PREFACE

The Inventory of Federal Archives in the States is one of the products of the work of the Survey of Federal Archives, which operated as a nationwide project of the Works Progress Administration from January 1, 1936 to June 30, 1937, and has been continued in Vermont since that date as a state project of that Administration.

The plan for the organization of the Inventory is as follows: Series I consists of reports on the administration of the Survey, acknowledgments, and general discussions of the location, condition, and content of federal archives in the states. Succeeding series contain the detailed information secured by workers of the Survey, in inventory form, a separate series number being assigned to each of the executive departments (except the Department of State) and other major units of the Federal Government. Within each series No. 1 is a general introduction to the field organization and records of the governmental agency concerned; the succeeding numbers contain the inventory proper, separate numbers being assigned to each state in alphabetical order. Thus, in each series, the inventory for Alabama is No. 2, that for Arizona No. 3, that for Arkansas No. 4, etc.

For each local office information regarding each series, or unit of related records, is presented in the following order: title, inclusive dates ("to date" indicating an open file at the time the information was secured), general description of informational content, description of the system of filing or indexing (if any), a statement of frequency and purpose of use, form of the record itself (bound volumes, sheets in folders, etc.), linear footage, description of the containers, physical condition of the records (not stated if satisfactory), location by room number or other identifying information, and finally, the number of the Form 58SA on which this information was originally recorded by a Survey worker and from which it was abstracted for the Inventory. This form is on file in The National Archives. When it contains substantial information on addenda sheets which has not been included in the mimeographed abstract, indication of this is given by use of the reference "See addenda."

In Vermont the work of the Survey was under the direction of Judge Edward K. Gould, Regional Director for Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont, with Mrs. Ella C. Newman as his assistant, and with Mr. Philip Griffin as supervisor in Vermont from its inception until June 30, 1937. Since that time the work of the project has been under the supervision of Mr. Frank Meserve. This inventory of the records of the Department of War in Vermont was prepared in the Rutland office of the Survey and was edited before final typing by Dr. Henry P. Beers of the Division of War Department Archives of The National Archives.

FORT ETHAN ALLEN

(COLCHESTER)

Fort Ethan Allen was designed to form a link in the chain of military posts along the northern frontier. It was through the efforts of United States Senator Redfield Proctor of Vt., formerly Secretary of War, that Congress in August 1892 passed a bill to establish a military post at a point near the northern frontier. An act of the state legislature approved Nov. 18, 1892 gave consent to the United States Army to acquire by purchase, gift, or otherwise, such lands in the towns of Colchester and Essex, in the county of Chittenden, State of Vermont, as the United States Army may select for the establishment and maintenance of a military post. In compliance with this act citizens of Vermont in Dec. 1892 purchased and gave the United States Government about 600 acres of land in the aforesaid towns, two miles from Essex Junction and six miles from Burlington. The site was immediately accepted and Captain Guy Howard was appointed constructing quartermaster. Buildings for a four company cavalry post were erected; and the post was named Fort Ethan Allen in honor of the "Hero of Ticonderoga." The first garrison arrived Sept. 28 and 29, 1894 and consisted of Troops C,E,F, and G of the Third Cavalry in command of Major L. T. Morris. On June 22, 1896 the United States Army purchased about 190 acres and through further acquisitions the site now contains about 790 acres.

At the present time, there are twenty-eight buildings of brick and stone, with slated roofs, including four cavalry stables, four double officers' quarters, four single officers' quarters, four double barracks, a hospital, guard house, bakery, work shop, a water tower 80 feet high built of white Vermont marble, and several other buildings used for storehouses. The parade ground covers about 50 acres, and there is an excellent rifle range of 1000 yards. There are now about sixty officers and twelve hundred and six enlisted men stationed there. The training of good cavalymen and field artillerymen have comprised the main activity of this post from its beginning. Records were discovered and surveyed in five buildings within the military post. All current records of the post are maintained safely and accessibly in modern fireproof filing equipment or in fireproof storage vaults. The older records of all departments are safely kept and in good order.
