigma, national mechanical engineering honorary, has announced the formal initiation of Bob O. Brooks, Charles B. Lanzell, James W. McCurry, Don Richardson, Hans Meyer, William Mab, Joe W. Johnson, Joseph Pullum, Robert Marnell, James W. Moore, Herold Knight, and Bernard Linpert.

A banquet was held Friday at the Rock House following the initiation. Prof. J. A. Meyer, head of the Aeronautical Engineering Laboratory, was the guest speaker.

In World War II, he was known as the reporter who hit more headlines than any other correspondent.

Returned to Fronts

With the beginning of the Korean War, he returned to the battlefield. The Pulitzer Prize Advisory Board mentioned his story of the Marines crossing the Han River as an outstanding example of his first hand reporting.

Two other awards were presented Whitehead for his coverage of the Korean War. Sigma Delta Chi, professional Journalism fraternity, awarded him the Distinguished Service Award for Foreign Correspondence, "in recognition of his service to the American people and the profession of journalism."

Long Island University awarded Whitehead its annual citation for outstanding wire service reporting.

Senator Underwood, who is also editor of the Lexington Herald, was appointed by Gov. Lawrence B. Wesley to fill the unexpired term of Virgil Chapman, who was killed in an automobile accident.

Now the publisher of the Richmond Daily Register, Johnson was Governor from 1929 to 1943. He is also associated with the Reynolds Metals Company of Louisville.

Theta Sigma Phi Installed At The University In 1919

Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary and professional journalism fraternity for women, was established at the University of Washington on April 8, 1909.

Since its founding, the number of Theta Sigs has grown to 10,000, including undergraduate members and alumnae in every major field of journalism, with the growth of the Journalism honorary has come the general acceptance of more and more women into the profession.

The purpose of Theta Sigma Phi is "to raise the standards of journalism, to improve the working conditions for women of the profession, and to inspire the individual to greater effort." Membership is restricted to journalism majors or those interested in writing as a career.

The chapter of Theta Sigma Phi was granted a charter at the University of Kentucky in 1919. Miss Margaret M. Morgan, professor of Journalism at the University, was initiated as an undergraduate in the charter group, and has served as a faculty advisor of the chapter since that time.

The alumnae and active chapters interested in journalism majors or those interested in writing as a career, to manage various campus projects. One of the annual projects of Theta Sigma Phi is the "Matrix Table" banquet and honor service membership interest increased.

The need for a revised constitution and by-laws was recognized. The revision was started and completed this year when the new constitutional officers were voted in by current members.

Last Of 'Dungeonites' Begrudge J-Building

Fulbright Scholar Brightly Recalls Her Gang's Antics

By JANET ANDERSON
Kernel Editor, 1930-31

GLASGOW, Scotland (By Mail)—The Kernel of 1930-31 has the dubious distinction of being the last regular Kernel produced in that city; many wonderful old newsmen known as the "Dungeon."

Though we lamented loud and long because we just missed being the first staff in the new building, now we wonder if those who cut their journalistic teeth amid this sparkling splendor will get the same indescribable Kernel feeling we got in our old sub-basement, which had witnessed so many journalistic test-cuttings, prodigious and otherwise.

"We'll remember the hacked-up furniture; the dripping grease; the worn-out typewriters; the picture of the miserable little boy, a natural for witty captions. We'll think of the spiral stairs, the "Be-Wh" file, the garbage can so one bit.

And there was Nancy Gaskin, whose antics kept the newsmen in an uproar; Paul Knapp, whose jokes always had to be censored; John Witz, with his trains and hillbilly songs; And Norman Correll, who undoubtedly has the biggest heart and the strongest hugs in Kentucky. There were many others—a steady Bill Mansfield; sleepy Lewis Donnelly; Bob Garhan; Clara Early; Bill Bouague; and all the rest of the wonderful Kernelites who spent long hours turning news into newspapers. And we won't forget Mr. Grote and Stella and the boys in the print shop. (How could we?)

And when we felt a little sad because we missed looking in the shining lavatory of the new Journalism Building, we'll remember that it's OUR very first Kernel, produced with great mental anguish and faltering pride, that lies encased in the cornerstone of this Dream Come True.

Kentucky's Greatest Homecoming Dates Back To The 1931 Season When Wildcats Tied Tennessee 6-6

What was the greatest Homecoming Game ever played at Kentucky? We have asked that question for the past week and invariably the answer has been, "The greatest Homecoming Game was played in 1931." That was the year Tennessee had been tendered a Rose Bowl bid. Before they could officially accept, they had to beat Kentucky at Lexington. With a powerhouse, built around All-American Beattie Feathers, that seemed only a matter of formality.

Frank Seale, the Wildcat center that year, remembers the game. "The Knoxville papers ran a picture of the Tennessee team leaving for Lexington. Feathers was standing at the back of the train waving to a crowd which had assembled for the departure. The papers quoted him as saying that that which happened in 1929 would not happen again. In '29 we had tied them. Seale recalled Athletic Director Bernie Shively, then line coach, posted the picture in the dressing room. The team couldn't miss it. Came the day of the game and Tennessee scored first. It looked like roses for the Vols. Then Feathers went back to punt. Babe Wright of Kentucky crashed through the line to block the kick and Cat end Dutch Kruter grabbed the pusk in for a touchdown.

Tennessee began to control the ball again and moved into Kentucky territory. Seale related, "If the ball had been any closer to the goal line it would have been on the other side."

The Kentucky line held and took over. Too many times out penalized the Wildcats half way to the goal. Ralph Kercheval dropped back into the end zone and booted the ball downfield. There wasn't a Kentucky tackler downfield and a Vol back streaked for the touchdown. He was caught on the Kentucky 15. There was time for one play and Tennessee chose to pass.

The play was broken up by a tired but determined Wildcat backfield and the game ended in a tie, 6-6.

Mr. Shively thought back over the years and recalled, "The Homecoming game which stands out most in my mind was the one in 1931. But heck, it's a great game anytime you tie Tennessee."

"Football's History Center" in the Nov. 3 edition of Saturday Evening Post is none other than Head Coach "Burr" Bryant. Knoxville sports columnist Tom Siler forsook the domain of Gen. Bob Neyland long enough to spin a pretty good story about Kentucky's Man of the Year.

Siler recounts Bryant's success at UK as well as his playing days at Alabama. His early coaching assignments at Rama Vanderbilt, North Carolina Pre-Flight, and Maryland.

Of course, reference was made to the fact a Bryant team has not yet defeated Tennessee. A lot of material is devoted to the Kentucky-Tennessee series.

Pictures include an action shot in the Texas game, a Bryant-Parilli shot, and another of Bryant and Doug Moseley.

A bright spot in the Florida game last week was the play of freshman Larry Henessey from Paris. A halfback in high school, Henessey was moved to defensive end by Coach Bryant. Time and again the astute hustler broke into the Florida backfield to nail the heralded Harry Sullivan.

"Dude", as he has been dubbed by team mates, had never played the position before in a game but the Gator backs would never have guessed it. He substituted spirit and determination for experience and looked good doing it.

The coaches say he "has the desire to play" and you can expect to see a lot of him in remaining games and future years.

Guard Ray Correll Selected As 'Player Of The Week'

By Don Armstrong... One day earlier this fall when the stormed through the Florida line after time to collar Haywood Sullivan when the Gator quarterback went back to pass. One time in particular, Ray grabbed Sullivan around the neck and dragged him back for a five-yard loss before depositing him on the sandy turf of the Florida stadium. Correll doesn't play the kind of game that could be called outstanding, or flashy, but he does his part in such as was the case last week—the team victory. He charges hard and plays it rough, the way Bryant teaches the game. The story of Ray's success with Kentucky is no trail of roses. He has made everything the hard way from start to finish. When his high school coach at Somerset, Earl Cox, was over, he came to the University on his own hook for a tryout with the Wildcats in Saturday's game. Correll, who made honorable-mention all state in his senior year at Somerset, won the confidence of the

C. M. Newton Named Coach At Transy By Earl Cox

C. M. Newton, former Wildcat basketball player, was named basketball coach at Transylvania College this week. Newton's appointment follows that of Humsey Yeslin at Georgetown College. Yeslin is a former manager and scout for the Wildcats. He is also baseball coach. Newton is a 21-year-old senior at UK where he was a member of the cage squad for the past two years. A standout pitcher on the Cat baseball team, he signed a bonus contract last spring with the World Champion New York Yankees, making him ineligible for further SEC competition.

Plays With Yank Farm

The new Transy coach spent the past summer with two Yankee farm clubs and ended the season with a winning record. The Yankees' thought enough of his showing to invite him to their spring training camp. However, he will not be able to do so because of a conflict with an ROTC course here at UK. He will get his degree in January of 1952.

Newton is a 21-year-old senior at UK where he was a member of the cage squad for the past two years. A standout pitcher on the Cat baseball team, he signed a bonus contract last spring with the World Champion New York Yankees, making him ineligible for further SEC competition.

Newton played in the East-West All-Star baseball game after graduation from high school and was the winning pitcher for the East. Saw Action In 18 Games... Along with Skippy Whitaker, he came to Kentucky as one of Florida's most highly regarded high school products. As a first-line pitcher, he saw action in 18 games with the NCAA champion Wildcats last season. He played both guard and forward.

Newton succeeds Harry Stephenson as coach at Transy. Stephenson will remain there as athletic director and head of the physical education department. Transy, which does not subsidize athletics, won but two of 13 games last year. The new Transy coach will have six letterman back and 11 newcomers. He has a 15-game schedule. Coach Rupp said he was "tickled to death" to see Newton named to the position. "I'm always glad to see one of my boys become a coach, especially in college," said Rupp. "You know, I'm now four years in Kentucky." They are Ellis Johnson at Morehead, Paul McBrayer at Eastern, and Yeslin and Newton.

Frosh Help As Practice Cheers Rupp

By Earl Cox... Coach Adolph Rupp, in a lot better spirit this week than last, has begun to take stock of his Wildcats after two weeks of practice. With All-American Bill Spivey all out after his knee operation, Rupp has been using three boys, Cliff Hagan, Shelby Luville, and Lou Thiropoulos, in center position. All three also play forward. Spivey is out of the hospital and now on crutches. He reports regularly to his doctor. "Gris" hopes to be ready for the curtain-raiser against Washington and Lee here December 8. Dan Smart, a promising freshman prospect from Owingsville, also is recovering from a knee operation and may be held out all year. If the Wildcats had a game to-night, Hagan, Luville, and Thiropoulos would be holding down the pivot and forward positions. The guard spots would be filled by Frank Hagan, Bobby Watson, and Skippy Whitaker. All three are hustlers and are fighting for starting positions.

SEC Round-Up Vols And Engineers Undefeated In SEC

By Bill Podkanski... The Southeastern Conference's two national ranking teams, Tennessee, No. 1, and Georgia Tech, No. 4, were in Kentucky circles. Every member of the team when he was a senior at Somerset has received bids to play college ball. In Miami and came out a 20-7 Tiger, Georgia Tech, LSU, and Ole Miss. Vols with Tennessee in top ranking game of the week. Tech meets twice beaten Duke in Atlanta and the Tigers and Rebels gather in Baton Rouge for a conference clash. Other SEC teams, Kentucky and Georgia, were more fortunate with their inter-sectional battles. After a serenade of "Sweet Kentucky Babe" by the UK band before game time, Babe Parilli responded by throwing two touchdowns passes that were the margin of victory as the Wildcats subdued stubborn Florida 14-6. Back east, Georgia's great passing battery, Bratkovski to Babcock, defeated Boston College 35-28.

This Saturday Kentucky plays the Sunshine State's other half, Miami, which will be UK's homecoming guest. Florida will take a week of rest since they have no game scheduled. Georgia will play host to Alabama in Athens, with teams here looking to prestige this year by giving poor showings. Alabama did, however, manage to upset Mississippi State last week 7-0.

Mississippi State meets Tulane in New Orleans—giving SEC three conference games this week. Vandy and Auburn both take breather this week, with the Commodores pitted against Chattanooga and the Plainsmen playing Louisiana College.

Wildcats Beat Gators On Two Parilli Passes

L. Jones, Gruner Score Markers In 14-6 Victory... Florida backfield all afternoon. But their didn't have time to look for receiver. Kentucky scored in the first period when 18 Jones got behind Gator defenders, took a perfect pitch from the Kentucky Babe, and trotted into the end zone. The play was good for 56 yards. Harry Jones converted to give the Cats a 7-0 lead. That was the way the score stood at halftime. Florida came back in the third quarter to score when Osterhout streaked across the goal line. The conversion was missed. It looked like a new game at that period. Kentucky nooters were worried their team might be returning to the heat. Florida was still very much in the fight. Parilli Passes To Gruner... Parilli, had his passing attack bottled up by a hard charging and astute defensive line. Larry Henessey, a freshman halfback transferred to end, Ray Correll, sophomore guard, line backers Doug Moseley and Tommy Atkins, and a blunkey of defensive backs teamed to limit the Florida ace to five completions in 12 attempts. Correll and Henessey were in the

Smokey's Job Begins When Game is Over

By Stan Portmann

Notes To The Unsung—When the final gun has sounded and the either pleased or displeased crowd begins to file out of the stadium...

"Smokey" pointed out that most of the football wounds consist of bone or muscular injuries. The immediate treatment following the game is application of ice packs to be followed with heat and hydrotherapy during the week...

"Smokey" had the highest praise for the equipment in the training room which he believes is one of the best in the country. Special tools for the trade include four whirlpools, three infra-red lights, a diathermy for applying electrical heat...

One of the most highly publicized feats of Harper and crew was last year when All-American Babe Parilli received a serious groin injury in the L.S.U. game and it became highly doubtful if he would be ready to line up against the U. of Mississippi the next weekend...

Other schools which have benefited from his "healing hand" are Clemson, Vanderbilt, Alabama, and U.C.L.A. While Coach Bryant and his staff labor to keep the team in top playing form, "Smokey" Harper works to keep them physically fit...

I-M Touch Football Season Ends With SAE, PKA, ATO On Top

By Larry Meyer

This past week wrapped up the regular season play in the touch football leagues. As was suspected, the SAE's took the crown in Division I, winning all games and giving up only seven points. In the second division PKA closed their season with a 4-0 record to top the honors. Division III found the ATO's with a clean slate of 5-0. The Independent Division II found the Rebels with a 4-1 record to top the honors.

Final standings: Division I: SAE 5-0, PKA 4-0, PPT 4-1, TRK 2-3, SFE 2-2, LXA 1-3, PSK 1-4, AGR 1-4, SN 4-0. Division II: Rebels 4-1, BSU 4-1, Dorns 2-2, All Stars 2-3, CE 2-3, Newsmen 0-5. Division III: ATO 5-0. Independent: Rebels 4-1, BSU 4-1, Dorns 2-2, All Stars 2-3, CE 2-3, Newsmen 0-5.

The Phi Tau's displayed a fine passing attack in downing an outmanned Sig Eta team. Bill Roles intercepted an SFE pass and scored. Pete Masie passed to Gene Nett and Barnette for the other two scores. Pete Masie and E. G. Adams were the standout performers for the winning Phi Tau's.

SN 28-ASP 0 SN gained second place in the third division with a 28-0 win over the Alpha Sigs. The ASP's were outclassed from the start as the SN's with Nelson throwing three TD just about passed them off the field.

Jim Owens, Ex-Sooner, Was College, Pro Star

By Marvin Poer

Jim Owens, born in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, was an All-American performer for Coach Bud Wilkenson at the University of Oklahoma. Upon his graduation the young end played in the All-Star game at Chicago, then served a short hitch among the pro ranks before joining the University of Kentucky coaching staff early in 1951 in what may be termed, "a bit of irony."

The University of Oklahoma was riding the crest of a 31 game winning streak prior to January 1, 1951. The Sooners had been invited to participate in the Sugar Bowl on that date against a team of Kentucky Wildcats that had been beaten only once during an eleven game schedule in 1950. Coach Owens was one of the chief contributors to that brilliant record.

He graduated in 1950, played pro ball with the Baltimore Colts in the fall of that year and also served as end coach on the Johns Hopkins staff. He accepted the appointment to Kentucky shortly after the Wildcats had defeated a great Oklahoma team 13-7 in one of the major bowl upsets on New Year's Day.

The likable coach attended Chatham High School in Oklahoma City where he was elected All-State and All-City in his senior year. In 1944-45-46, the war years, Jim was assigned to the Naval Air Corps as an enlisted air crewman. He returned to Oklahoma in 1947 to round out a brilliant playing career as an All-American flankman. Those whom have played against and have seen him play agree that the aggressive end was one of the best in the business.

Coach Owens, youthful Oklahoma coach, did not operate on the strict two platoon system while Owens was playing under him. Instead, he used several "key" players on both offense and defense, in much the same style that Coach Paul Bryant has employed at Kentucky this year. Owens was one of those "key" players that performed equally as well on both defense and offense.

Since arriving at Kentucky, Jim has been serving as end coach on the varsity and fills in as one of the scouts on opposing teams throughout the season. He is twenty-seven years old and one of the younger members of the staff.

During the 1951 Sugar Bowl game Owens was a proctor at that event. Oklahoma had an ardent rooter in their former end, but since that time Kentucky has captured his fancy and his presence is being felt day after day as he goes about his coaching duties with the present Wildcat aggregation.

Cross Country Run Set For Tomorrow

The UK cross country team will hold its first meet of the year tomorrow at 11 a.m. when it engages the University of Cincinnati. The meet will be held at the Pinnacle Golf Course off S. Broadway near Mason-Headley Road.

The team has been working out since the semester opened. They have used the campus as a practice ground, roaming all over the place while working into shape. Time trials have been held at the golf course. The time of the race was set so that it will not conflict with the football game and spectators who would like to see both events may do so.

Runner-coach Jay Wallace, who is also captain of the track team, said that UK will enter 12 or 13 men and any one of them is capable of winning the race. Wallace, however, singled out four runners who have been particularly outstanding in workouts. They were Dwight Price, a member of last year's basketball squad who is devoting fulltime to track this year; Ralph Hoovermale, a constantly improving senior; and Ray Jones and Joe Coffman, two freshmen from Louisville.
