ABSENCE PENALTIES

Last Friday witnessed a double hangover at the University—a physical hangover in the case of the students and a time-worn hangover in the form of regulation. We refer to the highly respected but not pleasantly received regulation of the University in the form of penalties for cuts after a holiday. That it was an unwelcome guest and at the same time a highly respected one was very apparent last Friday.

This rule concerning the adding of hours to the requirements for graduation as a penalty for not attending classes on the day immediately following a holiday represents discipline in the nth degree. A more severe penalty will not be found in any school in the country, not even the highly disciplinary military schools. It approaches, if it does not include itself, in that category of the noble experimental—the eighteenth amendment—in that it attempts to regulate the very habits and tastes of its subjects.

In then such disciplinary necessary or even called for in the American college and university of today? The students in attendance at the University have come through at least twelve years of preparatory schools and even in the most elementary ones they have not been subjected to rules approaching this one in discipline. If the student has not learned in this length of time the value of attending classes when he is able, there is little to be gained from trying to force it into him at such a late hour. College is supposed to be a place where one learns to become the master of his own destiny. If he is to be continually shoved about during this period and treated as a babe in arms, whose every action must be guided, would it not be better if he did not come to college at all? Certainly he would profit considerably more by entering upon a career where he would at least learn enough of the responsibilities of life to shift for himself.

There is yet another side to the question—that of the worthlessness of attending classes when one is neither physically in condition or mentally prepared. A visit to any of the classes assembled Friday would have convinced anyone that the majority of their constituency were neither prepared on the topic of the day nor in condition to absorb any knowledge which the professor might offer them. In addition there is a touch of irony in the fact that the university through its alumni association urged the students to attend the Thanksgiving dance the night before, and then required those very students, whom it had itself immediately caused to lose sleep, to attend classes the next day.

The futility of attending classes Friday is therefore confirmed—nothing in the way of knowledge was gained from attending classes and the fatigue of those in attendance was only increased. Increased to such an extent that the University might almost be held liable for the large number of colds and near-pneumonia contracted by students principally due to lack of sleep, especially in view of the fact that the student body is watched over so carefully in other ways by means of rules and regulations. In conclusion we would unreservedly go on record for the repeal of the rule concerning penalties for absence from classes after a holiday, in view of the utter futility and uselessness of such form of discipline.

WIT AND HUMOR

That great classification, the enjoyment of human nature, divides itself generally into two categories, wit and humor. Both, in the background of nations, states and communities have played an important part in easing the populace over the "rough spots" of life.

The former is certainly prominent enough on our campus. Our collegiate wags indulge in it to the nth degree, especially in the form of the proverbially lowest form of wit, the pun. 'Pan my word, 'tis true! In fact the presence of these wisecracks often becomes obnoxious to the point of dislike.

Ah, but alas, how lacking the latter category is in our extra curriculum! Tongues may wag and wisecracks may fly, but in the end we have nothing but wit in its many and varied forms.

In an effort to extricate humor from its hiding place in the souls of the members of the student body, Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalist fraternity, will sponsor the publication of a humor magazine. This leaflet will cater strictly to the highest in the field of humor and will have all the attributes of a high quality fun magazine.

"Smud" will be distinctly taboo. Contests will be held to secure valuable articles for publication. In short, every effort will be made to give to the student body a big-time collegiate humor publication. Watch for it!

ADVERTISERS INITIATE

Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity, held initiation services for seven new members Tuesday evening in McVey hall. The following men were received into the organization: Alfred Vogel, James Hagler, Chicky Penn, Bert Hallenberg, Ralph Fuester, Steve Featherston and Ross Chepeloff.

PROGRAMS MAILED OUT

The University Publicity office is now sending out football programs which were left over from the four home games to the various high school libraries all over the state.

Hoi Polloi

By BOB HESS

They're out of town, so it looks as if Hoi Polloi will have to take the place of Night and Day in this issue. This was kinda unexpected, so if the dirt isn't quite up to par, please excuse.

The Roses

Have you all seen a little gal walking around the campus with brown eyes so big that there is hardly room for the nose and mouth on her face. In a modified form, she looks just like a big Jersey cow—in reference to those big eyes, of course. She is KD Frances Sled, known to some as Satchel. She has one of the smoothest lines yet, and isn't the least bit particular who is at the receiving end of it. So to you, Frances, we toss this week's roses, because you can keep so many guys guessing and because you have the quaintest way of "erving" the local Don Juan, so as to make them all think that they are "on top."

The Fights

The intramural fights are well under way. Boxing, wrestling and remarks from the spectators—they are all very interesting. After Pete Kuracheck won his first match, he jumped out of the ring and dashed over to one side where Eleanor Steisle was waiting to offer him congratulations. Umm... Sam Potter was on the side lines making love or telling mountain feds stories to Velma Hardesty. Velma seems to have run the gamut of footballers. One of her former admirers, Bob Sherman, seems to have strayed off in the direction of Clara Bush... Monday night, Ref. Shively got hit and kicked. Wonder if he has his inner nails checked before each bout. The boxing ref appears to be slightly reluctant about breaking the boxes in a clinch. Who wouldn't, with fists belonging to such tough men as Ref. Forsythe and Bob Davis flying around... No need that Hargis Hughes has started a courting campaign directed against Mary Flowers. Bill Holter was with Forsythe's true-love Helen Irvine... When the first punched nose of the bouts started to spurt blood, some gal remarked "Oh, goodly, goodly. Look at the blood. I love it. Break his back!" looked around and it was Helmer Tich, who was making all of these timely remarks... Heard some fellow saying that politics must enter into the judges' decisions. Some fellows aren't content if they can't try to find fault with everything about them. What a thing they must be getting out of life... The high light of Tuesday evening was when Scrappy Curry in the ring, tried to get his robe off over his gloves. He wrestled with it for a while, and finally gave up. Splash! The Phi Taus herein wish to state, in response to the crack made by the Sigmann active last week concerning the matter of betting on a ping pong match between the respective champs of both houses that they, the Phi Taus, considered themselves as too gentlemanly to force the Sigmanns to take out a third mortgage on their house to pay off the bet.

A Tribute

Gummy, the popular house boy at the Triangle house, has been working faithfully for the boys for over ten years. He has the faculty of knowing right where to put the boys' pajamas, which have been thrown helter-skelter by the lads when in a rush for an eight o'clock class. If you have ever attended any social function at the Trigle's country estate, you have seen Gummy tap dance. He's right up with Bill Robinson in this respect. So, to you, Gummy, we tip our hats.

FLASH

Bob Galtskill threatened a law suit to recover damages for humiliation due to a letter written to him that was published in this column last Tuesday. He said that he would settle out of court, and asked only one thing. That is that Lab's Jackson's new nickname be published. He tells us that it is "Laby-Baby-Boo." Now ain't that cute!

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde

Ann Stevenson says that college boys are just like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. They have an opposite personality when in the company of girls as to their personality when around other boys. Umm. That's interesting. Wonder if she had anyone in particular in mind.

What's the wind direction and velocity?

FAR above the clouds, on all the leading airlines, your pilot is always within hearing and speaking distance of airports—via Western Electric radio telephone.

This equipment, made by the manufacturing unit of the Bell System, is helping the airlines to set a notable record for fast, safe transportation. Teletype—another Bell System service—speeds printed weather information to airports. Long Distance and local telephone facilities, too, play important parts in airline operations.

Bell System services reach out in many directions to the benefit of industry and commerce.

You can "fly" home by telephone, in a couple of minutes. Why not do it tonight? Station-to-Station rates are lowest after 7 P. M.

Interfraternity Group To Give Years First Formal

Maurice Spitalny's Band to Play for Hop Saturday Night

The Interfraternity Council will sponsor the first formal dance of this semester from 9 to 12 o'clock Saturday night in the Alumni gym. Maurice Spitalny and his orchestra will furnish the music. Spitalny's orchestra has recently finished an engagement at the Co-Ed Gables Country club in Coral Gables, Fla.

Favors will be given at the door. The gym will be decorated with shields of the various fraternities. The committee on arrangements is composed of Charles Zimmer and James Barton.

Council Officers

Officers of the council are Frank Dalley, Pi Kappa Alpha, president; Jimmie Moore, Sigma Nu, vice-president; John H. Bell, Alpha Gamma Rho, secretary, and Charles Bennett, Phi Kappa Tau, treasurer. The Interfraternity council was founded in 1933 to replace the defunct Men's Pan-Hellenic association. It was organized to promote better harmony among the Greek letter social fraternities on the campus and to enforce beneficial rules regarding important interfraternity matters. Each fraternity elects one representative to serve on the council.

Kappa Sig Founders' Day

Beta Nu of Kappa Sigma will celebrate its sixty-sixth anniversary at 6:30 o'clock Monday with a founders' day banquet at the Canary Cottage.

Kappa Sigma fraternity was founded at the University of Virginia. Beta Nu chapter was founded on the Transylvania College campus in 1896, but was transferred to the University in 1901.

Dutch Lunch Club

The Dutch Lunch club will meet at noon today in the recreation room of Patterson hall. Virginia Battersell will give several vocal selections.

HERE'S WHY CAMEL'S MILDNESS APPEALS TO OUT-OF-DOORS PEOPLE

Henry Clay Foster, explorer, tiger hunter, and steady Camel smoker. He has struggled for many a weary mile through bush and jungle . . . faced many a tense moment when nerves were tested to the limit. Speaking of nerves and smoking, Foster says: "My idea of a mild cigarette is Camel. I've been in some tough spots, but Camels have never thrown my nerves off key, although I'm a steady Camel smoker and have been for years. Camels give me the mildness I want - better taste—the fragrance and aroma of choice tobaccos."

Bids For Heating Plant Are Ready

Since the erection of a Student Union building now seems to be a reality, interested students have been wondering just where it may be located. According to information from Mr. Critcher, there are two major locations under discussion: the first, advocated by the superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, is that it be erected just north of the main entrance to the University, facing Limestone street.

With a tough schedule looming up, the whole squad will have to be on their toes all the time, to get through it without mishap.

Three years ago, Coach Rupp had Forrest 'Aggie' Siale, twice All-American center-forward as his ace, along with Ellis Johnson. The following year, John 'Frenchy' Demosey, free-wheeling expert from Wallon, led the 'Cat scorers with consistent outbursts of field goals.

This year, without any one player in the spotlight, it will make for a smoother, better balanced ball club. There can be no depending upon the other man to do the scoring and no letting down. There will always be someone waiting to step into the position of one of the regulars should he start to go stale, as the Wildcats will have a large group of very capable substitutes, who will be waiting for their opportunity to prove their worth.

Tonight, Kentucky's 1935-36 model basketball machine will roll out onto the floor of Alumni gym for its initial performance before the home folks. This model has been eight weeks in the making and tonight Coach Rupp will give it a trial spin against the Tigers of Georgetown College.

W. A. A. rifle practice is being held from 1 to 5 p. m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Women's gym.

The Home Economics club will meet Monday evening, December 9, in the Agricultural building. All members are urged to attend.

Guignol Presents Shakespearean Play

(Continued from Page One) Fletcher is a transfer student from Hope College, in Michigan, and is making his debut on the Guignol stage. Jack Nelson, a sophomore in the College of Commerce, is cast as Lucentio. He will be remembered as Grantian in "The Queen's Husband."

The part of Vincentio will be played by Alvin Trigg, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences. Trigg is a transfer student from Western State Teachers College, Bowling Green, and although this is his first appearance at the Guignol Theater, he has had experience with the Theatre Guild and the Sewanee Players.

Katherine Reid, a veteran player of Guignol, is cast as Tranio. She is a senior student in the College of Arts and Sciences. Rose McKee, a freshman in the College of Commerce, is playing the part of Nathaniel.

Mrs. Lola Robinson, assistant to the director of Guignol Theatre, will play the part of Curtis. John Pyle, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, is taking the part of Baptista, and Ruth Williams is taking the role of a page and Garrison Geller, a Pedant.
