Preface

The high school student who is planning to seek training beyond high school must consider a number of factors in making his decision. Direct, and as nearly possible, up-to-date information free of confusing extraneous material is most valuable to the student and his parents in making a decision.

For a number of years the Division of Guidance Services published on a periodic basis a bulletin entitled Scholarships, Loans and Self-Help Opportunities in Kentucky Colleges. In 1967, the Division replaced this periodical with a more comprehensive bulletin entitled the Counselor Handbook in Post High School Education. In response to the increased interest on vocational training, the new bulletin included for the first time a section on Vocational Technical Schools. The bulletin received many accolades and has been in continuous demand since first published.

This revision is not only a product of updating, but is broader in scope. One important addition is the inclusion of the section listing proprietary schools entitled "Educational Institutions Approved for Veterans and War Orphans."

Appreciation is expressed to all of the colleges and universities who provided information for this bulletin; to Doug McKinley, coordinator of Vocational Guidance Services, Bureau of Vocational Education, who supplied the information pertaining to the Area Vocational Technical Schools; to James McGown, director, Interagency Relations, Bureau of Vocational Education for providing the information regarding Educational Institutions for veterans and war orphans; to Ted Gilbert, executive director, county on Public Higher Education for his technical assistance; to Mrs. Janice Boone of the clerical staff who assisted in the preparation; and to William G. Steinhilber, state supervisor of Secondary School Guidance, Division of Guidance Services for editing this revision.

Foreword

Education in a democracy is based upon the belief that every individual should have the opportunity to develop his potential to the maximum. Furthermore, the successful maintenance of a democracy requires an educated citizenry. In order to implement this ideal, our society has established a system of schools to assist in the individual's development. The high school, vocational-technical school, college, university and other diverse educational institutions, each in their own way, assists in the educational process. The student who chooses to continue his education beyond high school is faced with the awesome task of selecting a course of study from a multitude of educational opportunities. This student needs information which will help him in making a wise choice. This same student will turn to the school counselor for help in exploring these opportunities and in ultimately making a decision.

This bulletin has been developed as an aid to persons such as the school counselor, the teacher, the school administrator or any school personnel who share the responsibility of working with youth.

Kentucky Vocational-Technical Schools

The purpose of the Area Vocational Schools in Kentucky and their extension centers is to prepare individuals for gainful employment and to improve the knowledge, skills, attitude and efficiency of employed workers. The curriculum of the schools is designed to meet the needs of students, both youth and adults, and of industry and business in each area of the state and in the nation in light of population trends, industrial growth, employment potentials, and present future job needs.

Four general types of occupational education are offered to both male and female students: Pre-employment programs, evening extension courses, apprentice extension courses, and industrial courses.

Pre-employment Programs: These programs prepare students to enter jobs in technical, skilled, business, and health occupations. The pre-employment courses are offered on a full-time basis for post-secondary students and on a part-time basis for high school students.

Evening Extension (Short term Courses): These courses are designed to assist employed workers to upgrade, increase, or update their knowledge or skills used in their present employment or to learn new skills for better employment. Courses vary in length from 20 to 60 clock hours and are scheduled upon need and request.

Apprentice Extension Courses: These courses are designed to meet the related instructional needs of apprentice trainees. Students attending evening classes receive instruction related to their trade. Courses are organized in cooperation with the State Bureau of Apprentice training.

Industrial (In-plant) Courses: The Area Vocational Schools cooperate with local business and industry in the establishment of off campus courses. These courses are tailored to the specific industrial needs of any industry or group of industries.

The purpose of this type program is to provide up-grading and/or retraining courses for industrial or business employees. The length of any specific course is determined by the needs for the company requesting the training.

Students Served

Secondary Students — Any student 16 years of age or older who is enrolled in a regular high school program. These students must be either juniors or seniors.

Post-Secondary Students — Any student 16 years of age or older who has completed or left high school and is available for full-time study in preparation for entering the labor market.

Adult Students — Any student who is over 21 years of age or is enrolled in an apprenticeship program. These students have already entered the labor market, but they may need additional training or re-training to achieve stability or advancement in their employment. Training for these students is made available through evening extension (short-time) classes.

Entrance Requirements

Age: All students applying for admission must be 16 years of age or older. Applicants for practical nursing must be at least 17 years of age.

Education: Educational requirements vary according to the particular course in which the student plans to enroll. However, high school students who plan to enroll must be juniors or seniors, and they must have the approval of their high school principal before permission may be granted to enroll.

Students entering the Practical Nursing program are expected to be high school graduates. The G.E.D. equivalency certificate is accepted in lieu of the high school diploma.

Entrance Test: Applicants are requested to take the General Aptitude Test Battery (GATB) to be used for counseling prior to enrollment.

Health: Applicants should be physically able to attend school regularly and meet the physical demands of the course in which they are enrolled. Assistance and program modification is arranged for students with a handicapping condition.

Students applying for Practical Nursing are required to submit physical examination forms completed by their personal physician and dentist. Reports of chest x-ray or Tuberculin Skin Test must accompany the medical examination forms.

Discrimination Prohibited: No person in the United States shall, on the grounds of race, color, religion, or national origin, be denied admission.

Tuition and Fees

The Area Vocational Schools are supported chiefly by legislative appropriations. Thus, the major portion of the student's educational cost is borne by the State. The fees paid by the student constitute only a minor part of the actual cost of his education.

High School Students: Students who are enrolled in a regular high school program may attend the vocational school without paying tuition. The Student's tuition and fees are paid through the State's Minimum Foundation Program.

Post-Secondary Students: These students must pay the following fees:

- $5—Registration fee
- $4—Per Month Tuition

The registration fee and the first monthly fee is due at the time the student enrolls. The monthly fee is due on the first day of each month as long as the student remains in attendance.

Adult Students: Students who wish to attend evening extension (upgrading) classes must pay the following fees:

- $5—Registration fee for course

In classes of public service nature the registration fee may be waived by the State Director of the Service involved.

Veterans: Students who are eligible for VA benefits are enrolled as post-secondary and adult students. Therefore, veterans will follow the same tuition and fees schedule as the post-secondary and adult students.

Financial Assistance

The financial assistance program has been organized to function as an integral part of the student's total educational experiences. Insofar as possible, an attempt is made to assist needy and deserving students to meet their financial obligations while furthering their education. The Area Vocational Schools students are eligible for financial assistance through the following programs and agencies.

Veterans Administration: The financial assistance programs administered by this agency includes:

1. GI Benefits
2. War Orphans Benefits
3. Veterans Vocational Rehabilitation Benefits

Student Loan Program: In 1965 the Federal Government passed the Higher Education Act which authorized programs of Federally Insured Students loans. These programs allow students to apply for loans from participating lending institutions to help pay their educational expenses while attending the vocational school.

These loans are insured by the Federal Government, and during the student's in-school period the Federal Government pays the interest up to 7 percent for those students whose adjusted family income is less than $15,000 per year. Students whose family income is over $15,000 per year may borrow, but they pay all the interest on the loan. A student may apply for a maximum loan of $1,500 per academic year if his educational expenses require him to borrow to this extent.

Students who are interested in this loan should contact local participating banks, savings and loan associations, or the area vocational school Guidance Counselor.

Other Agencies: The following governmental agencies provide financial assistance programs:

1. State Vocational Rehabilitation
2. Social Security
3. State Public Assistance

Students who are eligible should contact the nearest office of the agency providing the assistance for detail information.

Guidance Services

The Area Vocational Schools provide guidance and counseling services for the purpose of assisting students to make wiser educational and vocational choices. Personal counseling is available when needed and requested by students. Counseling services include testing, counseling, placement, and evaluation.

Prospective students who have not already taken the General Aptitude Test Battery are asked to take it at their local Economic Security Office, but after admission procedures are complete, other tests may be administered. The purpose of the test program is to assist applicants to better understand their abilities and to choose a suitable program of study. Test data are used in conjunction with other information about students as they progress through various educational programs. Placement services are made available to students seeking part-time or full-time employment.

Follow-up studies of former students and graduates are conducted by the guidance counselor. These studies provide the school with valuable information regarding the effectiveness of the vocational school instruction program.

Placement Service

The placement of students graduating from the Area Vocational Schools is handled through the counselor's office in cooperation with the instructional staff. The functions of the placement service are to provide the student with employment information, advise him where jobs are available and how to file job applications, and to provide counseling concerning work conditions, requirements, wages, and opportunities for advancement. The school does not guarantee placement to any student. Placement depends upon the record the student makes for himself even more than it does upon economic conditions.

The counselor works constantly and cooperatively with industry, business and governmental agencies in order to be aware of current employment needs and opportunities. The primary goal of the placement service is to assist competent graduates to locate employment in the occupational field for which they have been trained.

Proprietary or Private Schools Approved for Veterans and War Orphans

This section has been compiled in accordance with the listing of approved schools for veterans and war orphans. The listing does not imply that all courses offered by these institutions are approved. It should also be noted that there are occasional changes in the status of these schools; therefore, it should be kept in mind that the schools and courses listed are those approved as of March, 1972.

A few schools listed here are not proprietary schools. They are listed here as a matter of convenience and are noted by an *.

Counselors working with individuals interested in attending any of these schools should stress the importance of writing to, or visiting the school of the individual's choice for information relative to courses, entrance requirements, and accreditation. The counselor or prospective student may also wish to contact the Kentucky Department of Education, Bureau of Vocational Education, Division of Interagency Relations, for additional information.

Information regarding approved apprenticeship programs for veterans may also be obtained from this agency.

Finally, this listing is not to be considered as an endorsement for any particular school or schools by either the Division of Guidance Services, the Bureau of Vocational Education, the Kentucky Department of Education, or any other departments, bureaus, or divisions.

Kentucky Colleges and Universities

This listing of Kentucky Colleges and Universities is intended as a handy desk-top reference that will provide the counselor and his students with immediate, yet significant data concerning these schools. As always, the best source of information about any school is the school itself; therefore, the emphasis in this listing has been placed on who to contact regarding the most up-to-date information concerning each institution.

The data for this section was gathered during the summer of 1971. Information concerning tuition and enrollment will change from year to year, but much of the data will remain relatively constant and will be useful to students who are seeking comparative information about the schools. For example, whereas a school's enrollment may fluctuate from year to year, those schools which we may currently count as large or small will, in all probability, maintain this relative position.

While referring to this section of the bulletin the user should keep in mind:

1. Such items as school enrollment, tuition, faculty-student ratio, room and board are subject to change.
2. To save space, degrees offered have been listed using abbreviations. These abbreviations are explained in the Appendix of this bulletin.
3. A number of schools had very lengthily lists of "college majors." Wherever this occurs we have referred to the school's catalog. Our general rule in compiling this section was that whenever a school had more than 10 "college majors" listed, the words "Consult Catalog" were used.
4. In dealing with the subject of "scholarships, loans and self-help opportunities" emphasis was placed on indicating the general type of student assistance available; the extent of the availability of financial assistance, and who to contact for further information.
5. In some instances, the schools did not complete all of the items on the original survey form. Thus, in a very few cases the reader will find some items not completed.
6. Junior Colleges and Community Colleges have been listed alphabetically as they occur among the other colleges and universities.

Scholarships: The financial aid program is based on need. If a family needs assistance, the student receives a packaged award in the combination of grant (scholarships), loan (NDSL), and work on campus.

Loans and Grants and Self-Help: The student and his family are expected to make a maximum effort to meet college expenses. If it is determined that a family cannot meet the full costs for a year, the College can provide financial help from various programs of aid. The amount of aid is based on need determined by analysis of the Parents' Confidential Statement of the College Scholarship Service

To the extent allowed by the aid funds available, the College wants all qualified students to be able to enroll at Centre, regardless of their economic circumstances.
