McKinney Writes From Army

VICE OF THE PEOPLE By ROY STEINFORD The army, or some other allied branch. I had a message from our good amigo Garrison where it seems that he is languishing in the sunshine of California along with the flying Irishman, Robert Flannigan, Flaherty Meagher. No doubt there is a world of information being promulgated due to the latter's presence. Ammons reports that Brother Pearce is in the Naval Air Corps.

I have been at Fort Bliss a month today and so far all has gone well with this writer. As far as army camps go this is a nice place. My official status, according to army terminology is a battery clerk (something amended to read "jerk") and during combat I am an ammunition agent, this being a coast artillery outfit which in reality is only a form of the infantry.

I will receive my corporal's stripe ere long and the little boost in pay will enable me to drink as much beer as I did in the old days.

I imagine that you are still practicing your strong arm tactics on your friends just as you did in the old days on such poor fragile beings as Ron Rios, Pearce, and I. Carrazo and I always agreed that you were an Alpha Gamma Kho at heart.

Sincerely, Mac. Here's his address if you'd like to drop him a note: Private Wayne McKinney, HQ Btry, Bn, 602nd Coast Artillery, AATC, Fort Bliss, Texas.

Speaking Of Elections . . .

Speaking of elections there have been many complaints about students voting under their own names and then under the names of people who have left school or who are too lazy to come to the polls.

The marks that are made on the hands do resist ordinary soap and water, but a chemical or soap that is used to cut grease serves the purpose well. It is impossible for the election clerks to know whether a student has left school, and their only guide is the student directory. Also they cannot be expected to know every student by sight.

What appears to be a good solution to this was suggested by a student the other day in a general conversation.

This is to give each student when he enters school a card bearing his photograph, college classification, and signature. He would be required to present this card at the polls and be ready to present it whenever student ticket books are used. Another advantage of the cards, besides on election day and at football games, would be identification for having checks accepted.

This seems to be the logical way of meeting the problem of extra voting and transferring of tickets at hall games. At the same time it gives the student the consideration the Lexington merchants so willingly show them.

Now that the elections are over, leaving part of the executive body Constitutional and to the other part Independent, it seems a good time to turn the political hatchet and cooperate in giving full support to the Student Government association.

When amendments are proposed that require the vote of the students, study the exact meaning of the bill before you sign it. It might be embarrassing if you signed something of which you heartily disapproved. The opposite is also true. It had policy to have to say of a defeated bill. "I would have signed that if I had known exactly what it was all about, but I didn't pay any attention."

Next week is going to be a big week for the campus, with two displays of spring ceremonies. First, the serious one of the inauguration of President Herman L. Donovan, the other the fun frolic of the Sucky-Lances May carnival.

Over 250 dignitaries from colleges all over the nation will be present Wednesday, wearing the robes of the doctorate or the masters. The faculty of the University will be out in full force, and classes will be dismissed for the afternoon to allow all the students to attend the formal installation of the new president of the University.

It might be noted that this is more than a mere convocation that is a signal (so the students think) for a concerted rush to the grill to sip cokes that are getting mighty scarce now. Not to go to the library to finish that term paper that was due three weeks ago.

The Kernel is taking its part by combining two issues into one large one that will give the official program and a history of the University which is celebrating its diamond jubilee. Organizations are giving time and efforts to make the ceremonies a success. The Dean of Women has installed an extra secretary to care for the work that falls into her realm.

Women and ROTC men are being recruited to take care of messages, give directions, and conduct tours of the campus.

A University is judged by its students, rather than by the wonderful impressions made by the faculty and administration. The students might make a point of being especially courteous and helpful on the day, directing the visitors and showing a true Kentucky hospitality. If each student does his part, the University will be known as the "School of Friendliness."

Instead of the usual May Day festivities, with queens and floats, Sukey, in cooperation with Luccas, is giving a street carnival Saturday night. It is to have all the color and pizazz of the country fair in the peasant countries of Europe. When the dancers get tired there will be fortunes to hear and things to eat.

Words And Tunes Of Old Songs Seen To Be Matched By Accident

By JIMMY MOTHERMAN

Every school boy knows how America that Robert Paine used to write for his campaign song, "Adams and Liberty." A few years after it was danced to. France has claimed the tune as "an old vintage song."

The young lawyer went to the British Admiralty under a flag of truce, to arrange for the release of a certain Dr. Beanes who was being held as a prisoner. But as the British were starting a bombardment, they held Key in his own ship, and after a night of watchful waiting, he saw the American flag still flying from the fortress. Inspired, he wrote his poem, "The Defense of Fort McHenry."

It has never been proved that Key had in mind the tune now known as "The Star Spangled Banner" although it was very popular at the time, or that he thought of his words in any way suitable for singing. Some say that the printer, Benjamin Edes, who set the poem up as a handbill, recognized its musical possibilities and immediately added the tune. Another story has it that two brothers, Charles and Pettinard Druing, actors and soldiers at the time, found the melody in a volume of flute music and were the first to sing it.

The air itself has been claimed as originally old French. But certainly it was known in England and America as "To Anacron in Heaven."

Ralph Tomlinson, president of the society, wrote the original convivial text, and the music is correctly credited to John Stafford Smith, composer of his Majesty's Chapel, dating from about 1775.

The tune became so well known in America that Robert Paine used to write for his campaign song, "Adams and Liberty." A few years after it was danced to. France has claimed the tune as "an old vintage song."

Another famous song is "Yankee Doodle," a grand fife tune for marching. It is agreed that this melody came into America through a Dr. Shuckburg in 1775, when General Bradock was gathering Colonial soldiers near Albany for an attack on the French and Indians. The "old continentalists in their ragged rags" were considered something of a joke, and Dr. Shuckburg, the British army surgeon, gave them the traditional Yankee Doodle chorus as the "latest martial music of merry England." It was taken seriously by the French and played their in his cap, and tied by the surgeon that was known as a "marconin."

Shuckburg may have had in mind the tune which it traces to, according to tradition, when Cromwell rode into the town of Oxford upon a "Kenshill pike" with a feather in his cap, and tied by the surgeon that was known as a "marconin."

The Dutch claim its originality, but it has been claimed that the melody is "a popular air of Boney's era" who is here by my side, and he is of the opinion that Dixie belongs to us. Now play it!

Tennis Courts Take Beating, Are Not Rolled, Player Says

To the Editor of The Kernel: Probably many of the students have noticed the run down, cracked condition of the tennis courts due to lack of watering and rolling. Even some of the Alumni, who played on the courts back in the good old days before the physical education department took over, have commented on the condition of the courts.

The physical education department now conducts tennis classes as early as 8 o'clock in the mornings. For the students' benefit Mr. Powers leaves the courts open all night as late as 7 o'clock. The courts can't be watered after this time because of lack of time and labor. In the mornings the courts are full of classes, allowing little time for watering and rolling the courts. These classes should come later in the mornings and if they are conducted this early because instructors can be provided, this is an error.

Yankee Has Found Kentucky A Second Home In Dixie Land

Only four weeks left—and how I hate to see the days flying by. Kentucky, I notice the spacious lawns stretching in front of the grill to Memorial hall. Then, thinking of the snow storm Mother wrote about Tuesday, I notice and admire the sun's work on not a few of the gals strolling along leisurely, on their way to classes down here. Such burns and tans are never seen before July at home.

Maybe it's the spring fever that has made me realize all this, and maybe the University of Kentucky really has got something here, but whatever it is, this summer is going to prove a lonesome and long one for one "Yankee." And, to think, in just four weeks all of it ends.

For instance, as I walk across the campus, I notice the spacious lawns stretching in front of the grill to Memorial hall. Then, thinking of the snow storm Mother wrote about Tuesday, I notice and admire the sun's work on not a few of the gals strolling along leisurely, on their way to classes down here. Such burns and tans are never seen before July at home.

A Quiet Evening At Home? Hear My Sad, Sad Story

By RALPH P. SHERLOCK Think goodness for libraries and study halls. How a nice quiet evening at home makes one yearn for their dear walls. Have you ever tried to study at home? If you haven't, you should try it sometime.

I sat down in the most comfortable chair in the house one night for a study for a quiet night. Everything went fine for perhaps fifteen minutes, then Dad came in, sat down on the edge of the couch, sighed several times and began eyeing the chair. I went over and sat in one across the room and settled down for fifteen minutes, then the different events went fine for perhaps fifteen minutes, then Dad came in, sat down on the edge of the couch, sighed several times and began eyeing the chair. I went over and sat in one across the room and settled down for fifteen minutes, then the different events went fine for perhaps fifteen minutes, then Dad came in, sat down on the edge of the couch, sighed several times and began eyeing the chair.

Then I really settled down to study. Twenty minutes passed without more than an occasional scream before the radio started blaring the news. All were quiet except the news commentator who could have been heard easily in the next block for fifteen minutes, then the different opinions were expressed. Everything quieted down for eight minutes and the mother and dad began discussing the president's policy. I had just considered congratulating myself on my wonderful powers of concentration when I discovered that I had Franklin introducing the Rough Riders and Teddy running for a third term.

I retreated to my room and relaxed on the bed. How good! This was the life! A soft bed and all the doors closed. I read two paragraphs and had just lighted a cigarette when in came the kid brother and two other hurricanes. They scooped up several articles and were gone as quickly as they had come. Eleven minutes passed without a single interruption when a terrible crash echoed and resounded through the house. I rushed in the direction of the sound colliding with numerous members of the family. I reached the source of the sound to find that a mirror had been knocked from the wall by the passing hurricanes. After I gave up and went to bed. The next morning mother asked, "Did you go crazy from study last night?" This was strange, of course. She should have asked, "Did you go crazy last night?"

Colonel Brewer Fought On Land Now Overrun By Japanese Hordes

By BOB CONWAY Bataan, Corregidor, Mindanao—the Alamo, the Bunker Hill, the Chateau Thierry of today. Names that will go down in history to record once again the unbeatable fighting spirit of the American soldier. To one Kentuckian, more than mere names are these, they are a veritable part of his life. Meet Colonel B. E. Brewer, professor of military science and tactics at the University, who for 12 years was stationed on Mindanao island, now overrun by Japanese hordes and on Corregidor, one of few remaining American posts in the Philippines.

Going to the Philippines in 1908 to take a position with the Bureau of Insular Affairs, Colonel Brewer accepted a commission as second lieutenant to serve with the famed Philippine Scouts, who have distinguished themselves in past months in their courageous resistance against overwhelming odds. At that time, American forces were engaged in their constant warfare with the beligerent hard-fighting Moro tribesmen. Being of the military persuasion, these Moros considered every Christian a mortal enemy and believed it their duty to exterminate the "infidel."

With the entrance of America into the last World War, Col Brewer was one of four American officers selected to go to Rumania to be an observer with that country's army. Before he could receive his credentials from the State department, however, Rumania had fallen to the arms and the Colonel remained in the Islands to train Filipinos for overseas service.

Such Is The Life Of An Editor

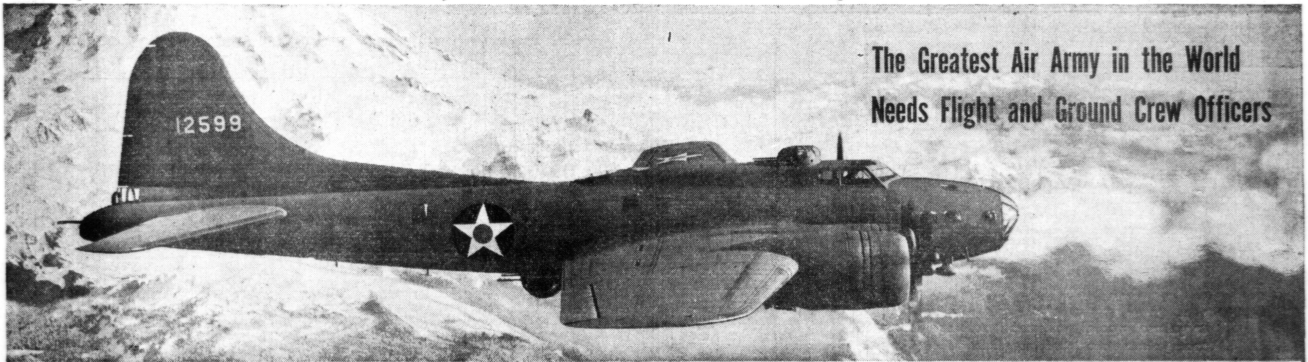

One thing about being editor of a paper, there is no empty feeling when you go to get the mail. Already staggering under a load of weighty books, you cautiously open the door of the business office and look in the pigeon hole (the largest one of the shelf). There calmly awaiting you is the tallest stack of mail outside the post office.

The biggest letter is for the retiring editor from a friend of his in the army. Most of the rest is class pamphlets after another, titles of the way countries conquered by the Germans are relating. There are books on the "United States" and names of Poles, Belgians, or Czechs who have been executed or sent to concentration camps.

Then there are the exchange papers from all over this section of the nation; from Duke and Indiana, from Oklahoma and Arkansas, Texas and Western. That makes up a sizeable bundle. Clutching them all under one arm, with the books under the other, you start down the hall. First you drop a paper, then picking that up, you drop a Latin American and the United States. Navigating the doll stairway down into the sub basement of McVey hall is a feat. The steps are narrow enough when you have just you to take down, but with books and papers . . . Well!

Such is the life of an editor.

Such is the life of an editor.

The Greatest Air Army in the World
Needs Flight and Ground Crew Officers

NOW FOR COLLEGE MEN A NEW OFFICERS' TRAINING PLAN

★ New Deferred Service Plan Allows You to Continue Your Education ★

FROM coast to coast—in the skies over America—there is a thundering drone of fighting ships. The mightiest air fleet in the history of the world is mobilizing for victory!

So fast is it growing that there is a place here—an urgent need here—for every college man in America who can qualify for Officer's Training.

The U. S. Army Air Forces need Officers . . . Flying Officers and Ground Crew Officers. And many of them must come from the ranks of today's college students—men who make their plans now for the necessary Aviation Cadet training.

Thanks to a newly created Air Force Reserve plan, men of all classes—within the ages of 18 to 26, inclusive—can enlist for immediate service or continue the scholastic work required for graduation before being called for active duty.

You must meet the requirements for physical fitness, of course. In addition, you take a new simplified test to determine your ability to grasp the training. A college man should pass it easily.

$75 A MONTH DURING TRAINING

Those accepted who wish immediate duty will go into training as rapidly as facilities permit. As an Aviation Cadet, you are paid $75 per month, with $1.00 a day for subsistence, with quarters, medical care, necessary uniforms, clothing, equipment, traveling expenses.

In 8 months you can win an officer's commission on the basis of your training record in competition with other Aviation Cadets. You can become one of the musketeers of the air—a bombardier, navigator, or a pilot—and be well started on your way to serve America and advance yourself in aviation.

MANY BRANCHES OF SERVICE

There are also commissions awarded in ground crew service. College men particularly will be interested in the requirements for Armaments, Communications, Engineering, Meteorology, Photography. If you have extensive engineering experience your chances of getting a commission are excellent.

This past year about 80% of all Aviation Cadets were commissioned as Second Lieutenants—about

THREE ENLISTMENT PLANS FOR COLLEGE MEN

May Continue Their Education

1. A new plan allows Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen in college, aged 18 to 26, inclusive, to enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and continue their schooling, provided they maintain satisfactory scholastic standings.

All College Men May Enlist for Immediate Service

2. All college students may enlist as privates in the Army Air Forces (unassigned) and serve there until their turns come for Aviation Cadet training.

3. All college students may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and wait until they are ordered to report for Aviation Cadet training.

Upon graduation or withdrawal from college, men will be assigned to active duty at a training center as facilities become available.

If the necessity of war demands, the deferred status in the Army Reserve may be terminated at any time by the Secretary of War.

The new Army Air Force Enlisted Reserve Plan is part of an over-all Army Enlisted Reserve Corps program shortly to be announced. This program will provide opportunities for college men to enlist in other branches of the Army on a deferred basis and to continue their education through graduation if a satisfactory standard of work is maintained. In case of necessity the Secretary of War shall determine when they be called to active duty.

It is understood that men so enlisted will have the opportunity of competing for vacancies in officer's candidate schools.

This plan has been approved in the belief that continuance of education will develop capacities for leadership. (Reserve enlistment will not alter regulations regarding established R.O.T.C. plans.)

67% as flying officers. Those who do not qualify remain in the Air Forces on an enlisted status and have further opportunities.

As a Second Lieutenant on active duty with the Army Air Forces, your pay ranges from $185 to $245 a month.

AVIATION — THE COMING INDUSTRY

The opportunities for aviation in civilian life have barely been touched. You will bring to those opportunities not only the best training in the world—but the executive ability of an Army officer's training and experience, which have always commanded a premium in business life.

ACT AT ONCE

If you want to fight for America, this is where you can strike deadly blows against our enemies.

If you want advancement—years of solid achievement and education that can never be duplicated—this is where you belong.

If you want to be up there in the middle of things—when the enemy cries quits—your place is here—in the Army Air Forces.

FLY WITH YOUR FRIENDS

A special squadron for training is now forming at this college. You and your friends can share together the work and fun of training. If you plan to enlist immediately, start getting your necessary papers ready for the Aviation Cadet Examining Board when it meets in your locality. For complete information, see your Faculty Air Force Advisor. You can take your mental and physical examinations the same day you apply. Get further information now.

NOTE: If you wish to enlist, and you are under 21, you will need your parents' or guardian's consent. Birth certificates and three letters of recommendation will be required of all applicants. Obtain the forms and send them home today—you can then complete your enlistment before any Aviation Cadet Examining Board.

Writer Suggests Survey Of Profs' Favorite Food As Aid For Exams

By JUNE DAVIS
 With final examinations just a few short weeks off it might be a good thing if we started planning ways to pass certain courses even if we don't study them.
 We have a plan.
 Remember the old saying that the shortest way to a man's heart is through his stomach? Well just go around to your various instructors find out what each one's favorite dishes are and on that day of judgment present him with his particular weakness. It might mean long hours of working over a hot stove or even a considerable cash outlay but could help to pass those subjects. After all, you came to college to pass the courses didn't you. The writer now has a feeling of remorse when he thinks of the years he has wasted in "studying" for courses and then flunking before he hit upon this "apple for the teacher" plan.
 To help you out a bit, we made a limited survey, limited to five persons to be exact, of the likes and dislikes of the various professors. They make it tough on the poor student trying to get ahead though, none of them like things like apples, oranges, or fried chicken. They must have something cooked up for them, and they are not good Southerners either. A true Southerner will be fried chicken everytime, huh. Besides any New York sportswriter down for the Derby can tell you Kentuckians eat nothing but fried chicken and drink nothing but mint juleps.

CHINESE SCENIC SCROLL DATES FROM 1250 A. D.

Manuscript Is 17 Inches Wide, 50 Feet Long
 The University of Kentucky library has a rare scenic scroll which is 17 inches wide and approximately 50 ft. long, and date from 1250 A. D. It was bought very inexpensively by a Christian missionary at a public auction on the street in Peking, China. The missionary recognized the rare value of the manuscript because of the stamped signatures at the end of the scroll of the people and royalty who had owned it. It has since been learned that it was kept in the royal Chinese collection until the revolution.
 After the scroll has been introduced by about three feet of Chinese symbols, an interesting story moves along as the scroll is opened at one end and rolled at the other. The story is chiefly of hunters mounted on horseback armed with bows and arrows or sticks. The riders attack each other or look at the mountain scenery in the background until the latter half of the manuscript when they come out upon a plain where small animals resembling antelopes, are plentiful and the kill is made.
 The scroll which is painted on silk and mounted on flexible cardboard was purchased from the missionary and presented to the University in 1935 by the Women's Club of the University; the Lexington Alumni Association; Phi Beta honorary mail and the Chinese department. Mr. Frank L. McVey, Miss Sarah Gibson Blanding, and the classes in the University at that time.

Masaryk Termed "Wise European"

By Dr. J. H. Dupre
 Thomas Masaryk, philosopher and statesman, was described as the "wisest European of today" by Dr. J. Huntley Dupre, professor of history, Tuesday night in his lecture in Memorial hall.
 Dr. Dupre, who lived in Czechoslovakia for four and a half years following the first World War, described Masaryk with words from Emil Ludwigs' biography of the Czech statesman.
 The speaker traced in the detail the life of the philosopher and humanitarian and the history of the Czech republic which was closely allied with Masaryk's life and time.
 "This great statesman who always believed that idealism is practical and whose own realism never just touch with an eternal idealism" will stand in history as one of the great statesmen of our time.
 "Religion," the Czech statesman was quoted as having said, "chiefly Jesus' religion, is a culture of love. Religion binds man to man not only with common natural sympathy but with little common attitude towards God, life, the world, or as anyone says to destiny."
 "This religion," commented Dr. Dupre, "lived transparently in Masaryk."
 The lecture was the final one in a series of four given this month by members of the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. D. W. Hegeman, assistant professor of German, introduced Dr. Dupre.

Ardery Rules Against Meredith In Travel Suits

Judge W. B. Ardery in Frankfort ruled Wednesday against Attorney General Hubert Meredith who has been seeking to recover $45,792 spent over a period of years for out-of-state travel by state officials including University professors in attendance of professional meetings.
 Judge Ardery then granted an appeal to the high court in Meredith's suit and the latter said he would try to get a final ruling there by winter.
 Meredith's suit was filed in 1940 after State Auditor David A. Logan reported there was a "manifest extravagance" in some out-of-state travel expenditures, although the auditor said many of the trips were on legitimate official business.
 While that suit was pending, Reeves petitioned the court to order State Finance Commissioner J. Dan Talbot to approve expenditure by him of revenue finance department approximately $100 in attending a national tax conference in St. Paul, Minn., last October. Talbot had held two summer travel requests after Meredith's suit was filed.
 The court of appeals ruled in the Reeves case that the law required approval by the head of the department of necessary travel expenses paid to be left to the discretion of "somebody," and had instructed the heads of the departments affected with a proviso that the finance commissioner also must give approval.
 Validity of the expenses was defended by J. Larry of counsel for the three officials. It was indicated that in the event of a final ruling against them, officials and employees who spent the money would be called on to repay it.

Add New Hobby:

So you've been complaining about the lack of scandal in the Kernel? So we don't print enough dirt? Well, at last we've solved that problem. We've discovered a man who makes a hobby of collecting dirt and then digging it out.
 William Grote, father of Don Grote who is in charge of the Kernel composing room, came to the campus for the rural leadership conference. While here he told us about all his dirty work.
 Mr. Grote, not a journalist, gathers samples of real dirt. He plans to someday obtain specimens from every state and from every county in Kentucky. Already he has bits from 14 states, 3 provinces of Canada, and numerous countries.
 And what about digging out dirt? Well, he takes his samples out and scatters them over the lawn of his home in Tolleboro. He says that he likes to brag a bit about the variety of dirt in his garden.

The Life Of The Party? No? See UK's Studio Director

By JOHN STETTERFIELD
 It's a funny world—at least that's the conclusion reached by Mrs. Lolo Robinson, program director at the University radio studio. She collects radio jokes and cartoons.
 In her travels over the country as an actress, Lolo, as the studio workers term her, has amassed some 1700 state splitters, ranging from small one-column clippings to full page spreads.
 "Lolo's prize is a half-page cartoon show a girl sitting on the lap of her boyfriend. The boy is talking on the telephone. The caption at the bottom reads, 'No we are not listening to the Children's Hour.'"
 Mrs. Robinson was an actress and producer at the Guilford theatre for many years before taking her present position.
 She first began collecting radio jokes and cartoons in 1922 when she was in North Carolina with a stock company. After the performance all the players began telling jokes and someone had a radio joke which was passed around to Lolo.
 "I never laughed so hard and long in my life as I did after I read that joke," Mrs. Robinson said as she spalled the cartoon from her book. "That got me interested and I have been at it ever since."
 After a few years of collecting Lolo became known among the "grease-paint artist" for her radio and cartoons. She has received many of her items by mail from her friends in the states. People who have never met Lolo often send her jokes—some of her best, she says.

Dean Jones Sees Sharp Decline In Campus Autos

A drop in cars on the campus from the pre-war maximum of 500 to a possible 300 by the first of September is seen by Dean of Men T. T. Jones, whose office has supervision of campus traffic.
 Dean Jones indicated that the number of parking permits had declined about 25 per cent for the second semester as compared with the September term.
 The car population consists generally of about 150 staff cars and 350 student automobiles, Dean Jones estimated that students driving cars to school had decreased this semester to between 200 and 250.
 Walking and bicycling have replaced motor transportation to some extent, with the faculty taking a more serious view of the situation than students, according to Dean Jones.
 "The introduction of bicycles will depend on whether or not they can be bought," Dean Jones said in discussing alternate modes of transportation.
 Although the number of bicycles on the campus has noticeably increased recently, the Dean doubted that traffic regulations for cyclists would become necessary.

Radio Studios Call For New Talent

The University of Kentucky Radio studio is looking for persons who wish to work as announcers, dramatic artists, and operators with special emphasis being placed on dramatics and engineering. Lolo Robinson, Radio Studios program supervisor, has announced.
 All persons interested are urged to see Mrs. Robinson at the Radio Studios between 2 and 3 p. m. Monday through Thursday.
 The studios broadcast programs seven days a week over the Mutual Broadcasting system, WHAS Louisville, and WLAP, Lexington.

Sigma Nu, Phi Sig Set Pace In Fraternity Softball Play

City Boys, Alpha Chi Deadlocked In Independent Loop

By JOE HODGES

Sigma Nu and Phi Sig are setting a fast pace in the fraternity softball league, and both as strong contenders to cap the coming tournament. Sigma Nu in division two boasts five wins against no losses, while Phi Sig shows a record of three wins and no losses.

The City Boys and Alpha Chi Sigma are way out in front in the independent league, each team having four wins and one loss. Regular league play for the independents has now ended, and the two leaders, along with the Band and New Englanders are eagerly awaiting the playoffs.

ATO got off to a slow start the first part of the season, but is finishing strong, and should give the leaders plenty of trouble when the tourney begins. Their last two games against Phi Delt and Kappa Sig were taken in stride with plenty to spare.

Last year's champions, Sigma Nu, appear to be headed to another championship by the way they are knocking over opponents. To date, they have defeated everything in division two by a comfortable margin, and in all probability will be seeded in the elimination tourney which is scheduled to get underway next week.

Phi Sig is the surprise team of the year, especially after dropping previously undefeated SAE 11-4. Good hitting and pitching, and good fielding marks them as a team worth watching.

As expected, the City Boys got out in front to stay in the independent league, but have to share league honors with a surprisingly strong AXE team. The Columbians suffered two one run setbacks, but will be out for revenge in the playoffs.
The complete standing in the three leagues are as follows:
Division 1	Won	Lost

WILDCATS SEEK THIRD VICTORY WITH EASTERN

Billy Black Nine Scores 9-5 Win In Practice Tilt

The Kentucky Wildcats will be seeking their third victory of the season this afternoon at Richmond when they clash with the Eastern State Teachers College Maroons.

Jim Mathewson will probably get the starting call on the mound for Coach Billy Black's aggregation. However, if Frankie Bauer, who was injured in a practice game Wednesday, is not able to play today, Mathewson may have to fill in as second base. If such is the case, Black will find it necessary to pick one of the four remaining hurlers as his starter.

BAUER KAYODE

Bauer was kayode in the first round of a seven-inning practice tilt with the Lexington Thoroughbred Champions Wednesday. He attempted to nab the sliding Marlon Smith at second base. Smith, a Henry Clay high school athlete, hit a sharp line drive to left field and ran full force into Bauer as he slid safely to second. Frankie suffered a bruised neck and a deep cut on the head. He was given treatment by Dr. R. S. Allen, manager of the Thoroughbreds, and was replaced by Mathewson.

Dick Ramsey and John Ballard hit Marvin Aikers, who worked for two innings for the Cats, for successive singles to drive Smith home with the first run of the game, but Kentucky came back to blast Raymond Kendall and Carl Wallin for nine hits and nine runs to win 9-5.

BLACK BENCHES SELF

Poster Spence pitched the third, fourth, and fifth innings for the Wildcats, giving up three hits and four runs. Three of which were unearned. Bob Herbert finished on the mound and hurled hitless ball over the two inning stretch. He notched three strike outs and hit one batter.

SOCK HOMERS

The Kentucky attack was paced by successive home runs by Bruce Boehler and Mill Ticeo in the fourth. Boehler's blow sailed over the left field fence, while Ticeo's carried over the centerfielder's head.

KERNEL SPORTS

The Sporting Way

BY BOB ADAIR

While most eyes are turned toward the track at Churchill Downs this week, the eyes of many students will be upon the Stoll field track, where Coach Joe Rupert's trackmen meet T. P. I. this afternoon . . . In answer to many requests, I have attempted to compile accurate track and field records of University of Kentucky athletes.

As accurately as could be determined from records in the athletic office and from track meet summaries in old editions of the Kernel, these are the all-time records set by Kentucky trackmen on Stoll field.

- 100-yard dash—Time of 9.8 seconds set by A. L. Grablefer in 1919. Noah Mullin, senior from Versailles, ran the distance in 9.6 seconds but the record was not official because of a high wind.
- 220-yard dash—Time of :21.4 seconds held by Grablefer and W. Clark, 1919 and 1929 respectively.
- 440-yard dash—Time of :51.1 seconds set by V. Miller in 1924. Bernard Johnson set an all-time unofficial record of :50.9 seconds in 1937.
- 880-yard dash—Time of 1:59.6 set by D. Thornton in 1920. Dave Rogan is believed to have bettered this mark.
- 1 mile run—Time of 4:36.6 set by Ray Hall in 1934.
- Two-mile run—Time of 9:58.5 also set by Hall in 1934.
- 120-yard high hurdles—Time of :15.6 seconds set by W. Clark in 1920. Red Parrish and Willis are believed to have bettered this mark but no record of their times could be found.
- 220-yard low hurdles—Time of :24.4 seconds set by W. Clark in 1922.
- 1 mile relay—Time of 3:31.6 set by team of Snyder, Boyd, Wilhelm, and Thornton in 1919.
- Pole vault—Height of 11 feet 9 inches set by J. Brady in 1924. Coach Rupert stated that he believed a new record of 13 feet was set last year but no record was found.
- High jump—Height of 6 feet, 1/2 inches (approx.) set by S. Roberts in 1931.
- Broad jump—Distance of 21 feet 3 1/2 inches set by E. Snyder in 1922. John Sims (Shipwreck) Kelly bettered the mark in 1930 but the summary on the meet was not found. Bernard Johnson jumped 21 feet, 1/2 inch last year.
- Shot put—Distance of 44 feet, 3.1 inches set by R. Mains in 1930.
- Discus—Distance of 128 feet set by J. Tuttle in 1931. He also holds an unofficial mark of 132 feet in the same year.
- Javelin—Distance of 192 feet set by Elinore (Red) Simpson in 1937.

Ever since Harold Winn wrote a column on the Derby, members of the Kernel staff have been decorating the news room bulletin board with beautiful, flowing poetry about him and that nag Apache that he picked to win the 68th running of the big race . . . Even I contributed to the poetic games, thinking I would put an end to the hot air from Windy . . . But this didn't stop the loyal supporter of Apache . . . So now, in one last effort, on Derby Eve, I shall attempt to convince the pride of Crittendon county that he has been misled—that he is way off the course—on the wrong track entirely.

CINDER CATS AWAIT T. P. I. THINLIES TODAY

Kentucky Coach Expects Trackmen To Register Win

The University thinlies will meet the tracksters from Tennessee Polytechnic Institute in a dual track meet at 3:30 this afternoon on Stoll Field. The meet originally scheduled for a Saturday, was changed to keep it from interfering with Derby plans of players and spectators.

The Wildcats dropped their first two meets this season and Coach Joe Rupert is expecting his charges to break into the win circle against T. P. I. The Cats lost their opening match of the season to Vanderbilt on the home track and then dropped a decision to the Vols of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Bill Dunlap, outstanding performer in the mile and two mile runs is expected to come through with a victory in these events, as is Hoyer in the 100 yd. dash. Dunlap is undefeated in the mile and two mile runs while Hoyer ran second to Bushmaster of Vanderbilt.

Sports Whirl

By HAROLD WINN

Alas, the peoples choice to win the Derby, was beaten in the Derby Trial Tuesday and all the experts have been calling it a "good thing". Tch, tch, and we thought all the time that they meant to win the race.

Requested, Ben Whitaker's Wood Memorial winner and winter book favorite to get the "Run for Roses" arrived in Louisville Tuesday in a car all by himself and that's right where his backers want him to be Derby Day—all by himself.

We noticed in a Louisville paper that some ununiformed soul suggested that you didn't have to be a millionaire to go to the derby, but take it from us, it'd be damned convenient.

A couple of years ago a friend of ours sent in twenty bucks to one of the hotels to reserve a room for one night explaining he knew prices would be a little higher during the Derby, but the hotel management sent his money back and said, "Buddy, you don't want a room, you want a pup tent."

Monday the golfers will again meet the Bearcats at Cincinnati, and will meet Miami University at Miami, Ohio, the following day.

Dean Says Wartime Grades Higher Than In Peace Time

One of the most noticeable effects of the war on scholastic conditions of the University is that it has increased the supply of excuses for failing students that are required to visit the office of Dr. M. M. White, assistant dean of the arts and sciences college.

Dean White explains that the falling student of this semester readily links up war pressure with his low grades, but that actually little or no direct relationship can be pinned down between low grades and war time life.

In fact, White's office reports scholastic standing at the present is higher than that of pre-war days.

Contrary to the general belief, in the spring, a student's scholastic standing improves. Offering an explanation for the scholastic climb this spring, Dean White pointed out that (1) More help sections are being conducted now than ever before. (2) A great number of failing students dropped out of school at the close of the winter semester. (3) War minded students are working harder, better preparing themselves for defense positions.
