THE PURPLE AND WHITE

Foreword

The teeming hallways after the last bell on Fridays, the basketball games when we yelled 'til we could yell no more, and that glorious night when we crowned the queen of the prom, these are the things which will always stand out in our memory as the highlights of the 1956-1957 year here at U-Hi. We hope that this book will accomplish its purpose and serve as a reminder of these highlights in the years to come. We hope that it will be a reminder of the times when truly "our hearts were young and gay".

The Annual Staff

Miss Roser

It is rather unusual for an annual to be dedicated to two persons. Of course we knew this when we chose to dedicate our annual to both Miss Anderson and Miss Roser. However, we found it impossible to choose between these two beloved faculty members, who have helped us, sympathized with us, and, of course, corrected us throughout our high school years.

Dedication

Our high school years. . . . a long time. During this time we have witnessed Miss Roser's infinite patience, her sincere desire to help us, and above all, her personal interest in each of us. We will remember Miss Anderson's infectious wit, her wonderful store of knowledge, and the cheerful atmosphere which prevails in her class room.

For these qualities and others even too numerous to mention, we gratefully dedicate this annual to our librarian and our English teacher—two persons we shall always remember.

Two of the most respected positions that a University School student can hold are those of representatives to Student Council and representative to Student Government. This is because one of these groups is entrusted to make the rules for our school, while the other group is entrusted to enforce them. The Student Council and Student Government of 1957 have performed their jobs admirably. For this the school commends them.

Senior Will

We, the Seniors of '57 being of sound mind and body do make this will in the hopes that it's beneficiaries will become as dignified and as honorable as the seniors of '57.

- I, Billy Alexander, leave for the White House.
- I, Margie Biggs, leave my Margaretisms to Lady, my peanut-butter sandwiches in Carolyn's car, and my Kleenex box to all snifflers.
- I, Jay Bishop, bequeath my "Bugie" to anyone who'll give him a good home.
- I, Jim Brakefield, leave my dusty books to anyone who is smart enough to pass without them.
- I, Mary Lynne Davis, leave--for Jerry's.
- I, Nancy Davis, leave my bobby pins to Betty Burnette.
- I, Bobby Fain, leave my alarm clock that never works to Miss Peck.
- I, Bobby Griffin, leave--for the moon.
- I, Nancy Harding, leave Mr. McKenny battered and bewildered.
- I, Linda Kaufman, leave Mrs. Osborne, to wake up Don.
- I, Betty Logan Lehman, leave my straight A's to Shelia.
- I, Martha Lee Marr, leave with my finger in my mouth.
- I, Betty Maxson, leave my pen and stationery to Betty Evans.
- I, John Melzer, leave--for a pow-wow with Tecumseh.
- I, Molly Phelps, leave to suffer intellectually in a cold attic.
- I, Bob Pinson, leave my keys to the next mid-night prowler.
- I, Carolyn Stroud, leave my car to Lady, Lucy, Shelia, and others too numerous to mention.

Prophecy

January 20, 1981

Ladies and Gentlemen, and good evening to you.

Another Presidential inauguration has come and gone. Now the gala reception is in full swing, so let's take a quick tour around the White House and see just what's happening on this glorious evening.

President Alexander is still greeting friends and well-wishers. His endurance is magnificent; he has been shaking hands and smiling for three hours.

We see Jay Bishop coming through the receiving line with a big smile on her face. Is it possible that she has just been promised the coveted job of White House Correspondent? Let's follow her and see if we can get the scoop on it. Now she's waving to someone, we can't quite see who it is-- it's Margie trying to keep her children from upsetting the buffet table. She is now the wife of a prominent lawyer and the confidant of international diplomats. One of those intriguing world figures is signaling to her now.

It's Betty Maxson, who has just gotten back from a dangerous mission in Algiers.

Just a moment, the President is going to make an announcement. Yes, we were right, Mr. Republican has just proclaimed his former classmates, the official White House Correspondent for the next four years! People are crowding around her now congratulating her and asking questions.

In the group we see Admiral Fain, the former, Nancy Davis and her wealthy industrialist husband, Martha Marr wearing the colors of her racing stables and Betty Logan Lehman, who will undoubtedly be tapped as foreign correspondent before long.

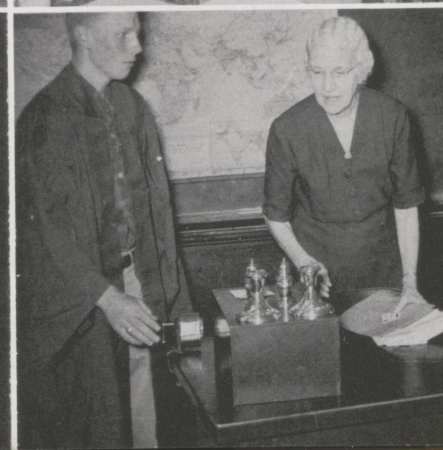

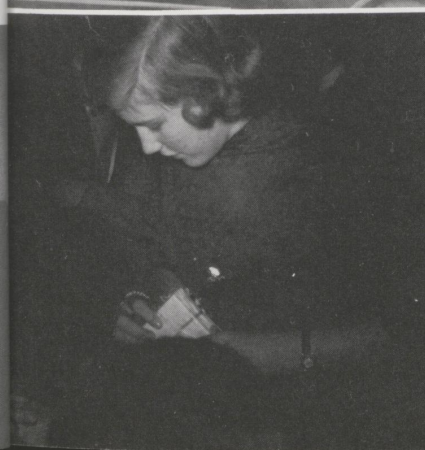

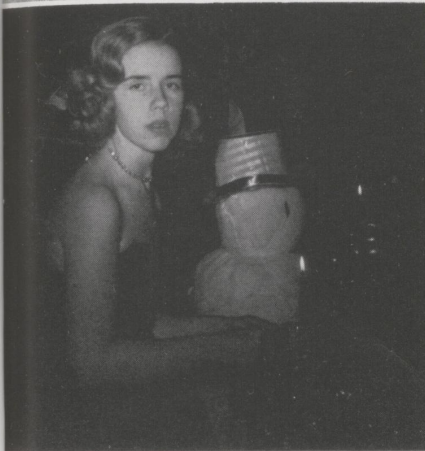

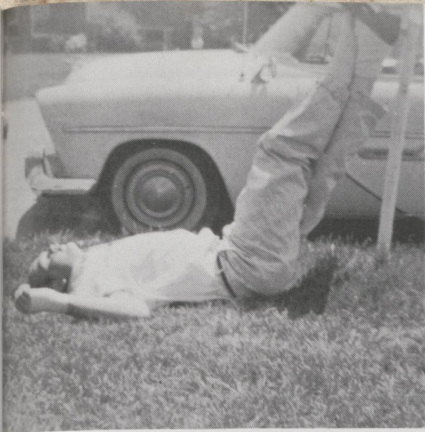

In a quieter corner of the room, we see Molly Phelps, subdued for once, discussing her latest book on the theory of Existentialism. She arrived tonight with Carolyn Stroud, the well-known Broadway Star, who had been entertaining the patients at Walter Reed Hospital. Both of these ladies are here without escorts tonight. Carolyn's husband is making a film on location in Istanbul and Molly's is busy moving the stables to their winter quarters in Florida.

We see award-winning photographer, Bob Pinson taking a shot of that eternally-youthful Mary Lynne Davis, who is doing acrobatic tricks with Olympic skater Nancy Harding. Trying to get into the act is Jim Brakefield, the fabulous fellow who at 41 is still breaking records with his invincible bat.

A few late arrivals are Linda and Don Kaufman, followed by the Big Rock Hunter of the Old West, John Melzer, who still is unattached. With John is an adventurer of quite a different nature, Dr. Robert Griffin, who just dropped in for the festivities from his space station near the moon.

We can see that this party may be going on all night and we think it should. It's been a long time since these highly successful people have seen each other and they are sure to have memories of dear old U-Hi to live over and discuss. So we'll say "so long and it's been swell" from the post-inauguration reception at the White House.
