UNION BUILDING OR RECREATION CENTER?

In the response of the pre-holiday convocation to the president's message there was one thing in special evidence—the desire of the student body for a swimming pool. So much surprise and dismay was expressed at the statement that a natatorium was not to be included in the new Student Union Building that one is tempted to wonder whether the student body wants the student center for any reason other than the supposition that it was to contain a swimming pool.

The other merits of the building are so easily apparent that The Kernel does not feel such to be the case. The benefits to be derived from an adequate ball room for University dances in the way of added dignity and the release of the gymnasium for use in a strictly athletic manner are so tremendous that the building would be desirable on this one score alone. However, some consideration must certainly be given to the apparently unanimous desire of the students for a swimming pool, especially when the benefits to be derived from the proposed lounging rooms, special offices and the moving of the University Commons from McVey hall are doubtful.

Do the students want a Student Union Building or a recreation center? The latter would be possible with the funds at hand if it were made to contain only a ball room and a swimming pool. In this way the principal desires of the students would be taken care of and the "trimmings" would be left for later years.

The desirability and indeed the feasibility of such a plan is of course a matter of question in the minds of many, including The Kernel. However, it can be decided only by discussion. Now is the time for such discussion, now before the building is built. After the structure has been erected there will doubtless be much complaint and criticism voiced against it unless the matter is thrashed out now.

The Union Building, since it is intended to be one edifice built for the sole benefit of student desires and tastes, should be planned by the students. This can be done by helpful criticism and suggestion on the part of the student body. If such is not forthcoming the Administration may logically conclude that the "students are not interested" and any sort of building may be created.

LOOK AT THE GREEKS

The fight that is pending in the courts today concerning taxation of Greek-letter organizations marks another milestone for those social groups down the road to oblivion. It is a significant fact that fraternities and sororities are being considered by many as no longer useful to the universities which they represent.

They have no one to blame; they have invited the clouds that are lowering over their heads. In days gone by, those social houses were exclusive in their own power, pledges were chosen only after long consideration; a member's pin was his stamp of approval in the business and social world.

Now those halcyon days are gone, and in their wake the embattled ranks of the fraternities and sororities stand on doddering legs. The world-wide depression of 1929 dealt the Greeks the most staggering blow, but there were many who believed that they would weather the storm. However, instead of retrenchment and sensible counter-attack, wholesale pledging was begun in a desperate effort to maintain financial security.

In general, fraternities and sororities now consider anyone a potential pledge who is the possessor of money, athletic ability or ephemeral campus popularity. A large pledge chapter, instead of a more select group of neophytes, is the order of the day. One faltering step has led to another until the crossroads have been reached. Should the courts decide in favor of taxation, little short of a miracle could save many from going over the brink—The Oklahoma Daily, University of Oklahoma.

ANOTHER PRECINCT TO BE HEARD FROM

National partisan politics has no place in any college newspaper. However, we would be shirking our duty if we did not call attention to the political and economic struggle which engages the country at present. We stand at the threshold of the greatest economic and political battle since the Civil War and the outcome will vitally affect us all.

An economic crisis came to a head in the March of 1933 and the present administration responded with the passage of great innovations aimed at both recovery and reform. Never before had so much legislation been passed in such a short time. Besides emergency legislation for the relief of the suffering, far-reaching and fundamental reforms of our economic system were attempted.

However, to reform a system deeply entrenched cannot be effected by a mere stroke of the pen and radical change is not always for the best if we look beyond the chaos of a present emergency. Questionable and expedient means which conflicted with the fundamental laws of the land brought opposition to administration policies. The large expenditures of public money were also subjected to searching scrutiny.

One by one the fundamental reforms in labor relations, wages, hours, prices, agriculture, banking, public utilities and commerce are being opposed or being declared void by the courts as conflicting with the Constitution. We ourselves must question these measures and also the opposition to them.

Let us not question the action of the Supreme Court. The court is not obstructing reform; it is doing its duty by interpreting the Constitution of the United States. Would we want reform at the expense of weakening our system of government, disregarding our law and setting up dangerous precedents?

However, for the anti-Administration group to oppose reform for selfish reasons under the guise of "protecting our constitutional liberties" and at the same time fail to offer a constructive substitute is also neither intelligent nor courageous leadership. Constructive rather than destructive criticism is needed.

Reform is necessary for progress and as a defense against Facism and Communism. Respect for law, inviolability of contract, and the use of government for policing and regulating rather than operating and competing are also desirable.

Political ballyhoo, lies, generalities and vagueness threaten to destroy the foundations of this government and prevent the enactment of substantial reforms, the insurance against anarchy. We must come out of our lethargy of indifference. It is we who will pay taxes; attempt to earn a living; realize our ambitions, and exert our initiative in the near future.

The student body of America is not inarticulate. Its voice against war was so loud that it could not be drowned out. Its voice demanding intelligent leadership could be as commanding. To sit by and indifferently watch the pitiful spectacle of one party stubbornly defending a losing fight without attempting to head outside council and an opposing party destructively criticizing and not offering a constructive substitute is certainly not becoming an intelligent and live wire student body. A progressive America hangs in the balance.

The decision which the American people must soon make demands honest, intelligent and courageous discussion. Will the voice of American students be heard above the ballyhoo of another campaign? May they exert some good influence.

R. O. T. C. RECONCILIATION

At first thought the supporters and attackers of R. O. T. C. in colleges have an irreconcilable difference. Supporters declare that military training is of vital necessity for the welfare of the nation. Survival, prime need of a nation, must be taken care of. Therefore, we must have collegiate youth, the most intelligent youth of America and the most potentially fit for leadership, versed in the tactics of military defense. Pacifists and attackers of College R. O. T. C. may admit the validity of this claim, but also insist that college military training has a pernicious effect on college men. It teaches them to believe in the means of war for settlement of problems, it makes them obnoxious imperialists and jingoists. Reconciliation seems absurd.

Yet Princeton University, with the approval of the United States War Department, has worked out what seems to be a reconciliation. It has in its revised curriculum for R. O. T. C. included two "peace" courses and by so doing removes grounds of the pacifists' complaints, at the same time satisfying those who fear for the safety of the nation by continuing strictly military training, also—The Daily Pennsylvanian, University of Pennsylvania.

Light and day

By ENGY

Up at seven o'clock in the morning after listening to the alarm clock run out of breath. When it goes off it sounds like a boiler factory tuning up for a day's work. That cold trek up the stairs to the shower room while still in a sleepy daze. A quick cold shower that would put life into the dead, and then a shave that feels nice when it is over, but that pulls and scrapes while in the process. The usual dressing procedure with the brushing of teeth thrown in. Down to the breakfast room where an egg, three doughnuts, a cup of cocoa and a glass of milk fill the yawning cavity until later in the day. Glance through the morning papers, taking the comic sheet for first consideration.

Just have time enough to grab coat, hat and books and be off to a nine o'clock class. The cold blasts of the wind that shiver one's timbers on the hurried jaunt down Lincolnton. Stopped to exchange a bit of conversation on the Administration building steps, and then up to the Municipal Government chamber where the professor starts his lecture on a certain subject, but is soon driven into a heated argument with one of the students. Get into the center of the mob when the grand rush for the door started as soon as the bell stopped ringing. Light the usual after-class cigarette and stroll towards McVey hall for the next session, noticing in particular the various expressions of different persons' faces as they walk against that cutting wind. Some smile, some frown and some almost look ugly, but it makes no matter. Down to the mall box for the daily propaganda that a college editor receives, none of which is worth the paper it is printed on. A

Was always under the impression that Prof. Portmann's male parent was the publisher of a community newspaper, but it came to light in class that he was also a drugist—according to the professor's tale. Stood into the Kernel news room when the bell rang and eavesdropped on some of the heated conversations. Heard that at the last meeting of the University Senate it was decided that All-Campus dances were O. K.; that the rule about "cokes" before and after holidays will be changed to the effect that only one hour will be added to a person's requirements for graduation. Heard that the former three hours; also that a person had to make a standing of 1 to be initiated into a fraternity, which doesn't help any. Begin to feel drowsy during the fourth period, but every one does about that time of day. At last class is over and it is now down the home stretch for the second meal of the day. Always on the lookout for one of the brothers to come along with a car, because it's a long walk in this chilly weather. Stop at Dunn's for the noon "cokes" and see the perennial crowd there "gabbing" over their "cokes" and sandwiches.

Out to the radio studios after lunch to give a talk on current events, the last one of the series. Back to Dunn's for another "cokes" and then down town to see what is going on. Purchased afternoon paper to see what late news there was, and found the Italian situation still headlining the front page, also more dope of Tina Todi's death. It seems that all good humor artists are coming to an end. Read a swell feature story on the trials and tribulations of Christmas shopping. Back to the house to write a few letters and "toss" the "on" for a while. Had quite a chat with "Sunny" Day, who is in town for a little vacation, and he doesn't seem to care very much for his present job, although it is with a good company. Imagine it is a little tough with that job after having graduated with a degree in Journalism, but those things will happen. And so home to bed with a pair of very weary dogs, and in a general whipped down condition.

Metlinks, when I hear that story of Mars so old. That soldiers are not "big brave men" or "fighters bold"; But rather, I believe that which most of our Veterans tell— That they were "Ballyhooed" into fighting and "War is HELL!"

I believe in having fearless protection in a regulated way. To keep each of the nations from being the others prey; But we don't have to fight horrible wars, and kill as brutes. Just to insure the "rich" a profit settlement of oil disputes.

The "War babies" of the younger generation are not fools; They have been taught how NOT to become rich men's tools. No one's going to take them overseas to hear the canon's roar. If they spill their blood, 'twill be while protecting OUR shore!

So there's no use to try and trick us by emotional oratory. For we've learned that the best of wars is mighty gory. Sure! To have fame and glorious adventures is mighty nice. But we want no more FOREIGN fame and glory if MURDER is the price!

FAHQARH ADDRESSES CLUB

Prof. E. F. Farquhar of the Department of English at the University spoke at the weekly meeting of the Optimist club yesterday at the Lafayette hotel. His subject was "Science Versus Human Values."

COOPER TO SPEAK

Dean Thomas P. Cooper will address the members of the freshman assembly of the College of Agriculture at their regular meeting Saturday morning, January 11.

WILL VISIT CAMPUS

Ten seniors from the Shawnee High School of Louisville will spend tonight at Patterson hall and will visit the University tomorrow. The party will be chaperoned by Miss Charlotte Nickels of the Shawnee High School faculty.

STUDENT OPINION

Dear Editor: I am submitting to you for publication, if you see fit, a bit of verse which, I believe, expresses for the true feelings of the youth of the present era. As you see, it is not a pun, or a satire. I am not kidding the Army, Navy, or any parts thereof. It happens to be an O. R. C. man myself. It seems that such opinions are not printed very much during these days of stress and strife; and it may be an expression of other students' opinions as well as mine. If you think it good enough to publish, then do so; if not, then drop it in the waste basket.

Back of a Medal

FIRE was raging through a Virginia village at midnight. A telephone workman sped there from his home... found the central office in danger.

Relieving the girl operator, he handled all calls... summoned help from nearby towns... 'til buildings on both sides collapsed and the telephone building caught fire. Quickly he disconnected the small switchboard... moved it to safety... improved a telephone station in a field.

In 20 minutes he re-established communication. Next morning, the rescued switchboard was installed in new quarters... telephone service was resumed as usual.

That telephone man received the Vail Medal... one of several awarded each year to Bell System employees for outstanding public service. Devotion to duty... day by day as well as in emergencies... has given America the world's finest telephone system.

Holiday Weddings

The holiday season brought with it the usual number of marriages of present and former University students.

Bishop-Robertson
The marriage of Miss Mildred Bishop and Mr. Thomas Hamilton Robertson Jr. was solemnized December 23 in Paducah. Mrs. Roberts is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Bishop, of Lexington. She was graduated from Ward Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn., and attended the University.

Taylor-Wagner
The wedding of Miss Mary Lee Taylor and Mr. Oscar E. Wagner Jr., Chicago, was solemnized December 27, in Frankfort. Mrs. Wagner was a graduate of the University. For a number of years she has been a member of the faculty of the home economics department of Western Kentucky Teachers College at Bowling Green.

Smith-Sutherland
Miss Katherine Smith, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Smith, Lexington and Owenion, and Mr. Donald Bruce Sutherland, Detroit, were married December 28. The bride was graduated from the University and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. While in the University she was prominent in many campus activities. Mr. Sutherland also attended the University and was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Nelson-Archer
The marriage of Miss Mildred Buckner Nelson, Hopkinsville, to Mr. Robert Bridgeforth Archer, Frankfort, took place December 28 in Hopkinsville. Mrs. Archer received her A. B. degree from the University, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta.

Crabb-Tichenor
Miss Mary Moore Crabb, Yahala, Fla., and Mr. Leslie Powers Tichenor, Bardstovon, were married January 4 in Yahala, Fla. Mrs. Tichenor is a graduate of the University and has a position in Bardstovon with the State Board of Education.

Campbell-Platt
Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Moore Campbell have announced the marriage of their daughter, Jean, to Mr. Hugh Hunter Platt, son of Mrs. Hugh Hunter Platt, which was solemnized January 4. The bride attended the University where she was a member of Chi Omega. Mr. Platt attended the University and was a member of Kappa Alpha.

Moffett-Meese
The marriage of Miss Anne Priscilla Moffett, Lexington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moffett, to Mr. Clifford Meese, Lexington, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Meese, Danville, was solemnized January 8 in Lexington. The bride was graduated from the University.

club rooms in McVey hall. Preceding the dance there will be a social period from 8:30 to 9 o'clock. A dinner dance has been planned for February 8 in the University Commons. A special program and floor show has been planned and the dinner will be served in night club style.

3 MORROWS LAND SECRETLY

—Under circumstances of extraordinary secrecy in which port officials went to almost fantastic lengths to ensure privacy, Mrs. Dwight Morrow and her daughter Constantine, mother-in-law of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, arrived in England from the United States today. Mrs. Morrow and her daughter were spirited from the liner Bremen aboard a private tender, landed at a remote spot on the Southampton docks, and driven off in an automobile believed to be bound for London.

Anonymous Chides Campus Winchell

Bob Hess is a scandal writer for the Kernel here. He writes everything he sees, and some that comes by ear. He writes the good, he writes the bad, you see, he writes it all. He tells about college gangsters and about their moils. Sure, everyone likes his column, it's so easy to read. It's not hard to understand, he really hands out the feed for the next week a girl gets roses, the others week she's called dumb. Bob seems to like it really swell, others think it's bum. Bob can't seem to tell whether she's a red head or a blonde. One would think we all had heads to don.

One pin to each girl is really quite enough. But when they collect three or four—that's bad (or is it the stuff?) Bob seems to go for Northern girls—now. Maybe he doesn't like our drawl—Well, Bob, we've got a way of talking that makes some fellows crawl!

Bob goes for the football boys—he's not only a pundit but a snide. Some people tell me they're really lots of fun. But getting back to Bob, you know, he's really quite O. K. Maybe I'll be writing scandal for the Kernel in his place some day.

Hoi Polloi

By BOB HESS

Happy New Year. Yeah, it looks like a happy New Year with exams drawing near. What a life! There is no rest for the weary. Vacation! Just how could Christmas vacation for a college student be defined? "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we return to college to rest up" had been suggested. I diuno. These exams return in a rest for only such illustrious students (?) as Joe Scholtz—who, by the way, is leaving school next semester to wind his way in the business world. Methinks that the reason is to raise funds so that he will be in a better position to place a small gold band around the proper finger on the pretty little hand of Jean Pat Bell. Oh, well.

Engy is way up there in Gotham not having returned from the N. Y. U. game—so I am trying to replace Night and Day with this slush. Speaking of the game, certainly was tough—but Ted Husing, coming in with his broadcast after fifteen minutes of play, had many favorable comments for our boys. In the last few minutes of play, with only two UK regulars on the floor, the Violets upped the score so that the game didn't look nearly as even as it really was. We can't complain. Didn't we have Pitt 22 to 2 at the half only two weeks ago?

Vacation Gab
Did you see what Sandy Claus brought? Blanche Griffin from Ralph Kerchey for U. K. gift, gider, who is rated as one of the best punters to ever run on a field any time and any place? It looks like real love. And Harold "The Diamond Kid" Davidson gave Marie Vernon a beautiful diamond ring for the third digit of her left hand. ... Joe "The Nervous Wreck" Arvin gave Anna Bess Clark a super-radio—and Bessie retailed with a $39.50 wrist watch. Not bad. ... Parties, dances, teas and all that sort of bunk. ... Mention a certain hotel incident to Dusty Rhodes.

EASY GOING SOUTH NO PLACE FOR HER, SAYS WESTERNER

"Too soft for you Kentucky boys with your fat faces and wide smiles," declared a young California woman, recently visiting here, as she gazed upon a stream of young men pouring into a classroom. "You boys of this state and of the rest of the South certainly do lack that grimness so characteristic of us Westerners," said. "The lack of this indescribable ruggedness of you people here in the South strikes me as the most outstanding difference between the inhabitants of these two sections of the United States. But," she admitted, "if I were to live here for a year or so, I too would probably become soft and easy going. But I shan't be here very long."

She herself, the writer observed, was erect, well-muscled, and full of fire. Not an ounce of superfluous flesh did she carry. Her mouth was small and round, with thin, elastic lips. Her arms and hands, her face and nose, were a rosy pink from sun exposure. Glimping with robust health and dressed in simple, yet attractive clothes, she well-complicated the ruggedness of the country-loving Westerners. The "wid and woolly West," as portrayed by its inhabitants young women, has charms which we Southerners in our complacency, can hardly understand.

We entered the room and seated ourselves where a history class was in session. When a student came confused in attempting to answer a question asked by the teacher, my Western friend whispered to me, "He doesn't know anything. See how muddled he is. His brain is just like his body—too soft, too flabby. It lacks elasticity. It needs more resiliency."

Upon being asked the reason for this physical and mental difference between the people of the West and us, she reinforced me that the cooler, drier weather of her section stimulates the inhabitants to action; while the warmer and heavier atmosphere of our South tends to make us lazy and sluggish.

Another factor accounting for our dislike for activity and for our lethargy, she explained, was the carry over from slavery of the tradition that work is a disgrace; whereas in the West this false idea never got a foothold because slavery never existed there. "There are other reasons," she concluded, "but they are of a minor character."

"Your people are friendly and hospitable, and your country is beautiful and its inhabitants young, smart, and hard, but lest I should become soft and fat, I prefer the wide, rough West."

Emily Post, Miss Fairfax, Notice!

By all rules of conduct laid down by Emily Post and Beatrice Fairfax, charmed co-eds on the campus should smile warmly and whisper "thank you" in response to small favors. A recent Lantern survey, however, leads one to believe that Miss Post and Miss Fairfax are terribly old fashioned. An ambitious reporter stood outside a much used door and opened it for all students and professors as they approached. Only two out of every 15 co-eds said "thank you" for the favor, while only one out of every 15 men neglected to do so. The professors, as you could expect, contented themselves with nodding or saying "How do you do?" and "hello."

Kernel Sports Editor

By MAX LANCASTER

Forgive me folks, forgive me, for I know not what I do. And that goes for writing this, what I hope will be called a column...

This is the first time your writer has stepped to the plate since January 1 and four times he has struck out, but he hopes to do better this time.

As a football and basketball prognosticator he is the world's worst. If any of your guys want to make some money just ask him who is going to win a game and then bet on the opposite team...

Sport Sketches

By BOBBY EVANS

Wendell "Curly" Skaggs, regular tackle of the Wildcats football team, comes from Ashland, Ky... he is 21 years old, 6 feet and two inches tall, and weighs 185 pounds...

Lexington and Central Kentucky basketball fans will be able to witness some of the outstanding teams in the nation within the next month as the Wildcats start on their 1936 net schedule...

Helen Willis Moody and her opponent, playing on a tennis court in California early this week, established some sort of a freak record. They volleyed the ball continuously for one hour and eighteen minutes, or 2,001 consecutive times.

Probably a sports column is not the place to talk about music, but since this concerns a marathon of some kind it might be well worth my trouble to mention it.

And here I go round and round, and I came out here. PLUMMER TO SPEAK were Garvis D. Kincaid, president of the University Democratic club; Robert Reynolds, Webster county student, and Robert H. Chalmers, man of the college and university Young Men's Democratic clubs of Kentucky, presided as hostmaster.

QUESTIONNAIRE GIVEN TO FROSH

U.K. Committee on Information Interrogates Freshmen on Reasons for Attending University

The University Committee on Information mailed out a questionnaire yesterday to all freshmen to find out why they selected the University of Kentucky to attend school in preference to other institutions.

Review of School Year Is Presented

"The Swan" opened at the Guignol for a week's run. Willie Hughes Smith, society editor of the Kernel, was the "Campus Personality" of the month.

Friday 31 was moved to December 31. Easter was decreed by a religious canon in 325 to follow the first full moon after March 21 so that pilgrims to the large Easter celebrations of that time could travel by moonlight.

This calendar was based on 365.25 days in the year. Since there are 365.242 days actually, the calendar accumulated .008 of a day each year so that by 1582 it had accumulated 10 extra days.

The 13-month calendar would include 13 months of 28 days each, making 365 days. The 365 day would fall on December 29 and would be an extra Sabbath day following Sunday, December 28.

KAMPUS KERNELS (Continued from Page One) The debating team will meet at 7:30 Tuesday, Jan. 14, in Room 231, McVey hall.

Holidays Would Be Identical—If

(Continued from Page One) astronomically, the year containing 365.242 days. The first calendar made contained 10 months of 30 days each and five extra days which were holidays.

School Association Meet Begins Today
