STOLL FIELD — McLEAN STADIUM

Much confusion among the general public and the sports-writing fraternity apparently exists over a seeming duplication of titles in referring to the University of Kentucky's football setup along "Avenue of Champions."

Officially, by action of the University Board of Trustees, the general area encompassing the playing field is known as "Stoll Field." Likewise, by authority of the same body, the stadium proper is known as "McLean Stadium."

Kentucky's first football field, occupying the general site of what is now the practice field west of the stadium, was first given a name when it was dedicated on October 14, 1916, as Stoll Field in honor of the late Judge Richard C. Stoll, prominent alumnus, trustee and benefactor of the University of Kentucky. Soon after the first sections of the present concrete stadium were completed on September 4, 1924, the new field site and stadium were likewise officially known as Stoll Field.

The first attraction to be held on the new Stoll Field was a football game with the University of Louisville on October 4, 1924. A gridiron clash between Kentucky and the then-powerful Centre College team was the first game played in the fully-completed stadium on November 1, 1924.

The later reference to the concrete stands as "McLean Stadium" has existed since November 1, 1924, when the stadium was officially dedicated in memory of Price Innes McLean and a bronze plaque placed in the south stands by the Class of 1925. McLean, regular center on the 1923 Kentucky football squad, died November 7, 1923, as the result of injuries sustained in the U.K.-Cincinnati game played in the Queen City the afternoon before.

Major expansions of McLean Stadium in 1948 and 1949 have resulted in a current over-all seating capacity of approximately 36,000.

"Avenue of Champions" came into being in the spring of 1950 as an honorary title for that stretch of Euclid Avenue running between the University's $4,000,000 Memorial Coliseum and McLean Stadium. The street was officially re-named by the City of Lexington in recognition of the UK athletic teams' unprecedented success of 1950 in annexing the Southeastern Conference titles in both football and basketball and their national championships in the Sugar Bowl grid game and the NCAA cage tournament.

STOLL FIELD 'COW PASTURE' BIRTHPLACE OF DIXIE GRID SPORT

University of Kentucky's campus boasts the distinction of serving as the birth-place of Dixie football. Ironically, however, the forerunners of the present day Wildcats were not involved in the early grid contest.

The first inter-collegiate football game ever played in the South, and probably the first to take place west of the Alleghanies, came about April 9, 1880, on old Stoll Field. This gridiron, located adjacent to the present U.K. stadium and now used as a baseball field, was the site of the early tilt that saw Kentucky University (now known as Transylvania College) take the measure of Centre College, 13¾ to 0. The match, which was said to resemble a combination of soccer and rugby, followed by only six years the introduction of the game of football to the United States.

University of Kentucky (then called A & M College of Kentucky) did not play its first game until a year later on the same field, which once served as the private pasture for University President James Patterson's bovine herd.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

BERNIE A. SHIVELY

Supervising the steady growth and balanced development of one of the nation's top athletic programs is the Herculean task being carried out successfully by Bernie A. Shively.

Few who have observed the untiring efforts of the tall, silver-haired former All-America footballer in the service of the University of Kentucky since 1927 and as Director of Athletics since 1938 will argue his fitness as an athletic Hercules. Not only has Shively guided the development of Kentucky as a nationally-respected power in major sports, but he has also gained personal prestige through a fair-minded approach to many problems.

During his tenure as Athletic Director, Shively has directly supervised major expansions in Kentucky's athletic plant resulting from the progression of the school's football and basketball teams to greater national prominence and increased patronage by the sports-minded public.

The seating capacity of Kentucky's football stadium, McLean Stadium on Stoll Field, has been doubled to bring the current number of seats to approximately 36,000 and on par with most other schools located in heavier-populated areas. Powerful lighting equipment also was installed during the 1948-49 construction to bring night football into new popularity. Partly to satisfy the overwhelming number of basketball devotees, who could not squeeze into the 2,800-seat Alumni Gymnasium, a long-planned Memorial Coliseum was completed in 1950. Seating 11,500 persons for cage contests, the four-million dollar Coliseum also houses the Athletic Department and provides the first permanent home for the school's many minor sports teams. More recently, the Athletics Association has completed other facilities to make the life of its athletes more comfortable. Members of the football team moved in 1954 into two modern, ranch-style living units known as "Wildcat Manor" and "Kitten Lodge." The new dormitories house both the varsity and freshman teams and replace three frame houses which the gridders had occupied since 1946. And two years ago, a large new dressing room building was completed on property located adjacent to the new practice field and a short distance from the football houses. Other major expansions and improvements are in the planning stage.

All-America Guard At Illinois

A native of Paris, Ill., Shively attended the University of Illinois where he was an All-America guard in 1926 on the same grid team made famous by Red Grange. Demonstrating a claim to being one of the finest all-around athletes in Illinois' history, "Shive" also laid claim to the Big 10 heavyweight wrestling championship and annexed letters in track before graduating in 1927.

Shively came to Kentucky in 1927 as line coach of football under Harry Gammage. A shift in the coaching ranks in 1933 resulted in Shively's promotion to head of the UK Physical Education Department, a position he retained until he succeeded Chet Wynne as Athletic Director in 1938. During this period and the years following, he also served as track and baseball coach for several seasons and continued to assist the football staff as line coach until 1944. The next year, 1945, he assumed full charge of the grid squad for one season before turning the job over to mentor Paul (Bear) Bryant in 1946.

The Kentucky Athletic Director served as chairman of the Southeastern Conference basketball committee for a number of years and for the past four years has been president of the SEC Coaches and Athletic Directors Association. In 1951, he took over the added task of establishing a booking office for football and basketball officials for the Ohio Valley Conference and headed the office as Supervisor of Officials until relinquishing the post last year. Familiarly known to his many friends as "Shive," he also has been active in numerous other civic and state organizations and projects.

Shively and his wife, Ruth, have two children. Twenty-year old Doug is a star end on the Wildcat football team who made the All-Conference sophomore team last fall. Daughter Suzanne, a Phi Beta Kappa and president of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority in her senior year, graduated last spring from U.K.

ATHLETICS AT KENTUCKY

Kentucky's athletics program is organized under the Department of Athletics and a corporation known as the University of Kentucky Athletic Association.

A firm believer in sports and sportsmanship, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice-President of the University, has general supervision over the Department and also serves as vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Association.

Former UK football player and one-time Wildcat coach, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, acts as secretary to the Association. He also is the school's faculty representative to the Southeastern Conference and currently is chairman of the NCAA committee on infractions.

Bernie A. Shively heads the Department as Director of Athletics.

Maintaining over-all control of U.K. athletics affairs is the Board of Directors of the Athletics Association, composed of the President of the University and 10 other directors appointed by him, including five members of the faculty of the University, the president of the Student Government Association, an alumnus of the school, a member of the U.K. Board of Trustees, and two others. Frank D. Peterson, University Vice President of Business Administration, serves the board as treasurer.

The current Board of Directors consists of the following members:

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, Chairman	Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice Chairman

KENTUCKY'S COLORS

The blue and white of the University of Kentucky are known to sports fans everywhere. Officially the colors are Yale blue and white, but in the beginning, when the Lexington institution was still known as the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky, the colors were "Stoll blue" and white. One day back in the 1890's a group of Kentucky football stalwarts met to choose their school colors. Someone suggested blue and white—"blue like Dick Stoll's necktie"—and those colors were immediately adopted. "Dick" Stoll was to become Judge Richard C. Stoll, distinguished public servant and, for more than fifty years before his death, a member of the U.K. board of trustees.

BLANTON COLLIER

Head Football Coach

(Three Years — Won 19, Lost 10, Tied 1)

A quiet-mannered native Kentuckian, who fulfilled a life-long ambition when he took over the coaching reins at his home-state university in 1954, Blanton Collier is a man with a unique background and a potentially great future.

With only three years in the collegiate coaching ranks behind him, the popular Wildcat mentor is highly regarded in athletic circles the country over and already has earned the distinction of "Coach of the Year" in the tough Southeastern Conference, where a vote is harder to get than campaign promises in July.

In gaining this honor in his freshman season at Kentucky, an achievement made all the more significant considering it was the first time the title had been bestowed on a coach in his initial year of college tutoring, Collier climaxed a unique rise in the game.

Although his first three Wildcat elevens have not reached the Southeastern Conference throne room or taken part in post-season bowl activities, both University officials and the "Man In The Street" are satisfied with Collier's accomplishments and willing to give him at least two more years. The two seasons aren't any deadline, but represent the remainder of the five-year period that the coach estimated in 1954 would be necessary to build a team of personally-selected players and develop them into a serious contender.

Record Shows Two Triumphs Over Vols

Progress toward this goal has been remarkable. The Wildcats in three seasons under Collier have posted 19 wins and one tie in 30 starts, including two triumphs out of three meetings with arch-rival Tennessee. Even greater results are anticipated in the next two years. Only four men on the 1957 team are holdovers from the pre-Collier era and last season's undefeated freshman squad was called one of the best in years.

Coincidental with his success on the football field, Coach Collier has gained increasingly wide popularity and respect throughout the state and nation. Relations with Kentucky high school coaches are at an all-time high and the Wildcat mentor is constantly in demand as an authoritative lecturer at coaching clinics all over the country. This past summer, he travelled several thousand miles in the United States and went overseas for the Army and Air Force to conduct clinics for armed services personnel in Japan and Hawaii. He also was selected as one of the Eastern coaches in the annual Shrine East-West Game at San Francisco following last season.

Born in Millersburg, Ky., and brought up in Paris, Ky., only 17 Miles from the University campus, Collier began his athletic career at Paris High School by playing both football and basketball. Later at Georgetown College, he lettered in both sports. Although not an outstanding gridder because of his lack of size (he weighed only 125 pounds then), he was nevertheless regarded as a close student of the game, and upon graduation in 1927, was named coach of all sports at Paris High.

He held this position until he entered the Navy in 1943. During 16 years in the schoolboy coaching ranks, his teams won or shared two Central Kentucky Conference football titles and six basketball championships. His last high school grid team (1943) ranked as unofficial state champions. Also during this period he took postgraduate work at the University of Kentucky and received a master's degree in educational administration in 1942.

Joins Cleveland Browns' Staff In 1946

It was while he was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station during his Navy tour that Collier and Paul Brown discovered each other. Brown, a lieutenant and head coach of the Great Lakes football team, became impressed with Yoeman Collier's football knowledge and added him to the staff as an assistant coach. The following year (1946) when the Cleveland Browns were organized with Brown as head coach, Collier made the unique jump from high school ranks (via service ball) to the pros by going along as backfield coach.

During eight seasons with the perennial world champion Browns, Collier made a reputation that stamped him as a great teacher of football—determined but quietly patient. His special function as number one aide to Brown was pass defense and the club consistently ranked tops in the league in this department.

When the Kentucky job became available in 1954 with the transfer of Paul Bryant to Texas A & M, Collier was lured into collegiate ranks for the first time in nearly a quarter-century of coaching experience.

Given a three-year contract, Collier launched an immediate attack based on his version of the Split T offense and spiced with a generous helping of solid gridiron fundamentals and stress on perfection in play execution.

The results came almost immediately as the Wildcats, after an erratic start that saw a 2-3 split in the first five encounters, forged a victory string of five straight from mid-season and capped it with a hard-fought, rain-soaked win over their arch-rival, Tennessee, at Knoxville. The Kentuckians were in bowl contention all the way as they wound up with a 7-3 record. Collier was awarded "SEC Coach of the Year" honors and a new, five-year contract by grateful school authorities.

The 1955 campaign was virtually a repetition of the previous year. In carving out a 6-3-1 mark, the Colliermen could point with pride to the fact they registered a win over Mississippi, the only setback suffered by the eventual SEC and Cotton Bowl champions; a tie with league runner-up Auburn; and another triumph over powerful Tennessee that eliminated the Vols from bowl contention and again boosted Kentucky's stock for a post-season date.

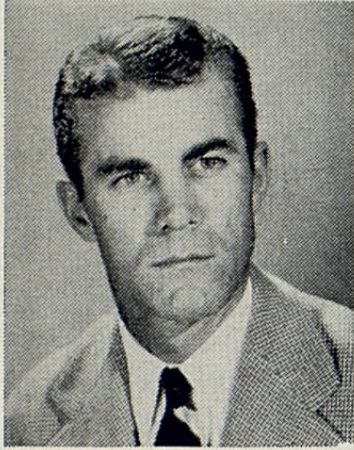

Although the 1956 campaign mark of six wins against four defeats left the Wildcats licking their superficial wounds in sixth place in the conference standings, most impartial authorities classed the record as remarkable. There were personnel problems and a plague of injuries from the outset that would have caused a less determined coach and his team to lose poise and collapse completely. The Wildcats suffered particularly from the absence of a dangerous passer and a speed merchant capable of slipping around the flanks. Despite this lack and injuries that made it all the more obvious to opponents many thought the Colliermen might have surprised the leaders with only a few breaks to their credit.

Collier married Miss Mary Forman Varden of Paris in 1931 and they have three daughters.

ALUMNUS COACH

Although Head Coach Blanton Collier did not receive his initial college degree from University of Kentucky, he nevertheless might rightfully be called the Wildcats' third alumnus coach. He was awarded a master's degree in educational administration by the University in 1942. Only other graduates of U.K. later to take up head football coaching duties at their alma mater were J. White Guyn (1906-08) and A. D. Kirwan (1938-44).

THE COACHING STAFF

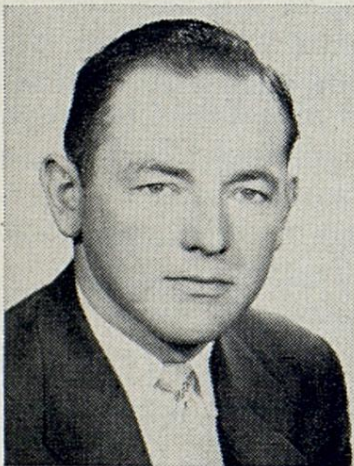

ERMAL ALLEN

(Kentucky '42)

Backfield Coach

One of Kentucky's most famous athlete graduates, Allen at 36 has had a full career as a collegiate star, pro-football player and successful college grid coach. He starred at quarterback for the Wildcat forces from 1939 to 1941 and entered military service following graduation. Returning as a graduate student after his discharge, Allen became the center of one of the Southeastern Conference's most controversial cases when he attempted to play a fourth year of football in 1946 and was declared ineligible after two games. Allen joined the UK coaching staff of Paul Bryant for the remainder of the '46 season, spent the '47 campaign as a T-quarterback with the professional Cleveland Browns, whose backfield coach at this time was Blanton Collier, and then re-joined the Wildcat staff in 1948. He became Kentucky's head freshman mentor in 1950 and was promoted at season's end to backfield coach. The youthful Allen was retained in this capacity when Collier became head man of the Wildcats. In the off season, he plays a lot of golf and in 1955 won the state amateur championship. Hometown: Morristown, Tenn.

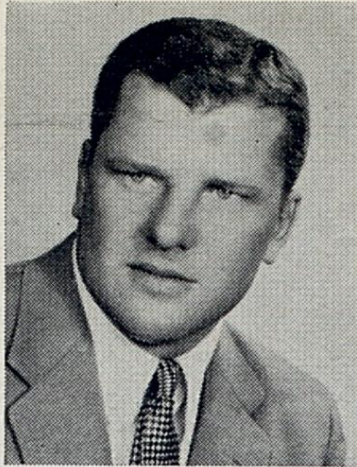

BILL ARNSPARGER

(Miami (O.) '50)

Offensive Line Coach

One of Coach Collier's former grid pupils at Paris (Ky.) High School and a native Kentuckian, Arnsparger joined the UK staff in 1954 as an assistant in charge of offensive line play. The 28-year-old former Marine brought to the staff an excellent background of coaching experience which began at Miami (Ohio) U. following his graduation from that school in '50. In 1951, he moved with boss Woody Hayes to Ohio State where he was tackle coach in charge of offensive line play for three seasons. Arnsparger played at tackle and guard on Collier's teams at Paris High from 1941-43 and entered UK as a freshman in '44. His tour of duty in the Marines began shortly thereafter and he transferred to Miami U. after his discharge to play under Sid Gillman and later Hayes. Hometown: Paris, Ky.

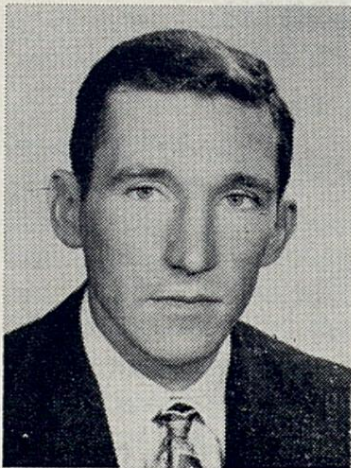

MATT LAIR
(Kentucky '48)

Defensive Line Coach

A tough competitor who looks the part of the former top-notch football guard that he was during his days at University of Kentucky, Lair is another product of Blanton Collier's coaching. He was born in nearby Paris, Ky., and played three years of the grid sport under Collier when the latter was coach at Paris High. Entering UK in 1941, Lair was a blocking back for two seasons before going in the service. Upon his return in '46, he played out his final two years' eligibility as a guard regular and then began a career in high school coaching. He was line coach at Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., for three years, served one year as an assistant at Louisville Manual and in 1953 was head coach at Parrish High in Selma, Ala. Matt has inherited the task of keeping a scholastic check on Kentucky's gridders to make certain they tackle the classroom grind with the same forcefulness asked of them on the football field. Hometown: North Middletown, Ky.

CHARLEY BRADSHAW
(Kentucky '50)

End Coach

An outstanding flankman during his playing days at University of Kentucky, Bradshaw is a serious-minded student of the game who brings to the coaching staff experience as a gridder of great native ability and as a successful high school coaching assistant. He played center and earned his first letter as a freshman with the Wildcats in 1946 and was the team's regular right end for the two and a quarter seasons following until he was ruled ineligible early in the '49 campaign by Commissioner Moore on grounds that he had played out his eligibility. Bradshaw finished out the season as an assistant freshman coach at UK and then moved to Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., as an assistant football coach and co-ordinator of a junior high program. He became an aide on the Collier staff in 1954 and holds an M.A. degree to supplement his football knowledge. Hometown: Montgomery, Ala.

DOMINIC FUCCI
(Kentucky '51)

Defensive Backfield Coach

Experienced as an outstanding collegiate gridder and professional player, Fucci this fall enters his third term as an aide on the staff of Blanton Collier. The former all-around athlete, who in 1949 became the Wildcats' first All-America baseball star, helped out in the fall of 1954 after he had suffered a broken arm in early action with the pro Detroit Lions football club. Returning to the Lions for the '55 campaign, he saw considerable action as a defensive back and will handle these familiar chores in a coaching assignment this year. In three seasons at Kentucky, Fucci saw duty as a reserve quarterback, special occasion half-back and regular end and was the team's number one punter in both 1949 and '50. Following graduation in 1951, he played professional baseball for a time with the New York Yankees' farm system and then entered service. Hometown: New Village, N. J.

JOHN NORTH

Freshman Coach

A former star flankman at Vanderbilt, John North joined the Kentucky coaching staff in the spring of 1956 as Freshman Coach after a full career as collegian, pro player, high school and college coach. The 35-year-old Tennessee native was in the Vanderbilt camp for the 1941 and 1942 seasons before entering military service during World War II. He served three years in the Marines, attaining the grade of sergeant, and upon his release returned to Vandy to play out his remaining years of eligibility in 1946-47. Despite shot-up legs from Marine battles in the South Pacific, he earned second string All-SEC honors and went on to play end two years for the Baltimore Colts. He started his coaching career at a high school in Tallahassee, Ala., in 1951 and three seasons later became line coach at Tennessee Tech, a job he held for the two campaigns immediately preceding his transfer to Kentucky. North holds a master's degree from Peabody College in Nashville. Hometown: Old Hickory, Tenn.

ED RUTLEDGE

(Western Ky. '41)

Freshman Backfield Coach

Newest member of the Collier staff and occupant of a newly-created position of Freshman Backfield Coach, Rutledge attended Western Kentucky State College, where he played end for three seasons prior to graduation in 1941. He spent the next six and one-half years as a Navy pilot and rose to the rank of Lt. Commander during service in the Panama Canal area. Rutledge also starred in 1941 on the Pensacola NAS football squad recognized as the all-service champion of the USA. The 38-year-old Ohio native has a coaching background that includes a short stint as an assistant at Ironton, Ohio, and Bowling Green (Ky.) High as well as experience as athletic officer of the Naval Air Technical Training Center at Memphis. He also served seven months in 1948 as a special agent of the FBI. Rutledge became coach at Danville (Ky.) High after the 1952 campaign and in three seasons posted one of the most outstanding records of any high school coach in the country by annexing 24 victories against only three losses and two ties. The 1954 Danville team, only undefeated and untied eleven in the state, claimed the Kentucky schoolboy grid crown. Coach Collier brought him to UK in the spring of 1956. Hometown: Ironton, Ohio.

COLLIER GOES FROM SINGLE WING TO SPLIT T IN 25 YEARS' COACHING

Collier's football philosophy has varied little during more than 25 years of coaching experience. During his high school days at Paris, he taught the Single Wing system and didn't change over to the T formation until he was coaching the quarterbacks at Great Lakes during the war. He first gained experience with the "T" as a spectator during his boot camp training at Bainbridge, Md., and later while observing the pro Philadelphia Eagles of Greasy Neale. During his tenure as backfield tutor of the Cleveland Browns, he stressed the straight or "back-up" T formation. At Kentucky, he chose to utilize the Split T and plans to stick with the system, with minor variations, this season. He considers himself basically a running coach and attempts to keep a 60-40 balance in favor of the ground attack.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL PROSPECTS — 1957

Coach Blanton Collier hesitates to come right out and predict that Kentucky will be weaker or will field a stronger team than the outfit of a year ago which rang up a very respectable, 6-4 record. However, the hesitancy isn't merely the normal reticence of every football mentor to put himself "on the spot" before the season opens.

In the case of the 1957 Wildcats, the difficulty of forecasting a definite outlook is due to two opposing factors: (1) Kentucky was blessed with an admittedly good crop of freshmen last season, many of whom had a lot of physical equipment and ability that should qualify them for outstanding varsity play; (2) Losses via the graduation route took away eight starters, including the entire backfield, and seven other experienced lettermen.

The big question that cannot be answered before the classy schedule of this season is at least three games old is: "Can the prospect of greater depth in the form of about 40 sophomores offset the loss of experience to a degree that will allow the re-building of a combination capable of winning in the class of competition to be challenged?" Collier professes to be uncertain in view of his experience that "sophomores generally have to learn the hard way and their mistakes in the process of learning sometimes are costly."

Chief problems are the finding of an entirely new backfield combination, a right tackle and depth at the end spots.

All-America Tackle Bids For Greater Honors

Personnel-wise, the mainstay of the team and the leader Collier is counting on to rally the predominantly-young squad is All-America Lou Michaels, 235-pound senior tackle from Swoyerville, Pa. Bigger and rougher than a year ago when he was a consensus All-America choice, Lou will again anchor the left side of the line and from all spring practice indications should have another great year as one of the nation's top linemen.

Other top performers include junior flankman Doug Shively, due to hold down the left end assignment that he did so well at late last season. Collier classes the 6-2, 197-pound Shively as a fine receiver, a rapidly improving blocker, excellent defensive man, good in the speed department and predicts he will be one of the best all-around ends in the league. Doug was an All-Conference Sophomore Team selection last season.

Last year's leading ground gainer, halfback Bobby Cravens, returns to lend valuable help in the backfield where he posted a 4.3 average in the past campaign. Although he was an All-America high school performer, the Owensboro, Ky., speedster never quite made the grade to regular starting duty a year ago as a sophomore but is being counted upon to produce as a number one man this season. Another veteran who looked good this spring is senior right end John Cornelius, second leading pass receiver in a blighted passing attack last year who has shown signs of definite improvement. Co-captains of this season's Kentucky eleven will be guard Bob Collier and quarterback Kenny Robertson.

In the sophomore department next fall, Kentucky expects to have a trio of outstanding backs. Due to be battling Co-Captain Robertson for the quarterback assignment are Lowell Hughes, one of Kentucky's most fabulous all-around athletic products since Wah Wah Jones; and Jerry Eisaman, a Pennsylvania sharpshooter who "threads the needle" with his accurate tosses at distances up to 60 yards. Between them, the rivals accounted for five touchdowns via the airwaves in the spring practice game.

Soph Glenn Shaw Potential Star Back

The other standout in the first year varsity ranks, on the basis of his terrific pace as a freshman and spring showing this season, will be halfback Glenn Shaw. A six-foot-one-inch, 200 pounder from Paducah, Ky., Shaw was an All-American schoolboy sensation and led the Kentucky freshmen to an undefeated season last year by posting a terrific 11.7 rushing average.

Improvement also is expected in Kentucky's overall attack with the prospect of two top notch passers in the sophomore quarterbacks and better team speed to bolster the running phase of operations.

Whether the presence of potentially outstanding personnel and expected offensive improvement will make for a better record against a field of 10 strong opponents in the space of one session remains to be seen. There's no optimism in the Kentucky camp that the anticipated improvement will make the Wildcats a world beater. Rather, many feel it may take still another year for the "new look" Collier team to reach the status of a serious championship contender. About the only thing certain is the belief that this will be an interesting outfit capable of giving every opponent a terrific battle.

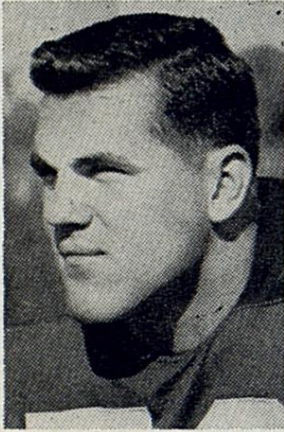

FRONT COVER DRAWING PROFILE OF AN ALL AMERICAN

LOU MICHAELS

Senior—Swoyerville, Pa.

If it weren't for his size, a disarming smile and suaveness of personality might cause stellar tackle Lou Michaels to be mistaken for just another student on the bluegrass campus of the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Size isn't the only thing that causes the beefy Wildcat tackle to stand out, however. He has a reputation on the gridiron that almost every coed or envious male can cite word and verse.

Above all else, Michaels enjoys a spot of pre-eminence among the nation's 1957 grid elite. Only he can lay claim to being the nation's sole returning pigskinner with consensus All-America honors on his sterling record. Pre-season forecasts this year have tabbed him as a unanimous probable All-America repeater and such nationally-known magazines as Saturday Evening Post, Look and Playboy point to the Kentucky star as the top nominee for "Lineman of the Year" honors.

Big Lou earned a spot on the consensus honor eleven of last season the hard way. Kentucky was a good ball club, but its eventual 6-4 record hardly caused the All-America pickers to check the roster carefully for candidates. However, the calibre of performances that the Wildcats' 6-2, 235-pound junior tackle turned in starting with the very first game against Georgia Tech caused many an eyebrow to be cocked in his direction. very first game against Georgia Tech caused many an eyebrow to be cocked in his direction.

If ever an All-American were made in one game, Michaels accomplished the feat with a great day against Bobby Dodd's Engineers on opening day of the 1956 campaign before a near-capacity crowd in Lexington and millions of viewers looking in via "Game of the Week" television. Typical of his all-around talent was a 61-yard punt on the fly out of Kentucky's end zone that caused Dodd to testify to as "the greatest pressure kick I've ever seen." The highly-respected Tech mentor paid further tribute to the UK tackle's All-America candidacy with the comment: "Michaels ruined every running play that came near him . . . (he) was the best player on the field."

That's the way it went all season. Pressure never bothered Lou. Great things were expected of him and he came through time after time. He won the solid backing of Southern coaches by his standout performances. He was named to the Associated Press All-America checklist eight out of the 10 weeks of Kentucky's season.

At season's end, the husky Wildcat had picked up the prestige-filled honor of being selected as Southeastern Conference "Lineman of the Year." And in national balloting by the United Press, who chose him on their honor eleven, Lou got the fourth highest number of votes for the national top lineman award.

It's been a long haul for the brawny lad from the Pennsylvania community of Swoyerville. Michaels (whose name is Americanized from the Polish Majka) first won widespread notice when he achieved the unusual feat of making the All-State teams in two different states during a sensational schoolboy career—first in Pennsylvania while at Swoyerville and, as a senior, at Staunton Military Academy in Virginia.

The mature young giant, who is likely to be the top draft choice of the pro teams, captured wide attention as a Kentucky freshman in 1954 when he turned in sparkling performances, both offensively and defensively, at left tackle and handled the point-after-touchdown kicking chores. He showed unmistakable signs of greatness two seasons back as a sophomore, improving with each game and gaining a spot at season's end on the All-Southeastern Conference Sophomore Team as well as honorable mention on many All-America selections.

Even greater things are expected of Michaels this year with his added grid savvy, greater confidence, and the pressure of living up to a reputation.

BUSTER BROWN—Equipment Manager: Handling the duties of handing out approximately $10,000 worth of football gear to the team is a seasoned veteran, S. C. (Buster) Brown. The tough-but-popular Brown served the University athletic teams in the capacity of Equipment Manager for several years before World War II. After wartime work as a stevedore on the West Coast, Buster returned to Kentucky and his old job in 1952.

KEN KUHN—Publicity Director: A veteran of nine years in the job of publicizing Wildcat football and other sports activities of UK, Kuhn came to Lexington via Michigan State from which he was graduated in 1942 and later served as an assistant in the Public Relations Department. Before moving over to the Athletic Department in 1948, he worked two years as News Editor in UK's Department of Public Relations. Kuhn is the current president of the Southeastern Conference Sports Publicity Association.

JOHN (Rusty) PAYNE—Trainer: John first came in contact with Kentucky football when he helped out his predecessor, Smoky Harper, during the Wildcats' pre-Sugar Bowl practice on the Louisiana State campus in 1950. After graduating from LSU that year, the red-haired Arkansas native spent two years in the Marine Corps at Paris Island and Quantico, serving much of the time as athletic trainer. He joined the Kentucky staff in 1954, the same season that Coach Collier came.

SERIES HISTORY: Although Kentucky and Georgia Tech first met on the gridiron in 1923, only 15 meetings are recorded in the series due to a couple of lengthy gaps in an otherwise generally-consistent rivalry. The series stands at eight wins to six and one tie in favor of the Yellow Jackets, but UK's record in recent years against one of the nation's foremost grid powers is surprisingly good. Notable Wildcat victories are a 28-14 upset handed Tech in a 1950 meeting at Atlanta and an equally-surprising, 13-6 stinger plucked out of the 1954 game, also at Atlanta. The former proved an important stepping stone in Kentucky's successful bid for a first SEC title and invitation to the Sugar Bowl. Ga. Tech is scheduled to provide opening game competition for the next several years.

LAST MEETING: Depth in experienced hands and a wealth of reserve strength provided the deciding edge in the Engineers' favor as the Dodd wrecking crew captured a close decision from the keyed-up Wildcats, 14-6, in the NCAA TV "Game of the Week" at Lexington last season. In handing Kentucky a fifth straight season opener loss, Tech picked up its deciding marker with the aid of a break two plays earlier that saw a "quick whistle" deny UK possession on a fumble recovery. Kentucky got its score after tackle Lou Michaels, who earned his All-America spurs with a great performance, jarred a Tech back loose from the ball and end Doug Shively recovered on the Tech 13.

1957 OUTLOOK: Prospects reportedly are so dim—or unpredictable—that the Engineers have put off plans to add to their stadium this year. That might be a tipoff, but Bobby Dodd is too "wealthy" a coach to be caught too short. Fellow coaches take the Atlanta story, which says the '57 team will be the youngest and most inexperienced in Dodd's 13 years, with a degree of hesitancy. What isn't noted in the reports of only six returnees from the ranks of the top 22 Engineers of last year is the prospective presence of a talented group of 40-odd graduates of the famed Tech "B" squad. All-America center Don Stephenson heads the list of veterans which also includes top flight end Jerry Nabors and fabulous scatback Stan Flowers. Look for improved defensive play, a new emphasis for Tech, and a "new" semi-spread formation. Definitely a top level contender. This year's game will be the daylight encounter of a day-night doubleheader on Grant Field. Pairing off in the nightcap are Georgia and Texas.

SERIES HISTORY: A strange sequence of upsets and near-upsets flavors the comparatively-young, but colorful rivalry between the Wildcats and Ole Miss. In the dozen-plus meetings since the series was inaugurated in 1944, neither club has been able to win more than two successive games to gain a distinctive edge in the battling. The Wildcats got the series off to an auspicious start by winning the first game, but the men of Coach Johnny Vaught came right back to take the decision in three out of the next four meetings. But it was in 1947 that the fireworks started. Kentucky claimed a 47-0 advantage in overcoming an underdog role and starting on the road to big-time football prominence. Since then, the Kentucky game has proved the "make or break" situation for the Rebels' season and upsets have been in the category of "a dime a dozen." The 1954 meeting in Memphis will be remembered as a penalty-marred spectacle resulting in several new conference records on yardage walked off for violations. Two seasons back, Kentucky added new fire to the "beat the favorite" series history by upending the defending SEC champions in Lexington. The 21-14 setback was the only blemish on the Rebs' record as they waltzed to a second straight SEC title and Cotton Bowl win.

LAST MEETING: True to the spoiler role that one team or the other has played so often in the rivalry, Ole Miss completely routed (37-7) Kentucky at Memphis last season to spoil what looked like a promising future for the Cats after their supreme effort against Ga. Tech the week before. Engineering the third straight beating handed the Wildcats in Crump Stadium was a then-third-string quarterback, Ray Brown, who picked off a Delmar Hughes pass as UK was driving for a TD to erase a 3-point Rebel lead. From that point on, the Kentuckians could not muster a threat and Mr. Brown (who'll be around again this year) personally scored three touchdowns.

1957 OUTLOOK: The fact that Brown is back with the added reputation as the SEC's best passer should be enough to make opponents take a good look at Ole Miss' pennant chances. Although losses were rather heavy, Coach Johnny Vaught can still fashion a first unit around a hard core of experience with eight seniors and three juniors getting the starting call. The "new look" Mississippians reportedly are not blessed with the terrific speed of last year, but could slip some in the running department and still rank as one of the South's best all-around attack units. Vaught likely will stick to the Split T offense that he introduced to the South in 1948, but just as likely there will be some new wrinkles added to keep up Ole Miss' high standing in the total offense rankings. Top personnel are Brown at quarterback, tackle Gene Hickerson and guard Jackie Simpson. Back from service is three-letter halfback Bobby McCool, a lad well remembered. It's hard to get excited about the Rebs' chances of copping the title, but all the experts are figuring them among the top three or four outfits in the conference and it's obvious from the schedule arrangement that Kentucky is their major objective.

SERIES HISTORY: The Wildcats have enjoyed things pretty much their own way over the years of the grid rivalry with Florida, posting an advantage of 12 wins to the Gators' four in the 16 contests played since the series started with a 52-0 shellacking administered to Florida in the final game of the 1917 campaign. The Sunshine Staters could manage only a pair of victories prior to 1952, but the outcomes since then have been less one-sided. In the first four years (1952-55), the two schools each produced two winning efforts—oddly enough the even year encounters (1952-1954) were Gator victories while Kentucky took its decisions on the odd years. This aspect of the strange trend of the series came to a halt with the UK success of last season. But another unusual angle developed as a field goal with only seconds remaining played a vital part in the Wildcat wins. Two years ago, a scant 23 seconds remained when Delmar Hughes, a quarterback sidelined earlier in the contest by a broken nose, came off the bench to kick a successful 20-yard field goal that gave UK a 10-7 decision. Last year, tackle Lou Michaels booted a rain-soaked ball 34 yards to put the Wildcats in front to stay. This time, only two seconds remained before the end of the first half.

LAST MEETING: Michaels' field goal, described above, drowned Florida's thirst for victory at a time when the Wildcats were nursing a slim, one-point lead. But there were other remarkable aspects to the eventual, 17-8 Kentucky triumph. Native Floridian Kenny Robertson did a masterful job of quarterbacking an errorless ball handling in the rain-and-mud-hampered contest. He also scored one touchdown personally and passed for the only other TD made by the Wildcats. Four Florida fumbles, each capitalized on by Kentucky, proved the Gators' downfall.

1957 OUTLOOK: Almost without looking, one can pick up the many and varied pre-season forecasts each year with expectations of finding Florida listed in the category of a "sleeper." Often times in recent years, the men of Coach Bob Woodruff have been hard pressed to live up to their assigned role but they surprised last year with a third place SEC finish that pegs them as a really dangerous foe this season. Most experts again label them as a prospect for fifth or sixth place in the league, but per usual say in effect: "Watch those Gators. There's talent there despite their loss of eight stalwarts considered starters." Heading this talent list are tackle and team Capt. Charlie Mitchell, triple-threat halfback Jim Rountree and leading ground gainer Ed Sears at fullback. Woodruff will mix the "T" and Split-T.

SERIES HISTORY: Former Southeastern Conference football “doormats” Kentucky and Auburn first got together on the gridiron at Lexington in 1934, the year after the league was organized, and played another game the following season at Montgomery before interrupting their series for nearly two decades. Each held a victory out of the early meetings and the 1954 scrap, which resumed the rivalry, resulted in a 21-14 decision in the Wildcats’ favor. Tilts between the new-found grid powers the past two seasons have evened the series at a pair of victories for each plus a tie that evolved from a frustrating game at Birmingham in 1955.

LAST MEETING: The age-old axiom in football circles of keeping the defense honest proved Kentucky’s undoing in last season’s encounter with the Tigers on Stoll Field. Unable to muster a passing attack for the third game in a row (only six yards had been gained since the Tech game and Auburn allowed nothing), the Wildcats couldn’t keep their opponents from ganging up on the running plays with an eight-man line. And when they got the ball, particularly in the second half, it was deep in their own territory. The Cats had three chances to score, but each time the offense bogged down for lack of variety or from its own mistakes. Scatback Tommy Lorino set up Auburn's first touchdown with a scintillating, 68-yard run in the opening stanza and scored the second on a short dash with only seconds left.

1957 OUTLOOK: Auburn lost seven of the 11 starters from the 1956 team which defeated Kentucky, but despite these losses Coach Shug Jordan should be able to field a capable eleven again this season. The main ingredients are on hand in the league's top receiver, All-America end hopeful Jimmy Phillips, and two of the finest halfbacks on one team in the country—Tommy Lorino (his 8.44 rushing average led the nation) and Bobby Hoppe (6.5 ave.). Since the two '56 quarterbacks have departed, Auburn will have to depend on an inexperienced field general to run their Spread-T machinery. All told, however, eleven of the 14 backs who guided the Tigers to the number one position in SEC rushing and total offense last year are still around to plague opponents. Many experts are ranking Auburn right at the top of their conference in pre-season estimates and if they get by Tennessee, Kentucky and Ga. Tech in the space of the first four weeks, you can count them a shoo-in for the title and a bowl bid.

SERIES HISTORY: Inaugurated with a game at Baton Rouge in 1949, the Kentucky-Louisiana State grid series is the youngest rivalry within the Southeastern Conference. Seven meetings make up the series which has been played annually with the exception of the 1951 season and Kentucky has a slight upper hand in the low-scoring games, chalking up four wins to the Tigers' two and a 6-6 tie in 1953. Coach Paul Dietzel, a former Kentucky aide under Paul Bryant who took over the football reins at LSU in 1955, got his career as a head coach off to an auspicious start by trouncing the Wildcats in the season opener that year which was ranked as one of the biggest shockers of the campaign. A year later, when the Tigers visited Lexington, Dietzel's darlings found the going a bit rougher and the Cats gained vengeance with a comparatively-easy, 14-point whitewash job that got UK started on a winning streak that carried to the finale with Tennessee.

LAST MEETING: Gambling quarterback Kenny Robertson turned in his second fine performance of the season to help the Wildcats get off on a winning streak with a 14-0 triumph over LSU in a night encounter at Lexington last year. With instructions from his coach to "fire and fall back" at all costs, Roby got Kentucky's aerial attack off the ground when it counted. Although passing netted only 66 yards on five completions in 13 tries, it was almost twice as much as had been gained up to this game and came at crucial points in the battle. Turning point of the game came when Robertson, on his own initiative, chose to gamble on a fourth and five situation on the LSU 49 late in the second quarter. He tossed a perfect strike to halfback Billy Mitchell on the 35 which set the stage for Kentucky's first touchdown and broke the visitors' morale. Coach Collier also gave much credit to tackle Lou Michaels and Robertson for leading outstanding defensive efforts that turned back the few LSU threats that developed.

1957 OUTLOOK: The Bayou Bengals lost seven performers classed as starters off their eleventh-place '56 outfit that posted only three wins in seven starts, but it may be a blessing in disguise. Reports circulated in the Deep South late last season that LSU (and a lot of other folks) thought their freshman crop one of the best in the country. These boys are up for varsity duty this season and if there are many like the sensational scatback Billy Cannon, big and jet-fast, to go along with veterans like fullback Jimmy Taylor, leading scorer of the SEC, this could be a pretty dangerous bunch. Look for definite improvement by the straight and Split T forces of Mr. Dietzel.

SERIES HISTORY: Georgia and Kentucky began their rivalry on the football field with a game at Louisville on Oct. 21, 1939. The two schools met almost annually from that time until the series was broken off after the 1949 game and not resumed until last season. Although the Wildcats can point to victories in the first and last games of the series, it is the Bulldogs of veteran Coach Wally Butts who have the edge in the rivalry, five games to four and one tie. Georgia, at the height of its power in the forties, took four straight meetings from the Kentuckians in these years before UK football came of age. The Bulldogs' last top-flight ball club was a 1948 aggregation that posted a 10-1 mark, won the SEC title and defeated Texas in the post-season Orange Bowl. In the years since, Georgia and her venerable tutor have not been able to match the prominence of the championship season and on the way down have been knocked around by a good many teams, including Kentucky, on the way up. The Wildcats' 1949 victory, a 25-0 upset staged in Lexington, rates as their greatest effort against Butts' Bulldogs.

LAST MEETING: Kentucky rolled into Athens last season with the forewarning that no Wildcat grid outfit had bested Georgia on her home ground in four previous visits, but came out as a history maker on the long end of a 14 to 7 score. Blanton Collier's first meeting with veteran mentor Wally Butts displayed all the earmarks of a standoff for 57 minutes and nine seconds. Then quarterback Kenny Robertson uncorked his second successful heave of the afternoon and flankman John Cornelius made a terrific catch of the 43-yard aerial in the end zone for the winning marker.

1957 OUTLOOK: Like most other Southeastern elevens, Georgia points to the loss of lettermen in double figures and many starters (seven Bulldog regulars are gone) as an indication that all is not rosy in camp. However, the official word is that the Georgians will be "much more potent offensively . . . (and) a dangerous passing team." As is the case at Kentucky, the Bulldogs feel they have a pair of soph passers second to none in the persons of Charley Britt and Tommy Lewis. On the pessimistic side, it is suggested that they face their toughest schedule in history and it's mighty hard to argue the point. The experts are again picking them for a finish just short of the cellar, but the sophs and veterans like Capt. Jeff Davis, the nation's leading punt returner on average last fall, could surprise.

SERIES HISTORY: Kentucky and Memphis State clashed on the gridiron for the first time in 1953 and the pair executed an interesting rivalry for three years which was billed as a pre-Tennessee warmup for the Wildcats. The intention of the obvious mis-match was to acquaint Kentucky's players with Single Wing formations the week before meeting the masters of the art, but Coach Ralph Hatley switched to the Split-T in 1955. After the game of that year was won by the biggest margin in the series history (41-7) due to Kentucky's familiarity with the standard formation, the rivalry was interrupted and the two did not meet last season. In the two previous meetings, the Tigers had played their roles perfectly by relying on the Tennessee-type offense to make themselves anything but pushovers.

LAST MEETING: The script that the Tigers were to follow got lost along the line somewhere between the 1954 contest and the '55 meeting as Coach Hatley pulled a switch from the Single Wing a-la-Tennessee to the more conventional Split T. As far as Kentucky was concerned, that was the worst thing that could have happened outside of importing a new team since they got no preparation of the type needed and achieved a meaningless victory over their outclassed foe, 41 to 7.

1957 OUTLOOK: Memphis reports on the immediate future of the hometown Tigers have it that this could be another good year with personnel on hand to get the job done against foes of equal calibre. Some go so far as to predict that Memphis State easily might win all its encounters with the exception of the two where they overstep into the tough SEC to meet Miss. State and Kentucky. Quarterback looms as the strongest spot. Here Hatley has the services of three experienced hands—the one-two combination of last year, Jim Leonard and Jim Armstrong, and a transfer from Ole Miss by the name of Fred Hearn. Also watch for Bob Schmidt, a 210-pound halfback already tabbed for future duty with the Chicago Bears. The Tigers appear fully capable of giving anyone a hard time, especially if taken lightly.

SERIES HISTORY: Kentucky and the Vanderbilt Commodores first got together on the gridiron way back in 1896 at Nashville and the rivalry has been perpetuated intermittently ever since with the result that it is one of the oldest in the South from the standpoint of first meeting and number of games. Only the series with Tennessee exceeds it on the UK schedule. Surprisingly, in view of the fact that Vandy's football fortunes are thought of as being at a low ebb until 1955 (their highest finish since SEC organized was second place in '35), the history shows a record solidly in their favor—21 wins to Kentucky's six and two ties. An indication of the Commodores' greatness of yesteryear is reflected by 12 shutouts they registered in the first 26 years of the rivalry and the fact UK did not get into the win column until 1939. However, the post-war years saw the Wildcats blossom into national prominence and the record shows only two setbacks in the past decade, one of them a 34-0 humiliation helped along by injuries two years ago at Nashville.

LAST MEETING: Quarterback Delmar Hughes' educated toe, which five times in his career won or saved a game for the Wildcats, provided the margin of victory as Kentucky took a 7-6 decision from the Commodores on Stoll Field last season. The win not only gave the homecoming crowd a thrill and achieved revenge for the team's humiliation of the year before, but also was all-important in assuring Kentucky a winning season for the eleventh year in a row. Hughes also tossed the 38-yard scoring pass caught by end Doug Shively to deadlock the contest in which Vandy had drawn first blood.

1957 OUTLOOK: Cagney Art Guepe after four seasons at the Commodore helm has decided to "go for broke" by introducing a new offense. Officially it's known as the "Varigated-T." Actually it is a Split-T base multiple offense employing some of the best features of the Standard-T, single and double wing. If it doesn't confuse the Commodores as much as the opposition, Vanderbilt could be tough. Such fine operators as Phil King, a 210-pound All-SEC halfback; 230-pound tackle Pat Swan; and end Bob Laws are still in the fold and some top soph prospects are on call. Vandy lost 13 of its 1956 lettermen, including six starters and returns 15 letter winners.

SERIES HISTORY: Kentucky and its neighbor to the north of the Mason-Dixon line have met on the gridiron 13 times with the initial contest taking place in 1935 at Cincinnati and the last at Lexington a year ago. The meeting last season resumed the rivalry which had been interrupted after the 1949 renewal. The Muskies' lone triumph in their series with the Wildcats came in 1938 as they posted a 27-6 success at Cincinnati. Kentucky has taken all the others, generally by decisive scores. A 70-0 shellacking administered by UK in '46 stands as one of the biggest point-production efforts ever seen on Stoll Field. The record high is an 83-0 debacle involving hapless North Dakota in a 1950 meeting with one of UK's greatest teams.

LAST MEETING: Making only its third journey to Lexington in the 13 years of grid relations with UK, Xavier found their hosts a "rude" bunch and went home sadder but wiser on the short end of a 33-0 defeat. The Muskies were riding a three-game winning streak going into the game and doing all right in their class. But the Bluegrass eleven had too many horses for the scrappy Muskies to cope with as 35 men saw action and even the reserves found it hard to hold back. Oddly enough, Xavier actually out-gained Kentucky in net total offense, 347 to 341.

1957 OUTLOOK: Colorful and successful Mick Connolly, who has piloted the Muskies into the winner's circle 73 percent of the time in the past two seasons, should be able to field another good ball club this season with a little luck. He has a hard core six starters and nine other lettermen reserves to build around and reportedly will have fine overall speed plus depth in the line. Ace Split-T quarterback Roger Bertoia, outstanding in Lexington last year, is gone but understudy Ralph Lane is still around. Bob Young, a rangy wingman who caught 18 passes for 396 yards last year, is team captain.

SERIES HISTORY: Among the six oldest football rivalries in the South, the Kentucky-Tennessee series dates from a memorable encounter in Knoxville 63 years ago. In that meeting, Oct. 21, 1893, the Wildcats annexed a 60-0 victory to get the warfare off to an auspicious start in a fashion that hasn't been equalled in the many and colorful renewals of the traditional rivalry. Except for three war years (1917-18 and 1943), the two schools have met annually on the gridiron with the result that the Vols hold a distinct-but-fading edge of 30 wins to Kentucky's 14 and eight ties. Tennessee's sparkling advantage has become slightly tarnished in the past few seasons as Kentucky started reversing the victory trend with a upsetting tie in 1952 and ate into their polished record with successes in three of the last four meetings. The seniors on the 1955 UK squad became the first class in 43 years to graduate with the accomplishment of never playing in a game in which the Vols emerged victorious and they bowed out in a blaze of glory, triumphing to the tune of 23-0 over the bowl-hungry Vols in the most one-sided win since 1935.

Since 1925, the two schools have stimulated their grid rivalry with a rotating trophy — a battered old beer barrel. Much shenanigans on the part of the rival student bodies have added to the color of the series. Following the 1953 UK win, disgruntled Tennessee students raided the Kentucky campus and “kegnapped” the barrel and held it in a secret hiding place in Knoxville until persuaded to return it by threats of reprisal against their coon dog mascot, Smoky. In 1955, UK students visited the Tennessee campus hiding place of Smoky and “dognapped” him. UT students promptly retaliated by painting up the Kentucky campus in a surprise raid and carting away “Colonel,” UK’s stuffed wildcat mascot. A trade was engineered as an added attraction at the game and harried university officials wondered, “What next?” They didn’t have long to wait. Although mild by comparison with the more spectacular stunts of previous years, 1956 pre-game pranks saw students from both schools in painting expeditions to the other’s campus. UK’s Coliseum got splashed with large orange UT’s while the Vols’ press box was decorated with UK’s.

LAST MEETING: Headlines in the Knoxville News-Sentinel the morning after the big fray in Tennessee territory last season told the story impartially: “VOLS, DAZED BY U-K PUNCH, COME OFF ROPES FOR 20-7 WIN.” The paper’s editors added further information with headlines reading: “Majors, Misfortune Work Against ‘Cats” and “Orangemen Score Twice In 4th Quarter To Turn In Come-From-Behind Triumph.” Billed as the battle of the All-Americans (Lou Michaels vs. Johnny Majors), the contest developed along surprising lines in view of the fact that Tennessee supposedly was a 13½ point choice. The Colliermen permitted Majors and Co. to take a 6-0 first quarter lead, battled on even terms in the second frame and swept back in the third to take a 7-6 lead on a drive led by full-back Bob Dougherty. But there an aroused Tennessee halted the determined-but-outmanned UK offense and produced two fourth quarter tallies to get back in the lead for good. The final score, Tennessee writer Harold Harris said, “probably is the most deceptive score in the long history of this tradition-steeped series.”

1957 OUTLOOK: The annual pre-season poll of the Birmingham News, which has proven surprisingly accurate in the past, put the finger on Tennessee to repeat as conference champions. Other forecasts by impartial experts have tabbed the Vols as one of the country’s top teams this fall. Whether the preliminary estimates are scare guesses based on what the Vols were last season or are actually based on the 1957 situation remains to be seen. However, it's certain that the graduation gaps that Wyatt has to plug are not so serious as those at other SEC schools. At tailback, for instance, Majors is gone but his two "understudies", Al Carter and Bobby Gordon, are back with about as much game experience last season as Majors. All told, Majors was the only loss among the top 12 backs. Among the returnees is blasting fullback Tommy Bronson who topped Majors in individual rushing, 562 yards to 549, during the regular season. The outlook? Tennessee likely will be at its strongest peak in years if line problems can be ironed out.

HONORS COME LATELY

From its football beginnings in 1881 through 1942, Kentucky had only one player named to a recognized All-America team. In the short span of years since, no less than six have earned first team mention on the national honor rolls and three of the stars were repeaters. Fourteen Wildcats have received All-Conference recognition since the loop was organized in 1933.

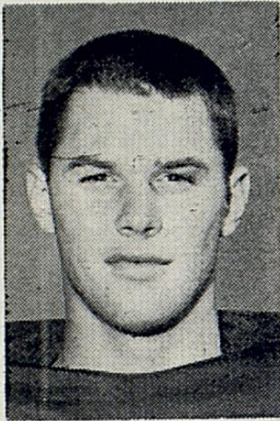

PROFILE OF AN ALL-CONFERENCE CANDIDATE

DOUG SHIVELY

Junior—End, Lexington, Ky.

According to an old adage, adapted to fit the need for a saying befitting the grid sport, "Football players are made, not born." But the coaches and fans of University of Kentucky's Wildcats are about ready to disbelieve the adage in the case of Doug Shively.

If a youngster ever had born natural ability, this junior flankman from Lexington had to have it to make the grade under the pressures that not many athletes have to endure in their climb to success.

For one thing, Doug had one strike against him, so to speak, from the day he was born. His daddy had made a great reputation at Illinois along-side the immortal Red Grange, achieving All-America recognition as a guard on the 1926 Fightin' Illini, and it was almost a foregone conclusion in the back of many folks' minds that Bernie Shively's son would follow in his father's footsteps—quite a tall order in itself, but only a starter.

The day came when Doug entered high school. By this time, the family was living in Lexington and he attended Lexington Lafayette. During the course of his high school career, Doug became renowned as one of the greatest all-around athletes in state schoolboy history. His achievements in football alone were exceptional. While winning four letters in the sport, he was honored as an All-State end twice, All-Southern two years, first team All-America on the Scholastic Magazine selection and second team choice by Wigwam Wiseman, and was most valuable player of the 1954 Recreation Bowl game. Shive also made the All-State team in basketball in a year his team captured the state championship, picked up five letters as a top baseball prospect and won the 440-yard run two straight years in the state track meet.

It was expected, quite obviously, that he would be automatically great wherever he went to college. The fans were oblivious to the added pressure put on the boy to live up to his great schoolboy reputation when he chose Kentucky as his place of higher education. Not only was there the pressure of attending his home state university, but the added fact that it was located in the town where he had made his great school-boy reputation.

As if that were not enough, Shive had to live down unfounded suspicions of favoritism coupled with the fact that his famous dad was the school's athletic director.

Suffice to say, however, that Doug's inborn ability won out for him in the face of all these extraordinary pressures and he has achieved stature as one of the most outstanding and respected ends in the Southeastern Conference as his team heads into a difficult 1957 schedule.

Shively last season capped a climatic rise above pressure by earning a spot on the All-Conference Sophomore team as the result of an outstanding late-season showing as a substitute starter at left end.

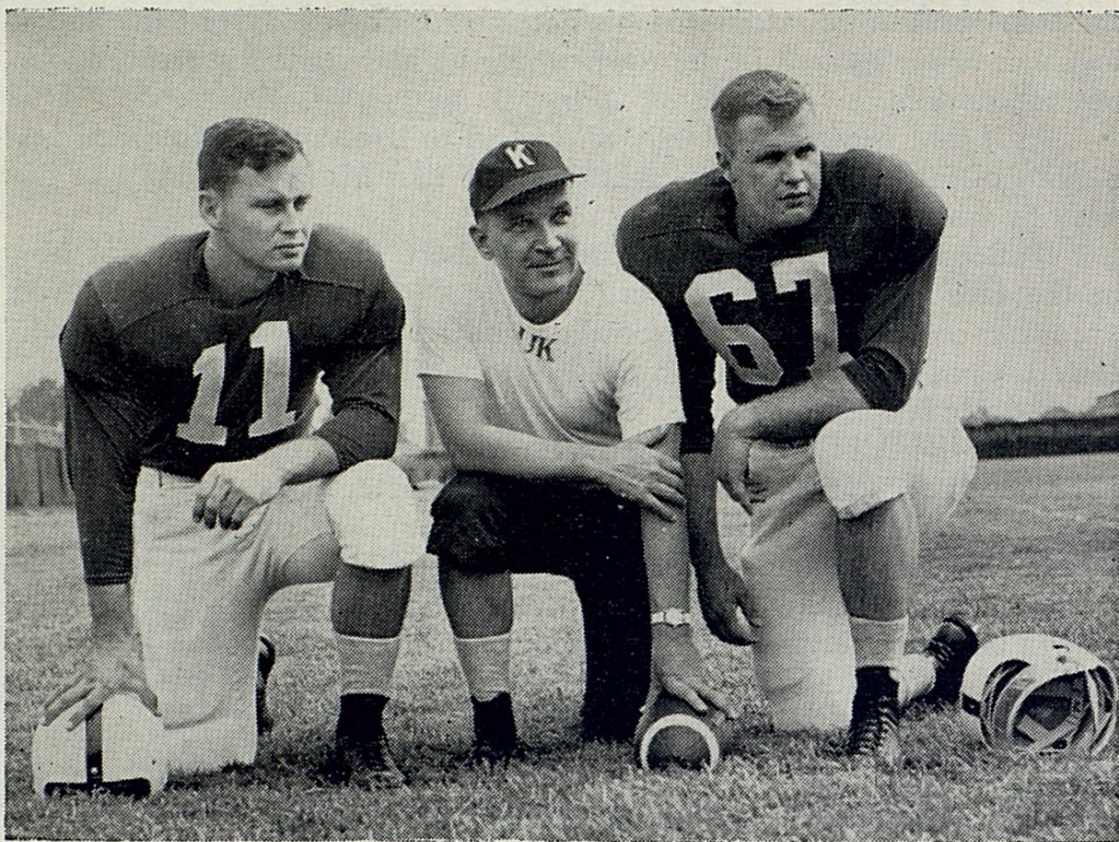

Coach Blanton Collier classes his prize pupil as a fine receiver and excellent defensive man. During limited action last season (averaged 28 minutes a game), he caught seven passes for 107 yards to rank as Kentucky's best receiver. He has the size at 6-2 and 197 to get the job done, has improved as a blocker and is at his best when the going is roughest.

VICTORY KICKS

A game unique in University of Kentucky football history occurred in 1900. Kentucky beat the Louisville YMCA, 12-6, without running a single offensive play during the entire game. Kicking on first down every time they gained possession of the ball, Kentucky made its scores through the recovery of opponent fumbles in the end zone.

PASS HEARD 'ROUND THE NATION

A single running pass play by Mississippi State in the fading moments of a game on Stoll Field in 1955 not only cost Kentucky a victory, but proved to be even more important when the statistical filberts added up. If the Maroons had failed to complete the 83-yard, desperation aerial, the Wildcats probably would have led the nation's colleges in pass defense that season. Taking away that one play would have meant a per-game average of 39.6 yards allowed opponents via the airwaves, which would have topped the top mark posted by Florida (42.0). As it was, UK finished sixth in the nation with a 47.9 average.

ORIGIN OF "WILDCATS" NICKNAME

Kentucky's athletic teams are known to sports fans as the Wildcats. This first and only nickname borne by University varsities had its origin in 1909 in a speech made by Commandant Carbusier, then head of the military department of old State College. Speaking to a chapel audience of students on the showing of the Kentucky football team in defeating Illinois six to two, the Commandant declared "they fought like Wildcats." The tag was popularized by word of mouth and by the press with the result that it has since become synonymous with all major Kentucky athletic teams.

While the name is old in origin, no claim is made regarding precedence over similar nicknames boasted by Northwestern, Villanova and about 10 other major athletic teams.

An alumnus in 1947 presented a live Kentucky Wildcat to SUKY, student pep organization. Named "The Colonel," the cat served as a live mascot for UK teams until his death in 1955. As yet, no new wildcat has been obtained.

BACKGROUND BRIEFS

ENDS

RONALD (Ronnie) CAIN—Sophomore—Cumberland, Ky.

Most high school backfield luminaries good enough to garner the recognition accorded Ronnie (Raisin') Cain would consider it almost an insult to be switched to comparatively obscure line duty in college, but not Cain . . . Typical of his willing attitude was his answer on a publicity information form filled out on his arrival at UK in 1955. Answering the question, "Position candidate for?", Cain replied simply: "Anything." . . . Taking him at his word, UK coaches put him at the spot they needed good men the most, guard, figuring his natural ability and desire would help the team . . . He played the position without complaint through his freshman season and again last year on the red shirt squad . . . In spring practice this year, Coach Collier asked him to try end duty and Cain made the shift without quibbling . . . He is being counted on to bolster the flank defense considerably and can catch the ball well . . . Ronnie twice was the top prep scorer in Kentucky while playing fullback for Cumberland High . . . Made 154 points in junior year and posted 6.1 average in 1954 as a senior schoolboy scoring flash (139 points) . . . He was All-State and an honorable mention All-Southern and All-American selection . . . Roster info: 18, 6-0, 203.

RICHARD (Dick) CHARLES—Junior—Murray, Ky.

The boy has had a rough road in his quest of college football experience . . . Started at Kentucky in 1954 as a candidate for halfback or end . . . Due to slow development, he was one of several potentially promising prospects who were not certified to the Conference office as officially eligible freshmen . . . In 1955, Dick was red-shirted to give him an opportunity to pick up added grid savvy and additional size . . . Last season, he seemed ready at last for varsity duty but a shoulder injury, suffered in spring practice, handicapped him too greatly for either halfback duty, his original spot, or end, to which he had been switched . . . Charles has determination and this could be the year . . . The 21-year-old lad played four years as a blocking back at Murray under Coach Ty Holland, serving as captain and making the All-Conference team . . . Dick is six foot, 191 . . . Scotch-Irish ancestry . . . Born Butler, Ohio.

CHARLES (Charlie) VAUGHN—Sophomore—Celina, Tenn.

The competition is keen among sophomore end hopefuls, but Vaughn has as good a set of qualifications as the next man to base his bid on . . . Experienced at virtually every type of offensive formation since he played the T, Single Wing, Wing T and Split T in four years at Celina High . . . Served as co-captain of his team and was an All-Mid-State and All-Conference selection . . . Also captain and All-Conference in basketball . . . Tried at quarterback on the Kentucky freshman team last season, but worked at end in spring practice this year . . . He's 6-1, 180.

JOHN (Corney) CORNELIUS—Senior—Bethesda, Md.

Made the coaching staff look bad last season . . . Lightly regarded, he started out as a third stringer and worked his way up fast to a starting role at right end . . . His concentration, spirit and attitude caused coaches to reconsider the use of servicereturnee Al Zampino and another fine prospect, Jim Urbaniak, ahead of him and the discard of plans to utilize John as a swing man on both flanks . . . Best effort while seeing 260 minutes and 52 seconds of action in nine of the 10 games last year came against Georgia in Athens . . . The lanky (6-4, 205) wingman, who revealed to reporters after the game that he was a Georgia native born and brought up in Hahira, made a sensational catch of a 43-yard aerial from the hands of Kenny Robertson in the final two minutes of a deadlocked battle and staggered over the goal line to give the Wildcats a victory . . . Expected to show up even better this season when UK relies more on passing than it did last year . . . Will play the right side where he started with the Kentucky frosh in 1954 and picked up his first varsity letter in 1955 on 52 minutes of action . . . John was All-State in both football and basketball his senior year at Chevy Chase High in Bethesda, Mo. . . . Studying business administration at UK.

THOMAS (Tom) DONLON—Sophomore—Indianapolis, Ind.

One of the leading sophomore end hopefuls on whom Coach Collier is banking for depth in reserve strength this season . . . Operated mostly on the right side with the UK freshmen last year, but likely will see more duty as understudy to Doug Shively at left end in 1957 . . . Tom is massive in stature, topping all wingmen at 6-6 and 230 pounds . . . Enrolled at Kentucky in the fall of 1955 after stardom at Broad Ripple High in Indianapolis where he played end for four years under Coach J. R. Brown . . . He won All-State honor in his senior campaign and twice was named on the All-City first team . . . One of his long suits in high school was punting, at which he averaged 43 yards . . . Also was leading scorer for two years of his high school cage squad . . . A good student, he passed 32 hours his freshman year at Kentucky with a 2.87 standing.

RICHARD (Dick) MABRY—Sophomore—Lexington, Ky.

Calls Lexington home now, but born in Alexandria, Va., and educated at Washington and Lee High in Arlington, Va., and Bullis Prep School in Silver Spring, Md. . . . Outstanding in high school, Dick won All-State honorable mention, All-Conference honor and was "Most Valuable Player" of the 1953 Silver Bowl game as a quarterback . . . Also president of sophomore class and president of student council as schoolboy . . . A brother served as captain of the Naval Academy's 150-pound team last year . . . Dick is considered a fine defensive football player and Coach Collier has remarked that Mabry likely would be playing first string on defense if two-platoon were the vogue . . . Started the season last year as an end, but was switched back to quarterback after Bill Farley broke a hand in pre-season practice but did not see game action . . . Moved to end again this spring and can be expected to see some special action . . . He is small for a flankman at 5-10, 186.

JOSEPH (Joe) JOHNSON—Sophomore—Georgetown, Ky.

A very promising home-state product who escaped widespread recognition during his high school career . . . Considered by Coach Collier and End Coach Bradshaw as having fine potential and should see action on the right flank this year . . . Joe played end and quarterback at Georgetown Garth High four years under veteran Coach Tom Green, serving as team captain twice and was a two-time honorable mention All-State pick . . . After graduation, he attended Greenbrier Military Academy at Lewisburg, W. Va., for a half year before enrolling at Kentucky . . . Earned his freshman numeral as a right end last year . . . Had distinction of scoring UK's first touchdown against Tennessee frosh last season when he clamped onto a 12-yard aerial from quarterback Hughes in the end zone. Served as president of Kitten Lodge, freshman football house, last year . . . Had second best marks on team in past school year with 3.57 (B plus) average on 33 hours of Engineering . . . In high school, he made the National Honor Society . . . He's 6-1, 190.

DOUGLAS (Doug) SHIVELY—Junior—Lexington, Ky.

See "Profile of an All-Conference Candidate" Sketch on page 52.

JAMES (Jim) URBANIAK—Senior—Fairmont, W. Va.

One of the team's most valuable men, Jim is a steady, unspectacular performer who rarely gets the headlines since he generally plays a relief role . . . The coaches and students of the game realize his value . . . He has earned two varsity letters for valuable reserve duty and may find himself in an even more important role of "swing man" (relieving both ends) this season . . . Jim saw action in all 10 games the Wildcats played last year, piling up 260 minutes and 34 seconds of game time despite being bothered by bruised ribs at one stage . . . He was fourth in pass receiving statistics, hauling in six aerials for 45 yards and one touchdown . . . One of fastest ends on squad, Urbaniak was tried at halfback in the spring of his sophomore year but the experiment did not work out . . . Played three seasons as an end and halfback at Fairmont Senior High, winning All-West Virginia second team mention his senior year . . . Jim is the "brain" of the squad, achieving an almost perfect 3.9 standing last year in passing 31 hours of pre-med work . . . In his junior year, he posted a 3.67 on 34 hours . . . Has good size at 6-0, 193 . . . Jim's father, Cecil, played for UK about 25 years ago.

TACKLES

GEORGE BOONE—Sophomore—Louisville

Seems to have the potential to play college ball, but it will take a lot of hard work on his part to beat out the equally promising youngsters ahead of him . . . If the desire is there, the coaches feel sure Boone will make it . . . May be a year away . . . Willing attitude and good size (6-2, 215) are in the favor of the former Louisville schoolboy standout . . . Picked up his freshman numeral last year while playing mostly at right guard. (NOTE: Shifted to tackle in pre-season practice.)

JAMES (Jim) BOWIE—Sophomore—Detroit, Mich.

A sizeable (6-4 and 225) and very promising prospect who seems certain to make a lot of opponents forget even the great Lou Michaels . . . He'll have a hard time living up to Lou's reputation of last year, but could make one for himself this year if the opposition gangs up on the All-American as expected . . . At any rate, he is pegged for relief duty behind Michaels to start with although he possibly could wind up on the other side of the line where help is needed more . . . Jim was at Kentucky previously in 1953 as a freshman and left for service in August before he could see varsity duty in the last season freshmen were eligible . . . Practiced with the Wildcats while on furlough last spring and discharged just before 1956 pre-season drills started . . . Lacked familiarity with the system and did not see action last year . . . He's a hard-nose, contact-loving gridder who attended Millersburg (Ky.) Military Institute.

DONALD (Don, Buck) BUCHANON—Junior—Barbourville, Ky.

Excellent prospect who has gone through the full treatment of preparation for top-flight duty . . . Not certified as a freshman in 1954, red-shirted in '55 and tried at three positions (tackle, guard and center) last season . . . Ended up as a right guard, but did not get to see game action . . . This spring, Don was shifted back to tackle—the spot where he seems more "at home" than elsewhere—and the coaching staff is expecting his wealth of experience to pay off with top flight reserve duty . . . He has fine desire and fits in anywhere without complaining . . . No speed demon, but tough defensively . . . Youngest of a family of eight, he was All-Conference and honorable mention All-State as a guard and tackle at Barbourville High . . . He's 5-11, 206 and plans to enter agricultural field after graduation.

JAMES (Jim, Luke) CAMBRON—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

One of the most promising young tackles on the roster, Luke seems on the threshold of fine things this season . . . He had a good spring practice, capped off by being named one of the tri-captains for his team in the Blue-White game . . . Displays ability, a good attitude and seems to profit by each new grid lesson taught him . . . Coach Collier says Cambron has "wonderful possibilities" and rates him a chance to beat Bob Lindon out for right tackle duty as replacement for graduated J. T. Frankenberger . . . A hand injury from an automobile accident bothered him a year ago, but has completely healed . . . Saw a total of 19½ minutes action in three games last year while number three RT . . . He's 6-2, 224 and played tackle four years at Louisville Flaget High, making the All-City, All-County and honorable mention All-State lists . . . Received school's extra curricular activities award as he also participated with outstanding success in basketball, baseball and track.

DAN (Danny) RHYNE—Sophomore—Montgomery, Ala.

One of the top three sophomore prospects for top-level reserve duty at tackle . . . Rhyne earned his numeral as a freshman standout last year at right tackle and operated on the right side in spring practice this year as a replacement was sought for the graduated J. T. Frankenberger . . . It may take additional seasoning, but the coaching staff has high hopes for this fellow . . . Sizes up at 6-2 and 215.

JOHN (Big John) MARTIN—Sophomore—Pittsburgh, Pa.

After viewing the game films of the Kentucky freshman team's triumph over arch-rival Tennessee for an undefeated season, Coach Collier commented: "I promise you that boy is going to be playing some football for us real soon!" . . . It could have been anyone, but he made it clear he was speaking of John Martin who turned in an outstanding all-around game against the Baby Vols in his first starting assignment . . . Actually Martin (not to be confused with teammates Jim and Jack Martin) showed up well in the two previous Kitten tilts at left tackle, but didn't get the starting role until the Tennessee game . . . The hard-hitting youth, who checks in at 6-3 and 218, was born in Wilkensburg, Pa., and got his first grid experience at Homestead (Pa.) High.

BOBBY (Tank) LINDON—Senior—Hazard, Ky.

By an unusual oddity, Bobby heads into the 1957 campaign as the prospective number one choice for starting duty at right tackle without the generally-considered compliment of having won a freshman numeral or varsity letter . . . The six-foot, 221-pound junior did not earn his numeral while playing with the freshmen in 1954 and was held out of competition in 1955 to give him that extra year of preparation that often pays off . . . Last season, he continued his journeyman duties by playing behind Michaels at left tackle, but saw only 25 minutes and eight seconds of action in six games, principally because Michaels averaged 56 minutes a contest . . . Also, he was bothered by knee trouble at various stages of the campaign which prevented him seeing a lot of action in any one game . . . A tipoff to how other coaches regarded him highly, Lindon was named to the honorable mention list of the All-Conference Sophomore team last year . . . The mention was the equivalent to second or third team honor since only a first team and honorable mention were selected and it was considered quite a distinction for Lindon to make the team with as little game action as he saw and without the recommendation of a varsity letter . . . Great achievements are expected this season . . . He was co-captain of the winning team in the spring Blue-White game . . . Bobby, who hails from the Eastern Kentucky mountain community of Hazard, is a cousin of Luke Lindon, who played at UK from 1936 to '40 and later with the Philadelphia Eagles and Detroit Lions . . . Plans to be a dentist.

RAY SCHRECKER—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

He'll have to fight off considerable competition to make the jump to varsity duty this season, but there's a crying need for capable depth at the flanks and Ray could come through . . . The former Louisville Male High standout played two years of football as a tackle under Coaches Charley Kuhn and "Moon" Conde, both ex-Kentucky grid luminaries . . . Also a shot put and discus man on the Male track team of which he served as co-captain . . . A cousin, Sherman Hinkebein, was a swimming great at UK years ago . . . Ray earned a freshman numeral as an end with the Kittens last season . . . Studying business administration course . . . He stands 6-2, weighs 205. (NOTE: Shifted to tackle in pre-season practice.)

JOHN ILARI—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

The 22-year-old former Louisville Flaget High standout has been on the verge of stardom at UK ever since he enrolled in 1954 . . . He looked good while a non-playing (not certified) member of the freshman team that season and turned in a terrific sophomore campaign . . . In the sophomore year (1955), John was an early season starter and saw quite a bit of action (a total of 236 minutes) for a boy of his experience on that club . . . Last season, he never quite regained the form that stamped him as a most promising rookie the year before and was held out of competition . . . The coaches still have loads of faith in Ilari and he displays an extremely willing attitude . . . With hard work, he should play . . . He's back at guard after being tried at tackle some last year . . . Veteran of Korean War service (1951-54). (NOTE: Switched to tackle again after start of fall practice.)

CLYDE (Tiny) MURRELL—Sophomore—Hamilton, Ohio

Believed to be one of the outstanding sophomore tackles in the South . . . His full potential was never realized last season on account of injuries . . . Played on the left side generally during his freshman season, but may be tried at right tackle this year to bolster the spot where another big man, 226-pound J. T. Frankenberger, departed . . . If size and surprising speed can get the job done, then the 6-6, 235-pound Murrell should fill the bill . . . He's the biggest man on the team . . . Clyde was born in Fonde, Ky., but his parents now make their home in Hamilton, Ohio . . . Played three years as a tackle at Hamilton Public, making the All-State first team and being chosen on the All-America squad in 1955.

LOUIS (Lou) MICHAELS—Senior—Swoyerville, Pa.

See "Profile Of An All-American" on page 22.

DONALD (Don, Bulldog) MOORE—Junior—Owensboro, Ky.

A willing competitor who showed up well with the Kentucky freshman team three seasons back and then was held out of action in 1955 to give him a chance to pick up added maturity and experience without losing a year of eligibility . . . Last season he looked better but not good enough to get the job done in a fashion better than several other promising tackles . . . Saw only one minute and 44 seconds of action . . . With hard work, he could see much more game duty this year . . . Saw duty as regular right tackle as a freshman and was an honorable mention All-State pick in the same position as a senior at Owensboro High . . . Studying Agriculture and sizes up at 6-1, 198.

WILLIAM (Bill) SAMMONS—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Switched from the end position which he played last season as a freshman, Sammons will try to plug the gap at right tackle this year . . . Very likely that he's at least a year away from being the calibre of tackle necessary for front-line duty, but the coaches plan to give Bill a long look on the recommendation of his spring practice showing at the unfamiliar location . . . The former Louisville Male High athlete played two years of football as an end under ex-UK gridder Charley Kuhn, also lettered in basketball and baseball . . . Scholastic honors won included the Yale Alumnae Award and the L. C. Balfour Medal. (NOTE: Missed first few sessions of pre-season practice due to death of father in Japan.)

GUARDS

PASCAL BENSON—Sophomore—Henderson, Ky.

An outstanding young prospect . . . He's at his best when the going is the toughest and seems to thrive on contact . . . Considered one of the top defensive demons on the current squad . . . Coach Collier has shifted him from center to left guard to make use of his fine linebacking ability and Pascal displays a great aptitude for the job . . . May also see some center action . . . The rugged Henderson native was regular center on the undefeated Kentucky freshman team last season . . . Played the same position three years under Coach Don Shelton at Henderson City High . . . Captain, first team All-State, and honorable mention on the All-South and All-America teams . . . Seemingly almost squat in appearance due to his poundage (215) despite a six foot frame, Benson doesn't look it but was an All-State guard in basketball . . . Hit .446 and posted a pitching record of 9-1 in his senior year of baseball . . . He's the youngest of a family of seven.

HORACE (H. F., Rock) BURKHOLDER—Sophomore—Nashville, Tenn.

The company that Burkholder has chosen to compete against, youngsters on his own team, are as tough and promising as any he would have to face across an opponent's scrimmage line . . . This makes it doubly difficult for him to succeed, but the coaches do not feel it is out of the question at all . . . With hard work on his part, they think he will be a better football player for bettering the competition . . . Smallest of the guard candidates at 5-10, 193, but other smaller men have made it before so Burkholder is far from discouraged . . . Comes to Kentucky with fine reputation as team captain and second team All-State at Montgomery Bell Academy in Nashville, Tenn. . . . He played fullback for two years, but switched to tackle as a senior . . . Earned his UK freshman numeral last year as a left guard.

ROBERT (Bob, Tally) TALAMINI—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

A really exceptional prospect who will definitely play a lot of football for the 'Cats this season . . . Might be listed in the surprise or prize package class since he failed to create much of a stir among the big college scouts on his unspectacular performance as a schoolboy at Louisville St. Xavier High . . . In the summer after his graduation, a major development affecting Bob's future occurred . . . He was picked to replace celebrated teammate Don McAllister (now of Notre Dame) when the latter couldn't play in the '56 Kentucky High School East-West All-Star Game in Lexington . . . Capitalizing on the opportunity, Bob turned in some attention-grabbing workouts in preparation for the game and showed up so well in the contest that Coach Collier immediately grabbed him off . . . Continued to improve with the UK freshmen last season and his spring practice work at left guard stamped him as one of the top three soph candidates at his position . . . The 5-11, 200 pound Talamini, Italian in descent, earned All-State honorable mention at guard and also played fullback and tackle at the Catholic school in Louisville under ex-UK griddier Johnny Meihaus.

ROBERT (Bob) COLLIER—Senior—Jenkins, Ky. (CO-CAPTAIN)

One of only three regular starters from the 1956 Wildcat crew returning for the current campaign, Bob Collier's selection by his teammates as Co-Captain for the 1957 season came as no surprise . . . It was deserved recognition for a talented workhorse who already has seen a total of 665 minutes of varsity action for Kentucky in outstanding sophomore-junior campaigns . . . Considered almost a rarity in modern day football since he is fully capable of being a 60-minute player . . . Went without relief in the Auburn and Georgia games last year and might have added a couple of more iron-man stints to his credit if he had not been slightly injured on occasions . . . Collier, who's no relation to the coach, has great natural ability for the guard position he plays despite the fact that his schoolboy experience at Jenkins was as an end and fullback . . . Tutored at Jenkins High by ex-UK tackle Jim MacKenzie, now an aide at Missouri . . . Bob carries out both offensive and de-defensive duties with consistently high grades . . . He has the size at 6-1, 209 that makes him hard to keep out of the way . . . Possesses good speed and loves contact . . . All-Conference in both football and basketball in high school . . . His maturity, attitude and experience stamp Collier as an excellent leader and recommend him as one of the top guards in the Southeastern Conference.

JAMES (Jimmy, Demo) JOHNS—Sophomore—Morristown, Tenn.

Goes most often by the nickname "Demo" and might better be called "Demon" since he is a tough customer to deal with in the line . . . A fast, hard-hitting lineman who has the uncanny knack of putting the enemy in a hole by cracking through their line without getting himself trapped very often . . . An All-Stater at Morristown (Tenn.) High, where he earned six football letters and one each in basketball and track, Johns turned in one of the fine games of the year against the freshman crew of his home state university at Knoxville last season . . . He carried out his assignment at right guard almost perfectly and materially aided the UK frosh cause toward an eventual victory over the Baby Vols . . . He started all three Kentucky freshman games and is a prime candidate to push veteran Archie Powers for regular right guard duty this year . . . Size means nothing to this lad, but for the record he is one of the smallest on the team at 5-9, 198.

JAMES (Jim) MILLER—Junior—Madisonville, Ky.

A service returnee who last year was handicapped in his quest for front-line reserve duty by an unfamiliarity with the current system of play at Kentucky . . . Jim was considered an excellent prospect at the time he left . . . He was high in the picture at right guard as a freshman in 1953 and saw varsity duty in the final year that yearlings were eligible in the SEC . . . Departed after his first season . . . Played service football in Japan and looked good according to reports . . . Reported back just in time for fall practice last year, but his slow development caused him to be used only sparingly at right guard . . . Played in three games for a total of 15 minutes and ten seconds . . . Third team All-State tackle at Madisonville High . . . 6-1, 190.

WILLIAM (Bill, Bud) SPICER—Sophomore—Irvine, Ky.

Spicer was a total stranger to Coach Collier when he walked into the football office one day last spring and inquired about the possibility of a grid scholarship . . . The Wildcat chief sized up the 25-year-old, square-jawed husky with an understanding-but-hesitant look that prompted Bud to offer the explanation that he was an ex-Wildcat who had been away on service duty for four years . . . Only the Athletic Director, Publicity Director and one assistant coach vaguely remembered that he had been a freshman on the Cotton Bowl championship club of the 1951 season and considered at the time a good prospect . . . The sum of the story is that Bud got his "old job" back and in spring training looked mighty tough in competition with the youngsters . . . At 25, he is the oldest on the team . . . Collier says he is going to be tough to beat for front-line reserve action at right guard . . . Good blocker, quick and aggressive on defense. All-State and team captain while at Irvine High . . . Checks in at 5-11, 205.

(NOTE: His chances of becoming a regular were spotlighted by the decision of Archie Powers, the probable number one right guard, to lay out a year to give his knee more time to mend after an off-season operation.)

CHARLES (Tommy) THOMASON—Sophomore—Philadelphia, Pa.

It's difficult to choose between several of the outstanding sophomore guard prospects, but Thomason ranks right near the top in the opinion of his coaches . . . Could be a year away from consistent front-line duty . . . Made his presence felt as an outstanding left guard with the unbeaten UK freshman team last season . . . If his development reaches the stage it should, he could be hard to keep out of the lineup when reserves for Co-Captain Bob Collier are considered . . . Like the many other young guards, however, it is going to take hard work to beat the competition . . . Although he calls Philadelphia home now, Tommy was born and schooled in Rockmart, Ga. . . . Played fullback and tackle four years at Rockmart High, earning honorable mention All-State selection . . . Planning to major in bacteriology at UK . . . He stands 5-11, weighs 200 in game trim.

CULLEN WILSON—Sophomore—Turkey Creek, Ky.

With the added recommendation of being the biggest man among the guard corps at a strapping 6-2 and 205, Wilson this season is expected to put in a serious bid for front-line reserve duty at right guard . . . His chief competitor, as was the case last year, will be Demo Johns according to advance indications . . . Both men looked good in spring practice and climaxed their rivalry by being paired at starting positions on opposing sides for the Blue-White spring practice windup game . . . Even with that additional examination, the coaches are hard pressed to find a material difference and believe that Wilson's work this fall will be the key to his future with the Wildcats . . . Cullen is a durable, hard worker who can take punishment in the heaviest going and come back to dish out some of his own . . . A real tough customer from Eastern Kentucky community of Turkey Creek, near Williamson, W. Va. . . . Born in Laura, Ky., and attended Belfry High School where he was a tackle for four years, captain of his team and honorable mention All-State . . . Gained membership in National Honor Society in high school and studying a tough Engineering course at UK.

RICHARD (Dick) BLOCKER—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

Handicapped in his bid to unseat rival Bill Livings for the first call on the number one reserve center job last season by recurring ankle injuries . . .

At one stage, both were sprained . . . As a result of his injuries, Dick saw only 29 minutes and six seconds of action in three ball games . . . But this is due to change this year if he can avoid the injury jinx . . . He looked very good in spring practice and served as a tri-captain of the White team in annual intra-squad tussel at end . . . Blocker should be ready to make it very interesting for anyone trying to prevent him taking over the number one spot this season . . . He has the size at 6-2, 209 to get the job done and you can take his coaches' word for it that he's rugged and ready . . . Excellent linebacker . . . Dick was a star end for four years at Louisville St. Xavier under the tutelage of ex-UK halfback Johnny Meihaus . . . Selected on All-City and second All-State teams . . . Elected honorary captain by teammates after senior year . . . Planning a career in advertising or coaching pro ball.

DENNIS (Denny) KUNKLE—Sophomore—Beaver, Pa.

One of the coming lights in the guard picture, Kunkle seems to have the necessary qualifications for college ball and should come along this season if he works hard enough . . . Competition will be strong, but Kunkle has an edge of the added year of experience since he layed out last season . . . Earned his freshman numeral with the Kittens in '55 and showed promise while with the red-shirts in 1956 . . . Captained his team at Beaver Area High and picked on the All-County team in the Beaver Valley hotbed of football talent . . . He is 5-11, 200 and looks best on the left side. (NOTE: Made a center in pre-season experiment.)

FRANK (Andy) SCHOLLETT—Sophomore—Ft. Wayne, Ind.

An outstanding young prospect who seems destined to carry a greater load of duty than any sophomore center in recent years . . . He has the physical qualities and then some desirable for the position . . . Stands 6-4 and weighs in at 215 . . . His work this season will tell the story as to his potential future greatness . . . Should come through to rank two or three among the centers while gaining valuable varsity game experience . . . Only the presence of returning varsity performers will keep him down temporarily and Frank could surprise them . . . Coach Collier says without qualification: "Schollett is an outstanding center for a sophomore." . . . Saw almost equal game time as his chief rival, Pascal Benson (now a guard), during freshman campaign last year . . . Smart as well as talented, Schollett has an IQ of 143 . . . He was secretary-treasurer of Kitten Lodge, freshman house, in 1956-57 school year . . . Outstanding as a schoolboy at North Side High in Ft. Wayne, where he was named to the first team All-State squad his final year and also was captain, most valuable player, All-City and All-Conference . . . Born Detroit, Michigan.

RICHARD (Dick) LOMBARD—Sophomore—Hollywood, Fla.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., but now calls Hollywood, Fla., home . . . Came to Kentucky in 1955 with a fine schoolboy reputation, but still seeking the "spark" that will fire him up to the outstanding calibre of play expected of him . . . He was a center with the UK freshman unit two years ago, but did not see enough action to win his numeral . . . Last season, Dick showed improvement and was held out of action in an effort to develop him into the type of player who can be depended on to "get the job done well" . . . The coaches are counting on Dick to come through in this third year to provide desirable additional depth at center . . . Played high school ball at Westinghouse High in Pittsburgh, where he earned the honor of "Most Valuable Player in City" and American Legion's "Unselfish Award" . . . He's 6-2, 202.

WILLIAM (Bill) LIVINGS—Junior—Montgomery, Ala.

Ordinarily the presence of a lone returning letterman at a position where the previous season's starter is missing would mean virtually automatic promotion of the experienced reserve . . . But

Bill is going to have a fight on his hands to win the job and this very fact may make him a better man . . .

The pressure of another experienced junior, a top flight soph prospect and a couple of other candidates should push him to greater effort and top notch play . . . Although not blessed with a great high school reputation, Livings has proven himself a better than average collegian . . . Served as co-captain of his team at Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., and played three years at fullback under ex-UK grid standout Bill Moseley . . . Never made the All-State list . . . His track coach at Lanier was Charley Bradshaw, current Kentucky end coach . . . Had an outstanding freshman season at UK in which he served as co-captain of the Kittens and was the regular fullback . . . Converted to center the next season (1955) and red-shirted for the year while familiarizing himself with the new duties . . . Last year, he saw action in all but one game, starting some, as the chief replacement for oft-injured Dave Kuhn . . . Posted total action time of 147 minutes, 33 seconds . . . Made the honorable mention list (no second, third teams selected) of All-Conference Sophomore team last season . . . Served as vice-president of Kitten Lodge, freshman house, in 1954 . . . Last year he had fourth highest marks on squad with 3.28 average (B plus) on 38 hours of Education.

FRANK NAMATH—Junior—Beaver Falls, Pa.

Transferred from tackle, where he played as a Kentucky freshman two seasons back, to center last year in a move designed to make the most effective use of his size and defensive ability . . . You've got to find a place for fellows like Namath to play . . . Tough and talented . . . Frank's likely to see more duty than he would have at tackle . . . Considered a fine prospect . . . Needs a lot more work, but should see more action than last year when he got in five games briefly for total of nine minutes, 53 seconds . . . Played end and tackle at Beaver Falls High in Pennsylvania's hotbed of football talent . . . He's six-foot, 203.

QUARTERBACKS

LEEMAN BENNETT—Sophomore—Paducah, Ky.

One of four quarterbacks graduated to the varsity after helping to guide the Kentucky freshman team to an unbeaten season last year . . . While he did not get to see a great deal of action with the yearling squad, due to the fact that his development was slightly behind that of two other signal callers, Bennett looked good while he was in charge . . . The Wildcat coaches have faith in the boy's future and will do everything possible to mould him into a fine football player . . . Possibly may lay out this season to gain added size and maturity . . . He's second smallest of quarterbacks at six foot and 172 pounds . . . Studying a tough course of academic work, enrolled in the College of Engineering and majoring in mathematics . . . Came to Kentucky last year highly recommended by Coach Ralph McRight, under whom he played three years and gained honorable mention All-State honor . . . As a UK freshman, Bennett completed one out of three passes for 15 yards.

JOSEPH (Joe) BRUECK—Sophomore—Brookhaven, Miss.

Coach Collier and his aides sincerely believe that Brueck has the makings of a really fine collegian . . . He will be given every possible opportunity to prove himself despite the presence of stiff competition . . . The coaches are hoping this competition backed up by clearly obvious talent will push Joe to eventual stardom . . . Mechanically, he is a good quarterback and he seems to have leadership qualities . . . Needs more grid seasoning that comes from daily practice and scrimmage under simulated game conditions and to get this may elect to lay out of game competition this year . . . The decision will be his and he could just as easily develop faster than anticipated to the point of extensive game duty this year . . . Needs to pick up size as well as experience . . . He's only 6-1, 165 . . . As a freshman at UK last year, he connected on one pass out of two attempts for 10 yards . . . In the spring practice windup game this year, he improved in limited action to complete two out of three aerials for 12 yards . . . Studying Engineering . . . Came to the University with high school background of winning four grid letters, four in basketball and six in baseball at Brookhaven . . . He was first team All-State, All-Conference and named on the All-American squad.

JAMES (Jim) MARTIN—Sophomore—Harrodsburg, Ky.

The full potential of this Martin (John Martin plays tackle and Jack Martin is student manager) is still something of an unknown quantity, as far as his ability to play creditable college ball as a quarterback . . . Operated as a right halfback in limited duty as a Kentucky freshman last year . . . Switched to quarterback this spring and the experiment shows promise of paying off in time . . . The Harrodsburg lad didn't look bad this spring, but likely will need much more hard work to develop fully into the calibre of player that both he and the coaches would like to see . . . Coach Collier is counting on strong competition to push Martin fast this year . . . He's confident the boy has the potential ability and doesn't feel his size (5-11, 190) will handicap him seriously.

GERALD (Jerry) EISAMAN—Sophomore—Bethel, Pa.

An almost unheralded prize package from the western Pennsylvania hotbed of football talent, Eisaman has natural talent galore and, along with soph teammate Lowell Hughes, ranks as one half of one of the nation's top sophomore quarterback duos . . . Great things are expected from Jerry, called one of the brightest lights on the University of Kentucky football scene since the fabulous Babe Parilli came down from Pennsylvania to lead the Wildcats to three bowl games and their greatest era in the grid sport . . . Aside from the fact that he captained and made the All-WPIAL teams in both football and basketball while at Bethel High, Eisaman was virtually an unknown (except to the college scouts who saw, believed and courted him) since he was never named to the All-State or All-America teams . . . Coach Collier calls Eisaman "one of the finest prospects we've had in a long time . . . a fine thrower and field general who should give up plenty of help." . . .

Passing is Jerry's long suit, so to speak, as he can "thread the needle" with a football at distances up to 60 yards . . . Ruggedly built at 6-1, 195, he is more than adequate when carrying the ball . . . In his freshman season at UK last year, he shared the quarterbacking duties with Kentuckian Lowell Hughes but looked exceptionally promising in leading the Kittens to an unbeaten season . . . Completed more than half of his passes during three Kitten contests, one for a TD against Cincinnati frosh and set up UK's first score in Tennessee freshman game . . . Showed up well in Blue-White spring practice windup game this year as he connected on six out of 15 passes for 73 yards and two touchdowns, posted one marker while piling up 28 yards on nine carries and punted for a 31-yard average.

LOWELL HUGHES—Sophomore—Prestonsburg, Ky.

One of the most widely-sought backfield prospects in the country as an All-American schoolboy record breaking quarterback, Lowell follows in the footsteps of brother John Delmar Hughes who was the Wildcats' number one signal caller much of last year . . . The 6-2, 177-pound Prestonsburg ace holds a slight edge over teammate Jerry Eisaman in the race for the starting quarterback job this season . . . Like Eisaman, he was sensational as a UK freshman in 1956 . . . Excellent passer, superb Split T ball handler, extra fine runner and one of the best defensive secondary men on the squad . . . Highlight of three-game freshman career came as he tossed two touchdown passes in leading the UK frosh to a 19-0 victory over the yearlings of traditional rival Tennessee . . . Showed all the earmarks of potential greatness under varsity game conditions by sparking his team to a 25-20 victory in the annual Blue-White intra-squad game winding up spring practice . . .

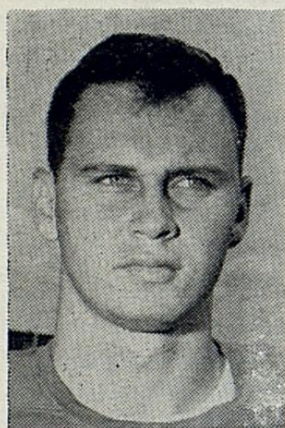

Connected five times in six tries through the air for 104 yards and three touchdowns, picked up 26 more yards running and returned three kickoffs 66 yards . . . Unlike his friendly rival, Eisaman, the Kentuckian did not fail to attract wide public attention as a schoolboy . . . Lowell completed his career with the Prestonsburg Black Cats by rewriting most of the record book authored by brother Delmar . . . In three seasons, he completed 225 passes out of 347 for a fabulous average of 68.8 percent and 3,482 yards . . . Accounted for 36 touchdowns with throwing arm and scored 46 more personally . . . Augmenting his personal point total, which reached 323 points at the end of three seasons, Lowell included 47 successful points after touchdown . . . Chosen on the All-State team as a junior in 1954 and accorded honorary captaincy on basis of greatest vote, and shared outstanding player award of '54 Recreation Bowl game with Doug Shively, now a Kentucky end . . . Repeated on the state honor squad last season and also named to the All-South and three All-America teams . . . Ranked as the nation's 10th best schoolboy passer . . . He also made the All-State team in basketball and was one of the leading scorers on the Kentucky freshman cage squad last winter . . . May try to win a spot on the varsity . . . Two more brothers, senior Paul Phillip and ninth-grader Francis Carroll, remain to carry on the Hughes football tradition at Prestonsburg . . . Cited by the Associated Press in pre-season as one of the nation's top sophomores.

KENNETH (Kenny, Roby) ROBERTSON—Senior—West Palm Beach, Fla.
(CO-CAPTAIN)

All the pre-season experts have virtually written this seasoned veteran out of the quarterback picture, as far as starting duty is concerned . . . But one thing is clear and certain: Roby is the logical "pretender" to the No. 1 quarterback role until someone proves they can beat him out of the job . . . And Coach Collier isn't pre-judging the battle royal that is shaping up with any closed mind as far as Robertson is concerned . . . While the Florida senior, who has the implied endorsement of his teammates in being elected Co-Captain, didn't start or finish the last season as the team's regular quarterback, he showed himself fully capable of handling the duties with some flashes of brilliance . . . Making his first start against Florida in the rain at Gainesville, Kenny parlayed errorless ball handling, surprising passing prowess (in view of weather conditions) and ability to move the team into a hard-fought victory for his team . . .

Playing 58 minutes of outstanding football against LSU, he prompted a 14-0 win with daring-but-successful gambling on offense and terrific defensive safety work . . . His clutch pass for 43 yards and a touchdown in the final two minutes gave Kentucky a close win over Georgia at Athens . . . Coach Collier says: "I'm inclined to trust him." . . . It is obvious, however, that Robertson is going to have his hands full if he successfully staves off the strong competition of a pair of outstanding sophomores—Hughes and Eisaman . . . President of Kitten Lodge, freshman house, in 1953 and co-captain of freshman team . . . President of Wildcat Manor the past year and co-captain of varsity for 1957 . . . Kenny showed up well as a sophomore, especially in a 34½-minute stint against Vanderbilt as a sub for injured Bob Hardy . . . He was an All-State quarterback and winner of Civitan's Award as "Most Outstanding Football Player" while at Palm Beach High . . . Checks in at 5-11, 189 and winner of two Kentucky letters . . . Completed 10 out of 29 passes for 154 yards and two TD's last year . . . Punted only once, but got 40 yards against Xavier that time.

HALFBACKS

DAVID (Dave) ALLEN—Sophomore—Hamilton, Ohio

Just about the time Allen was rounding into the form that destined him for varsity action last season, he suffered a knee injury that bothered him the rest of the year and prevented him playing . . . The knee has been operated on now and he should be physically fit to take up where he left off . . . He's considered an especially good defensive operator and should see some action this season . . . Probably play on the right side of the backfield . . . Won his numeral two years ago for good work with the Kentucky freshmen . . . Although comparatively small at 5-11, 180, his speed makes up for what he may lack in above average size . . . Captained his high school track team and ran the dashes and middle distances . . . Leading scorer and captain of football team at Hamilton Public High . . . An All-City selection.

Promising rookie who earned his spurs with regular right half duty on the unbeaten freshman team last year and a good spring practice showing . . . Hails from the same fashionable Florida resort city that quarterback and co-captain Kenny Robertson calls home . . . At the conclusion of four years of football at Palm Beach High, Booth won the Press Award as "Most Valuable Back" . . . He was a high school fullback . . . Also played basketball and ran the dashes in track . . . Made a halfback as a UK freshman last year . . . His size, 6-3 and 190, belies his speed . . . Leading pass receiver on freshman team, catching three for 67 yards . . . Fine showing in Blue-White game this spring included 59 yards and one TD for winning Blue team in eight trips . . . Also caught an 11-yard pass from Hughes for another marker and returned a punt 14 yards . . . Should see action.

ROBERT (Bobby, Moose) CRAVENS—Junior—Owensboro, Ky.

Leading ground gainer on the team last year as a brilliant sophomore . . . Despite the fact that he averaged only 30 minutes a game and missed one entirely, Bobby racked up 338 yards on 78 carries for a sparkling average of 4.3 per try . . . Most of the ground he gained came on short trips off tackle and he never crossed the goal line . . . Longest run 19 yards against Georgia . . . Best described as big, fast and possessor of a bewildering change of pace . . . Far from being a loafer when not carrying the pigskin himself, Cravens is a very efficient blocker . . . Sparked the Florida win last year with a terrific five-yards-per-try average despite muddy footing . . . Started only a few games at right half, but he is definitely heir apparent to the role this season . . . Won top All-America schoolboy honors following a brilliant career at Owensboro High and stardom in the All-America Prep Classic at Memphis in 1955 . . . Unanimously voted the Frank Leahy Award as outstanding player of the game in which he caught a scoring pass and consistently broke away for long gains to aid the East's 20-14 victory . . . He gained almost 1,400 yards in his final high school year while chalking up 90 points and winning All-State and All-South selection . . . Also lettered in basketball and track . . . Able to run the hundred in close to 10.4 in football gear . . . Lived up to every inch of reputation as a UK freshman in 1955 . . . Married to his high school sweetheart, Jane Ayer, and became the father of a daughter on the morning of the Auburn game last year . . . Honorable mention on the All-SEC Sophomore team . . . Stacks up at 5-10, 191 when in playing trim.

IVAN (Big Man) CURNUTTE—Senior—Ashland, Ky.

Spot player extraordinary . . . One of the smallest men playing the grid sport on a major college team, Ivan is only 5-6 and tips the scales at 165 pounds with most of his protective gear on . . . What he lacks in size, he makes up in sheer courage, fight, heart, and desire to play the game . . . He asks no measure and opponents have found that he gives none . . . Very speedy and quick, he is utilized as a gridiron "pinch hitter", saved for a particular spot where he can be inserted and catch the opposition off guard . . . Posted a creditable 4.4 running average as he saw some relief duty in each one of the Wildcats' 10 games . . . Caught one pass, a 25-yarder against Xavier, returned punts and kickoffs and was the team's third leading scorer with 18 points . . . Contrary to popular belief among the experts, Coach Collier claims Ivan is a fine pass defender despite his short stature . . .

The reason he is not left in on defense for long periods is that he can't absorb the pounding that bigger men can . . . Best illustration of his "pinch hit" role came against Maryland last year . . . When time was running out and it appeared a scoreless deadlock was in prospect on the rain-soaked field, Ivan the Terrible went to work . . . He detonated a 46-yard scoring drive, personally carrying the ball four times—the last jaunt going around the Terps' flank for 20 yards and a touchdown . . . Scored first time he got his hands on a football as a collegian (Villanova game, 1953) . . . Versatile enough to pop up anywhere in the backfield, he's even been used at fullback . . . Earned honorable mention All-America honor while at Ashland High . . . A brother, guard-tackle Duke Curnutte, graduated last year.

CARL (Buddy) GOINS—Sophomore—Madisonville, Ky.

One of the top speedsters on the squad, Buddy ranked as the second fastest dashman among freshmen in the Southeastern Conference during the spring of 1956 before an unusual accident sidelined him temporarily . . . The stocky (6-0, 190) and swift young halfback suffered a deeply gouged thigh when he accidentally impaled his leg on the metal tube of a chair . . . Fortunately, the chair tube missed the major muscles and the leg healed with no important consequences . . . However, he did not round into shape in time to make a good enough bid for duty last season and was held out of competition to give further opportunity for testing the leg . . . Should be ready to see some action this year at left half . . . Has the breakaway speed that comes in handy . . . Buddy was a fullback and quarterback at Madisonville High . . . Born in Evansville, Ind.

JACK GALLAGHER—Junior—Cumberland, Ky.

Probably gets the nod for the most improved man on the squad if he comes through as expected to rate a good look-see when it comes to deciding on the new left halfback . . . A year ago, as a sophomore, Gallagher ranked as the number four right half and did not see enough action (seven minutes in two games) to earn his letter . . . He never carried the ball, but made a pass interception return of 13 yards against Maryland . . . Saw his first action on the left side in the Blue-White game this spring after working up to that time at right half . . . Starting for the Whites, he picked up 61 yards on 12 carries, caught two passes for 20 yards and a touchdown, and returned a kickoff 20 yards . . . His fine showing earned him a possible shot at the LH position vacated by graduated Billy Mitchell . . . Will have stiff competition to beat out in person of outstanding soph Glenn Shaw as well as ex-fullback Paul Sloan . . . Could be used as a left-right swing man . . . He has good speed, ranks as a fine defender and has the ability to take punishment . . . Had a fine high school reputation based on six years of football at Cumberland High . . . Size is 5-10, 187 . . . Freshman numeral winner.

MICHAEL (Mike) HEMMER—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

A highly-promising young halfback who came to Kentucky last fall with a background of great play at Louisville Manual and lived up to the reputation as a member of the unbeaten UK freshman squad . . . Hemmer played halfback for three years at Manual and closed out his career by being chosen as team captain, named to the first team All-State eleven and making the honorable mention list of the high school All-America . . . He is an excellent runner, can pass when called on and has kicked extra points as well as doing kickoffs . . . Fine performances are expected of Hemmer and they could come this year in a reserve role.

PAUL (Abner) SLOAN—Junior—Catlettsburg, Ky.

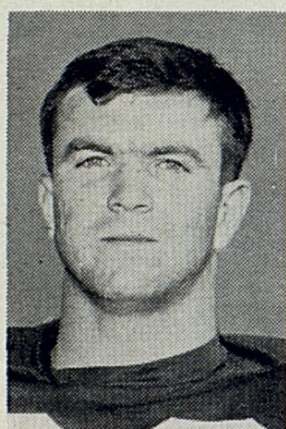

Transferred from fullback duty to halfback since last season in an attempt to make more effective use of his particular ability, size and speed . . . Should see more action this season than last year when he got in only six ball games and chalked up but 30 minutes and 22 seconds of action time . . . He was the number four fullback in 1956, but should step up a rank or two at halfback . . . Showed his potential with record of last season . . . Carried 14 times for 84 yards and 6.0 average . . . Thirty-eight of the total came as he led UK backs in the Ole Miss game . . . Hurt knee in mid-season . . . Made coaches and fans take notice as he emerged from Blue-White intra-squad game last year as leading ground gainer . . . One run was a 79-yard touchdown gallop . . . He's not going to be easy to keep on the bench at a time when platooning substitutes makes them every bit as valuable as the starters . . . A matter of defensive improvement may be the thing that tips the scales in his favor and measure the amount of service he sees . . . The 5-11, 190-pound junior was co-captain of his grid team at Thomas Brown High in Catlettsburg . . . Played fullback.

GARLAND (Corky) MILLER—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

Although Miller has yet to see action in a Kentucky uniform, he has shown signs of coming along to the point where he could see some duty this season . . . It is going to require plenty of concentration and work on Corky's part to beat out the competition at halfback, to which he has been transferred after being listed as a fullback last season . . . Potentially a strong runner . . . Played four years as halfback-fullback at Louisville's Southern High school . . . He's 5-10, 200 . . . Enrolled in Commerce College.

GLENN SHAW—Sophomore—Paducah, Ky.

All the Southeastern Conference sportswriters and coaches are buzzing over the great potential displayed by this former schoolboy All-American after seeing him in action or hearing about his sensational performances in pacing Kentucky's freshman team to an unbeaten season last year . . . Big, strong and fast and seems inclined to run over people instead of around them . . . Cited by the Associated Press in a pre-season analysis as one of the top sophomore prospects of the country for 1957 . . . He'll have to earn starting laurels with the varsity this season, but has given every indication that he will be hard to beat out for the regular left half assignment . . . In the Blue-White intra-squad game winding up spring practice, he was the leading ground gainer for the winning Blue team . . . Picked up 69 yards on 13 carries for a creditable 5.3 average, caught two passes for 51 more yards and a TD, returned an intercepted pass 23 yards and ran a kickoff back 20 yards . . . This terrific, all-around performance by the versatile block-buster is exceeded only by his amazing freshman achievements . . . It's hard to single out the contest in which he was most outstanding . . . Against Vanderbilt Frosh, Shaw scored the clinching TD enabling his team to take a 20-13 decision . . . The marker came on a scintillating, 68-yard broken field dash late in the fourth period . . . All told, he chalked up 170 yards from scrimmage on 15 carries . . . In the next tilt against Cincinnati Freshmen, Glenn galloped for four touchdowns—three on runs of 56, 59 and 10 yards and the other on an aerial maneuver covering 27 yards . . . Carried only five times in comparatively brief action, yet netted 139 yards for an almost unbelievable average of 27.8 yards per try against the Baby Bearcats who had a five-year unbeaten string going into the UK game . . . In his final outing as a yearling, against Tennessee's frosh, Shaw was instrumental in helping his teammates close out an unbeaten season with a 19-0 shutout . . . Despite heavy rain that made footing bad and fumbles easy, he carried 10 times in an errorless performance that gained 43 yards . . . Final figures pegged him as the leading ground gainer and scorer of the freshmen, totaling 352 yards on 30 trips for an 11.7 average and 30 points (four rushing, one on pass) . . . Shaw is due to be a marked man in opponents' defensive plans, but Coach Collier is counting on the 6-1, 200-pound Kentuckian to put new life into the Wildcat running attack . . . He can run wide or power his way through the line . . . Showed himself an excellent blocker in spring work and very alert on defense . . . Accorded only third team All-State honor in football his final year at Paducah, but made the All-America unit . . . Holds the state schoolboy shot put record.

HENRY (Woody) HERZOG—Senior—Hamilton, Ohio

One of the Wildcats' most dependable backs . . . What flaws he had before have been corrected and Woody had a fine spring practice this season that stamped him ready for extensive varsity action in his final campaign . . . Should put up a great battle with Cravens for regular duty at right half . . .

He's fast and shifty . . . Checks in at 5-11, 192 . . . Started off last season with a great showing in the nationally-televised opener against Georgia Tech as he topped all Kentucky ball carriers with a net 53 yards on 12 carries . . . Looked very good in other games, particularly Auburn and LSU . . . An injured wrist at mid-year hindered his effectiveness in later games . . . Saw action in eight contests for total time of 113 minutes, 48 seconds . . . For the year, he had 182 yards netted on 45 carries for a 4.0 average . . . Returned three kickoffs 53 yards, the longest a 26-yard return against Georgia . . . Coach Collier declares he is "excepting great things of Woody." . . . He was number two at right half most of the 1955 campaign as well, saw the second highest action time of any soph (169:47) and posted 5.4 rushing average . . . Starred in the Ole Miss game that year, measuring 56 vital yards that included one 39-yard sprint which set up UK's second touchdown in a 21-14 outcome that was the only setback for the eventual SEC and Sugar Bowl champs . . . Woody was Hamilton High's "Best Back" and "Most Valuable Player" as well as a member of the state champion net squad.

LEDGER HOWARD—Sophomore—Pineville, Ky.

A tough customer wherever he is spotted in the lineup and should provide help this year at right half . . . Scholastically ineligible last season and spent many hours "boning up" to be ready for the current campaign . . . Played quarterback on the UK freshman team in 1955 and looked very promising, but doubtless would have seen only reserve duty at quarterback if he had been eligible in 1956 . . . Transferred to halfback this year to make better use of his potential . . . The 6-1, 175-pound Howard was a quarterback and end four seasons under Coaches Walt Green and Bob Howard at Pineville High . . . Captained his team, selected All-Conference and second team All-State in football . . . Also played basketball as a forward and guard, making the All-District and All-Regional tournament teams, ran the 100 and 440 yard events in track.

RICHARD (Dick, Steck) STECKLER—Sophomore—Mt. Carmel, Ill.

A lad with speed to burn who needs additional seasoning to make the grade in varsity football . . . Showed fine promise as a member of the unbeaten freshman squad last season . . . With the experience of a varsity campaign under his belt, Dick should develop into a creditable halfback . . . There's plenty of competition on the left side where he is spotted, but Dick seems to thrive on it . . . Played guard and fullback four years at Mt. Carmel High, making the All-Conference team twice and achieving honorable mention on the All-State team in 1954 and '55 . . . He also was outstanding as a schoolboy cinder performer . . . Set new school and conference records in 100 and 220 yard dashes . . . Covered the century distance in 10.1 seconds . . . Made a very creditable showing with the Kentucky freshman track team last year . . . Sizes up at 5-11, 170 and was born in Princeton, Ind. . . . President of the National Honor Society chapter at Mt. Carmel.

FULLBACKS

ROBERT (Bob) EANES—Sophomore—Clifton Forge, Va.

Entered in mid-year (February, 1956) and the extra semester to get adjusted has made Eanes one of the more mature youngsters on the squad . . . He still has a long way to go before being ready to play college football, but is progressing rapidly toward that goal . . . Looks to have the physical qualities needed for the position . . . Stacks up at a stocky 5-11, 195 . . . Came to UK via Clifton Forge High and Fishburne Military School . . . Played halfback and captained the All-State team . . . Also took part in basketball, track and was All-State batting champion in baseball with a .482 average as a catcher-third baseman.

WAYMOND (Bogie) MORRIS—Junior—Owensboro, Ky.

One of the fastest "comers" on the squad, Morris has shown steady improvement as a collegian . . . He is being counted on to provide the team plenty of help in the ground gaining department this fall . . . May not get the starting nod but certain to see equally as much action as that man since Coach Collier is a firm believer in platooning substitutes into the game in relief of the starters . . . Could surprise sideline "coaches" by earning or sharing starting duty . . . He was the leading ground gainer on the 1955 Kentucky freshman team . . . Posted a 44-yard gallop against Tennessee freshmen that ranked as the longest run by any Kitten back that year . . . Saw action in eight games for a total of 47 minutes, 23 seconds last year when he ranked as the number three fullback . . . Gained 15 yards on six tries . . . Can really ramble once he's through the line . . . All-State and honorable mention All-America at Owensboro High . . . Studying history as a major and planning to be a teacher after graduation . . . He's a 5-10, 191 and born in Logansport, Ky.

CLIFTON (Cliff, Twinkles) TRIBBLE—Junior—Lebanon, Tenn.

A powerful and shifty operator whose long-time nickname, "Twinkles", is no misnomer . . . Tribble really shines as a runner . . . He hits the line with all the power of a two-ton truck despite the lack of size generally considered a necessity in a collegiate fullback . . . Smallest of the fullbacks at 5-10, 184 . . . Picks his holes with terrific agility and blasts through the slightest opening with blazing speed . . . Saw action in all 10 Wildcat games last season, totaling 201 minutes and 44 seconds . . . Operated as the chief replacement for regular Bob Dougherty, now graduated to the Los Angeles Rams, and started a couple of games when Dougherty was hurt . . . Fourth leading ground gainer with 209 yards on 59 carries . . . Co-Captained the winning team in Blue-White spring game and second best in yardage department with 61 yards and a touchdown for nine trips with the ball . . . Probable choice for the number one fullback role this season . . . Cliff was an All-Tennessee choice and leading scorer of the state (162 points) at Lebanon High, playing under former UK gridder Jim Babb, and enrolled at Middle Tennessee State College in 1954 . . . Transferred to Kentucky in '55 and layed out the season due to the transfer rule.

ROBERT (Bobby) WALKER—Senior—Middlesboro, Ky.

Back for a final fling at the sport which is his first love, Bobby has travelled a long road to get back into the harness of regular contact football . . . Near the end of the 1955 season, he suffered a severe knee injury that required an operation from which he recuperated fast and apparently completely . . . However, on the advice of the team physician, he was held out of all rough work and game duty last season to give the knee plenty of time to strengthen . . . He reported this fall with the full consent of his doctor and hopes to regain the form that saw him rated the team's top reserve fullback at the time of his injury in the 1955 Vanderbilt game . . . Bobby is a real "hard nose" football player, coaches say, and nobody is willing to gamble that he won't make it again . . . Walker came to UK in 1953 rated as one of the top schoolboy fullbacks in many years . . . His sensational running led Middlesboro High to a perfect season in 1952 and earned him All-State honors . . . Picked up a net total of 1,065 yards in his senior year of high school, averaging a remarkable 9.3 yards every time he got his hands on the ball and tallying 114 points . . . As a Wildcat sophomore, he gained 133 yards in 28 trips for a 4.7 average while battling his way up from fifth string . . . In his junior year, Bobby tallied 238 yards rushing on 54 carries and ranked third . . . He's 5-11, 195, winner of two letters.

EDWIN (Eddie) WRIGHT—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

An ex-Louisville Male High athlete who is moving up the ladder fast at his home state university . . . With each practice session, he looks better and could make some of his teammates scramble to displace him as a probable choice for a front-line reserve role . . . Earned his freshman numeral as the number two fullback for the undefeated Kittens last season . . . Posted a fine 9.7 average for 10 carries . . . Powerful and dependable runner . . . Built with the necessary physical qualifications (5-11, 192) to get the job done . . . Made the All-City, All-County teams and the All-America squad list as a fullback at Male under ex-UK gridder Charlie Kuhn . . . Scored 66 points as leading scorer his senior year.

RICHARD (Rich) WRIGHT—Sophomore—Nappanee, Ind.

One of the most promising young backs on the squad, Rich ranks high in the fullback picture and could produce some changes as he becomes experienced in the ways of varsity play . . . Very fast for a fullback . . . Saw action last year at halfback with the undefeated UK freshman team . . . Second only to Glenn Shaw in the ball carrying department during his yearling campaign as he picked up 105 net yards and one touchdown for a commendable 6.1 average on 17 carries . . . Also caught two passes, one of them for a touchdown, good for 24 yards . . . He was first string All-State at Nappanee High in Indiana his senior year and also mentioned on the All-America team . . . Set a school record for the 100-yard dash of 10.2 and 220-yard dash of 23.4 at Nappanee.

THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Located in Lexington, a community of over 100,000 population, UK is a state-supported institution which operates under the direction of a Board of Trustees. Membership of this Board includes the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Commissioner of Agriculture, ex officio, and twelve members appointed by the Governor, three of whom are alumni of the University and three members of the State Board of Agriculture. It is one of a number of institutions known as land-grant colleges, which were established by the Morrill Act of 1862.

At the start of the 1956-57 school year, the University marked a milestone in its history as a change of chief administrative officers took place. Dr. Frank Graves Dickey, youthful former dean of the UK College of Education and a firm believer in the value of athletics, became the 92-year-old institution's fifth president succeeding venerable Herman L. Donovan.

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, President

The major function of the University is that of instruction, although great benefits to the citizens of the state are derived from research and special services. For instructional purposes, the University is organized into eight colleges, a Graduate School, and a Northern Extension Center at Covington. Other off-campus centers are planned to better serve the state and relieve some of the pressure on the Lexington campus caused by rapid growth of the student body. The colleges are Arts and Sciences, Agriculture and Home Economics, Engineering, Commerce, Education, Law, Pharmacy and Adult and Extension Education.

The 1956 session of the state Legislature also authorized, at the request of Governor A. B. Chandler, the beginning of a Medical School and plans call for a first class to be accepted in 1959.

The University is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It is fully accredited in its respective colleges and departments by all of the major professional societies and educational associations.

The University began as a part of Kentucky University under a co-operative plan authorized by the Legislature in 1865. The purpose of this plan was to unite sectarian and public education under one organization. This experiment was tried for a number of years. In the meantime, the federal funds authorized under the Morrill Act were used to develop agriculture and mechanical arts in Kentucky University. In 1878, when the people of Kentucky decided to establish a state institution of higher learning, the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts was separated from Kentucky University and reestablished on land given by the City of Lexington and the County of Fayette. Thirty years later the Legislature changed the name of the institution to the State University of Kentucky, and gave it additional financial support. In 1916 the name was again changed, this time to the present title.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL 'COMES OF AGE' IN POST-WAR YEARS

The University of Kentucky has made its greatest advance in football in the years following World War II. Before this period, UK was far from a football power, but the Wildcats' record over the past decade stacks up with the best.

Not only is Kentucky one of only three major schools in the nation whose grid teams have finished above the .500 mark in each of the 11 postwar seasons, but only four universities in the country have won more games than UK during this period.

Beginning with Paul Bryant's first season here in 1946 and continuing through the three years of the "Collier Era", the Wildcats never have failed to win more games than they lost. The closest they came was in 1952 when they won five, lost four and tied two.

During this 11-year period UK gridgers have won 76 games, lost 32 and tied 6.

The only other schools with 11 straight winning seasons are Oklahoma and Penn State. The Sooners have the best record—90 victories, 10 losses and 3 ties. Penn State has won 68, lost 27 and tied 4.

No longer can Kentucky be classed as strictly a basketball school. In basketball, however, you have to go all the way back to the 1926-27 season to find the Wildcats below the .500 mark.

Footnote A — Although numerical scoring had not yet been introduced in Rugby football, either here or in Great Britain, when Kentucky and Transylvania (then known as Kentucky University) played their series in 1881, persons in charge of the games obviously had arrived at some sort of agreement assigning numerical values to the various scoring plays. Records never existed and men who played in the games are scattered or dead. All we can do is accept the scores printed in the newspapers — and surmise that a touchdown perhaps counted $\frac{1}{4}$ point and that a goal or an end-kick (a punt into the modern end zone) counted 1. That seems logical, since in the ratio scoring of that day, a touchdown was worth one-quarter of a goal. The end-kick, a British heritage, undoubtedly was introduced because all realized that green players would score few goals, if any.

Footnote B — The football rules took no official position on the score of a forfeited game until 1908 when it was pegged at 1-0 to make it different from any other score possible in the game. By common consent, forfeited games prior to that were entered into the records as victories by 6-0 for the offended team — everywhere, that is, except in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, predecessor of the Southern Conference and the Southeastern Conference. In the S. I. A. A. the 6-0 practice was followed unless the offended team had a greater number of points. In that case, the offended team won by the greater score to nothing. Thus, Kentucky's forfeiture to Central University in 1900 is 6-0, since Kentucky led by 11-0 at the time. Kentucky led Cumberland by 12-11 in 1905 when the Tennesseans forfeited. The Blue and White, under S. I. A. A. rules, gets credit for a 12-0 victory.
